NEW YORK, Oct. 2—(AP)—Any other resemblance is not only coincidental but practically invisible... When the demand for $100 War Bonds outstripped the supply of clubhouse seats for the races at Belmont today, officials hit upon the solution of moving the iron fence which for a generation or so has separated the club house aristocrats from the ordinary grandstand customers who only have to buy $25 Bonds to see the Futurity...Simple, isn't it?...When the Yanks were playing before a record low of 771 cash customers at the Stadium Thursday, more than 23,000 visited Belmont and contributed to the first week-day $2,000,000 handle on record.

Just Too Nervous

Before last Saturday's Yale-Coast Guard game, Coach Howie Odell of Yale was too worried about the game to sit still..He decided a little golf might soothe his nerves, went to the New Haven country club, entered a tournament that was in progress and shot a one-under par 71 to lead the field.

Cleaning the Cuff

Miami sport moguls have erected lights in the Orange Bowl stadium and are trying to adjust them to meet dimout specifications so they can try night football...Tom Lockhart, president of the Eastern United States not-so-amateur hockey league, is starting a hockey "school" in Brooklyn in hopes of developing some home-bred talent...And Jake Podoloff wants to enter a New Haven team in the same league if he can locate enough players among the AAR workers...Due to paper shortage, Sports Editor Bill Barrett of the Beckley, W.Va., Raleigh Register not only has dropped major league box scores but has cut his own daily output to a few paragraphs..Which seems to give a fresh point to the title of his column—"Grin and Bear It."

Woman Trainer

LEXINGTON, Ky. — (AP) — Sixty years of age and mother of seven children, Mrs. Neva Burright of Oregon, Ill., is training her 8-year-old gelding Luckyette for the Lexington trots in Grand Circuit racing during the next six days. She has been entered as the driver, having handled the racing reins since 1916.

Bay Meadows Open

SAN MATEO, Calif. — (AP). — Bay Meadows Track, last and only stand of horse-racing in California opens its fall meeting to-day, and General Manager William Kyne confidently predicts an inaugural crowd of 15,000 and a pari-mutuel handle of $400,000 or more.

News that Sergt. Jack Morrison, R.C.A.F., is missing following air operations will be received with deep regret by local hockey fans who remember the young Lakefield airman as the clever goalie of Peterborough's last junior O.H.A. team. There will be a general hope that his relatives will soon receive better news. Sergt. Morrison played good hockey for the junior squad and was a popular member of the team. Incidentally local fandom may not have realized it but practically every player of the junior team which represented Peterborough in the O.H.A. race three and four seasons ago are now in the uniform of the armed services. In addition to Jack Morrison, Bob Parnell, Bob Strickland and Russ Scriver, defence players and A. Cauley forward are in the R.C.A.F.; Nels Foster, Red Eason, Dutch Pammett, Jack Mortimer and Joe Rochetta, forwards, are all in the Canadian Navy and Ron Horton who played both defence and forward is in the Canadian Army. In addition Archie Weir, coach, Johnnie Mervin, manager and "Doc" Spenceley, trainer of the juniors are all wearing the Army uniform. One player of the squad of four seasons back, Tom McDonald, died of wounds from enemy action in the Atlantic where he was serving in the Canadian Navy. With twelve players and three officers of Peterborough's last junior squad all enlisted that is probably the best record set up by any local sporting organization.

Two teams who have nosed out the Westclox in the last two seasons in the provincial playdowns are billed to meet this afternoon in the first game of the Ontario finals. Stratford Kroehlers who eliminated the Big Bens recently and Preston Rivulettes who turned the trick a year ago meeting in Stratford today and it should be quite a battle between two outfits that on paper appear to be very evenly matched. By the way we notice in the Stratford sport sheet that the Stratford girls who played here a week ago are members of two different Kroehler teams who are battling for the Straftord city honors. That seems rather odd. Westclox qualified to represent Peterborough by winning the local league and then went into the playoffs with the same team they had had all year. And they ran bang into an outfit that would seem to have been made up of the stars of at least a couple of Stratford city league outfits. It may be argued that the Stratford girls all work at the same plant, but the Aircraft team had won the local honors and qualified for the provincial playdowns, they surely would not have been entitled to take any players they wanted from the Generals and Electrics just because the members of those two teams, as well as of the Aircraft all are employed by C.G.E.-Genelco. The dice seem to be loaded against the Peterborough representatives every season.

Rookies Are A Gamble

Speaking of the possible Cardinal relief pitchers Hugh Fullerton Jr. mentions Howard Krist, George Munger and Murray Dickson and adds "there's not an innings of world series experience in the trio. "Well, come to think of it, Johnnie Beazley did not have any experience in the annual classic either last season but as we remember the affair it did not stop him beating the Yanks twice. In other words trying to guess what a rookie may do in the world series is an impossible task. The Cards were a lot of country ball players in 1942 and most of them were having their first test in the series but they ran bases like scared cats, came through with hits when they were needed most and made the well-seasoned Yanks look like novices. Even Bill Dickey made a needless throw to second and worse than that tossed it all the way to centre field to set up a run for the Cards, so at this distance it is impossible to tell which one of the kids is likely to be the hero of the 1943 classic—or whether in fact they will all end up in the goat role.

Ralph "Highpockets" McCabe the Belleville flinger who started out last spring with the Toronto Leafs is going to Cuba to play in the winter league. A bunch of big leaguers will make the trip. Ken Colling has the following to say about it in his Belleville sport column: "Ralph McCabe left over the week-end for Sudbury accompanied by Mrs. McCabe, who will remain with her parents while Ralph proceeds to Cuba to bask in the tropical sunshine and pitch in the Cuban Winter League. McCabe was recalled after finishing the season with the Albany Senators of the Eastern League where he won three and lost four. According to Eastern League statistics McCabe was never beaten by more than two runs in his four losses. "We had a poor hitting club which made it tough on the pitchers. However, we managed to finish in the league playoffs which helped the old bank roll," McCabe admitted as he boarded the rattler for the northland. He is scheduled to be in New York on Oct. 2, where he will meet other professional baseball players who will be enroute to Havana to play in the Cuban winter loop. McCabe was guaranteed $200 per month in American funds, but actually is going down south to improve his control. Ralph stuck in the double "A" company of the International League with Toronto for half the 1942 season. He will report to the Leafian camp next spring."

Promoter Tunney has made next Tuesday night's wrestling card a three-star special. With Katan and Clayborne meeting in a grudge fight in the main bout most managements would have been content to let it go at that but Tunney has included two other rattling good tussles to round out the bill. The battling marine Toar Morgan who hasn't been seen in action here since mid-summer will clash with none other than Al Bunny Dunlop and you can write that down now as a wow. Morgan can wrestle cleanly if that is what is wanted or he can turn on the rough stuff and against the pugnacious Dunlop that is precisely what he will do. The result should be fireworks. A new-comer in the person of Buster Hayes is listed in the other bout on the card and he is tossed in with that bad actor Doc Felice. Mr. Hayes had better be warned to be careful for the Doc can think up a lot of mean things to do in a ring and he generally tries to crowd them all in. With those two arguments prefacing the Killer Katan-Gentleman Jack Clayborne brawl there promises to be plenty of excitement around the Brock St. Arena, come Tuesday night.

The baseball menu yesterday was not very extensive. There were no games in the American loop, the little world series battle at Syracuse had to be postponed and two games in the National League comprised the whole fare. One of them may have been decidedly important in its world series repercussions however for Stan Musial, leading hitter of both major loops and power-house of the St. Louis Cards left the game with a sprained ankle. If the injury should turn out to be serious it would be a tough blow for the Southworth gang for Musial has been chief factor in the Cards attack all season. Incidentally Harry Gumbert tossed a six-hitter to beat the New York Giants 7 to 1. In the other National League game yesterday a rookie pitcher from Nashville Walter Signer pitched the Cubs to a 3 to 1 win over the Boston Braves. Two of the Cards, Pitcher Alpha Brazle and Centrefielder Harry Walker are to be inducted into the United States Army but they will be on hand for the world series before beginning their training.

Sporting Chili Con Carne: The Ladies' Bowling League at the Y.M.C.A. will begin its season next Wednesday night....Eight teams, the same number as last year, are enrolled in the loop....All clubs interested are reminded of the annual meeting of the Peterborough Carpet Ball League in the Sons of England Hall on Tuesday night....Oshawa Colts will meet Guelph Woods at Oshawa today with Dean McLaughlin scheduled to do the tossing for Soup Campbell's team....Most fans expect the Colts to coast through and capture the title without losing a game since they entered the playdowns....Willie Grant of Fort William who played professional hockey with Tulsa and Omaha is reported missing after air operations....Wayne Sheley, former Winnipeg Blue Bomber, will play one game for Regina against Winnipeg before enlisting in the Navy....The Katan-Clayborne bout is a British Empire elimination affair and the Palermo Panther will undoubtedly do his best to eliminate Clayborne completely.

MUSIAL, STAR CARDINAL OUTFIELDER STRAINS ANKLE, NOT SERIOUS

Cards Defeat Giants By 7-1 Count

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

For a few minutes yesterday Billy Southworth's heart must have skipped a few beats.

The skipper of the championship St. Louis Cardinals was watching his Redbirds play the last-place New York Giants at St. Louis. In the fourth inning Outfielder Stan Musial pulled up lame while running out a grounder.

It developed that Musial, leading hitter in the major leagues, and the man expected to spark the Cardinals' attack against the New York Yankees in next week's World Series, had strained his right ankle. A quick examination disclosed, Southworth said, that the injury was not serious. Regardless Southworth took no chances and pulled Musial out of the lineup "for a rest."

The Redbirds went on to wallop the Giants 7-1 behind the six-hit pitching of Harry Gumbert.

Brooklyn Dodgers drew within one game of clinching third place in the National League by making it two in a row over Cincinnati Reds, 2-1 in 11 innings. Ed. Head and Bucky Walters battled on even terms until the 11th when Dixie Walker singled and romped home on Billy Herman's triple.

In the only other big league game played Chicago Cubs chalked up their sixth straight by beating Boston Braves 3-1 behind the effective pitching of Rookie Walter Sngner.

TORONTO, Oct. 2 — (CP). — The accent will be on youth and speed in the National Hockey League's publicity blare this fall. The N.H.L. must peddle its wares in Montreal and Toronto in competition with service teams loaded with the class and experience that formerly typified N.H.L. play, and youth won't be hard to sell in Toronto where a record series attendance of 73,873 went completely wild over the Winnipeg-Oshawa junior final last spring....Hockey men in Canada are worried by the professional call for players of juvenile age and now they have new cause for anxiety. Amateur teams in United States are trying to obtain players of juvenile age from Canada because of the difficulty in getting older players across the border. The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association is conducting a poll of its provincial branches to determine whether a movement of juveniles to the States will be permitted.

Service news

Herb (Winnipeg Tribune) Manning reports Babe Pratt, Toronto Maple Leafs defenceman, expects to enlist shortly and is a candidate for the Winnipeg Army hockey coaching job. Art Somers, former New York Ranger, is most likely to get the job....Don Gallinger, Boston Bruins prize rookie of last season, reports to the R.C.A.F. December 27, but will play with the Bruins until then. The war spoils Gallinger's immediate prospects in both hockey and baseball. Philadelphia Athletics thought so much of Don's ball ability they sought to take him into their farm organization this year.

Incidentally:

Whatever became of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada? Its president, Syd Halter of Winnipeg, is an R.C.A.F. flight lieutenant now......Manager Jack Adams of Detroit Red Wings says that three years ago there were 60 players in the Detroit Hockey Club and its farms. Adams reports 54 of the 60 now are in the armed forces.....Carl Liscombe of the Wings reported for medical examination with the U.S. Coastguard, but Adams says Carl has little chance of acceptance because of asthma and hay fever.....Hank Damore, who played industrial hockey at Windsor last winter, is booked for a trial with Hershey Bears in the American League.

Minor Series To Play 3 Straight Days

SYRACUSE, N.Y., Oct. 2 (AP)—Playing lineups unchanged, the Columbus Red Birds and the Syracuse Chiefs prepared today for the postponed opening tonight of their Little World Series.

Postponed from last night, the game will bring the two teams together in the series for the second year in succession, the Red Birds, American Association play-off winners, defeating the Chiefs 4-1 in the series last year.

Manager Jewel Ens of Chiefs expressed the hope that the playing that has brought the Chiefs 12 play-off victories in the International League play-offs would continue. Both clubs finished third in their respective leagues during the regular playing season, both last season and this one.

Second game of the series is planned for Sunday afternoon and the third for Monday night.

Details and playing rules of the series were worked out at a meeting yesterday at a brief session of the Junior World Series Commission.

Sport Shorts From Britain

LONDON, Oct. 2 — (CP). — They led Bold Archer from his Newmarket stable for the last time the other day. And in a nearby field this stallion who ranked as one of the most prolific sires of winners in the history of the turf was destroyed with a bullet.

Bold Archer, at 19 was feeling the infirmities of age.

A splendid - appearing animal who sired successful racers from every type of mare, Bold Archer in a 12-year period ending last season was the father of 188 winners who accounted for 267 races. Those victories were worth something like $275,000 to the various owners.

Bred by the late Sir John Robinson at the famed Workshop Manor Stud, Bold Archer was purchased by the late R. L. V. Sherwood for $135,000 in 1929.

Unknown to all but the principals, Gustator, a horse that might win next season's Derby, figured in a lightning change of ownership at a Salisbury race meet. The deal was put through in the paddock within two minutes and just before Gustator raced to victory in the five-furlong Parkstone Plate.

The buyer was H. Kouyoumdjian, an American from Manchester with big cotton trade interests. He paid Lord Carnarvon about $35,000 for the colt.

Incidentally, the buyer also had a substantial bet on Gustator — right on the nose.

Each of the three placed horses in a Salisbury sprint returned a profit to successful bettors of one penny on two shillings. That's because the betting was so heavy there was insufficient money left in the "tote" to pay a dividend.

Racing rules say that "if the net pool is insufficient to pay back the value of the bets on the winning or placed horse, as the case may be, then two shillings, one penny, shall be paid."

Capt. Bruce Hobbs, who as a kid of 17 won the 1938 Grand National steeplechase on Battleship, has been awarded the Military Cross. Bruce joined the army at the outbreak of war and has served more than three years in the Middle East where he was twice wounded. He has just recovered from the latest injury.

At one time it was thought that the 'chase jockey never would ride again. He fractured his back in a fall at Cheltenham races shortly after winning the National. His complete recovery amazed the turf world.

Silver Fair must be one of the world's most versatile racers. At Limerick Junction in Eire, she ran two races in one day — one of them over the hurdles. She was unplaced in the 1½-mile hurdle event but a couple of hours later ran second in a two-mile flat race.

Artiz Flattens Lopez In Fourth

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 2—(AP)—Few little men hit as hard as Manuel Ortiz, the world bantamweight champion.

The El Centro, Calif., farm boy making his seventh defence of his title this year, flattened the Mexican titleholder, Leonardo Lopez, in the fourth round of their scheduled 15-rounder in Hollywood Legion stadium last night.

The fourth was a display of savagery seldom seen in the prize ring. Ortiz wore down Lopez before he finally crashed home a solid right under the heart. Lopez's face was a bloody smear and he was wobbling badly when the finishing blow toppled him.

A crowd of 6,500 contributed about $20,000 to see the battle. Ortiz weighed 117½, Lopez 115½.

Pirates Might Envy These Airmen' Armory

Entertainment is limited for Royal Canadian Air Force men stationed at isolated outposts in the Aleutian Islands, and every airman has plenty of time to develop a hobby. Here is the fruit of one spare-time occupation—a collection of fearsome knives fashioned from scrapped aircraft parts. It's a profitable hobby too—the makers find a ready market for their products among fellow airmen. In the group here, LEFT to RIGHT, are LAC Bill Hinks of Vancouver, LAC Stan Hensen, Toronto; Cpl. Arnold Coonan, Stratford, Ont.; LAC Wilbur Sommerton, Ottawa, and Cpl. John Milne, Vancouver.

Pockets Full Of Money But Nowhere To Spend It

By
PILOT OFFICER DAVID GRIFFIN
R.C.A.F. Public Relations Officer

AN ADVANCE R.C.A.F. BASE IN THE ALEUTIANS—Canadians of the R.C.A.F. who are seeing service in the Aleutians, may arrive back in Canada with some peculiar ideas about money values. Economy is distorted in these parts. This is because the base is so far from civilization that many of the things the boys were accustomed to buying back home, are not available. The little dime-eaters of the big cities just don't exist here. The U.S. army runs P.X. stores (P.X. is armyese for Post Exchange) and these P.X. stores stock a lot of essentials, and a few luxuries. Cigarets are considered essentials, and there are plenty of them. You walk into a P.X., lay 50 cents on the counter, and say "Gimme a carton of cigarets." The man in charge gives you a carton containing 10 packages of any good standard U.S. brand you care to name. That's 200 cigarets. The boys are going to feel it rather keenly when they have to pay 35 cents a package when they get back to Canada.

Then there's the matter of razor blades. The sum of $1.60 gets you 20 packs of the finest blades on the market. Chocolate bars are six for 20 cents. A cigaret lighter that would cost $10 back home in Canada, can be had for $2.50, and a pen and pencil set that would come to around $12 on Yonge Street, Toronto, or St. Catharine Street, Montreal, sets you back $5 here. That gives you a rough idea. There are several P.X. stores on the island, and if you spent $10 a month in them you'd have an awful lot of merchandise.

Mostly they're well stocked with essentials, but when a boat comes in, they get few extra items. Not long ago one of the boats brought a lot of fishing tackle. It was snapped up by eager buyers, because the Dolly Varden trout run as high as five pounds here, and there are plenty of them if you have some way of catching them. They hang out in the glacial streams that pour from the sides of the volcanoes down into the Bering Sea. You bait with raw meat, unless you can get pickled salmon eggs. One boat brought a shipment of these, and they were snapped up too. There are plenty of other items like that—stocked at the stores in fits and starts, and then off the market for undetermined periods. Naturally there is speculation in such things when they get scarce.

The U.S. troops have been in here for a couple of years, some of them, and they've been drawing pay all that time. Outside of cigarets, candy and lately, movies, they had little to spend it on. They accumulated bank rolls. The Canadians here are now doing the same thing. They get paid in U.S. funds too—and no discount. That means that they're breaking somewhat ahead of the Canadian pay scale on account of the difference in exchange.

Plenty of money plus a scarcity of desirable items mean competitive bidding. With so much money in their pockets, the men want to spend it on something. So they swap, barter and buy from each other. Let's say that one man makes rings out of discarded plane parts Another man on the post likes the rings he make, wants to buy one The craftsman can ask his own price, and the purchaser will nearly always pay it willingly. He wants an excuse to spend money, because, he argues, what's the good of money if you can't spend it? One handy Canadian who made a fearsome looking knife, got $55 for it from a U.S. dogface who admired it that much. The profit to the Canuck was $55, because his materials came from the scrap heap, and time is what he had plenty of after he had finished his day's work. That's really cashing in on a hobby.

Wrist watches sell fast Some bight sould picked up a dozen cheap ones in Seattle on the way here. He paid $5 each for them at the outside. When he got here and let it be noised around that he was in the market, he had offers for as high as $50 for a watch. Now he wonders why he didn't bring more Two airmen of the R.C A F. brought in film developing material, set up a little dark room, and do rolls of film at $1.75 per roll. They may get away with an increase in this, business is so good that they can't handle it all and may up the price to cut down volume. One of them tints snapshots with a water color set, at 50 cents per snap.

The Canadians haven't had time to catch up to the U.S. boys in the matter of money yet, but one of them came close. Naturally there are games of chance in a place like this. And naturally, with so much money floating around, and little to do with it, the stakes are high. This Canadian rolled eight passes in a row with a set of dice, pocketed about $1,200 and walked happily away, wondering audibly "How long has this been going on?"

City Of Naples Captured By The Allies Was Noted For Its Artistic Treasures

By ALFRED E. WALL
Associated Press Staff Writer

Beautiful Naples, the pride of Southern Italy, in peacetime was a gay and thriving city of nearly 1,000,000 people, a gathering place for tourists who regaled in its soft climate and marveled at its artistic wonders, and likewise an important manufacturing a n d shipping centre.

Converging on Naples via the Sorrento Peninsula, Allied troops headed toward the city's back door, hence thousands of these fighting men missed the usual thrill of the peace-time tourist who caught his first magnificient view of the historic city from the sea.

Th city, usually bright with the southern sun, spreads fanwise and upwards in tiers of white buildings across the curving northern shore of the Bay of Naples. Eastwards the city extends to the fertile plain of Capana.

Dominant over Naples is the famed active volcano Vesuvius, classically called "her terror and her pride."

Naples was founded as a Greek colony about 1,000 B.C. The Romans conquered it in the fourth century, then it fell into the hands of the Ostrogoths, and later it became the capital of the Greek duchy of Naples. In 1131 the city came under the power of the Lombards and became the capital of the Kingdom of the Two Sicilies.

It will be no new thing for Naples to be under foreign domination for throughout the centuries the city was successively under Spanish, Prussian and the French rule and finally merged with the kingdom of Italy.

Much of Naples' charm lies in its artistic treasures, some of which may now be in ruins.

MONTREAL, Oct. 2 — (CP).— McGill University senate announced last night a new "comprehensive examination" will be set in the Faculty of Arts and Science in January to determine academic standing of students. Students who fail will be reported to the Divisional Registrar of Selective Service.

SPECIAL HAIR-DO

LONDON — (CP) — They were betting Ellen Parker couldn't wear a service cap when she joined the forces, but the 18-year-old girl showed unbelievers that she could twist up her waist-length hair so it was "off the collar" and looked smart under a service cap.

Life Of The English Youth In Post-War Be Changed

By JAMES A. ROY

(This is the ninth article in the series of articles being written for The Examiner, by Prof. James A. Roy, of Queen's University, Kingston, on wartime conditions in Great Britain.)

Today, September 14, the Government has published a White Paper, prepared by the Youth Advisory Council. This is an officially sponsored report on Youth Service in England after the war. Eighteen points are drawn up in the White Paper. These, if accepted, may revolutionize the life of English youth.

The report makes a frank survey of youth problems. The points are all in the form of recommendations. Three of these points concern: (1) the raising of the school-leaving age to 16 and attendance at day continuation schools till 18, with grants or allowances to ensure that no extra financial burden is put on the parents; (2) limitation of the working week to 44 hours; (3) assurance of four weeks' holidays every year, with pay, with at least two consecutive weeks between March 15 and October 1.

The object of the plan is to guarantee healthy living conditions for all youths. At present thousands of young people have to live in surroundings which make it almost impossible for them to grow up into decent, self-respecting citizens, and the Council recommends that the scandal be removed at the earliest possible moment by carying out a building program which will guarantee healthy living conditions for all young people.

The Council further asserts that the hours which young people are required to work are too long and that what may have been necessary in the emergency conditions of three years ago will become a serious danger in the fifth year of the war. Holidays, the Council suggests, should be on a national scale and subsidized by substantial grants by the Board of Education. Camps that will be no longer required by the Forces after the war should be turned into holiday camp sites.

Two other matters are touched on in the report—films and reading matter. The two most popular leisure activities of youth today are the movies and dancing. It is suggested that many of these films could be improved and that their potentialities for good should be more fully realized. A quicker, easier and wider distribution of good books is also urged.

Libraries for Europe

Yesterday, I had lunch in Cambridge with the vice-chancellor of the university and with the Provost of King's. The discussion, at one period, turned on this topic and the suggestion was made that the Americans and the British should have stocks of modern liberal books in translations ready for distribution among the intellectually starved people of Europe, when it is liberated. One very real objection to this, as far as England is concerned, is the shortage of paper. The chief raw material for paper manufacture, viz, wood pulp, has always been imported by England and rationing fell very heavily on paper of all sorts from the earliest days of the war.

One important fact noted by the Council about which there can be no two opinions, is the low quality of many of the books and magazines which enjoy a very large circulation especially among girls. The Council labels them "unwholesome and pernicious."

This emphasis on the needs of youth and necessity for the guidance of boys and girls at the most critical period of their lives is another sign of the time in England. It is the realization of the fact that if a new order is to arise out of the agony of the war the youth of the country must be without the feeling of resentment and frustration they have known in the past. That was the ground on which the Nazi seeds fell and we are all only too tragically aware what the harvest has been.

A Basis for Peace

There is something else I am conscious of in England besides the national realization of the duty towards youth—a growing consciousness of the meaning and the vital importance of good international relationships. These must be on a sound basis if we are to hope for peace in our time and not see the world plunged into a third horrible war. There is a feeling that political co-ordination among the United Nations is not all it should and could be. There is, for example, the difficult and complex question of Anglo-American relations with Russia. The relations between London and Moscow are not the same as the relations between Washington and Moscow. There is the problem of the relations between the English speaking nations themselves and the rest of the world. India is no longer a factor of tension between England and Russia but for quite a different reason that sub-continent is creating complications between England and the United States. And there is the fundamental question of the colored races which can no longer be ignored or put aside in the British Empire or the United States. Only the other day a regrettable incident occurred when a prominent West Indian sportsman, a British subject, was refused admission to a London hotel. The incident was fully reported in the English papers and although it was settled, thanks largely to the good sense of the West Indian, the whole affair was unfortunate and will no doubt have repercussions in certain quarters. Another problem is our relationship with our Chinese allies.

Social legislation can do much to solve some domestic problems but it cannot solve the problems of the future. There must be agreement on certain fundamental principles if we are to have any hope of peace at all in the future. And without peace, as someone remarked the other day, there is no basis on which any scheme for the future welfare of mankind can even be initiated.

The present contains many terrifying possibilities for good or ill—the relations between Britain and America on the one hand and Russia on the other; the relations of these powers with the British Empire, with their Allies in the war and their former enemies. One thing English people with whom I have discussed the matter are certain of is that if a "peace" is made that leaves a feeling among the victorious Allies that any one of them has been unjustly treated, there can be no real peace, merely the sowing of the seeds for a new war.

Fuel Dealers Agree To Plan Of Controllers

A group of local fuel wood dealers readily accepted an emergency plan of assisted operations as outlined to them Thursday by R. H. Candy of the office of the wood fuel controller, Ottawa, at morning and afternoon sessions here Thursday.

Details were thoroughly scrutinized for the purpose of complete clarification and understanding. Mr. Candy's proposals were frankly devised for the emergency of the approaching winter, and, although immediate results are hardly likely to appear, dealers closed the meeting with a feeling of encouragement in facing a cost problem that has been disturbed throughout the productive months which have been lost to them by circumstances beyond their control.

One of the general expressions during the conference was to the effect that it was regrettable that a man of Mr. Candy's experience had not been sent to Peterborough many months ago when the local trade realized that they could not continue the operations which they had intended to carry on through the spring and summer, after the suspension caused by the extreme weather conditions of the winter.

Increased Costs

Physical discouragements were accentuated by factors of increasing costs. These elements were discussed throughout the day, but Mr. Candy's suggestion was to face the present and the months ahead as agreeably as possible, and the dealers fell in with his idea. His plan contemplates reference of certain details to the city's special fuel committee. In the meantime he is obtaining some further information for the trade, and is sending written confirmation of aspects of the plan, with the undertaking of dealers to do their best to make it produce results.

Part of Mr. Candy's discussion was directed by questions toward local practice in the retailing of wood. For instance, he expressed his approval of the method which has been generally adopted here in other seasons of first measuring wood in cord quantities, and four-foot length, then cutting the wood and charging the cutting cost to the consumer.

Dealers who customarily cut substantial piles of wood and then sell it on the load basis also received the endorsation of Mr. Candy. The dealer who determines before hand, for example, the space in a truck which a half cord fills when cut in twelve-inch lengths, and then guages deliveries on that basis, will have the promised support of Mr. Candy in the event of any consumer question about this practice.

Backs Dealers

One of the dealers said his decision had been to take no chance of adverse publicity to his business of long standing by possible court proceedings instituted by some consumer alleging that deliveries were not in honest quantities. Mr. Candy virtually told the trade to follow their old customary methods and he would stand by them.

He also said that the Wood Fuel Controller had authority to seize an available supply of wood in the bush or at the road side that was being held at exorbitant price, and in the emergency of winter requirements there would be no hesitation in taking it.

The substance of Mr. Candy's plea was briefly this: "I want the help of the dealers immediately in getting as much wood as they can for the season that is coming close to us. They know the business, and we want them in it. Will the dealers accept this emergency plan, and leave the supplies for the winter of 1944-45 until later on when we can get around to it?"

And, also briefly, the reply of the fuel wood group at the afternoon session was singly "yes."

Mr. Candy also expressed his appreciation of the action of the city council in setting out to do their best to provide a supply of wood for this community, especially with an eye to the winter. He said he knew the reluctance of municipal bodies about becoming involved in business of that kind, and the fact that Peterborough council had moved in that direction was greatly appreciated by those who were appointed to get action under way for the sake of the public.

Representatives of all Reserve units in Military District No. 3 are in Peterborough at the present time taking a refresher training course which lasts for two weeks. Stroyan Leith Meets A. Smoke In Edmonton

Grounded in Edmonton for a few days, on his way back to Whitehorse in the Yukon, Stroyan Leith, Jr., wrote his parents here that preference was given at this season to rations and other supplies which have to be flown into the northland for winter.

"However," he added, "by the time you get this letter I shall be back in 'dear old Whitehorse', and although it would not have mattered to me if I didn't get there for six months."

Stroyan told of meeting Arthur Smoke, son of Judge and Mrs. S. L. Smoke of Peterborough.

"Sunday night I went to try to find him but no one seemed to know what this No. 2 PAED meant. I asked twelve fellows before I found out that it is a pre-air crew educational depot on the south side of the river here at St. Joseph's College. I started out to the place, but had not gone far when I met Arthur Smoke coming down the street with a couple of his mates. He looks fine and has gained weight."

He also met Max Henry, brother of Wilson Henry. He told me his mother had sent him a clipping that I was home on vacation from the Yukon. I really had no idea so many persons knew and remembered me. This Edmonton is about twice as dead as Whitehorse."

DOROTHY DIX

UNATTRACTIVE GIRL CAN MAKE HERSELF BEAUTIFUL, GRACEFUL

Dress and Accomplishments Together with Right Figure Will Please Friends

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a girl of 14. I go to high school and am homely and wear glasses. Please tell me what I can do to make the boys like me.

SALLY.

ANSWER—At 14, Sally, you are too young to take up the homely woman's burden, and if you will take my advice you will leave it alone for the next three or four years. Don't bother about your looks and what the boys think of you while you are still a little school girl. Concentrate on your studies.

But let me tell you for your comfort that right now you are at the peak of your homeliness and the worst is over. At 14 a girl is at the gangling, hobbledehoy stage when her feet are big and she doesn't know what to with her hands, and her complexion is muddy and her hair is lanky, and she has neither grace nor poise.

Practically all girls are ugly ducklings at your age, but you will grow out of it. And if you do not turn into Miss America, you will at least be a thousand per cent better looking than you were in your adolescent period.

But there are a lot of things you can do to help yourself along. Starting at your age you can make yourself a beautiful and graceful figure, and that is about nine-tenths of the battle. If you are fat and stocky, you can get yourself down to any weight you please by counting your calories. If you are thin and bony, you can fatten yourself up by the same method. By taking the proper exercises you can coordinate your muscles and learn to move with grace and rhythm.

You can call science to your aid and if you have bad teeth and an ugly mouth you can have your teeth straightened and the contour of your face changed. The real beauticians are dentists. And, of course, you can have any color or wave of hair you desire, and you can buy yourself a better complexion than Nature ever turns out.

Cleverness Will Compensate For Ugliness

Then bear in mind that an ugly woman has to be a clever woman to focus peoples' attention to what is inside of her head instead of what is outside of it. If a woman is witty and amusing and entertaining, nobody cares whether she has a saleratus biscuit complexion or the skin you love to touch.

And you can learn to dress. Nine-tenths of a woman's beauty lies in their clothes. And if you are not beautiful make up for it perfecting yourself in accomplishments. If you are the best dancer in your set you will never lack for partners. If you are a fine swimmer or play a good game of tennis or golf or bridge, you will always be a leader in your crowd.

Above all, don't dwell on your lack of beauty until you get the ugly girl complex. If you do, you will emphasize your every defect. Learn how to bear yourself with assurance. A woman can carry herself 45 per cent above her looks, or 70 per cent under them. In the one case she will be a success, and in the other a failure.

Be amiable and pleasant and agreeable and sweet and good-natured and you will look good to everyone who knows you.

DEAR MISS DIX—I have a son 41 years old, a splendid man. He

School Students Elect New Officers

HAVELOCK, Oct 2 — (ENS). — All activities in connection with the High and Public Schools are organized for the school term. Principal Goheen reports the attendance in High School is a little lower than last year, with only 67 pupils on the register so far, with 7 pupils in Grade 13, 11 in Grade 12, 12 in Grade 11, 16 in Grade 10, and 21 in Grade 9.

The High School Literary Society was organized this week, and the newly elected officers are: President, Margaret Anderson; vice-president, Rae Brownsell; secretary-treasurer, Marion Forsyth. The secretary is to secure prices on a phonograph to be used in connection with school exercises, also a subscription is to be given the Havelock Standard and a French weekly paper. Each room elects two representatives to serve on the executive. Grade 9 elected Jean Peters and Bruce Melville, Grade 10 elected Marilyn Hutchison and Fred Jones, and the Middle School room elected Allan Goheen and Elaine Iles.

Sports Group.

The Girls' Athletic Club was organized as the girls are anxious to begin playing softball and basketball. The new officers are: President, Evelyn Melville; secretary-treasurer, Laurena Wright. The captain of the girls' basketball team is Margaret Anderson and Evelyn Melville was chosen captain of the softball team. Each team has played one game with the Norwood girls and were defeated on both occasions.

The election of officers in the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship group within the school resulted: Miss Elaine Iles president, Allan Goheen vice-president, Grace Menzies secretary, Clarence Price treasurer, and Ruth Wilkinson pianist. This Bible study period is held every Tuesday afternoon from 4 to 4:30.

Surprise Party.

On Friday afternoon Caretaker Robert Buchanan was the guest of honor at a surprise party sponsored by the teachers and School Board on the eve of his departure from the staff. Mr. Buchanan has been the energetic caretaker of the school for the past 18 years, and was a general favorite with all the students. On behalf of the Board and staff Chairman B. Smith presented Mr. Buchanan with a purse of money, while Principal Goheen read an address, after which dainty refreshments were served by the women teachers.

Combines Meet Lachines Twice

TORONTO, Oct. 2—(CP)—A Quebec team has yet to represent Eastern Canada in the Mann Cup lacrosse finals but Lachine R.C.A.F. hopes to make the grade this year.

The Quebec Lacrosse Association senior champions tonight meet Mimico-Brampton Combines, Ontario Lacrosse Association senior title-holders and last year Dominion champions, in the first of a two-game, total-points-to-count series to decide the Eastern Canada finalist. The second game is slated for Monday night here.

The winner of the series travels west to meet either New Westminster Salmonbellies or Vancouver Burrards for the Mann Cup, emblem of Dominion lacrosse championship.

First service team to win a Quebec senior lacroses title, the Airmen have a strong cast to battle for the right to travel west.

With several former Ontario lacrosse stars in their ranks the Fliers picked up additional defensive strength from Valleyfield Army of the Quebec loop by acquisition of Pat Egan and Charlie Phillips. Both Egan and Phillips are well-known professional hockey and lacrosse players and both had good seasons this year.

The Airmen also have Marvin MacKenzie, former Orillia and Mimico, Ont., star.

Combines retain much of the strength that enabled them to turn back Salmonbellies in the Dominion finals last year with Garney Large, J. Mullis, Whipper Arthurs, Ross Gimblett, Bill Isaacs and George Masters still in uniform. Pte. Ken Dixon and Pte. Wandy McMahon, main scoring threats of Brampton Army Bullets in the O.L.A. this year, will be out for Combines if permission is given by military authorities.

3 Added Starters

BALTIMORE — (AP). — In addition to 13 winners of top-flight turf events of the season, three handicap contenders have been invited by the Maryland Jockey Club to compete in the $25,000 winner-take-all Pimlico Special on October 30. The added starters are to be Mar-Kell, Princequillo and Shut-Out which was the three-year-old champion of 1942. Last year Whirlaway won the race in a walkover.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS

By The Canadian Press

A weakened team is taking the field at Ottawa this afternoon against Toronto Navy in the third game of the Senior O.R.F.U. season, it was announced late last night by Coach Dave Sprague of the Ottawa Combines. Chief loss was the withdrawal of Arnie McWatters, former Sarnia grid ace, through a knee injury, Al Leach being substituted to call the signals.

Two other team defections were Ken MacDonald, Glebe Collegiate graduate, who departed for Kingston to re-enter Queen's University, and Ace Powell, flying wing, whose injuries are keeping him on the sidelines. Bob Fulton will play Powell's position while Jack Pumple is bearing the punting chore. Meanwhile, from the camp of the Hamilton Flying Wildcats, the word last night was that several players would be out of the game against Balmy Beach at Toronto. The promised absentees included Doug Smith, former Kitchener Panther kicking star; Paul Miocinovich, plunging halfback who performed sensationally against Navy last week, and Bill Pesklevy, outside wing who has been transferred to another training station by the R.C.A.F.

Terranova Penalized

The Louisiana State Boxing Commission yesterday announced the indefinite suspension of Phil Terranova, N.B.A. featherweight champ, and his manager, Bobby Gleason, for arranging a fight with Johnny Compo in New Britain, Conn., next week instead of carrying out the terms of an alleged agreement requiring Terranova to give a return fight to Jackie Callura of Hamilton, Ont., at New Orleans, Oct. 11.

Mrs. Grace L. Durocher yesterday was granted a divorce at St. Louis from Leo E. Durocher, retiring manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers. She asked no alimony but a joint estate was divided. Plaintiff alleged Durocher had indulged in costly pleasure jaunts and had become indifferent. He did not appear in court.

In a re-run race at Belmont Park, New York, yesterday, three horses which had been pulled up after the false start ran away from the six which had covered the full distance in 15 minutes previously after their jockeys had failed to see the stop flag. A total of $112,036 had been bet on the race and all original wagering stood. The winner of the real race was Enthrall, which paid $9.50.

Mulleavy Resigns.

Greg Mulleavy resigned yesterday as manager of the Buffalo Bisons in the International League after the club had finished in the seventh place to repeat its 1942 showing. Mulleavy had been the successor to Al Vincent, now a coach with the Detroit Tigers.

The series for the baseball championship of the Maritime Provinces opens to-day at Halifax with a double-header between Royal Canadian Navy of Halifax and the Dockmen of St. John. The third game is scheduled to be played at St. John on Thursday.

Forward-passing star of the Winnipeg Blue Bombers when they copped the Dominion title, Wayne Sheley has been granted his wish to play one more game of Canadian football on October 16 before he joins the Navy. He will play for Regina against the Winnipeg United Services team.

Will Play in World Series.

The momentous announcement was made at St. Louis yesterday that the induction of Pitcher Alpha Brazle of the Cardinals into the Army had been postponed and he would be able to play through the World Series against New York Yankees. Harry Walker, centre-fielder, has been ordered to enlist on October 12.

Syracuse of the International League yesterday sold Shortstop Damon Phillips to the Boston Braves, but the player will take part in the Little World Series against Columbus Red Birds.

Have Home Training

TORONTO, Oct. 2—(CP)—Knowledge and education at home are necessary if the post-war era is to see fulfilment of the ideals for which the war is being fought, Mrs. George A. Drew said last night. The wife of the Ontario Premier spoke to the local Council of Women at a reception in her honor.

Katan Surly About Battle Here

Important wrestling matches take place on the Brock Arena mat on Tuesday night. The feature spot of course is the much-talked-of bout between John Katan of Palermo and Gentleman Jack Clayburne of Cape town, South Africa. Apart from all the "heat" which has resulted from Katan's none too complimentary attitude towards the fans of this city, there is the further important condition that the match is in the nature of a semi-final round for the British Empire title now held by Whipper Billy Watson. Apparently big Katan made a pretty good effort at avoiding the bout being held here where he feels the fans are distinctly prejudiced against him and his "mountain style" wrestling. But the powers that be decreed otherwise and it looks like a break for the tug-and-heave devotees here, whether it pleases the surly Katan or not.

Clayborne reported today in great shape and determined to wrestle the bout of his career. The statuesque black athlete is a marvellous combination of speed, agility and wrestling ability and even Katan's ruthless style should not be able to stop him.

Toar Morgan who has not been here for several months, will be welcomed back, but meets a Tartar in the powerful Bunny Dunlop. The young Fighting Marine learned his battling in a grimmer school however and if burly Bunny wants it rough, he's likely to get it and then some. In the third match Tony Felice meets a newcomer in Buster Hayes of Ottawa.

LAWN BOWLING

As far as the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club is concerned, night bowling for this 1943 season came to an end on Friday night when a goodly crowd turned out to enjoy the usual week-end mixed tournament. The night was good, the crowd was good and the bowling was good.

All summer long these weekly tournaments have helped in no small way to fill out a heavy schedule. Any bowling from now on will have to be done during the afternoons.

On Monday the east square will be closed, the greens will be prepared for the winter months and the grass will receive eight months rest, which they richly deserve.

Last night's winning rinks were skipped by H. Clegg, B. Chesler and R. Burns.

THE WAR ISN'T WON YET....

Sure, we're doing well... but it isn't over, and we can't afford to relax our efforts as long as there is a single one of our men within range of enemy fire, nor as long as the enemy has any fighting ability left.

We can hasten victory. We can speed the end of the war. We can get our men back home, victorious and sooner, if we do our part without slackening, without complacency.

And we can quicken the coming of peace and happiness in which our wartime thrift will be rewarded. The Victory Bonds we have bought during the war will be our keys to opportunity, and to the enjoyment of new things when the war is won.

The Fifth Victory Loan will start October 18th. Lend your savings to your country—and plan to lend more out of income.

Every dollar you put into these bonds is still your dollar... earning good interest... growing into a nest-egg that ensures your future.

You are not giving... you are LENDING, and what you lend is helping to shorten the war, to hasten the happy days.

has never cared for girls and now for the first time he has fallen in love with a young widow with three babies. She is pretty, full of life and has charm. She is poor. The youngest child is only 1 year old and the oldest 5. By doing housework in the mornings and office work in the afternoons she has kept her small apartment going and her children with her. When I suggested to her that possibly she shouldn't have picked a bachelor for a husband she laughed and said: "Oh, Jack and I will get on. My only worry is whether I am doing right in picking him to rear my babies." Imagine that!

Do you think that my son at his age will be happy with this ready-made family?

ANXIOUS MOTHER.

Happiness in Marrying Widow With Children

ANSWER—Any man in these days of the high cost of living who undertakes a readymade family has certainly a noble and altruistic disposition. Also, he must have plenty of money, because what with schooling and doctors' bills and special foods, and having their adenoids out and their teeth straightened, it costs just about as much to run a child as it does a yacht. Nothing short of the grand passion coiuld induce a man to put himself on such a hot spot.

Evidently this is the case with your son, and the chances are that if he marries the fascinating widow he will be happy with her, despite the handicap of the three children she is wishing on him. She has shown herself courageous and gay and cheerful and a good sport who has taken some pretty hard knocks with a laugh instead of a whine. And she has nerve, as is proven by her offering the support of her children as a privilege instead of a burden to her future husband.

The only danger will be your son being jealous of the mother's affection for her children. If he is big enough to put that out of his mind and to really learn to love them, all will be well. But I find that the jealous stepfather is just as common a figure as the jealous stepmother.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX — What do you think of a girl who is strong and healthy, who has been given a college education through her parents' scrimping, and who has been fitted for a profession, but who is so lazy that she refuses to work and spends her time amusing herself, while her brothers and sisters have to work to feed and clothe her? What's to be done?

SISTERS.

ANSWER—It is just as shameful for an able-bodied girl in these days not to support herself as it is for a boy. In both cases the lazy loafer should be turned out of the home and made to stand on his or her own feet. The deadbeats go to work when it gets to be a question of work, or starve. But as long as they have three square meals a day, a comfortable home to live in and somebody to provide them with clothes, they are going to sit on the do-nothing stool.

Family loyalty is a beautiful thing, but it is first aid in making parasites. There wouldn't be so many husky young men hanging around pool rooms and so many girls spending their time in the movie theatres and wandering through department stores if their families told them they had to get out and support themselves. But they never do. They simply "poor John" and "poor Sally" them and go on feeding them.

THE STARS SAY ....

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, October 3

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds promise of moderately successful and pleasant activities for the young, in intellectual and cultural circles, with particularly fortuitous conditions or spiritual, mystical, all inspired or idealistic work or aspirations. In this there may be little endorsement from elders.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may expect a lively and profitable year, in intellectual, professional or creative efforts, with success in travel, communications, contracts or agreements. Strategic or undercover agreements may make definite progress, with tact, diplomacy or connivance proving lucrative. It may be most desirable to work independently as elders are not harmonious.

A child born on this day should be versatile, especially in all of the finer arts or creative expressions, with success through tacit or under cover understanding rather than open dealings. Inspired effort or intuitive moves may win lofty objectives.

For Monday, October 4

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for notable success and achievement in matters of important scope and consequence although there may be a deeply disintegrating or devastating set of circumstances. It may be necessary to the promotion of this major enterprise to make a complete about-face in plans, programs or policies, with change of scene and associations. Public or community approbation would not be out of the picture. Work with superiors outside of the domestic or sentimental circle.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may look for advancement, with outstanding success or preferment, of large scope and importance. However there may be certain devastating conditions or disruptions to overcome by prudence and consideration as well as adherence to conventional codes. Sudden change removal, or complete change of plans or programs may be constructive. But shun discord or inharmony in the home, social or romantic relations. Superiors are helpful.

A child born on this day may be ambitious and have certain talents and forms of genius, securing public or group approbation. Its purely private relations may not be productive of harmony or happiness, unless tact be cultivated in youth.

Art of Weaving Again Becoming Popular

Sewing Basket

Weave This Basket

In wartime there are shortages especially in the manufacture of good yarns, so why don't you learn how to weave and make your own materials.

You'll also be helping the war effort faction out of wearing a suit or a coat or maybe a dress made from wool weaved by your own hands. You'll also be helping the war effort by not using manufactured materials which need plenty of valuable manpower as well as material.

Weaving is really not difficult to learn, either. In fact, it is quite enjoyable because it is rhythmic handiwork. It is soothing to taut nerves. It also brings pleasure because it gives the creative urge a whirl.

Human weaving can be as intricate and delicate as a spider's or as simple and sturdy as a beaver's. You can use equipment as complex as a textile mills or as simple as a kindergarten's.

Our 32-page booklet gives you all the necessary information for weaving various materials from rugs to purses and what materials to buy for each.

For your copy of HOW TO WEAVE USEFUL NOVELTIES send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

DO NOT RETURN IT

It was the great veteran, Wilbur C. Whitehead, who died over 10 years ago, that used to point out the essential difference between defense against a No Trump contract and that against a suit bid. Almost invariably, you should return the lead of your partner's suit against No Trump, unless special conditions prevailed. In a suit contract, however, if you won the first lead, you should generally return something else, up to the honors which your partner probably held and which would be more valuable if led up to than if led from.

East took the lead of the club J with his A and promptly returned the club 6. That very moment he enabled the declarer to make his contract. The K took the trick, but it was now impossible for West to take more than one trick in diamonds. South was able to drop the trumps and use the spades for a diamond discard.

If East had been on his toes, he would have realized that he was no doubt in the lead for the only time during the entire hand, and that he should have prized the privilege. If West had the cards to set the contract, they could hardly be anywhere except in diamonds, and then probably only if the suit was led to him.

A diamond return to the second trick would have enabled West to score two tricks in the suit and then lay down the club K for the one which would beat the declarer.

81 Survivors Picked Up Hit Second Time

OTTAWA, Oct. 2 — (CP). — Most of the 147man complement of the Canadian destroyer St. Croix survived the sinking of their ship, but were lost when the British frigate Itchen, which had picked them up, was subsequently torpedoed, the Royal Canadian Navy announced last night.

Earlier in the day, Navy Minister Macdonald had made public the loss of the St. Croix with only one survivor—Stoker W. A. Fisher of Black Diamond, Alta.

A short time later the Royal Navy disclosed the loss of the Itchen and the British corvette Polyanthus, and Naval Service Headquarters, in a supplementary announcement, then made it known that five officers and 76 men survived the sinking of the St. Croix, but all but one lost their lives when the Itchen went down.

Many Seamen Lost.

Lost with the St. Croix, Itchen, and Polyanthus was an undisclosed number of merchantmen during a running North Atlantic battle with German U-boat "wolf-packs."

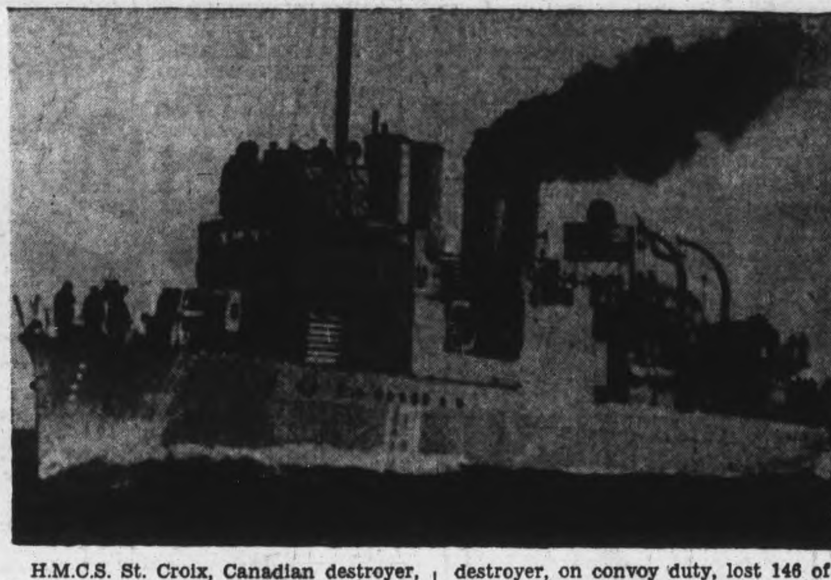
The weight of the losses and the ferocity of the fights were in no way exceptional and counter-measures against the U-boats were highly successful, it was also learned.

In addition to the St. Croix survivors, the Itchen carried the Canadian officers on loan to the Royal Navy and serving on the frigate—Lieut. William A. Johnston, R.C.N.V.R., Charlottetown, P.E.I., and Lieut. Godfrey T. Archbold, R.C.N.V.R., of Duncan, B.C.

Sinking of the St. Croix marked the largest single loss the Royal Canadian Navy has suffered in this war, but Mr. Macdonald, speaking at Hamilton, hinted she had already been avenged.

The engagement in which the St. Croix went down marked a renewal of submarine activity in the North Atlantic, where not a ship had been sunk for four months.

Gallant Ship Suffers Death Blow



H.M.C.S. St. Croix, Canadian destroyer, which was torpedoed and sunk in a major naval engagement which lasted for 10 days on the rim of the Arctic Circle. The destroyer, on convoy duty, lost 146 of her crew of 147. The St. Croix was picking up survivors and had taken about 75 aboard when she received her death blow.

seen that the building was not adequate and a new building was planned and erected on land given by Thomas Choate, during the pastorate of Rev. J. E. Robeson, 1893.

Miss Margaret Kidd, the organist of the 'Church on the Hill,' carried over her duties into the new church assisted by Miss Mattie Robeson (Mr. Allan Kidd), who later became organist. Sometime during the next ten years, the present organist began her long term as organist, a service which she is still giving very faithfully to-day.

There are always firsts to be remembered in connection with a new building or venture. The first wedding in the new church was that of Miss Ellen Clements and John H. Brown, on September 23rd, 1896. The first baby to be christened was Hilliard Clements, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clements.

Reading memories of past ministers one is impressed with the wonderful musical treats. Space will not permit mentioning all names, but that of John Kidd, choir leader at the opening services of the new church, is outstanding. Others were Mrs. Wm. Payne, soprano leader, George Payne, tenor, Paul Payne, the Robeson girls and Bertha Kidd.

Another interesting note is that the anthem used at the dedication service fifty years ago will be sung again at the anniversary service.

Tea Meeting Held.

The week the church opened a tea meeting was held at which a subscription list was passed to clear the building debt. Joseph Payne said that if they could clear the debt that evening, he would pay the last $25. He did before the evening was over. The proceeds of that first tea amounted to $202.87.

During the fifty years fifteen ministers have served the charge. Rev. Robeson, 1893-96; Rev. George Robinson, 1896-98; Reev. C. H. Fusee, 1898-1901; Rev. H. McQuade, 1901-1905; Rev. Nicholl, 1905-08; Rev. G. W. Marvin, 1908-1911; Rev. A. C. Huffman, 1911-13. Mr. Huffman was a strong Sunday school worker and missionary advocate. He organized the Sunday school for missions, the first Sunday of each month being set aside for a missionary talk and offering. This system has been followed ever since; Rev. M. H. Hilton, 1913-16. His youngest daughter, Lillian, became a missionary to China.

Rev. D. R. Clare, 1916-19. This was during the sad days of the First World War and many times Mr. Clare took news of casualties to the homes here. Now word has come that his own son, Wesley, was taken a prisoner of war at Dieppe. Rev. J. P. Knox, 1919-21. Up until this time class meetings were a strong factor in the life of the church. Names that stand out in memory are Mr. and Mrs. John Sanders, who drove regularly from Cottesloe for church and class meeting. A. R. Kidd is another leader of class meeting days. Quarterly meetings were held once a quarter at the church.

The other three churches would come, testimonies would be given and communion served. There were many that could not get to any but their own church, and Mr. Knox was instrumental in having the system changed, to Communion served in each church each quarter. So passed on another custom of the quarterly meetings.

Rev. Weir, 1921 to 1925. He will long be remembered for his part in the musical life of the church during his pastorate.

Rev. H. B. Herrington, 1925 to 1930. It was at this time the Ladies' Aid was organized, Mrs. Herrington became the first president. This Association is responsible for the supper being held in connection with the Anniversary. A memorial flower bed was also made on the church lawn in memory of Mr. and Mrs. Elgin Snider and Mr. Alex. Watts. The pulpit Bible that had served since the days of the opening and which had been presented by Thomas Choate, became worn out and a new one was presented to the church by the Sunday School. A feature of the presentation was the singing of "Jesus Loves Me" by Mrs. James Hawthorne's class of primary pupils.

Rev. J. W. Wilkinson, 1930 to 1941, spent the longest pastorate of any of the pastors of the church. He was here during the time when Hydro was brought into the village, and it was put into the church and parsonage. The light fixtures were donated by different members. Also at this time the organ which had served for nearly forty-five years needed to be replaced and a piano was bought.

Rev. E. D. Snelgrove, the present minister came in 1941 and is faithfully carrying on his ministry.

The W.M.S. which is a product of the old church has carried on all through the years and although the numbers are small still they meet their allocation under the leadership of Mrs. George Taylor who has been president for a long period.

Sunday School

No history of the church would be complete without the corresponding history of the Sunday School for the Sunday School has always been a strong force in the life of the Church. There are names that stand out in memory more than others, but, there have been countless others who have meant life inspiration to those whom they have tried to guide in church and Sunday School life. Early superintendents were A. R. Kidd and Stewart Payne, who held his church and Sunday School as the most important things in his life. He attended prayer meeting the night he died.

The name that will live in the minds of all those of the present generation is that of Mr. Robert Somers, whose life as Superintendent for over 25 years, was an inspiration and blessing to all, those who were privileged to be in Sunday School to hear him pray was a benediction.

There have been many dedicated Bible class teachers. Dr. Meecham, William Wasson, James Greystock were among those who served faithfully and well. Other classes had their teachers, whose names are too numerous to mention.

During the pastorate of Mr. Huffman the young people were organized into the Willing Workers Bible Class, under the leadership of Mrs. Ellen Brown. They presented the church with the communion set that is now in use. The Star Class for teen-aged boys and girls was organized with Mrs. George Taylor as leader and the collection plates are their presentation to the church.

Presbyterian Church Failed To Wipe Off Its Deficit

MONTREAL, Oct. 2 (CP)—Failure of the Presbyterian Church of Canada to wipe out its deficits and create a surplus for future operations through its foundation fund collections was acknowledged this week by Rt. Rev. H. Beverly Ketchen, moderator of the General Assembly, and John M. Thomson, chairman of the board of administration, at the sessions of the Montreal and Ottawa synod.

Dr. Ketchen, speaking of the foundation fund, said the Presbyterian people were asked to contribute less than $3 per member and that instead they gave only 85 cents.

"We are able to give the government about 40 per cent of our incomes that our fellow men might be killed and their cities blown to pieces but we were never willing to give more than 1-10 of one per cent to have the swords beaten into plow shares."

Mr. Thompson said the Foundation Fund was the best way of relieving the church of debt. At present, he said, $133,661 of the $500,000 objective has been collected.

things since he was a child. Then Jesus said to him:

"If thou wilt be perfect, go and sell that thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven; and come and follow Me."

When Jesus had said, "Follow Me" to fishermen and others, they had straightway left their work and gone with Him. They left their homes, and lived the community life of sharing each with each whatever they had, and going about teaching and preaching, living on the hospitality of strangers. This man, however, was rich, and had a position; and much as he wanted to be perfect, he could not give these things up, he felt. So, sadly, he left the Master, and went his way. We hear no more of him and wonder if he later regretted that he had not followed the Lord or if he ever felt satisfied and entirely happy.

The last reference in our lesson is John 5: 39, 40. Jesus was evidently tired of trying to make men understand His mission and His message to them as to the way of eternal life "Search the Scriptures," He told them, "for in them ye think ye have eternal life; and they are they which testify of Me.

"And ye will not come to Me, that ye might have life."

In the Scriptures they would find references to His coming, and when they did they might be led to believe Him when He gave them His message which would save them and give them the life eternal for which they yearned.

The Germans also were fighting desperately to hold Gomel, further to the south. Here defences studded with numerous blockhouses and pillboxes checked the Soviet forces, although they succeeded in breaking through at some points. Red Army troops were reported within 11 miles of Gomel several days ago.

Huns Claim Victory

The Moscow bulletin, for the second straight day, avoided mention of the Ukrainian fighting, but Nazi broadcasts claimed a "major defensive success" near Zaporozhe on the great bend of the Dnieper River. Here, the German high command communique said, the Russians lost 140 out of 250 tanks in a mass attack on German forces defending that river and rail centre.

German commentators maintained the shortened German lines permitted them greater mobility in meeting Russian attacks and that their artillery concentrations were effectively checking Russian attempts to cross the Dnieper in force.

Fighting at Kiev, where one of the decisive battles of the war appears to be in the making, was not mentioned in either the Russian or German communiques.

The Berlin Radio, in a broadcast recorded here by The Associated Press, claimed Leningrad had been shelled by long range German guns again yesterday.

The German broadcast, quoting a DNB German news agency dispatch also admitted the Nazis had evacuated Kremenchug, important bridgehead on the east side of the Dnieper River, between Kiev and Dnepropetrovsk, capture of which was announced by Premier Stalin on September 29.

"The entire population left the town with the German troops," the DNB dispatch added.

Russian communiques for days have reported that during their retreat across the Ukraine the Germans have been driving Russian civilians before them, to finally be removed to Germany where they would be forced into "slave labor" battalions. The DNB dispatch was interpreted here as confirming this.

EIGHTH ARMY HALFWAY TO PO RIVER

Capture Termoli on Adriatic Landing Behind Nazi Force

By N. NORGAARD—Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Oct. 4 — (AP). — The British 8th Army, with the support of Allied naval forces which penetrated the Adriatic, has landed and clinched positions at Termoli, on the Adriatic coast almost midway between the Italian heel and mouth of the River Po in Northern Italy, official frontline dispatches announced to-day. Simultaneously, Anglo-American troops of Lt.-Gen. Mark Clark's 5th Army have surged forward from Benevento in their march on Rome from Naples and have captured an important crossing of the Calore River, thereby threatening to turn the flank of any water defence line which the Germans may attempt to hold along the Volturno River.

Threatens Flank.

Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's advance up the Adriatic coast — which leads to the Po valley—likewise threatened to turn the defences of German Marshals Rommel and Kesselring which may be centred about Rome and the Apennines.

His march was advanced greatly by the leapfrog tactics of ambibious landing forces which seized Termoli by surprise, beat off German counter-attacks, took an undisclosed number of prisoners well behind the enemy's rear and then made a junction with the main body of the 8th Army which continued to pound up the coast.

Termoli is 50 miles north of Foggia, the airbase city, and approximately 17 miles north of Gen. Montgomery's previous position at the mouth of the Fortore River just north of the "spur" of the Italian boot.

Termoli is a small seaport with 5,000 or 6,000 inhabitants and is some 10 miles behind the mountainous ground which breaks in to the coast to ring the Foggia Plain. It is about 215 miles up the coast from Taranto on the Italian heel and 190 miles south of Rimini where the Po Plains begin.

Cross Calore River

Already there was evidence that the crossing of the Calore by the 5th Army was forcing the Germans to withdraw from the Volturno line where they might have hoped to halt their retreat.

The Calore, which the Allies reached with the acpture of Benevento, flows into the Volturno which turns northward at Amorosi, 26 miles northeast of Naples.

Immediately north of Naples, 5th Army patrols with strong British armor support, stabbed relentlessly at the retreating Germans and found enemy resistance stiffening, apparently because the Germans were intent upon slowing down the advance long enough to withdraw heavy equipment and supplies across the Volturno.

The 5th Army's march also was impeded greatly by German demolition parties which were blowing up every bridge, road junction and culvert.

With the Allies across the Calore river and in a position to strike westward in force the Germans appeared able only to fight a delaying action along the Volturno once Clark's main body reaches that stream.

While Gen. Montgomery's amphibious undertaking, a repetition of tactics that permitted rapid advances along both Sicilian coasts,

Strike Stalls Freight Troops Called

Shipments On Docks At Halifax Left In Boxcars

OTTAWA, Oct. 4 (CP)—Members of the three armed services will be moved in "immediately" to handle important shipments at Halifax docks where freight handlers are on strike, labor department officials said today.

Arrangements for use of members of the forces—soldiers, sailors and airmen—were completed during the week-end but action was suspended pending a meeting of the strikers this morning.

At noon high departmental officials received word from Halifax that the men had voted against returning to work and steps were then taken to put the plan into effect.

It was understood the members of the forces will be used primarily to move perishable goods and vitally-needed war materials from freight cars to the sheds or wharves where they are taken over by longshoremen for loading into the ships.

Troops were used in a Vancouver Island coal mine strike during the First Great War. While troops have been used during the present war for protective purposes — for instance, during the Arvida, Que., aluminum plant strike. There has been no use in this war of members of the armed forces to replace workmen during strikes, labor department officials said.

Last night Labor Minister Mitchell advised F. H. Hall of Montreal, vice - president of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employees (A.F. of L.) that the Halifax strike was illegal.

He said that unless the striking workers resumed duty by eight o'clock this morning "arrangements will be made to handle all perishable shipments."

Today it was learned these "arrangements" involved use of troops on the Halifax docks.

However, the strikers had a meeting scheduled for this morning and the 8 a.m. deadline was not imposed.

Labor Department officials kept in close touch with Halifax by telephone to learn the outcome of the meeting.

In a wire to Mr. Mitchell Saturday Mr. Hall said his organization urged the men to return to work. He said the freight handlers had stopped work Saturday on the basis of press reports that the National War Labor Board had granted them a wage increase of only four cents an hour.

New Tax Plan Takes Third Nation's Income

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4 —(AP)—Henry Morgenthau, United States Secretary of the Treasury, asked Congress today to provide an additional $10,500,000,000 a year in wartime taxes, taking $6,500,000,000 of this huge sum from individual incomes.

Repeal of the victory tax, which Morgenthau said would "relieve 9,000,000 hard-pressed families from tax on their incomes," was included in an administration program which embraced also big increases in corporation and excise taxes.

With President Roosevelt's approval, the treasury secretary presented to the House ways and means committee the tax plan designed to boost annual federal revenues to nearly $50,000,000,000—approximately one-third the United States' national income.

$1100 Married People

In brief, it proposed:—

1. Individual incomes—raise rates and lower exemptions so as to gather in an additional $6,500,000,000 annually. Merge the victory tax with the income tax. Lower the exemptions for married persons from $1,200 to $1,100; dependents from $350 to $300, and retain the $500 exemption for single persons.

2. Corporations—raise rates so as to raise another $1,100,000,000, with small corporations given "special favorable treatment."

3. Excise taxes—stiff increases in the taxes on so-called luxuries—including liquor, beer, tobacco, travel, pop and gum—for an added government income of $2,500,000,000.

4. Estate and gift taxes—reduce the exemption for estate taxes from $60,000 to $40,000, and increase estate and gift taxes throughout scale, to yield $400,000,000 additional.

Of the increased take from incomes, Morgenthau proposed that between $2,000,000,000 and $3,500,000,000 be made refundable after the war.

Bombs Crush Kassel During Night

5th Saturation Raid In 7 Nights Costs 24 Bombers

LONDON, Oct. 4—(CP)—R.A.F. and Canadian heavy bombers hit Kassel, 91 miles northeast of Frankfort, last night in the fourth big blow in six months against that manufacturing centre for Nazi fighter planes, locomotives and other important war machines, it was announced today.

Aircraft from the Canadian bomber group were out in considerable numbers. The assault was officially described as heavy. It cost 24 bombers. It was the third R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. attack in three nights against Germany and was a continuation of the heavy Allied raids on the continent that have been pressed home for three days and nights without let-up.

Kassel last was attacked on July 30.

Four of the missing bombers were Canadian. The R.C.A.F. participation in the raid was by Halifax bombers and their crews reported the bombing was well concentrated with many large fires stated. At the same time Canadian Mosquitoes made intruder patrols over Northern France and the low countries, without loss.

Today in daylight American heavy bombers supported by long-range fighters swept into Germany and attacked targets in Frankfurt which is 91 miles southwest of Kassel.

The city, which has a population of 200,000, has been bombed more than a dozen times during the war. The raid last night was the fifth on Germany in seven nights by British-based bombers.

At Kassel are the Fieseler Aircraft Works, which the hard-pressed Nazis have been forced to shift from an original product of light army observation planes to Messerschmitt fighters because of the inroads on combat plane sources like the recent attacks on fighter factories near Vienna, at Regensburg, and Paris.

The Air Ministry also said British Mosquitoes bombed Hanover and targets in the Rhineland last night. Other bombers laid mines in enemy waters.

A communique described the Kassel attack as "very heavy" and said preliminary reports indicated "that heavy damage was done to this important industrial target." The weather was described as excellent.

Frankfurt, with a population of more than 500,000, is a big inland port on the main river, a railway centre, and the site of large oil refineries, chemical plants and other war factories.

It was the 37th raid of the war on that city. It has been untouched by air assault, however, since last December.

Five hundred tons of bombs were dropped Saturday night on Munich, the Nazi party's birthplace and a main supply outlet from southern Germany into Italy. The industrial city of Hagen was attacked Friday night.

The British-Canadian smash at Munich highlighted the obvious Allied intention to subject all of Germany to a two-directional air offensive—from Britain and even-

Autumn Rains Turn Russia Into Quagmire Red Troops Bog Down On Muddy Front

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Oct. 4 (AP)—Activity on the Soviet-German front was confined to Red Army attacks in the Gomel and Mogilev sectors of White Russia today as autumn rains prevailed over most of the long battle line.

The Russians kept up sharp scouting activity and long-range artillery duels elsewhere along the front where the Red Army lines were lodged against the German defences on the Dnieper and Upper West Dvina Rivers.

A lull in military operations is customary at this time in Russia when the rains create bogs of vast stretches of the country.

(The German communique indicated a considerable slackening of activity along the entire eastern front, reporting only local Soviet attacks in the Kuban peninsula of the Caucasus and scattered clashes with the Russian troops which had forced crossings of the Dnieper.)

Last year's Russian winter offensive did not begin until Nov. 19.

The line generally appeared to have been stabilized until the early winter frosts freeze a new, hard track fit for campaigning.

Canadian Troops Tireless Ross Munro Tells London

By ALAN RANDAL—Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Oct. 4—(CP Cable).—There is no one who has seen the Canadians in action who doesn't think they are worthy successors as fighting men to any Canada sent overseas in the First Great War.

"They're tremendous," said Ross Munro, 30-year-old war correspondent of The Canadian Press when he arrived in London Saturday from the battlefields of Sicily and the Italian mainland for a rest.

"Our troops seem absolutely tireless," said the lanky correspondent who got out the first word of the Canadians landing in Sicily in July and then marched northward with them and the British 8th Army and crossed the Messina Straits with the Dominion's invasion force into Italy.

He added it was amazing to see the manner in which the Canadian troops keep going.

Enthusiastic.

"They are just as keen about the campaign today as when it started and they still have all their original enthusiasm for getting into battle," he said.

One stimulus for this is the fact that Canadians have been accepted by veterans of the 8th Army as great fighters. The Americans also figure Canadians as such.

"Monty (Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery, commander of the 8th Army) seems sold on the Canadians," said Munro. "In Sicily we had Americans on one side and British on the other side and it struck a great balance. Everybody got to know each other well and the Canadians soon showed there were plenty of reasons for placing full confidence in them."

Munro, who sailed from England with the attack force June 28, landed in Sicily July 10 and in Italy September 3. Except for a one-week lay-off due to fever attacks he had been constantly with the fighting men. In four months, he said, they

Robbers Elude Police Posses

ARTHUR, Ont., Oct 4 — (CP).—Provincial Police from Kitchener and a large posse of civilians today surrounded dense bush in the Kenilworth area eight miles north of this Wellington County town as they continued their search for two men wanted in connection with break-ins at Mildmay and Pinkerton early last Saturday.

The search, carried out by one of the largest posses ever organized in this district, shifted to the Kenilworth area last night from Walkerton after police arrested a man who gave his name as Herbert Schufeld of Toronto and fired several shots at his two companions who got away. A car stolen at Mildmay was found near Kenilorth, its gasoline tank empty.

Car Upsets.

The chase started on Saturday morning and since then has covered both Grey and Bruce Counties. The fugitives have used two stolen cars, the one taken from Mildmay and the other from Toronto. The Toronto car was abandoned when it overturned three times and was wrecked.

A police dog, Duke, was loaned by the R.C.M.P. to follow a trail of blood from the car. The dog tracked the men to a barn and lost the scent.

Germans Land In Strength On Dodecanese

CAIRO, Oct. 4 —(CP)— Middle East headquarters announced today that Germans landed in strength Sunday on the island of Kos in the Dodecanese and seized "several important points." It was the first serious German move to contest the Allied advance over the Aegen island stepping stones to the Balkans. The Germans attacked with sea and air forces.

Fighting continues, the communique said. It added that enemy shipping off Kos was attacked from the air throughout Sunday, many hits being scored.

Surprise Garrison

(International Information Bureau, a German propaganda organ, said in a broadcast recorded in London that Nazi landing groups attacked Kos and "seized all military installations."

(The Germans further claimed the British garrison was "taken by surprise" and that a number were killed or taken prisoners and the remainder "fled into the hills." The claim was not confirmed by any Allied sources.)

The fighting on Kos was first disclosed yesterday when British headquarters, announcing the attack on the second largest island in the Italian Dodecanese group, added the crytic statement:

"The necessary counter-measures have been taken by the defending forces."

Kos, which has an excellent airfield, was seized by British parachute troops and seaborne forces on Sept. 22 along with Leros in the Dodecanese group and the Greek Island of Samos, to the north.

Corsica Falls To Combined Allied Force

Port Of Bastia Captured By French Army

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, ALGIERS, Oct. 4—(AP)—The final collapse of German resistance in Corsica was marked today by the entry of French forces in Bastia.

Moroccan Goums of the French forces were the first to enter the city at the northeastern tip of the Mediterranean island which now becomes a threat to the German forces on the Italian mainland north of Rome.

Remnants of German forces were still scattered on beaches at isolated points north and south of Bastia. But these were being pressed by French troops and American Rangers.

Motorized and shock detachments yesterday mopped up the whole western coast and northern part of Cap Corse as far as Luri, which had previously been taken.

Borfo, the site of an airfield 10 miles south of Bastia, Vescovato and Casamozza, farther south on the east coast, also were taken and Moroccans wiped out a pocket of fierce resistance at Furian in the central sector.

Troops looking down from hill positions saw French artillery blowing up ships and munitions at the docks and beaches where the Germans were trying to get away.

Declare Lewis Labor's Enemy

BOSTON, Oct. 4—(AP).—The American Federation of Labor opened its 63rd annual convention today amid indications that many of the smaller trade union groups, at least, were unsympathetic to the re-admission of John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers.

Six resolutions on the subject were laid before the 500 or 600 delegates at the opening session, and five of them strongly opposed the Lewis application. Even the sixth stipulated that Lewis be re-admitted only after settling his "present difficulty with the United States Government and agree to conform with the no-strike pledge." The sponsor of this resolution was Delegate John J. Hurst of the Cincinnati Central Labor Unions.

A resolution proposed by the Peoria (Ill.) Trades and Labor Assembly called Lewis "one of the worst enemies of organized labor" and blamed him for enactment of state and national anti-labor laws. It proposed flatly that the convention go on record opposing the re-admission of the U.M.W.

No Isolationism

Keynoting the convention, President William Green told applauding delegates the U.S. must abandon isolationism forever and join the world family of nations.

"The war," declared Green, "has taught us that America cannot isolate herself from the rest of the world. We know that our peaceful intentions are not enough. America must join with other nations of good will to preserve peace throughout the civilized world.

"That is why Labor demands a place at the peace table to see to it that the will of the people is not thwarted by professional and international diplomats."

Discussing post-war domestic problems, Green said organized Labor was prepared to assist expansion of the free enterprise system and expressed the hope that business leaders, too, would be prepared.

Jews Flee To Sweden To Escape Germans

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 4—(AP). — Southern Sweden has become a haven for at least 1,100 Danish Jews who risked death by drowning or the guns of Nazi patrols rather than face deportation to Polish or Baltic labor camps, it was estimated here to-day.

The country opened its arms to the refugees, who used rowboats and fishing smacks to run the gauntlet of alert Germans across the narrow channel which separates the two great countries. Offers made by the Swedish government to Berlin to provide a haven for 8,0000 of the 10,000 Jews in Denmark have been ignored by the Nazis.

The Swedish press was almost unanimous in its denunciation of a German order which decreed death for Jews caught in attempts to flee the country.

LONDON—Capt. Clark Gable has been awarded the Air Medal for "exceptionally meritorious achievement while participating in five separate bomber combat missions" over enemy territory.

Burma Raided Without Loss

NEW DELHI, Oct. 4 — (CP) — Heavy attacks on Japanese supply bases and rail transport were carried out by American medium and fighter-bombers in northern and central Burma Saturday and Sunday, a U.S. headquarters announcement said today.

Medium bombers caused heavy destruction on tracks and rolling stock and left several large fires raging in the storage area during Sunday assaults on Sagaing, Irrawaddy River port in Central Burma, the announcement said.

Fighter-bombers tore up railway tracks and left five fires raging among warehouses Saturday in a furious raid on Namti, North Burma supply centre. It was the second heavy raid in two days on that main Central Japanes supply base.

Yugoslav Patriots Capture Kolasin

LONDON, Oct. 4. —(CP).—The Free Yugoslav radio in a communique recorded by Reuters News Agency to-day announced that patriot troops have captured the Montenegrin town of Kolasin on the Tara river 75 miles inland from Dubrovnik.

Troops of the First Croat Corps have occupied the railway station of Genralski-Stol on the Zagreb-Susak line, the bulletin added.

Yugoslav troops were reported still battling German forces near the Adriatic seaport of Split and near the towns of Klis. Knin and Drnis.

Other units in the north slashed across the Rakek-Trieste railway at several points and large sections are in the hands of Partisans, the war bulletin said.

Huns Send Peace Feelers To Russians

Hope To Create Distrust Between Britain, U.S. and Soviet Powers

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The Balkans are boiling with reports Germany is seeking a separate peace with Russia, and that Moscow is considering the idea.

These and other recent stories along a similar line undoubtedly were inspired by Berlin. They perhaps were put out partly as feelers, but certainly with the hope of creating distrust among the Allies.

Along with this, Hitler has ordered his commanders to hold a "blood wall" across Northern Italy and to "defend 'fortress Europe' to the last drop of blood." A German commentator hands out the word that this is a 'guarantee that the Nazi armies in fortress Europe will be able to hold their positions many years, if necessary, until the Allies are convinced the war is futile."

Obvious Plan

The intent of this is obvious—to implant in the minds of the Allies the thought that, after all, it might be better to make peace now than to let the war drag on interminably. There's no doubt the Fuehrer knows he's beaten and wants to get out of the war on best terms possible, though Berlin noisily continues to deny it has any idea of surrender.

Well, would Russia make a separate peace with Germany?

Dnieper Crisis.

All the indications thus far have been she has no intention whatsoever of doing so. However one doesn't need a telescope to see that, with one of the greatest crises of the war now being staged along the Dnieper, military developments might alter Russia's mind.

Moscow's call for the western Allies to open a second front in France has been repeated almost daily as the German retreat has continued. The Russians have kept insisting that the appointed hour for that front was at hand while Hitler was on the defensive. They have said they needed this aid because of the strain they themselves were under. Continued inability to open the front might result in the Soviet taking independent action as regards Germany.

This and other military and political situations continue to emphasize the urgency of the forthcoming conference among representatives of the Allied big three—Britain, Russia and the United States. There are vital differences of viewpoint to be reconciled in the victory which the United Nations assuredly are winning on the battlefields isn't to be nullified by clashes between themselves.

Sabotage In Rumania

Fires And Explosions Are Numerous In War Plants

BERNE, Oct. 4 — (AP). — A Budapest dispatch to the Basler Nachrichten declared today an organized campaign of sabotage has been under way for the past five days in industrial cities of Axis-dominated Rumania.

The dispatch reported fires and explosions, accompanied by heavy loss of life, had partially destroyed an important leather factory at Mocior-Nitsa and the Schmidt Chemical Works — one of the largest plants of its kind in Rumania.

Telephone lines were said to have been cut to hamper fire fighters and first aid units after four heavy explosions started a blaze in the leather factory, where 21 persons were reported to have perished. An official explanation, however, the Budapest dispatch said, attributed the disaster to a carelessly dropped cigaret.

After the fire in the Schmidt plant, in which the loss of life was not specified, military guards were said to have been increased at all important industrial establishments.

Despite the vigilance of the guards, two other factories engaged in production of war material were said to have been damaged by explosions only a few hours apart.

The explosions were not unexpected, the dispatch said. "Since sometime ago big military stores in Bucharest were transferred to other parts of the country."

Quebec Fights New Church

Jews Continue Erection Of Synagogue

QUEBEC, Oct. 4—(CP)—Mr Justice Romeo Langlais Saturday dismissed an interlocutory injunction taken by the City of Quebec seeking to suspend the erection of a synagogue by the Jewish congregation Bais Israel on uppertown Cremazie street.

Last Thursday Mr. Justice P. E. Cote had maintained a motion by the Jewish congregation asking that all proceedings by the city in connection with an expropriation notic on the site be suspended pending the judgment by Mr. Justice Langlais.

The case arose from the purchase by the congregation of a site on Cremazie street for the building of a synagogue and the passing by the city council of two by-laws, one prohibiting the building of a synagogue in Montcalm ward, where the site is located, and another authorizing the city to expropriate the property.

Still pending before the courts is a motion whereby the congregation seeks to have the by-laws declared "illegal, ultra vires. discriminatory and as constituting an abuse of power and an undue interference with the right of religious worship." This action, instituted July 19, still is pending.

Meanwhile, the congregation has been proceeding with construction of the synagogue.

REDS SQUEEZE NAZIS AT BOTH ENDS OF 750-MILE BATTLE FRONT

8th Army Sweeps Up Adriatic Lands 50 Miles North Foggia

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Oct. 4 — (AP). — The British 8th Army had made a new landing at Termoli, on the Adriatic coast of Italy in the mountains north of the Foggia Plain and 50 miles north of Foggia itself, Allied headquarters announced today. Once again the Allied forces resorted to the leap-frog practice that first proved successful in Sicily, particularly along the northern coast.

The communique also announced the occupation of Montimiletto, a village in the centre of the line 11 miles southeast of captured Benevento, where 5th Army forces are cleaning up the Melfi salient from which German troops yesterday were said to have withdrawn.

British units also swept into Motta, 10 miles above Foggia, the announcement said.

Wipe Out Bridge.

On the west coast, Allied air forces concentrated on enemy front formations north of Naples and knocked out a vital bridge at Capua, over which withdrawing columns of enemy troops had been moving across the Volturno River.

The communique also announced that the 5th Army had crossed the Calope River which flows into the Volturno to form the first likely German defence line north of Naples.

Termoli is 17 miles ahead of the previous 8th Army line on the Adriatic coast—the mouth of the Fortore River.

General progress of both the 5th and 8th Armies continues up the peninsula, the communique said.

Bombers raided the freight yards at Civitavecchia, 30 miles northwest of Rome, last night, the communique said.

3 Planes Lost.

Long-range fighter patrols off the Corsican coast destroyed one enemy fighter and Allied aircraft shot down four more enemy planes at Isernia which attempted to prevent bombing.

Over the rest of the battlefront Allied airmen were unopposed.

United Church Plans Big Rally

A public service of unusual interest will be held in St. James' United Church on Wednesday, October 6 at 8 p.m., when the picture, "John Stirling", colour and sound film story of the church at work will be presented by the producer, Rev. A. C. Moorhouse; son of a former minister of St. James' church. The rally of church workers will commence at 8 p.m. when Rev. J. H. Arnup, B.A., D.D., general secretary of Foreign Missions, will bring a special message of inspiration. Immediately following the address the picture, "John Stirling", which lasts one hour, will be shown. Those interested in any branch of church activity will be made welcome. An offering will be received at the church door.

"Anybody who watched them training in England would never recognize these men now," Munro added. "On the move they are just like a bunch of gypsies—the same as the 8th Army.

Take Live Chickens.

"Whenever it's time to move on—which is often—you see the Canadians pile everything imaginable on to trucks, jeeps, any kind of transport. There would be rifles, Tommy guns, maybe captured German weapons poking out of the various vehicles along with all the troops' belongings. I've seen armored vehicles starting fresh on the move with a couple of live chickens tied on the side. The boys planned to eat them somewhere farther on."

The greatest thing for these men is mail from home. Munro said they had few letters in their months with the fighting force, perhaps due to rapid change in location, but he said letters were the greatest morale builder possible. Next come cigarets.

"You know when the mail arrives the boys feel just as if they are living on clouds," he said. "It is even a thrill to get an income tax bill out there."

Fever overtook Munro in Italy, necessitating a long trek by jeep back to the casualty clearing station near Reggio Calabria. By the time he spent nearly a week there he faced a 400-mile trek to the front which had moved on in his absence.

Right now he looks pretty fit, bronzed with a leathery skin and a few heading healing fever blisters on the face and hands — "that's tough stuff to take," he said.

Munro, whose action copy from Sicily and Italy totalled roughly 100,000 words, received word from The Canadian Press head office to return to England for a rest while he was deep in the southern Italian hills. He travelled 200 miles by jeep to an airfield near Taranto. He flew during the night to Sicily and the next day to Tunis, then to Algiers and England.

Tough Assignment.

"It was tougher to get stories back from the Reggio landings than the initial Sicily landings," he said.

Munro explained that in Sicily he had only to get his copy to the headquarters ship whence it was relayed. But in Italy he posted himself in a cave on the Italian cliffs about 300 to 400 feet from there with his typewriter. He could watch the landings well from that point but the assault craft were being intermittently bombed and the bombers seemed to take a course directly over the cliff so some bombs came uncomfortably close.

When he had a chunk of copy ready Munro would race from his cliff-cave perch to the beach and hand it to a naval officer on a landing barge for relay to the beach commander on the Sicily side, who then forwarded it to the nearest communication point by dispatch rider.

"Every time I gave the barge officer copy I was worried for fear his boat would get it from the bombers on the return trip," said Munro.

"It was a seven-mile stretch of water and that was seven miles of pretty dubious travel," he said. "For one thing, maybe the landing craft officer under the stress of action would put the copy in his pocket and forget about it for a couple of trips — then maybe he would not make the trip. There were always those worries."

During the last 10 days before leaving Munro cooked his own compo-ration meals as he marched forward. He could buy eggs at various Italian towns but there was a little exchange difficulty. The Italians would not take liras for the produce. They wanted cigarets.

"Everywhere it was 'cigaretto cigaretto.' They even reached to snatch them from one's mouth when haggling over the price of eggs, and towards the end it was a great bargaining effort because I was getting pretty low."

To Munro, London looked pretty good. Bomb wreckage is all cleaned up here now in contrast to the Sicilian towns where everything was battered by the tactical air force.

"That's one of the impressions our boys are going to carry out of this campaign," he said. "And that is the tremendous and accurate bombing carried out as part of our offensive."

tually from Italy—for it followed by less than 48 hours the first American heavy bomber raid on the same city from northwest African bases.

To-day's raid by the American bombers and their escorts was the first daylight attack of the war on Frankfurt.

Plane Factory.

The Kassel raid was the fourth big blow in six months on that manufacturing centre for Messerschmitt fighter planes and other war machines.

The twin blows followed the now-familiar Allied strategy of splitting the German defences, as the cities lie less than 100 miles apart, one east of the Ruhr and the other south-east.

While the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. heavy bombers were delivering last night's major raid, light Mosquitoes dropped explosives on Hanover, 160 milest west of Berlin, in the second blow at the industrial city it six days. It was raided in force by the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. on Sept. 27.

Three enemy patrol boats in the Boreaux area were damaged, mines were scattered through enemy shipping lanes and a Junker-88 was shot down by still other Mosquitoes ranging the French channel coast.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Oct. 4 (AP). —War correspondents were ordered yesterday by the United States Army to stop going ahead of combat troops. The order said such expeditions meant taking unjustified risks.

Allies Capture Finschhaffen Hold Huon Gulf

By C. YATES McDANIEL
Associated Press Staff Writer.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, The South-west Pacific, Oct 4 — (AP). —Their last important coastal supply base gone and their land flank beset by a column of Australian troops, the Japanese on New Guinea's Huon Peninsula to-day were squeezed between the mountains and the sea.

The enemy's position, Allied Headquarters said in a communique was futile if not untenable, and the Allies had every reason to believe the entire North-eastern New Guinea shoreline as far as Madang was within grasp.

Finschhaffen, the major enemy anchorage and air station on the eastern coast of the Huon Peninsula fell Saturday to Australia's famed 9th Division, battle-hardened veterans of Tobruk and El Alamein.

That in itself assured the Allies final control of the Huon Gulf, on which Lae and Salamaua are situated.

But through a simultaneous air and ground advance, pressed persistently up the Markham River from Lea and over the mountains of interior New Guinea to Ramu River Valley on the north-west, the Allies have achieved dominance of the entire peninsula as well.

Madang, former capital of German New Guinea, lies nearly 200 miles north-west of Finschhaffen. Thus, in less than three weeks since the fall of Lae September 16, Allied forces have come close to clearing the Japanese from a strip of New Guinea coastline nearly as long as that taken in the preceding seven months' slow advance from Buna to Salamaua. Losses have been "extraordinarily light."

made spectacular gains, other 8th Army forces pushed to the north-western edge of the Foggia plain and occupied the town of Motta, 28 miles northwest of Foggia, a communique announced. The communique did not say when the town was taken.

Take Many Towns

The communique also announced the occupation of Montimiletto, 11 miles southeast of Benevento, on the flank of the 5th Army column which reached and crossed the Calore.

Other towns and villages taken within the Allied line stretching across Italy included Castelfranco, 20 miles northwest of Benevento.

In the inland push to the west from the Foggia plain the 8th Army also occupied Roseto, Vollarino and Alberona, all south of Motta, and Pierta and Montecorvino, northwest of Motta.

Rain still falling in the Naples area yesterday impeded the 5th Army's drive beyond the city where essential services and food supplies were being organized by Allied forces to relieve the dangers of famine and epidemics.

But the weather did not prevent Allied Air Forces from going out to impede the German retreat.

British and Canadian Wellingtons during the night blasted the freight yards at Civitaveochia, north of Rome, where they saw smoke and flame and a series of blue flashes from 4,000-pound bomb hits in the railway yards and electrical installations. Civitavecchia is the nearest port of any importance to Rome.

Six Airmen Are Killed In Plane Crash

By The Canadian Press

There were 19 fatalities in eastern Canada during the week-end, more than twice the number of the previous week-end. Seven were killed in traffic accidents, six in a plane crash, four coal miners were killed when they fell down an elevator shaft, one death was listed as "justifiable homicide" as a policeman shot a fleeing man, and one man died in a fall.

The plane crash occurred at Sidney, N.S., Sunday, killing six fliers. Next-of-kin have been notified and names will be issued shortly. Four miners at a Glace Bay, N.S., colliery were killed on Saturday in a 500-foot fall when the lift on which they were travelling was jolted by an obstruction. The four were Albert Chipman 56, Thomas Foley 64, James Stevenson 50, and Carl Adamson 26.

A man identified as Marshall Everett Adamson of Montreal died in hospital after being shot Saturday by a Montreal police officer as he and three other men fled to avoid police questioning. A coroner's jury exonerated the officer, saying the shooting as "justifiable homicide."

In Montreal on Saturday, Adelard Poisson, 24, a bread truck driver, was crushed under his overturned vehicle after it collided with a milk truck. Frederick J Rogers, 70, of Ottawa, died in hospital on Saturday from injuries suffered when he walked into the side of a moving automobile.

A collision between a bicycle and an automobile was responsible for the death in Buttonville, Ont., of Douglas P. Walton, 15, who was riding on the bicycle handlebars.

A. Colby Wyatt, 65, of Cornwall, Ont., died in hospital on Sunday from head injuries suffered when struck by a truck the day before. Struck by an automobile, Leida Marie Redman, 3, of London, suffered fatal injuries. John MacLean, 58, died in hospital Sunday of injuries suffered last Wednesday when struck by an automobile in a Toronto suburb.

Payne Captures Golf Title In Close Game

After playing 68 holes of excellent golf to decide who would be champion of the Peterborough Golf and Country Club for the year 1943, Bob Abbott and Stan Payne found themselves all square. On the 69th, Payne went one up and the players halved the last three holes, giving Mr. Payne the championship.

It was a beautiful day for golf and a large gallery followed the shotmakers about the course, enjoying both the golf and the scenery.

Both players started out with confidence, Mr. Abbott hitting his usual long ball and Mr. Payne playing a very canny game about the greens. On the third hole Mr. Abbott hit a prodigious ball of such length that it carried to the top of the hill before the green, leaving him a very short chip shot to the pin, but no luck, no birdie, although Bob won the hole.

At the end of the morning round of 18 holes the fifty-fourth in the match, found the score all square, and in the afternoon round it looked as if these two gentlemen would go on like that indefinitely. Then things began to happen, first one player would falter a little, then the other would make a mistake and lose a hole, but never was there more than one hole difference at any time, even when the last hole was reached Stan Payne was only one hole up, but that was enough to carry off the honors. During the morning round both players went out in 38's and came back with 42's for even 80's, another coincidence. The afternoon round was scored as follows:

Out—
S. Payne .... 535 344 464—38
R. Abbott .... 534 364 564—40
In—
S. Payne .... 464 545 355—41

Fire Chief Finds Good Discipline In School Drill

In one sentence Fire Chief George Gimblett paid tribute to the teachers and pupils of the city schools at noon today on completion of fire drill tests in all of the buildings.

"The discipline was excellent" the Chief said, and this coming from a man who spent several years overseas in the last war and is noted as a strict disciplinarian with his men, spoke volumes. It was apparent, the head of the fire department was extremely well pleased with the performances that greeted him as he strode unannounced into each of the schools and sounded the alarm which started the pupils for the exits in orderly array.

A reporter who accompanied the Chief and Electrician Joe Astles, to the Immaculate Conception school in Ashburnham stood in the hall and saw the trial. There wasn't a hitch, in the exercise that indicated careful and painstaking training, and the small girls and boys filed from the two buildings like soldiers on parade, spacing off in formation in front of the school, and at a signal from Fireman Astles indicating No. 2 building was cleared, the thumb popped down on the stop-watch.

"58 seconds in perfect order" was the Chief's comment, and this means 210 pupils from tiny tots to entrance class.

No Pushing

At King George school all was quiet as the Chief walked into a lower hall and sounded the three bells, in series of three which is the accepted signal. Ushers flung open doors on all sides of the big building and stood there holding the doors as the pupils filed out accompanied by teachers. There was no running, no pushing, no talking, and in a matter of seconds the various classes were drawn up in straight lines outside the building.

"One minute, four seconds, for 420 pupils" said the chief, adding "and that's mighty good time." Two more bells and the pupils returned to their classes, the ushers closing the doors as the last pupil filed in, to complete a trial that was a credit to the staff.

"The two you saw are just typical of all the schools," said Chief Gimblett, "I am very well satisfied with the results."

Following are the schools, number of pupils and the time taken to clear the occupants from the buildings. In the case of St. Peter's High School and Collegiate it must be remembered that they have larger buildings to clear, St. Peter's being one storey higher than any other in the city. The Collegiate students made remarkable time, considering almost one thousand attend there.

Nazi Toehold In Caucasus Slipping Off

Russians Sink Troopships In Kerch Strait

LONDON, Oct. 4—(CP)—German troops were threatened with the loss of their last tenuous toehold in the Caucasus today as the Red Army drove them back from Staro-Tamanaskaya on the Taman peninsula, while on the upper Dnieper River the Nazis fought furiously to block a Russian flanking movement aimed at Mogilev.

The announcement of the fall of Staro-Tamanskaya was made by the Berlin radio, and the full extent of the German collapse in the Caucasus was indicated in a Russian communique last night which told of the sinking of a number of troop-laden ships which apparently were attempting to evacuate the remnants of the shattered German Army across the narrow Kerch Strait to the Crimea.

On the central front, Moscow said, more than 2,000 Nazis were killed as the Russians stormed across the Pronya River, 28 miles east of Mogilev, to occupy 70 villages in a manoeuvre which threatened to turn the German flank in that sector.

Advance On Gomel

South of Mogilev the Russian columns advancing on Gomez found their assaults slowed by the Germans, who launched numerous counter-attacks all of which the Russian communique said were repulsed with German losses of more than 1,200. The Russians advanced from three to five miles and captured 20 villages.

The Russians were apparently stalled at the Dnieper River barrier in the vicinity of Kiev and Dnepropetrovsk to the south, and the Soviet communique told only of reconnaissance and heavy artillery fire.

It was apparent that the Russians were preparing a major effort to hurl the Germans out of the Caucasus and trap, if possible, the remaining Nazi forces concentrated in the Crimea.

Soviet airmen blasted Dzhankoi junction in the heart of Crimea, causing 25 explosions in German freight trains.

The station is on the line running northwest of Kherson, the only escape route remaining open to the Nazis.

Cheque Artist Visits Cobourg

COBOURG, Oct. 4.— (ENS). — Jack Primeau, local men's clothier, was the victim of the same cheque artist who has been passing bad cheques in other parts of the province. The line used by the cheque artist was to buy some clothing under the value of $25, present a cheque for $25 and get some of the amount in change. The cheque in each instance was made out to "J. L. Parent" and bore the heading of J. B. Moulton Co., 1480-1488 Ontario street, Winnipeg, a fictitious firm.

On September 16, the cheque artist made purchases totalling $18 at Primeau's store, took some of the goods and ordered the rest to be sent to an Ottawa address. He took seven dollars in cash.

On Saturday Primeau learned that the cheque was no good and also that the Ottawa address was a phony.

Steeple Removed.

The steeple of Cobourg Baptist church, which caught fire last summer when struck by lightning and was partly destroyed, had been removed down as far as the bricks. The top of the tower has now been finished off and presents a very neat appearance. Rev. France, minister of the church, along with some of the male members of the congregation, with the professional help of two carpenters, were responsible for the removal of the steeple and the capping of the tower.

Fred Monnell of Cobourg, gunner in an anti-aircraft battery overseas, was the first Cobourg boy to be a patient of No. 18 General Hospital, the unit which trained here during the summer.

Canadian Gun Gift To Monty's Men

Four months ago, the 20,000 employees of the Inspection Board of the United Kingdom and Canada, through their War Services Fund, donated a $4,300 Canadian-built 6-pounder anti-tank gun to the British 8th Army. The weapon was presented to Col. D. M. W. Smith, of the British Army Staff in Canada, at a ceremony held in the Montreal arsenal where the gun was built. A few weeks later, it landed in North Africa, and was promptly handed over to a Troop of the Queen's Royal Regiment, as a reward for the best day's shooting between El Alamein and Tunis. When Rommel made an unsuccessful attempt to break out from the Mareth Line last March, he lost 50 tanks. Of these the Queen's knocked out 27, and the gun-winning troop bagged eight. Photo shows the gunners standing proudly at attention during the ceremony which included the presentation of the Military Medal to two of their comrades. The Canadian 6-pounder, complete with nameplate, is now one of their most cherished possession.

No Ulterior Purpose Reeve Replies

In a comment Saturday on the city council's sharpness of criticism of the North Monaghan course of consulting first the Department of Municipal Affairs about some extension of the area for proposed annexation, Reeve M. H. Johnston said the township had no intention of slighting the city.

"They all know, and especially Aldermen Gordon and Bradburn, that you have got to get the approval of the Department. We had done that as far as the main area under consideration, but this other bit was something that came up more recently. What would be the use of mentioning it to the city council if we hadn't got the approval of the Department? It would be a waste of time and thought, and the city would be the first to tell us that, may be.

However, once we got the favorable opinion of the Department we could bring the matter to the attention of the city council at any time, and that is the position we are in. This matter is still in the preliminary stage. Neither group in the joint committee is in a position to report back to its council. I think we can be trusted not to try to put anything over the city council.

Voices Of Free Italy

At present Italy is suffering dire physical agony, but her mind is free. Her scholars, her thinkers, her great men are now free to speak their minds. What they say is a warning against Fascism which should last for a thousand years.

Now that Naples is in Allied hands Benedetto Croce, the greatest of living Italian philosophers, is able to give his opinion of the Fascist regime, and it is of unusual value, for at one time Croce was a convinced Fascist. Fascism offered ideals and a program of action to a sadly demoralized Italy, and for a time it seemed that the new regime would bring the old country back to life. But after a few years Croce saw that not life, but death, would come from Fascism, for it was a regime of vulgar opportunism, a worship of force, and it could only be kept going by force and opportunism. In its beginning it promised a decentralization of bureaucracy and free trade to Italy; it was soon obvious that a stronger bureaucracy than ever and severe restrictions were all that Fascism could bring to Italy. Croce is now able to tell us how he saw his early dream crumble to dust, and with it the country and the city which he loved.

Croce remained in Italy. Other men who saw what Fascism would bring fled that country. Count Carlo Sforza, who is now so much in the news, left Italy in 1924. He held the same view as that other great Italian exile, who died recently, Guglielmo Ferrero, that a regime which was founded upon adventure and force would in time succumb to force. Their belief was that a government which was imposed upon a people, and which did not derive its power freely from that people, would in the end be driven to war in order to provide a distraction from the discontents of the people. That is precisely what happened to the regime of Benito Mussolini.

The Mussolini regime deceived many people, particularly visitors from this continent. In North America, where there is a great deal of general education but very little real scholarship or understanding, we know little of the lessons of history, and have a pathetic belief in anything which "works". Fascism seemed to "work", and the fact that it was founded on an unsound and frequently disproved principle did not disturb us. There were even those who thought that a similar regime would do good here. But the prediction of Sforza and Ferrero has come true; Fascism fell because it was an opportunist philosophy of government.

The fall of Fascism demonstrates the old, but neglected truth: good ends cannot be achieved by bad means, for the means shape the ends. Force and brutality cannot bring peace and greatness, for the seeds of peace and greatness are not in them. Do we know this as thoroughly as we should in Canada? Our history is a short one, and we have had no great national trials as yet. If we are wise we will remember the Italian debacle, and avoid Fascist stupidity, at any rate.

Salvage And Self-Help

The Hon. Mr. Howe has told us that owners of motor cars may now have their tires re-treaded with camelback rubber, and that they will not need a tire ration permit for this work. This is good news, certainly. How does it come about?

It has been made possible by the excellent work of the men and women and boys and girls who have given their time to salvaging old rubber. There are more than two thousand salvage committees in the Dominion, and they have all been working faithfully and steadily to beat the rubber shortage. Mr. Howe's announcement is a recognition of their first important success.

Synthetic rubber is now beginning to take an important place in our economy, but so far it is needed for military use exclusively. And so, although it is possible to have tires re-treaded, there is still a shortage of rubber for manufacturing necessary new tires. The salvage committees have not finished their job by any means.

If you are glad that you can now have your tires re-treaded, you may thank your local salvage committee for it. Better still, give them a hand. Salvage and self-help are closely allied in this war.

The Loss Of The St. Croix

The loss of the destroyer St. Croix is a heavy blow to the Royal Canadian Navy. It comes as a greater shock to us now than it might have done two years ago, for we have come to think of the Atlantic as being once more perfectly within our control, and the absence of shipping losses during the past four months confirmed us in that belief. But the St. Croix was lost in a three-day battle with a German submarine pack which cost us dear in men and ships. It is a stern reminder that Germany, now desperate, will intensify her submarine warfare to the utmost of her ability.

The loss of all but one of the destroyer's complement is bad news indeed. Canada has had long experience of the bitterness which comes with the loss of her sons in land battles; loss at sea is less familiar to us. Not one of the 146 men lost on the St. Croix will go unmourned, but there will be general sympathy, we feel, with the Prime Minister in the loss of his nephew, Surgeon-Lieutenant W. L. M. King, who was known to be very dear to him. Members of the Dominion Cabinet have had their full share of the sorrows which this war has brought.

This winter we must look for an intensification of U-boat warfare. It is clear that attacks on our lifelines are good defence for Hitler's fortress of Europe. The battle will be ruthless and may bring us other heavy losses. But there can be no doubt about the outcome, and the people of Canada know fully how much the sacrifice of the St. Croix and her men has done to assure that victory.

Don't Forget The V.A.D.

The Voluntary Aid Detachments are now an integral part of the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps nursing service, and are doing fine work in military hospitals in Canada. But because the other women's services have attracted so many of the young women who might otherwise have turned to nursing, the St. John Ambulance Brigade is making a special appeal for girls to undertake this work. They do not do this because there is a shortage of nurses in our military hospitals, but they do point out that there is a serious shortage of graduate nurses for service in civilian hospitals; unless there are more V.A.D.s for the military work, yet more nurses will have to be called from civilian service, and the present difficult situation will be made worse.

For any girls who is thinking of entering one of the women's services, and who has a bent toward nursing, the V.A.D. presents a good opening. Girls and women between 18 and 44, without dependents, are wanted; they will first be required to take a St. John Ambulance First Aid course, and either a Red Cross or a St. John Home Nursing course. Then, after three months' probation, they will sign army attestation papers.

The need is great. The local St. John organization will be glad to give detailed information to anyone who is interested.

Don't Make a Labour Of It

How are you keeping up with your letters to men in the services? Those letters mean more to them than parcels, or special privileges, or any other good thing which fate may bring them. Don't allow your letters to them to fall away in number; don't let the week between letters grow to two weeks, and then to a month, and then to an irregular dribble of letters, running to three or four in a year. Letters from friends and relatives at home do more for the morale of fighting-men than any other single thing.

But it may be that you find letter-writing laborious. Perhaps you have all your good ideas when you are busy at something else, and when you sit down to write you find that your mind has gone blank. If that is so, why try to write your letters all in one piece? Why not put pads of paper and pencils about the house in handy places, so that when a good idea strikes you, you can jot it down at once, with all its freshness and with all the details as you want them? Then, when the day for posting comes, gather up your notes from all over the house, put them in an envelope, and your letter is ready. The letters you write in this way are likely to be far more vivid and genuinely interesting than the ones you write all in one piece, at a time, perhaps, when you are tired and unable to write as entertainingly and as fully as you could wish. Try the note plan anyway, and see how it works. The main thing is to keep the men in the services well supplied with letters, and we have suggested one way of doing it which prevents letter-writing from being a labour, and consequently a thing to be avoided.

Farming News and Views

By
HON. DUNCAN MARSHALL

"FOOD for Attack!" This is the call going out in Britain at the present time from the Ministry of Food and it is one in which the Canadian farmer has both an interest and a part. Lord Woolton says many people are writing him to say that if the food popsition is so good, why cannot they have some more? In return the minister says the supply of bread is unrestricted for which all should be supremely thankful, but this can only be maintained by large quantities of cereals from overseas. While the war lasts, he says, any Island as densely populated as Britain, remains in danger on the food front, in spite of the magnificent efforts of the home farmers and vegetable growers, as they still have to depend upon other countries for a large part of their food supplies. We are now planning for attack, he added, and that means we must build up stocks of food over and above a safe margin for civilian consumption. Canada must play an important part in this food supply and the efforts of the farmers here in providing bacon, cheese, beef and wheat have been more than substantial. Ontario suffered this year as farming has rarely, if ever, suffered in this province from weather conditions. There is only one way to partially overcome this and that is to plan to make a farming effort that will give this province a banner crop for 1944. Plans cannot always be carried out, but if plans are not made the results cannot be achieved. We may be said to have reached the hill-top in the war, we cannot say now what the cost in blood shall be as our armies descend upon the enemy, but let every farmer resolve that he will play a full part in providing sustaining food in this critical year.

There has been too little moisture, in some places, for fall wheat to get much growth, and in old sections it is not even sprouting. Some parts of Oxford County have not had enough rain. Weather has been cool and there is some fear of wheat having hardly top enough to go into winter. Grass is abundant for fall pasture and it is to be hoped that winter will hold off and give the cattle and sheep a good while yet in the fields. There is grass enough so it will not be eaten off too close, as the kind of winters we have in Ontario demand some protection for grass roots.

THE western crop will be quite fair but will fall short, to a very considerable extent, of last year's yield. The raising of the guaranteed price of wheat from 90c to $1.25 per bushel for No. 1 Northern at Fort William was due as wheat is at a better world price and was not on a par in price with almost every other food product. Barley was increased 15c per bushel and oats 10c but as this is taken care of by a subsidy it will not increase the price to the Ontario farmer for feed grain and this means much to the feeders of hogs and cattle during the coming winter.

There has been some damage to grain in the west from frost, which will result in a loss in yield, and oats in the Northern districts may suffer from loss of germination so that next spring's seed will have to be carefully tested, something, of course, which should not be neglected in any year.

Several estimates of the wheat yield of Western Canada are made each year. Of four estimates made this autumn the lowest is 270,000,000 bushels and the highest is 285,000,000 bushels. An average of the four estimates amounts to 277,500,000 bushels. A great many estimates of last year's crop were made and from time to time changed. Even after threshing there were a number of calculations made which were not very accurate, running to 600,000,000 bushels, but the Dominion Bureau of Statistics now figures last year's yield at 528,000,000 bushels. This year's yield does not promise to be much over one half of that.

FLOUR produced in Canada during the crop year 1942-43 has amounted to 23,549,707 barrels. This is the largest output of flour in Canada in any one year. Great Britain has recently negotiated the purchase of million tons of flour. The milling of this flour here leaves the offal in Canada which makes much needed feed for livestock.

If you have a substantial depth of top soil it would be a good plan to plough fairly deep this fall. There will be quite a lot of grass and a considerable amount of weeds to bury. If weeds have gone to seed and the seeds have been sprouted by early cultivation, it will be well to have a good depth of loam on top of the green stuff you have to turn under. Following a year like this some fresh soil brought up should help the next crop and, if in clay land, there is a hard surface at the usual ploughing depth, it will help to break it up. A plough is the most useful implement you can have this autumn.

IF you have to lay off ploughing the odd wet day, spend the time in the stable making preparations for winter. You should be ready to put the cattle in at the first rough storm. Where beasts are accustomed to good winter quarters it is well not to let them suffer from the first storms. Where cows are milking it is more important. Young cattle will do with a little shelter, but if you are ready to tie your cattle up at the first severe weather you will save feed. If cattle begin to lose flesh before they are housed it is troublesome to bring them back if winter follows early. There are a great many stables in Ontario, fitted so as to offer comfortable winter quarters for cattle and everything should be in readiness to get them in out of the first storm. One must be forehanded in his farm work if he is to avoid losses, and the loss of flesh at the beginning of winter is a serious loss.

In winter rations for cattle and pigs we are likely to be fairly short of protein and a farmer should endeavour to provide for this ahead of time. Flax has not been a good crop and linseed meal will be scarce. Soybeans are not likely to yield well and frost came early. There seems to be a fair supply of soybeans on the market and one cannot buy it too quickly. A fair supply of feed rich in protein should be stored against a need before spring. Good, well saved green alfalfa will be worth having. Proteins are needed to keep young animals growing, to keep grown animals in health and to repair body tissue where it is wasted by an unhealthiness. Peas and beans are rich in protein but quite expensive though we must have protein for our growing animals, and we must expect to pay fairly stiff prices for it this year. Mineral feed must also be supplied to our young animals. Bone meal, ground limestone and salt are essential. Bone meal is getting scarce. Most of the packing plants put up good mineral feed, and it is usually sold under the name of a standard product that is reliable. The main thing this year is to purchase feed of this kind early. Lay in a stock to last on and during the winter is a bad time to run short of something that is growing scarcer all the time. We have suffered little or no inconvenience in Canada as a result of war conditions, and it is much wiser to provide ahead than to complain later.

"DEAD STICK LANDING"

Why Petrillo Wins

(NEW YORK TIMES)

ONE of the phonograph record companies has succumbed in large part to Mr. Petrillo's demands. It has signed a four-year contract with him agreeing to pay fees on every record it sells, ranging from one-quarter of a cent on records selling for 35 cents to 5 cents on a $2 disk. It has still not been made entirely clear to whom these fees are to be paid. According to earlier reports they were to be paid to the musicians actually engaged in making the recordings. It was understood that the musicians, in turn, would be taxed by the Petrillo union to aid its unemployed members. Later reports, however, are that the fees will be paid by the record company direct to the union and not to the musicians making the disks.

Either of these arrangements would be unsound in principle, though the second would be the worse. In either case Mr. Petrillo would be levying a private tax—in one case on employers, in the other on members of his own union. The second arrangement would be unobjectionable if the members of his union were in fact as well as theory merely voluntary members free to remain with or to leave the union as they saw fit. But their membership is, in fact, obligatory. Through the irresponsible powers that Mr. Petrillo is free to exercise under existing law a musician, no matter how competent, can be effectively prevented from making a livelihood unless he is a member of the Petrillo union. Nevertheless, the membership of the union would presumably retain at least a nominal control over the funds that they were forced to turn into its treasury.

If the fees on record sales are to be paid directly to the Petrillo union, however, the resulting situation would be much worse. In that case Mr. Petrillo would be levying his private tax on employers. At best he would be administering a private system of unemployment relief. But there would be no public control whatever of the manner in which he used these funds. If only a small part of the funds actually went for paying unemployed musicians, if the bulk of them were used instead to increase the salaries or expense accounts of Mr. Petrillo and other union leaders, neither the record companies nor the consuming public that ultimately paid this private excise tax through higher record prices would have anything to say about the matter. If Mr. Petrillo can succeed in getting this principle established, he will render himself and his fellow union leaders financially independent even of the members of their own unions.

It would be lacking in clarity of thought to put the primary blame for the resulting situation either on Mr. Petrillo personally or on any record company that succumbs to his terms. The primary blame must be placed on the Administration and Congress, who, by their official labour policy, have placed in the hands of labour leaders the private irresponsible powers which enable them to drive such anti-social bargains.

Kuwait From The Outside

THE pleasantest of all the things one can do in Kuwait is to treat it as its inhabitants do—as a town to be got outside of.

Everyone has tents, and P. A. had his pitched—after several sunset expeditions to decide—on a low rise between the bay and the sea; so that each open door showed a blueness of water, and even in the white-hot day a breeze came wandering through. The lighthouse was on the headland below—an ugly useful little black modernity: and beside it a few boats so old, they must have been the first of all craft that ever floated—older, one would say, than even speech or cooking. They are called hurjia, and made of the long centre ribs of palm leaves tied together at bow and stern; with shorter palm fronts put across inside and a second bottom laid lengthwise like the first a foot or two above it: so that in the open trellis work the water moves deeper or shallower according to the weight inside but never much above the second floor; and a sail on the slanting wand completes the outfit. No paint, nails, or caulking are needed: the ancient craft, the colour of dead seaweed, lie about on a tidal rim of small pink shells and watch the weekly steamers pass....

In the distance, Kuwait and its bay looked definite and small, like some early water-colour landscape. The heat was clean and strong, made of pure air and salt water; it lay on the tent heavy as a royal cloak and gave a luminous quality to the shadows inside. The servants came at intervals barefooted, in long gowns, with clinking cups of coffee. And in the sunset we would drive home. The town shone before us; its gatehouse caught the light; its walled security made the desert seem more open around it, with vivid green patches of corn that, for want of rain, seldom ripen, near the wells of the town; and every day afresh it seemed incredible that something so perfect and so remote still tangibly exists in this world.

In the sandy dust of unpaved streets the black-gowned Beduin girls sit, enjoying their leisure; the whitewashed houses as the light fades take on pastel tints rich and strange; the sea lies in pans of cold and lovely light in its small harbour; rimmed with black walls like the Beduin's eyes with khol: and beyond them the line of the outer sea is already dark with night. —From "Baghdad Sketches," by Freya Stark. (New York: Dutton.)

Unplanned Empire

Lord Elton in a recent radio talk speaks eloquently of "unintentional" Empire-builders. He points out that the Empire was not made by governments or committees of planners. The navy may have enabled it to take root and grow; but what really built the Empire was the spirit of adventure.

"They crossed the seas for trade, for freedom to worship according to their lights, for land, for careers, for exploration, but very seldom in order to fight and almost never in order to enlarge the British Empire." That is the bare truth.

The Honourable East India Company were merchant adventurers and Clive just one of their employes. Drake was an adventurer so was Captain John Smith who sustained the first Virginia settlers through their early trials. There were the Pilgrim Fathers, Livingston the missionary, "Mungo Park and the discovery of the sources of the Nile, Sir John Neill and the ending of slavery in Zanzibar, Rajah Brooke and the throne of Sarawa."

"The British Empire indeed grew as a sort of unintentional by-product of the adventurous enterprise of its citizens.... The war has shown that the spirit of adventure burns as brightly as ever among our people."

These are all truths which the sound Imperialist may well repeat and emphasize. The Empire is the natural outcome of the Briton's spirit of adventure and not the product of any government's policy to acquire and exploit. Authentic history proves that, but enemies often distort history. An unprejudiced view of what the Empire is now, how it has held together and withstood all shocks are the most solid proofs of unintentional glory.—St. John Telegraph Journal.

Trail Blazer

A high-voltage "trail blazer" that cuts an electric path through air has been developed by C. L. Denault, Westinghouse engineer, to speed welding of the delicate aluminum and alloy steels used in warplane construction. The stabilizer produces electricity which has a high voltage, or electrical pressure, changes its direction of flow many thousands of times a second, leaps from the tip of the welding rod to the airplane metal to be welded and literally knocks electrons off the atoms of gas in the air. When the air is in this condition it conducts electricity more easily. Until the stabilizer was developed, electric welding of plane parts required great skill. Low currents had to be used to prevent burning of the thin metals, and this made it difficult for the welding operator to start the electric arc and keep it glowing. The stabilizer makes it easy to hold an arc, a boon to newly trained employes.—New York Times.

A Bible Message

And when Jesus departed thence, two blind men followed him, crying, and saying, Thou son of David, have mercy on us. And when he was come into the house, the blind men came to him: and Jesus saith unto them, Believe ye that I am able to do this? They said unto him, Yea, Lord. Then touched he their eyes, saying, According to your faith be it unto you. And their eyes were opened; and Jesus straitly charged them, saying, See that no man know it.

But they, when they were departed, spread abroad his fame in all that country. As they went out, behold, they brought to him a dumb man possessed with a devil. And when the devil was cast out, the dumb spake: and the multitudes marvelled, saying, It was never so seen in Israel....

And Jesus went about all the cities and villages, teaching in their synagogues and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing every sickness and every disease among the people. (Matt. 9: 27-33, 35.)

Who Won The Two-Pant Battle?

Two-pant suits are back and a lot of people, including men who never bought two-pant suits, feel triumphnat; feel that the citizenry has just won a great battle against W.P.T.B.

Unfortunately, few ask themselves what they would have been wearing without the W.P.T.B. and its regulations. Few compare the quality and price of clothes this war and the last. Few compare their suits with the frayed and patched peacetime relics which are general in Britain.

The clear and usually overlooked truth is that W.P.T.B. is the consumer's friend; fighting his battle to get a share of available supplies at moderate price; trying, on the civilian's behalf, to see that he gets his just and necessary share and that the armed services don't get more than theirs.

Very obviously, the more supplies the W.P.T.B. can get, the easier its problems of rationing, distribution, price control. The fewer the restrictions the better its system will work.

No one suffered very greatly because of the two-pant ban. It is gratifying that the ban was lifted as promptly as an improved supply position justified.

So lifting the two-pant ban is no cause for a civilian triumph against the W.P.T.B. It is a W.P.T.B. triumph for civilians.—Financial Post.

"The Residue of the Abnormal"

The residue of the abnormal—chronic idlers, shirkers and obstructors—would be dealt with, along with other mentally unfit persons, in corrective institutions." That is not a quotation from Mein Kampf or from a Gestapo manual—although it might well have been derived from one of those sources. It is contained in one of a series of editorial articles on "Planning Postwar Canada" that have appeared in The Canadian Forum, the high-brow organ of the C.C.F. Party.

"The residue of the abnormal" is particularly good. But it was obviously coined by the delicate hand of a female socialist or a professor of the same ilk, and a humourous interpretation can therefore be dismissed. The same applies to the words "corrective institutions," which is the C.C.F. equivalent for "internment camps." These Canadian socialists are more refined in their terminology than the forthright Nazis, and their corrective methods as applied to "obstructors" of the C.C.F. postwar plan would, presumably, be a form of refined torture.

But there is something to be said for the Nazi method of shooting or chopping off the heads of the obstructors of the National Socialist plannings. It is more business-like and effective, and perhaps more humane. Anyway, the Forum's pronouncement on what will happen to the "obstructors" of the C.C.F. postwar plan should come as a timely warning to "the residue of the abnormal."—The Printed Word.

WAR ON FIRE A COMMON ENEMY!

THIS IS FIRE PREVENTION WEEK!

Fire Losses In Life And Property Is Both Tragic And Unnecessary

All over the Dominion of Canada the week of October 3-9 has been set aside by royal proclamation as Fire Prevention Week, the object of which is to impress upon the public mind the enormous waste to both life and property occasioned by fire and to seek the co-operation of all elements in each community toward the elimination of that waste.

"Tragic and unnecessary" are the words used by the Dominion Fire Commissioner in describing this wasteage. "Every citizen can be a soldier in this campaign by simply being careful with fire." He is asked to discipline himself in his smoking habits, to see that every fire hazard in his home, store or factory is removed and above all to know what to do should a fire start. For every fire is small in its beginnings, but if not combatted quickly and with proper methods there is a chance that each one might reach the proportions of a conflagration.

A Grim Enemy

Once fire catches hold, it has a way with it that can make it as grim an enemy as the enemy Canadian soldiers are battling on fronts far away from home. As examples of the death-toll a holocaust can exact the Cocoanut Grove Night Club fire in Boston in which 491 people lost their lives and the Knights of Columbus Hostel fire in St. John's, Newfoundland, in which 99 lives were snuffed out, are given as happening during 1942.

Canada's loss by fire in that year was 304 lives and over $31,000,000 property damage. "It is easily apparent that something must be done about it,' 'the Fire Commissioner says. "Fire is a disease that annually saps our national wealth and every citizen should resolve to do his bit to wipe out this menace to our happiness and prosperity."

114 Children Died

Of the 304 lives lost in 1942, 114 were children, and figures for the past ten years indicate that very nearly 50% of all lives lost through fire during that period were those of children. The figures show only a slight improvement in recent years over the earlier years, and one of the most tragic reasons for children's deaths has been the frequent starting of fires when children were left by their parents alone in the home. From this cause alone, 27 small children lost their lives in 1942.

Smokers Often to Blame

Most fires are started by smokers' carelessness, and nearly one-third of the fires in Canada last year were of this origin. However, larger losses are caused by a smaller number of fires of the type involving stoves, furnaces, boilers and smoke pipes, and due to defects of electrical wiring and electrical appliances. But far and away the largest category in classifying the origin of fires is that which can only be set aside as "unknown," and this class accounted for over $14,500,000 in 1942.

It is pointed out by the Dominion Fire Commissioner that records show that building construction has a definite bearing on fire losses.

"Structural defects have been responsible not only for outbreaks of fire but also for its spread once it starts. Chief among such defects may be cited chimneys and lack of proper fire stopping. Other contributing factors are combustible roofs, open stairwells, unprotected elevator shafts and beams built into chimneys improperly constructed fire-places, poorly installed heating equipment and incinerators constructed as an integral part of a building are additional sources of danger."

Eliminating Hazards

"All these hazards," the Commissioner goes on to say, "can be overcome by proper building by-laws in a municipality. Today there should be no excuse for a Canadian town or city not having such a by-law, for guidance in such matters can be found in the National Building Code."

In Ontario during 1942 the property value of ramage done by fire was nearly $10,500,000, representing an increase of $1,740,000 over the previous twelve-month period. Three quarters of these fires, it was emphasized, occurred in dwellings of one kind or another.

Fire Prevention Week commemorates the great Chicago fire of 1871, which was one of the most disastrous conflagrations in the history of modern times.

Fire Chief

George Gimblett, chief of the Peterborough Fire Department, whose fire prevention policies have made this city one of the lowest in annual fire losses throughout Canada.

Public Buildings And Factories Be Inspected During The Week

All schools, hospitals, churches, public buildings and factories will be inspected this week by the Fire Department in preparation for the winter season, which is the most disastrous period of the year from the standpoint of fire losses.

This will be done as part of the special effort engaged in by Fire Departments all over the Dominion during the week of October 3-9 to impress upon the public mind the necessity of being fire-conscious. The week has been designated by Royal proclamation as Fire Prevention Week throughout Canada.

Fire Loss Totals $27,260.

"The months from October to April are usually the heavy loss months," it was stated by Fire Chief George Gimblett, and this statement is borne out by figures revealing monthly fire losses from January to September of this year, and last year. Up to the present this year property loss has totalled $27,260, of which the first four months through April accounted for $21,406. Largest loss for a single month was in April, when loss valued in dollars came to $9,560.

Figures for the like period last year tell a similar story. Fire damage amounted to $29,855 in the first nine months of 1942, of which $25,582 was caused during the four first and winter months The big loss was in March of at year. when $16,642 worth of property was destroyed by fire.

300 Lives Lost Annually.

During the past ten years there has been an average of nearly 300 lives lost in fires each year, but Peterboroug has been fortunate in this regard. Since the early 1920's only two have lost their lives in the city, one a child in a fire on Romaine Street in 1923, the other a man in the fire at the Home Lunch Restaurant in 1938.

The inspection to be undertaken this week by the Fire Department will parallel that made a year ago, Fire Chief Gimblett announced, and will include fire drills at hospitals and for the children in the schools.

Back In Big Time Again

LUKE HAMLIN ELWIN ROE

Minor league acquisitions are beginning to be made to bolster the major league clubs as the season nears an end. Among several announced are those of Luke (Hot Potato) Hamlin, former star pitcher of the Brooklyn Dodgers, who has been acquired by the Philadelphia Athletics from Toronto, of the International League, and Pitcher Elwin Roe by the Pirates, from Columbus.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

Winnipeg grid fans were treated to a surprise Saturday when Regina Rough Riders trounced Winnipeg United Services 14-6 for the visitors' first victory of the 1943 season. LAC. Ken Charlton and Sgt. George Cullen, both backfielders, were the scoring stars for Regina while Cpl. Paul Gates, former U.S. football stalwart, was outstanding for the Peggers.

In U.S. football Saturday, Army administered a 42-0 whitewash to Colgate; Dartmouth swamped Coast Guard 47-0; Navy walloped Cornell 46-7; Pennsylvania outdistanced Yale 41-7; Duke ran away from North Carolina Pre-flight 42-0; Great Lakes Naval blanked Pittsburgh 40-0 and Minnesota outclassed Nebraska 54-0—and so on down the lengthy list, with one-sided results predominating.

The Quebec Senior grid loop saw a close match between Navy and Army, with the former edging out a 3-2 decision, while R.C.A.F. ran up a 26-9 count against Verdun.

Among the successful Canadian pilots of the fighter command who bagged nine enemy machines over occupied Europe Sunday was FO. Art Coles of Vancouver who was credited with destroying two Focke-Wulf 190s in separate engagements. Prior to war service, Coles was the Canadian downhill champion in ski-racing.

3 Senior Teams

The Saskatchewan Amateur Hockey Association will operate this season with three senior teams, Flin Flon Bombers, Saskatoon Navy and Yorkton R.C.A.F., and five Junior clubs, it was announced at the annual meeting at Moose Jaw Sunday night.

The O.B.A. Intermediate "B" final series became deadlocked at one game each Saturday at Camp Borden when Air Force defeated Maidstone Shamrocks 5-4, the Fliers winning in the ninth inning, with two out when PO. Dick Richards scored on Bob Everest's single. The deciding game will be played at Maidstone next Sunday.

The Belmont Futurity at New York on Saturday was copped by Occupy, two-year-old brother of Occupation, juvenile champion of 1942, the Chicago horse leading from start to finish in the mud and earning $55,635 for his afternoon's work. Occupy paid $22.20 for $2, too.

Guelph Loses Championship In Two Straight

OSHAWA, Oct. 4 — (CP). — Oshawa Colts nosed out Guelph Woods 2-1 here on Saturday to sweep the 1943 O.A.S.A. Intermediate A title series in two straight, and thus retain their championship. Yesterday's game was easily the best of the season.

Oshawa's eighth-inning triumph completed an undefeated march through the Ontario playoffs to the title, but it also marked the first time in history of O.A.S.A. Intermediate A competition that the championship has been won two years in succession by the same club.

Alec Zess went to the mound for Guelph as they faced elimination, and the speedy righthander held Soup Campbell's Colts off the score sheet until the seventh inning.

Musial Wins 4 Major Titles

NEW YORK, Oct. 4 —(AP). — Star Musial, star outfielder for the championship St. Louis Cardinals, romped off with four major league titles in the season just concluded and was runnerup for a fifth.

The 23-year-old Donora, Pa., youth topped both leagues in hitting with a .357 average; in getting the most hits, 220; in socking the most doubles, 47; and in lacing out the most triples, 20, in addition to being runnerup to Arkie Vaughan of Brooklyn, in runs scored with 108. Vaughan crossed the plate 114 times.

George Case of Washington swiped five bases in his last two games to break a tie with Wally Moses of the Chicago Sox and again win the major league baseball base stealing championship. Case finished with 61 to 57 for Moses.

Rudy York, Detroit, became the home run king of 1943 by whaling 34 roundtrippers to 31 for Charley Keller, of the Yankees, and 29 for Bill Nicholson, of the Chicago Cubs. Nicholson, however, led both leagues in the runs-batted-in department, getting 128 RBI's.

Luke Appling, of the White Sox, won the American League batting crown for the second time in seven years, but his average of .328 was the lowest in the senior loop in 35 years and far below his own mark of .388 in 1936.

Spud Chandler, of the Yankees, topped the pitchers with 20 victories against four defeats and an earned run average of 1.67. Mort Cooper, of the Cards, was runner-up with 21 wins and eight defeats.

Oshawa Colts swept the intermediate A final series of the Ontario Amateur Softball Association in two straight games from Guelph retaining the title on Saturday at Motor City by taking the Royal City nine into camp by a close 2-1 score. Colts scored a run in the seventh and eighth innings, to overcome the visitors' early tally.

President Bill Veeck of the Milwaukee Brewers, American Association pennant-winners, Saturday announced the sale of Shortstop Tony York to the Chicago Cubs. If York makes the grade next spring the major league club will reimburse Brewers with money and players.

With Wymonds scoring the winning run in the ninth on Kasepchuk's single, Windsor won out from Niagara Falls 6-5 on Saturday to take the O.B.A. Junior A provincial honors. The deciding fixture was contested at Ingersoll.

Local wrestling fans are looking for plenty of excitement tomorrow, Tuesday night when that scowling guerilla of the mat Killer John Katan will battle with Gentleman Jack Clayborne in the main bout on the Tunney weekly card. It is billed as a British Empire elimination contest but we are inclined to the opinion that Katan in particular will not worry much about that so long as he gets a chance to give the Black Comet the works. The Palermo Panther is plenty angry over having to wrestle here. So far as he is concerned he says he beat Clayborne fairly and squarely the last time the two met at Brock Street and he adds that the Peterborough fans are so prejudiced that they could not see a fair fall even when performed right before their eyes. Furthermore Katan asserts that he will beat Black Dynamite so far off this time that even the local followers of the game will have to admit his superiority. Clayborne hasn't been saying much except that he got a raw deal from Referee Bert Maxwell the last time he battled Katan and that he welcomes tomorrow night's chance to get even with the Killer. The two other bouts on the card promise to be equally lively. Everybody can see what is going to happen if Bunny Dunlop starts his usual back-alley stuff on Toar Morgan for the Marine is plenty tough himself and if the Toronto strongman wants to hand it out he'll find Morgan exchanging swing for swing and drop-kick for drop-kick. A new-comer Buster Hayes of Ottawa is Doc Felice's opponent and that looks like another merry argument with a little of everything, even perhaps of wrestling. All in all it sums up like a far-from-quiet evening.

Members of the old Canadian General Electric intermediate O.B.A.A. team should remember today a ball game in which they figured 20 years ago when they pinned back the ears of the Brockville team in the third game of an Ontario intermediate semi-final series. The battle was staged at Napanee and its was played in weather that was far more fit for rugby than baseball, with a cold wind blowing across the field that chilled players and spectators. The conditions were undoubtedly responsible for the fact that the game, important as it was, was very loosely played. The C.G.E. took the verdict 15 to 11 after a battle in which Brockville made eight errors and the winners were responsible for five. Ray Rose who had evened up the series by beating Brockville in the second game in Peterborough after the Easterners had won the first tussle at home, went the first five innings for C.G.E., striking out ten batters but when Lane, big Brockville catcher, leaned on one of Ray's Sunday pitches for a homer in the fifth with the bases loaded Bun Frost took over the pitching duties and held the Easterners safe for the rest of the battle. C.G.E. cinched the affair with a six-run rally in the sixth. The C.G.E. outfit of 20 years ago lined up as follows: Barrie 2b, McCarney cf, Dugan 1b, Rose p, Frost p, Ross c, McPherson rf, Jackson 3b, Hall lf, Rangers ss.

A Battle For Third

Chief interest in the final games of the big leagues played yesterday centred in the battle in each loop for third place, a battle that was not ended until Sunday. In the American League the Chicago White Sox had a chance to move into the third slot if they could bump off the Boston Red Sox twice and the Athletics could stop Cleveland. It was a story book finish. The Pale Hose did their part nobly by grabbing both ends of the double-header with Boston, Bill Dietrich and Orval Grove pitching great ball to give them wins by 4 to 2 and 3 to 1, Dietrich tossed a six-hitter and Grove followed with a four-blow performance. However Cleveland refused to crack and finally by scoring four runs in the 11th inning beat the A's 8 to 4 and made sure of third spot in the league race and third slice of world series money. Pittsburg had a similar chance to cop third place in the National loop but the Phillies soon put a depth-charge under the Pirate hopes. They cut the Corsairs down 3 to 1 in the first half of the double-header on five-hit pitching by Barrett and that was that. The Phillies also took the second half of the twin bill 11 to 3 but that one didn't matter much. The harm had been done in the opening end of the card.

* * * * * *

How difficult it is for a pitcher to climb into the 20-win class in the big leagues is shown by the fact that in the season that closed yesterday only five twirlers, three in the National League and two in the American succeeded in making the grade. And that in the face of the fact that the batting averages in both loops show that that this has been a pitchers' year. The three National Leaguers to get into the select circles are Mort Cooper, ace of the St. Louis Cards, Rip Sewell, the second-storey-ball pitcher of the Pittsburg Pirates and Elmer Riddle, smart heaver of the Cincinnati Reds, each of whom has copped 21 victories. Cooper has the highest percentage with only eight losses. No one in the American League had reached the 21-level but two twirlers Spurgeon Chandler of the New York Yanks and Dizzy Trout of the Detroit Tigers have picked off 20 triumphs. Trout had to wait until the last game of the season to hit the jack-pot. He had 19 wins when he started against the Washington Senators yesterday and he pitched steady, effective ball in keeping nine hits so well scattered that the Tigers took the decision over the second-place Washington club 4 to 1. Trout has had a fine year and fans who follow the big league developments closely will be glad to see that he has finally succeeded in getting into the charmed circle.

* * * * * *

The Big Question

Biggest question mark on the eve of the world series is the pitching selections on both sides and more particularly how the two aces of the rival clubs, both notoriously unlucky in the matter of world series competition are going to fare. Mort Cooper, ace pitcher of the Cards and of the National League, has been a cousin to American League hitters every time he has been tossed in against them. He failed twice in the 1942 series, and he has failed twice in the All-Star games. And yet he is a great pitcher, one of the best of the modern crop. On his record in his own league he should be a winner against the Yanks. Similarly with Chandler. His world series dossier shows that while he has never pitched a bad game in the annual classic, he has yet to win one. The Yanks' No. 1 pitcher has won 20 games as against four losses for the high percentage of .833 and he has allowed but 1.67 earned runs a game all season, a really remarkable showing. Like Cooper his achievements in his own loop calls for a winning performance in the world series. What the two stars will do this time is one of the biggest problems the experts have to solve in trying to dope out the Yanks-Cards clash. As for the other pitchers it looks as if Ernie White, Cardinal left-hander may get a shot at the Yanks again on the strength of his recent performances and Max Lanier is figured as a sure starter. Then Howard Krist or Harry Gumbert might get a chance. For the Yanks in addition to Chandler, Bonham and Russo and possibly Wensloff are figured as most likely starters.

Congratulations and felicitations to Coach Soup Campbell and his Oshawa Colts upon their capture of the O.A.S.A. intermediate A championship for the second year in succession, the first time in the history of the Ontario body that any team has succeeded in winning the title two years in a row. The Colts achieved their triumph Saturday when they nosed out the Guelph Woods 2 to 1 in what must have been the best-played game of the Ontario series. Zess, pitching for Guelph held the winners to five hits and blanked them for the first six innings. Meanwhile the visitors managed to push over a run in the fourth. However, the Colts broke through Zess's service in the seventh for a marker to tie the score and then came back in the eighth with another single counter to take the game and the title. Dean McLaughlin held Guelph to two hits in one of his best pitching exhibitions of the season. After having all kinds of trouble winning their own league the Oshawa team has gone through the provincial playdowns

Heavy Hitting Wins For Kroehlers

STRATFORD, Oct. 4 — (CP) — A single in the ninth inning by Betty Appel, with runners on second and third, netted the winning run in the first game of the Provincial Women's Intermediate Softball Union finals here Saturday, when Stratford Kroehlers defeated Preston Rivulettes 7-6. The return game will be played in Preston next Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, and if a third and deciding game is necessary it will be staged in Preston later the same day.

Hazel Baynton, on the mound for Stratford, allowed but six hits, but her support was shabby, while Ernie Ernst, pitching for Preston, was rapped for a total of 13 hits and was backed up with better support by her teammates.

After Stratford had taken a comfortable lead in the second Preston counted four times in the fourth on two walks, two errors and one single. Stratford again forged ahead in their half of the fourth with three runs in four straight hits, but Preston tied it up with an earned run in the fifth and a cheap one in the eighth when Stratford bobbled two more chances.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—(AP). — Now that the proposed Pacific tour by major league all star teams has received an Arctic response from the War Department, why not take up colleague Whitney Martin's suggestion and start a domestic tour? The entertainment would be welcomed on this side, too; it would hardly place an intolerable burden on the transportation system to move 40 odd men around the country, and if the all-star teams aren't organized now, we suspect they never will be.

Calling His Shot.

When Les Stodalski approached the sixth tee at Pipestone, Minn., golf club the other evening he remarked: "This is going to be the best shot I'll make to-night." Then he whacked the ball, which went down the middle and disappeared in the dusk. Les called to the foursome ahead, asking if they had seen the ball, and one of them strolled over and calmly picked it out of the cup.

Why Do Investors Buy Shares Of New Mining Companies?

First of all, it is important that the following 4 steps in mining be considered:

STEP No. 1 It is one thing to THINK a property can be developed into a mine.
STEP No. 2 It is another thing to have a mine developed and to THINK it can produce.
STEP No. 3 It is another thing to have a mine developed in readiness for production and to THINK that it may produce profitably.
STEP No. 4 It is another thing to have a mine ready for production and to KNOW that profitable production is assured.

The latter or fourth step is as far as one can go before actual profitable production has been started. The first three steps are the most difficult and most hazardous. The fourth step brings the assurance which we all seek. From there, through the final step, is the routine of financing mill construction and the actual start of production on a profitable basis.

Given a choice (at approximately the same price) as to whether to buy into step No. 1, 2, 3 or 4, what reader, investor, speculator or business man would choose anything but step No. 4? It is not often that such an opportunity occurs.

In step No. 4, the risks involved in steps No. 1, 2 and 3 have been eliminated, profitable production is assured and the prospects for growth through greater developments, with corresponding market appreciation, are increased many, many times.

Newcor Mining & Refining has actually completed step No. 4, has an ore reserve of more than a million dollars, and the price of the shares is still on a par with the issue price of many issues which are made on properties that have not yet passed step No. 1! This is not meant to belittle the legitimate undeveloped properties or properties which are not yet developed to where profitable production is assured, but is meant to bring about a proper understanding of what the Newcor offer represents.

When farsighted speculators or investors buy mining shares, they do so in the hope that some day their shares will represent an interest in a profitable producer. Certainly the greatest fortunes in mining have been made by the investors who have purchased and held shares in mines which were brought into profitable production. For example, those who bought and held shares of Lake Shore Mines from the beginning have since received (in dividends alone) more than $90.00 for every single dollar which they had invested. They have, in the meantime, also witnessed a market appreciation of more than $100,000 on every dollar they had invested. Newcor offers certainty instead of hope of profitable production. All that is required now is the mill and refinery, yet the issue price has not been advanced beyond the issue prices of many enterprises which have as yet no real ore reserves.

The Newcor issue price has been conservatively fixed with the view to quickly completing the issue and with the view to eliminating delays in starting production. No more than Twenty dollars in required for an interest. Much larger individual investments have been and are being accepted, but the opportunity is open to all. The issue is not sponsored by underwriters and the proceeds from the sale of the shares go directly to the treasury of the Company.

JOE KROL STARS SPARKING HAMILTON CATS TO WIN OVER BEACHES

Navy Upsets Ottawa By 8-6 Score

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

War restrictions seldom provide impetus to football eminence—but that's what happened to Hamilton Wildcats.

Early this fall. Wildcats almost lost Joe Krol to Detroit Lions, a professional club. Lions even announced that Krol had signed a contract. But just when the long-g:.red Polish backfielder was ready to pack his bags, Selective Service ruled Joe could not travel across the border.

Wildcats reaped the benefits on Saturday as the one-time Windsor, Ont., schoolboy sensation, scoring 15 points and completing 10 of 15 forwards attempted, led Hamilton to a surprise 24-13 victory over Toronto Balmy Beach before 12,000 fans at Varsity Stadium.

Hamilton At Top

The result left Hamilton in first place with three straight victories netting six points two ahead of Beaches and Toronto R.C.A.F. Hurricanes. In the only other Ontario Union contest Saturday, Toronto Navy upset Ottawa Combines 8-6 at Ottawa to shove coach Dave Sprague's club into the cellar with Toronto Indians.

After Walter Gibb's 15-yard placement early in the second quarter of the Toronto game offset a similar effort in the first quarter by Annie Stukus for the Beaches, Krol threw to Jack Burkhart for a touchdown. Krol converted and added a single before half-time. In the third quarter he was good for a touchdown and placement.

Beaches sprang to life briefly in the fourth quarter, counting a placement by Ross McKelvy, Sammy Sward's single and a converted touchdown by Frank Stukus, who gobbled a loose Hamilton lateral and raced 38 yards for the score. But the threat fizzled out when Jimmy Simpson and Eddie Remegis dribbled a loose ball to the Beach five, where Krol entered the picture for his second touchdown.

Had Big Lead

At Ottawa, Navy gained only four first downs against 20 for Combines. On the score sheet it was a different story. After collecting first-half singles by OS. Steve Karrys and OS. Sandy Milne, OS. Bruce Richardson wound up as end man of a 84-yard pass play, romping across for a third-quarter major score which made it 7-0 for Navy. Milne added another single early in the fourth quarter after Combines, driving 47 yards along the ground clicked for a touchdown which George Fraser converted.

Hurricanes didn't lose any of the ground in the won-lost column because they weren't scheduled to play, but they lost some prestige in playing to a 20-20 tie in an exhibition game against University of Western Ontario at London.

Combines Lace Lachine In Semi-Finals

TORONTO, Oct. 4.— Precision paid off for Mimico-Brampton Combines Saturday night at Maple Leaf Gardens as they smothered Lachine R.C.A.F. 20-6 in the first of a two-game series for the right to represent Eastern Canada in the Dominion lacrosse finals in British Columbia.

Superior in all departments, the Ontario Lacrosse Association champions scored early and late behind a cohesive passing attack to carry a 14-goal lead into the second game of the goals-to-count series, scheduled for to-night here.

Last year's Mann Cup champions, Combines, held undisputed sway over the Quebec Lacrosse Association title-holders and after the first period never were threatened. A crowd of 4,046 saw Saturday's game.

Isaacs Starts It.

The Airmen trailed 3-1 going into the second period when the smooth Combine attack became too much for them. Bill Isaacs started the explosion with a goal at 1:17. Pte. Ken Dixon, drafted for the series from Brampton Army Bullets of the Ontario Association, added another less than 20 seconds later. When the smoke finally cleared, Combined led 10-3.

The third period was much the same. Combines dominated the play and added to their lead almost at will. Lachine steadied as the period ended and play was more evenly balanced in the final session.

Dixon, leading scorer in the O.L.A. this season, paced the Combine attack, scoring six goals and two assist. Bill Brunskill scored four goals ior Combines and Bill Isaacs had three goals and an assist.

Stout Defence

The Combine defense quartet of G. Thompson, Whoopee Arthurs, W. Thompson and Ross Gimblett, maintained a stout rear wall the Airmen seldom managed to penetrate.

Charlie Phillips, who scored two goals for Lachine, and Pat Egan, former professional hockey player and a star in the Quebec loop this season were the only consistently effective players for the Quebec team. Both played for Valleyfield Army and joined Lachine for the series.

Lachine R.C.A.F.: Goal, Wheaton; defense, Egan, McKenzie; centre, Nelson; rover, Bulger; forwards, Gillegan; Woods; subs, Anderson, Scott, Phillips, Dunsmore, Langevin, Castonguay, Bourdon, Bourgeon.

Combines: Goal, Harrison; defense, G. Thompson, Arthurs; centre, B. Mullis; rover, Masters; forwards, Dixon, Brunskill; subs, Isaacs, Worthy, J. Mullis, M. Graham, Hayes, W. Thompson, Gimblett.

Victory Star Show Features Walter Pidgeon, Jessica Dragonette And Two-Piano Team

Spectacular entertainment featuring Walter Pidgeon, one of filmdom's top favourites; Jessica Dragonette, "America's Beloved Soprano"; the sparkling two-piano team of Arthur Whittemore and Jack Lowe, with orchestra and choir under direction of Percy Faith, will usher in the new series of Victory Star Shows on Wednesday, October 6th. This will be broadcast over all Canadian stations from 9 to 10 p.m. EDT. and heard locally over CHEX at 9:00 p.m. These eminent stars are donating their talents to take part in this first Victory Star Show broadcast in support of Canada's Fifth Victory Loan.

Walter Pidgeon, who helped put Canada's Third Victory Loan across by visiting leading cities from his home town of St. John, N.B., to Vancouver, B.C., has just completed work on the picture "Madame Curie" in which he again co-stars with Greer Garson. Pidgeon started his career as a "pleasing baritone" for Elsie Janis and subsequently accompanied her to London, England. In 1925, however, he forsook the stage for Hollywood and has, in rapid succession, made several outstanding pictures including the sensational "Mrs. Miniver."

The orchestra and choir under the direction of Canada's own Percy Faith round out this hour of top-flight entertainment. The Victory Star Show will be broadcast from Massey Hall in Toronto over CHEX and the CBC National Network, coast to coast, from 9 to 10:00 p.m. EDT.

Dodgers, Indians Finish Third As Season Ends

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Unlike a year ago when St. Louis Cardinals didn't clinch the National League pennant until the last day of the season, the finale of the 1943 baseball season yesterday decided only third place in both major leagues.

Although beaten by Cincinnati 6-1, Brooklyn Dodgers took third money in the senior loop when the Phillies dealt the fourth place Pittsburgh Pirates a double defeat, 3-1 and 11-3.

Cleveland nosed out the fast closing Chicago White Sox for third in the American League by beating Philadelphia Athletics, 8-4, in 11 innings. The White Sox walloped Boston Red Sox twice, 4-2 and 3-1, for their 15th victory in 18 games, but finished half a game behind the Indians.

Champions Win

The championship St. Louis Cardinals and New York Yankees finished their tune-ups for the world series by again beating the Giants, 5-4 and the Browns, 5-2. This gave the Cards 105 victories for the season, only one less than last year, and marked the first time in 30 years a National League champion has repeated with more than 100 triumphs.

The Yankees wound up with 98 victories, the lowest for the eight American League clubs Joe McCarthy has piloted to a pennant.

Dizzy Trout, of Detroit, pitched the Tigers to a 4-1 victory over Washington and joined Mort Cooper of the Cards; Spud Chandler, of the Yanks; Elmer Riddle, of the Reds; and Rip Sewell, of the Pirates, as the only 20-game winning pitchers for the season.

Chicago Cubs and Boston Braves divided a twin bill, the Cubs winning the opener, 7-0, on Hi Bithorn's four-hit pitching and the Braves the nightcap, 5-2.

Thus ended America's second wartime campaign, begun in doubt in the spring, but winding up a distinct success despite the loss of such stars as Joe DiMaggio and Ted Williams to the armed services.

TORONTO, Oct. 4.—(CP).—Montreal Canadiens and Detroit Red Wings both announced their practices will be at night this year because of the large number of players on war work. Thirteen of the junior players Saskatoon Quakers were counting on for this season have moved elsewhere. Eight have gone to the Detroit camp and, if they fail to make the grade with Red Wings, probably will line up with Galt juniors. One has gone to Chicago Black Hawks, one to Oshawa Generals and three have enlisted. In addition three juveniles who might have moved u pto Quakers have gone to Stratford.

Hey, Jack!

The Sudbury Rotary Club wrote Manager Jack Adams urging that Red Wings train for the hockey season at Sudbury. The letter read like a Florida travel booklet in its descriptions of Sudbury attractions and it wound up with: 'Blond dietitians to supervise your menus, understanding nurses to heal the injured and attractive brunette hostesses to inspire the boys in the recreation hours may be taken for granted....If you turn down this invitation you're nuts."

Opinions.

Bus Haugh, noted softball and basketball star of cross-Canada experience, says the rest of Canada never will achieve regular success against west coast basketball teams. "It's simply a matter of climate. In winter the rest of Canada plays hockey while the west coast, with no ice, concentrates on basketball," Hough told Herb (Winnipeg Tribune) Manning....Ivan Temple, Victoria hockey official, says high-class service teams have spoiled coast hockey fans for an inferior brand after the war. He contends inferior professional or senior amateur hockey will not be patronized on the coast again and suggests the solution is junior hockey with its lightning headlong play. Temple would have major league clubs place farm teams on the coast with players imported from the prairies.

Incidentally:

Joe Shack, who finished last season with New York Rangers, now works in a Montreal war plant ....Tommy Moore of the Hamilton Spectator says George Grigor, the Toronto amateur product, will receive $5,000 for his first year of professional hockey with Chicago Black Hawks. Apparently the majors are willing to pay plenty for a militarily-exempt player.

Columbus Clips Syracuse Wins 1st Game

SYRACUSE, N.Y., Oct. 4 (AP). —Holding a one-game lead in the 1943 Little World Series, the Columbus Red Birds will fire tonight with southpaw Erwin (Preacher) Roe as they attempt to make it six straight over the Syracuse Chiefs.

The team now laboring under a five game jinx to the Red Birds, having lost last year's series in the last four consecutive encounters.

The Ohioans won 2-0 yesterday afternoon as Ted Wilks rationed six singles among the International Leaguers; repeating a victory he won over Syracuse last year when the Association club dropped the opening contest and won four straight.

Wilks was opposed on the mound by Millard (Dixie) Howell and both hurlers turned in good performances. Howell limited the Birds to five hits—three of them doubles— struck out seven and walked three. Wilks fanned five and issued only one base on balls.

Outfielders Augie Bergamo and Chet Wieczorek, each of whom had two hits, were Mr. Bigs of the Columbus scoring. Their consecutive doubles in the first inning produced a run. In the eighth, Bergamo's single sent George Stumpf, who had walked, to third. Wieczorek's infield hit brought him home.

Ceramic Lost Off Africa; No Survivors

CAPE TOWN, Oct. 4 — (AP).—News of one of the worst ocean tragedies of the war—the sinking without a trace of the 18,000-ton British liner Ceramic with more than 500 passengers aboard last November— was officially released yesterday by naval authorities.

The Ceramic was sunk, presumably by an enemy submarine, somewhere in the Atlantic while en route to Cape Town from England. The official announcement was withheld almost a year because of uncertainty over the fate of passengers and crew.

The exact number of casualties was not known, but it was reported the ship carried more than 500 persons and authorities are still without official news of any survivors.

The Germans announced last December they had sunk the Ceramic with a submarine torpedo in heavy seas and claimed to have picked up one survivor at the time. A person representing himself as the survivor later broadcast over the German radio a version of his rescue by a Nazi U-boat.

According to the German version the Ceramic sank quickly during a gale and lifeboats could not be launched.

The passenger list included many South African and Australian families which were completely wiped out. The German announcement had said the ship was carrying troops to North Africa.

The Ceramic, owned by Shaw, Savill and Albion Co., had its home port at Southampton, Eng. It was built in 1913 at Belfast and was 655 feet long. It normally ran between Australia and England.

The ship battled a submarine in the South Atlantic in 1942, and was said to have probably sunk the submarine. She had left Liverpool carrying 360 passengers to South Africa, but turned in at Rio de Janeiro with fuel and stores exhausted after that U-boat encounter.

Convoy Escort Riddles U-Boat Pack

AN ATLANTIC PORT, Oct. 4. — (CP).—The wolf pack of submarines that trained its torpedo tubes on an Atlantic convoy at the moment Prime Minister Churchill was speaking in the British House of Commons two weeks ago to-day took something of a beating.

Ships of the United Nations were lost, too, in a long running battle waged for days across vast stretches of the turbulent North Atlantic. The loss of the Canadian destroyer St. Croix already has been announced, but the convoy escorts also dished out plenty of punishment.

Just what kills were scored against the Huns likely won't be chalked up by the Royal Canadian Navy until the shooting on the Atlantic has subsided. It seems certain though that the Canadian ships engaged the enemy hand-to-hand, for it amounted to just about that.

The convoy got through to its destination, this North Atlantic port. The escort—the hard-bitten destroyers and scrappy corvettes—have laid up for a short breather until the scrap starts again.

Sea Full of "Ash Cans."

There were lots of depth-charge attacks the first night of the battle, which the crews describe as pretty tough. There were ash-can depth charges popping all over the place. As to what happened then, chances are it won't be known until all the factors are assessed.

Next night, though, was easier. The merchant ships wallowed quietly along, and on their flanks the escort ships kept vigil. Now and then their vigilance turned up a sub, but they beat it off before the going got rough.

Daytime was smooth enough as days on the Atlantic nowadays. The convoy waddled along and licked its wounds. The U-boat pack supposedly did the same, gathered its remaining forces and reformed for what it hoped was the kill.

It did close in on the ships in force. The action signal brought many Canadian ships into the fight.

That was the night one tough little corvette, along with another ship, had her crack at a surfaced sub. That's all that can be said now for publication.

Eighth Army

Three Allied planes were lost, the communique said.

One Allied officer said the German forces were retreating in a succession of quick hops, with rearguard troops offering brisk delaying resistance and then fleeing rapidly to escape encirclement.

Presumably employing these tactics, the Germans pulled back from the entire Melfi salient in the central sector as the Anglo-American 5th Army pressed in from the west and the British 8th from the east.

Fighting with the advancing 8th Army is the Canadian 1st Division.

Yesterday's Allied communique said Lt.-Gen. Mark Clark's inland flank had captured Frigento near the mouth of this salient in sharp fighting.

Drive on Volturno

Units of the 5th Army also thrust up the twisting mountain valley of the Sabbato River for 15 miles from Avellino, occupied Benevento with comparative ease, and swept on across the Calore River.

How far the western coastal forces had advanced from Naples was not immediately disclosed, but it was apparent they were driving with full force toward the Volturno River, 20 miles away, where it had been expected the enemy might elect to make a determined stand.

The 8th Army surged out from captured Nocera and San Severo on the northern edge of the Foggia Plain, advancing on the Fortore River on the north and mountainous central Italy in the west.

Here, along the Adriatic, the forces of Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery stood on the avenue of conquest that has been the historic route of armies invading Italy. The coastal road leads to the Emilian way which in turn penetrates to the heart of the Po valley far in the north, where massed German troops are understood to be preparing final do-or-die defences.

Allied forces also were meeting with success in Corsica, although German remnants were fighting strongly to the last.

A French communique yesterday said Moroccan Goumiers had seized Teghime Hill and now hold the whole ridge dominating Bastia and Biguglia Lake. French shock troops and American Rangers pushed to the northern point of Cap Corse.

All Corsica thus had been cleared of Nazis except for a 30-mile-long strip along the east coast.

Get READY TO MAKE ANOTHER WAR-WINNING INVESTMENT

● Fighting men trained and equipped in Canada, and tools of war made here, financed with money borrowed by Canada from her people, have had much to do with keeping the enemy away from our shores. Truly, our beloved country has been spared.

And our men and women, and the ships, planes and weapons we are still sending to the front, are keeping Canada's name notable in what well may be the decisive stage of the greatest war of all time. In light of latest developments, it must be clear to all that Victory Bonds do, indeed, foreshadow Victory. The temporary sacrifices, and the readjustments in our normal financial plans that we may have to make to buy them, are surely a cheap price to pay for the rewards they win.

There is reason to believe that the great struggle that has for so long disrupted our way of life is approaching a decision. Money must be had to keep our ships sailing, our planes flying and our fighting forces on the road to success. Soon there will be another issue of Victory Bonds. The proceeds will give impetus to our forces to push home the sword of triumph. No matter what the temporary sacrifice, be ready to buy more Victory Bonds when the call comes. Prepare now to buy all you can. Every bond you buy will contribute to the downfall of the enemy. And remember, the war won't be over till we win it!

Englishman's Home Life Has Greatly Changed With War

By JAMES A. ROY

(This is the tenth article in the series of articles being written for The Examiner, by Prof. James A. Roy, of Queen's University, Kingston, on wartime conditions in Great Britain.)

As one travels about this country one is impressed not only by the apparent normalness of life but also with the outward differences that strike one after a time. Make no mistake, England is a country at war. In London one sees the same old hawkers selling the same old trinkets; only they have moved from Ludgate Hill to the neighborhood of Charing Cross station. But there they are. The same old woman singing the song she has sung for years in a cracked and rusty voice that the fogs of London have made rustier with the years. One meets the same old, odd-looking fellows with open-necked shirts and little pointed beards. The same old pies are on the same old counters in the same old bars; the "bitter" tastes just the same, although it is a weaker bitter. There is the same old talk about 'orses, the same old bets on the St. Leger, the same old talk about 'Obbs and the Surrey Eleven. But most of the people who talk about horses and many of the bar-maids who push your bitters across to you, have their husbands or sons in the war somewhere. That's England. Yesterday I had a Kingstonian as my guest in the club, H. B. Beckingham. "How do you like these English people?" I asked him. "They're sure a swell bunch," was the answer. "I guess a lot of the boys go to Scotland and have a great time there. I'm going down to Folkestone to see my grandad. I guess I've more of the English in me than of the Scot. But these people have just accepted us and we feel just like one of themselves. And they sure have been through a lot. I tell you they're swell." The Canadians are just accepted now. They are part of the big family.

But there are many things in England, and when I come to think of it, in Scotland too, that are different from pre-war days. When Mr. Churchill became prime minister "blood and toil and sweat and tears" became the mode. The long-suffering and levelheaded people of England and Scotland rounded up the would-be quislings and got on with the job. They refused to be beaten. "Front Line" tells the story of the horrors of the blitz and the heroism of our Civil Defence Service. I know a lot of these brave men and women, wardens and shelter marshals. They did not regard themselves as heroes during the blitz and I question whether anybody else did. They do not regard themselves as heroes now. But they are.

Most heroic among our home force organizations during the terrible days of 1940 were the Auxiliary Fire Services. They are now the "National Fire Service." You see them everywhere. The letter 'S.W.S.' puzzled me at first. They stand for Static Water Supply. The letters indicate where the large reservoirs or static water belonging to manufacturing firms are to be found in an emergency. In every blitzed" city there is a "blitzed corner" boarded up and marked in big letters "E.W.S." This emergency water supply is contained in blitzed cellars that have been made waterproof.

One local but very important service is fire-watching. It is compulsory to have fire-watchers for every district, and for every factory, office, or plant. All fire-watchers have to undergo a thorough course on fire-fighting, including such realism as extinguishing fire-bombs with a stirrup pump in a burning hut. The other evening a friend of mine who

NO RESTRICTION

There has been considerable confusion among some of the women preparing to send parcels overseas about shipping Christmas cake. Post Office authorities said today there were no restrictions on shipping the cake, but that fruit such as oranges and bananas are forbidden because they will not carry.

BIGGER STILL

The potato growing competition is spreading for Ira Althouse, 174 Douro street, appeared at the Examiner on Saturday bearing a potato which weighed three pounds, the largest so far. It was grown in a Victory garden on the lot of Mrs. John Flynn, Braidwood avenue.

SLAB SUPPLY SHRINKS

After accepting orders this morning for a further 60 cords of slab wood, the supply of the city's fuel committee was down to 177 cords.

STOLEN CAR RECOVERED

Theft of an automobile was reported to the police Saturday night, but later the owner notified the department that he had found the machine abandoned on George street north. It had evidently been taken for a joy-ride.

WAR RATIONS

Following the belief that everything should be put to good use in wartime, a group of people who had dinner in a restaurant the other night, carefully wrapped up their meat bones to take home to the cat.

RENT IN ARREARS.

Arrears of rent for houses owned by the city of Windsor amounted to $19,220 at September 15 as compared with $24,150 at the end of 1942. Thirty-one tenants are behind in payments, and $116 has been written off.

DONORS DROPPED.

Attendance at the Blood Donors' Clinic dropped to-day to 51 largely due to the fact that one of the factories was unable to send its usual quota. There were donors present from Port Hope, Lindsay, Lakefield, Keene and Bridgenorth.

HE'S CURED

At the request of his father, the seven-year-old lad who startled the police last week by stealing a truck and driving it a mile through city streets, was brought into the police station Saturday and spent a few hours in a cell. At the conclusion of that time he tearfully promised that he would confine his joy-riding to kiddie cars until he gets a few years older.

EXAMINER CARRIERS HONORED BY CITY ON INTERNATIONAL NEWSPAPER CARRIER DAY

PCVS Principal Commends New Scholarship

Carl S. Browne, principal of the Collegiate Institute and Vocational School, extended today his congratulation to the Examiner in offering a university scholarship to students who are also engaged as carriers of this newspaper.

"This is the second gift of the Examiner this year to students," Mr. Browne said, "and it is a very encouraging and stimulating interest. We received from Mr. Robertson Davies, the editor, an offer of $40 to be awarded for the best literary effort in the Collegiate Echoes. There are certain university scholarships like the Edward Blake, which are open to the province. Peterborough students have been winners from time to time, and the Examiner is now providing an entirely local scholarship although it is restricted to students who are with the Examiner as carriers. Some of the cities in western Ontario have scholarships of this kind for their own young people, and as a principal I am glad to know that the Examiner has taken this very helpful interest in its student carriers."

Mr. Browne said that scholarships are a great incentive and material help to students and a valuable asset to the school.

Police Seeking Three Drivers

Police are looking for three hit-and-run drivers who were involved in three different accidents in the last couple of days.

Late Saturday night an automobile coming out of the Hatton division of Wartime Housing collided with another car being driven west on Charlotte street by L. L. Maguire and travelled rapidly off in an easterly direction without stopping after the accident. The hit-and-run machine left a hub cap at the scene of the collision. The Maguire car was not badly damaged and no one was hurt.

Early Sunday morning a Hydro pole on Rink street at the south end of Stewart street was struck by a fast-travelling automobile with such force that the 50-foot pole was snapped off six feet from the top. There were skid marks on Stewart street and across Rink street for 147 feet but no bits of automobile wreckage near the scene. The driver concerned in the accident made no report to the police.

The third hit-and-run case was reported fom Armour Road. Marks indicated that a car travelling west on McFarlane avenue had left the road, climbed over a sidewalk and crashed into a fence on the property of Miss M. A. O'Connell, 587 Armour Road, knocking down a section. This driver had also left the scene of the accident without reporting either to the owner of the property or to the police.

Y.M.C.A. Starts Fall Program

The fall and winter season at the Y.M.C.A. gets under way with the Y's Men's Club and bowling already open. The gymnasium classes for Senior and Young Men open tonight and on Saturday morning the regular boys' group will start activities. The weight lifters have been carrying on during the summer and expect an added interest in this branch of physical work. The Friday Night Club opens this Friday night and new members are invited to attend.

Majors and captains of the membership canvass teams reported good progress at their meeting on Friday evening with 205 members—43 new members—51 members of the 253 reported have joined the armed forces since last October. It is expected that the total number of members on active service will be at least 300 when the present canvass is completed. These members are kept in good standing in the association and their membership cards are forwarded to them. Letters have been received from many of the members overseas with expressions of sincere appreciation that they were remembered at home.

Married Women Are Very Badly Needed In Great Battle On The Home Front

Since the Allies have begun their far flung offensive in the Mediterranean area, vast supplies of war equipment have gone into action and are being used rapidly and it is imperative that more begin rolling off the assembly line. For this reason the Selective Service is urging that every able bodied married woman who is not tied down get into the battle of production.

Mrs. W. H. Morton, president of the Local Council of Women today received a telegram from H. McNamara, deputy Minister of Selective Service, congratulating the women of Peterborough on their fine efforts and extending best wishes for a successful campaign.

Beginning on Thursday, the Local Council of Women are sponsoring a drive to enlist Peterborough women for war work and tonight at 6.15 a number of war workers, who have been at their jobs only a short time, will tell why they enlisted and describe the kick they are getting out of it. They will be. Miss Aileen Wagar from Genelco, Mrs. Rose Wood of the Bonner-Worth, Mrs. Phyllis Ferguson from the Outboard Marine, Mrs. Jean Murney of the Quaker Oats, and there will be a representative from the C.G.E. All these women have either husbands, fathers or brothers and sons fighting overseas.

The Fighting Irish

The Irish have always been noted for their fighting qualities, and Mrs. Pat Cummings of the Outboard Marine has been working at the plant for a year because "I was so mad when the Germans bombed Belfast where my mother is living." Mrs. Cummings planned to enlist in the army together, but he was rejected so she dropped the idea of joining the C.W.A.C. and donned overalls instead. Her father is serving in his third campaign, her sister is with the C.W.A.C., one brother is with the Naval Intelligence and a second is with General Montgomery's "Fox Hounds." In addition, her mother in Ireland has adopted a "blitz baby" whose parents were killed in a bombing.

Special films about war workers will be shown at the Collegiate at 8 o'clock Wednesday night and it will be open to all women. Among films to be shown are "Women Are Warriors" and "Keep 'Em Flying." The former deals with Russian women showing the gradual development of these women from illiterates to their important work in the factories and on the battle fronts. As the name implies the second picture deals with women in the aircraft industry.

Irregardless of age, any woman who is able bodied and who is interested in keeping the men in uniform supplied with tools, can apply at the Selective Service office in the Barrie Building. These women are asked to work on full shifts for at least a three-month period.

Three Degrees Of Drunkeness

Cases involving three different degrees of drunkenness occupied the attention of Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning.

Brock Wright pleaded guilty as a first offender to being drunk and was fined $10 and $2.50 costs.

Roy Wright, a brother, entered a plea of guilty to a similar charge, and also admitted another conviction within the year, so the fine in his case was $50 and costs or a month in jail.

The Range Pals Make $26.70 For War Victims

The Range Pals are a group of young folk who live in the vicinity of the Rifle Range on Route 7, Peterborough who are banded together for community service and a social time among themselves and their friends, which ever since the war began has turned itself almost into a war service club.

From within its membership, 12 have enlisted for service depleting their ranks of some very fine workers, whose going has inspired those remaining to carry on the good work to almost a greater degree from the individual standpoint, in which they are presided over by Miss Margaret Bell as the president and Betty Fayer as the Sporting Chili Con Carne: Hamilton Wildcats brilliant 24 to 13 win over Balmy Beach Saturday stamps the Hamilton outfit as the team to beat for the senior O.R.F.U. title....Joe Krol put on a one-man show and Murray Crowe, rookie back-fielder was a sensation....Navy's 8 to 6 victory over the Combines in Ottawa was a surprise; incidentally it killed any chance the Ottawa gang had of getting into the playoffs....St. Louis Cards are consistent. They have won 105 games this season, just one less victory than their 1942 mark....Dick Wakefield of the Tigers slapped out his 200th hit in the last game of the season yesterday....Not a Yank in the first ten batters in the American League, a circumstance that vividly illustrates how far the present crop has dropped in power from the fence-busting Yanks of old....On the contrary St. Louis Cards have three, Stan Musial, Walker Cooper and Harry Walker among the first ten hitters in the National loop....Rudy York won the home run championship with 34, Charlie Keller of the Yanks second with 31 and Billy Nicholson of the Cubs third with 29....Stratford Kroehlers won the first game of the provincial finals from the Preston Rivulettes in Stratford Saturday by 7 to 6, a single by Betty Appel in the ninth driving in the winning run. Hazel Baynton held Preston to six hits but the Stratford girls had a bad day in the field, making six misplays....Eenie Ernst did the pitching for the losers....Murray Dickson of the Cards, called by the Army, has been given a ten-days' furlough to let him take part in the world series....The application was made by Judge Landis, commissioner of baseball.

got the M.C. in the campaign against the Senussi during the last war and escaped the horrors of Gallipoli, was knocked over by some Amazon during fire-fighting practice and is now in hospital undergoing a delicate operation on the knee cap.

Another new institution one sees in every city is the Rest Centre. There are about 20,000 first and second line Rest Centres for people who have been bombed out. These centres minister to the immediate needs of homeless people. It is odd how habits form. Go to any of the tube stations after blackout time and you will find all the beds occupied. The occupants, who pay a small fee for the privilege of sleeping there now, have got into the habit of trekking thither every evening with their bedding. They must be out of the place first thing in the morning; but they like the company and the tube sleeping habit looks almost as if it had come to stay.

One thing that strikes me is the healthy appearance of the babies of England. The reasons for this are given as: (a) many additional first-class maternity hospitals have now been opened in the countryside under excellent conditions. Many of these temporary maternity hospitals are former country houses, surrounded by large estates. And, like the children, the infants do not lack their normal supplies of vitamins. It is not only the infants who will benefit from their life in the country; many secondary schools from towns, with their teaching staffs, have been evacuated to the country.

England has double summertime. The people who complain most about it are the farmers who claim that the change affects the cattle. But, from the point of view of war efficiency, it is claimed that the advantages far outweigh the disadvantages.

There is one great external change in England that should be noted in passing. Before the war the English were proud of their flower gardens. They were content to get most of their vegetables from France. That source of supply is closed for the moment and the English have had to sacrifice their flowers for vegetables. So most of her beautiful flower gardens have gone, for the time being at least.

Another change which I noticed at once was in the bread. The English now eat what is called National bread, which is dark, almost like the pre-war bread in Germany. Before the war only grain was used for bread in England and the wheat husks were given to the cattle. Now the husk is used for bread which means less wastage in the milling of flour. It is no longer necessary to import huge quantities of grain and the result is the saving of from 600,000 to 700,000 tons of shipping per year.

The allotments system is different from digging up flower beds. The allotment system, which I have already referred to came into being during the last war. Under the allotment system a strip of vacant land is given over, or rented at a nominal sum, to any person who wishes to cultivate it. Business firms—factories especially — which have land that is not for the moment being used, divide it into allotments and give it to their employees who are selected for the size of their families and the time they have been in the factory's employment. There are now 1,750,000 allotments in Britain, all growing for victory.

Can't Place 2 Orders With Coal Dealers

OTTAWA, Oct. 4 — (CP). —Investigation of suspected infractions of coal control regulations are already under way in a number of centres, the Munitions Department announced today.

The department said enforcement officers of the Prices Board have been instructed to make any investigations which may be necessary to assure that the coal control orders are complied with. Persons contravening the regulations are subject to prosecution.

In particular, the investigations apply to the order issued last July 5 which prohibits consumers from placing orders with more than one dealer at the same time and requires the completion of a form by the purchaser before coal can be delivered.

"...AS A CITIZEN I'm supposed to give the orders...to tell this big shot or that whether he is to remain a big shot or not. If I'm to give the orders —as in a democracy the voters, the little men, must—then I want certain information. Or my orders are likely to go haywire."

—JOHN CITIZEN, Main Street American, in "Let the People Know," by Norman Angell

JOHN CITIZEN of 1943 is more full of curiosity, less cocksure of the answers, hungrier for information than he has ever been.

He's hungry for news, of course, on how the war is going and what kind of peace will be written when it's over. But the questions he's asking go much farther. The facts that he wants no Government spokesman, no editor, no commentator can bring him in full. To many of his questions, only industry can give the answers.

"How well is industry doing its part in the war?"

"What is industry doing now to help assure me an opportunity and an income when peace returns?"

"How is industry planning to give us a better world?"

By industry, John Citizen doesn't mean just the giants. He means the plant around the corner, too . . . the factory that employs people like him in his own city . . . the company whose payroll means sales for local stores, tax money for local improvements, a better city in which John Citizen, and his sons who'll come marching home, can live and prosper after the war. In fact, he's looking to all business and industry for the answers.

Being fact-minded . . . wanting his answers complete and visual as well as fast . . . interested in the news as never before . . . it's only natural for John Citizen and his family to turn to their newspapers with unparalleled eagerness, to read them with a thoroughness never equaled.

Increasingly, in their newspapers, Mr. and Mrs. John Citizen are finding the kind of answers they seek from industry. To industry's story, as told today in newspaper advertising, they are already giving a degree of attention seldom before won by advertising of any kind . . . a fact attested scientifically by The Continuing Study of Newspaper Reading and confirmed again and again by the experiences of industrial advertisers.

To executives who have not yet seized the opportunity, this new public awakening to industry's message signals a chance to build for the future . . . a chance to find a new high place for itself in the hearts as well as the minds of millions.

For the millions who hold in their hands the destiny of industry, both great and small, are the same millions who are looking first to their newspapers for full information on today's war and tomorrow's peace.

Industry, too, must let the people know . . . the people who'll issue tomorrow's orders . . . the people who are reading the newspapers today.

Yankees Given Edge In World Series Wagering

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.— (P).— A few thousand more "fish" jammed themselves into Pa Knickerbocker's sardine can to-day and everything was about ready for the world series—except how to get tickets, where to sleep and what was cooking with Mort Cooper's ailing arm.

The village was really nopping and popping for this return bout between the New York Yankees and the St. Louis Cardinals starting tomorrow at the Stadium. And with the Yanks installed as 7 to 10 favorites to win back the world championship the St. Louis swifties took from them last year, the big ques?-tion was whether Mort and his mysterious sore arm or lefty Max Lanier and his fork-side flipper would tangle with Spud Chandler on opening day, provided Spud got Marse Joe McCarthy's expected call.

There was more than an outside chance the Stadium cash registers would play their first sell-out tune for a Fall classic. Some 70,000 were expected for the opening, thereby wiping out the 69,902 single-game attendance record a year ago.

Although the Yanks were supposed to be a weaker team than last year, with Joe DiMaggio and Phil Rizzuto and Red Ruffing off to war, the gambling guys boosted the betting price a notch in their favor over the week-end.

Hank Borowy was riding a six-game winning streak as the season ended; Chandler posted the lowest-earned-run average in 20 years, and Marius Russo, Ernie Bonham and Charley Wensloff all wound up with some of their better flipping.

In this respect, Billy Southworth was bringing a quiz program in with him. For the first few weeks, Cooper's arm has bee nacting up although no one has said he won't be ready come opening day.

On the artillery side, the Cards have Stan Musial, National League batting boss with a .357 season average, as well as all the running tricks they worked so oandily in last year's set.

London Wins Senior Title

10 Junior Teams Enter League

TORONTO—(CP)—Secetary W. A. Hewitt of the Ontario Hockey Association said last night five teams have "definitely" entered the O.H.A. senior series this year and two others, Toronto Navy and Niagara Falls Cataracts, must decide within 24 hours whether to enter. The five teams—Toronto Army Daggers, No. 1 Training Command, R.C.A.F., St. Catharines, Hamilton and Kingston Army—start their season about Nov. 10.

President F. W. Moore of Port Colborne, announced he will call a special meeting within a few days of all O.H.A. Senior and Junior A managers and referees to discuss new playing rules and conduct of the game during the coming season.

At a meeting on Saturday night, of an O.H.A. sub-committee and members of the 10 Junior A clubs entered this year it was decided to divide the teams into two groups.

Group one includes Oshawa Generals, Toronto Marlboros, Toronto St. Michaels, Toronto Young Rangers, and Hamilton. Brantford Lions, Stratford Kroehlers, Galt, St. Catharines, and Port Colborne comprise Group two.

The groups will play an interlocking home-and-home schedule and each group will play a double schedule within itself. The schedule will be released within a few days with opening games slated on Saturday, November 13. Six teams will enter the playoffs.

Jack Clayborne All Set For Big Bout Tuesday

When Gentleman Jack Clayborne meets John Katan in the long-awaited match between these two bitter mat enemies on Tuesday, the bounding black grappler is determined to make it the greatest wrestling effort of his career. Katan filched a decision over Gentleman Jack in a bout held here some months ago and Tusday night's big doings are the sequel to that much-disputed win. Clayborne has repeatedly challenged Katan to meet him here where the colored athlete claims he gets the fairest treatment, but the surly, but astute Ukrainian has steadfastly refused the match. As a result of considerable pressure however "Killer" Katan is now bound to go through with a fight which obviously was the last thing he wanted. Top interest has developed over the intensity of the attitude of both big fellows and nothing short of fireworks is expected when they collide down at the Brock Arena tomorrow night.

A rip-snorting semi-final bout will likely result when Toar Morgan and pudgy Bunny Dunlop meet. Dunlop looks fat but isn't and the young Toar looks and acts tough and is.

A new face, that of Buster Billy Hayes of Ottawa will be seen in action against the veteran trouble-maker Doc Tony Felice.

Every time your watch ticks off 8 seconds, a military uniform of some kind is completed at Tip Top Tailors. Day in, day out, hour after hour, this remarkable record of production has continued without let-up.
Since 1939 this has been our all-out job. The skill and experience gained in over three decades of outfitting Canadian men and women has, of course, helped us to meet and overcome the many production problems which were inevitable. And so today from the "clothing arsenal" which is Tip Top Tailors, flows a steady stream of fine uniforms for the world's best-dressed men and women—the Armed Forces of Canada.
This will help you to understand why there must be a delay at times in delivery of civilian garments to our customers—for the greater part of our facilities is devoted to war needs. Without question, this must have priority over all other production. We are sure you agree with us.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, October 5.

Although there are signs of opposition, obstacles and other restraints, this day may be notable for a definitely productive and expansive set of circumstances, that may fire the ambitions to marshal the talents and forces and grasp excellent openings for promotion, favors, enhanced prestige, with increase of credit, finances and resources. This will require logic and sound decisions, as snap judgments and irregular acts may prove perilous.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is should be on the eve of a promising year, with important issues at stake, affecting the finances, vredit, possessions, impersonal popularity and happiness. The main danger may be from impulsive acts, quarrels, hasty and unreasonable judgments, which may call down opposition, malice and vindictive measures probably from relatives or elders. A rational, pleasant and persistent course may save the day and further cherished aims and ambitions. Promotion and favors are probable.

A child born on this day, although efficient and ambitious may encounter many obstacles, from elders or superiors, affecting its physical or nervous condition. These conquered, it has fine promise for success.

Pay Parade But No Place To Spend It

Canadian airmen stationed along the Aleutian chain find a different set of values prevailing than they encountered in their civilized homeland. Pay parade comes every two weeks as usual, but canteen prices for their few luxuries are low and surplus cash has little meaning. Some idea of the bleakness of the Aleutian scene is given in this picture. The pay office, like all buildings on the station, is a Quonset hut which won't be blown away by North Pacific gales. The rifles stacked outside are for the enemy, not the paymaster.

Price Control Ration News

The Women's Regional Advisory Committee, Consumer Branch, Central Ontario, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, answers questions put to this paper regarding price control and ration regulations.

Q.—Must a person take a whole steak and surrender the required coupons or may she insist on the butcher selling her only a portion of the steak for fewer coupons?

A.—If your butcher prefers not to cut a steak in two, then there is nothing much you can do about it except to buy some other kind of meat or buy enough steak to do for two or more meals. However, there is no Price Board regulation compelling you to buy more than you wish of any commodity....Nor is there any regulation compelling a storekeeper to sell merchandise in his store to anyone who wants to buy it.

Q.—Can a farmer kill a pig without a permit?

A.—No slaughter permit is required when a farmer kills a pig if the meat is consumed by his household or is sold or supplied direct to another farmer for his own use....However, if the farmer intends to sell the pork to a butcher or anyone other than a farmer, he must obtain a slaughter permit from the nearest Wartime Prices and Trade Board office....With the introduction of meat rationing, strict control of livestock slaughtering is necessary to provide a steady flow of meat into the usual channels of the trade to assure every purchaser of his rationed share of meat....This scheme is also necessary to curb development of black market operators of meat.... This control measure is not intended to interfere in any way with a farmer's regular practice of obtaining his own supply of meat from animals he slaughters or has slaughtered for him.

Q.—Would you please tell me how many coupons I am entitled to for serving 40 meals for threshers?

A.—The amount of extra rations for threshers is calculated on the total number of meals served which is in turn based on the same quantity as consumers receive generally. ...That is, one person ordinarily receives two butter coupons, two pairs of meat coupons, one tea-coffee coupon, one sugar coupon and two preserves coupons for period of two weeks which, at three meals a day, would cover 42 meals....Your local ration board will come as close to this amount of rations as is possible.

Please send your questions or your request for the pamphlet "Consumers' News" or the Blue Book (the book in which you keep track of your ceiling prices) mentioning the name of this paper to:

WOMEN MUST LOOK UP TO HUSBAND FOR HAPPY MARRIAGE

Covering Up Mate's Shortcomings With Lame Excuses Discouraging For Any Wife.

WHEN Nature made men of larger stature and gave them more physical strength than women, it doubtless intended for wives to look up to their husbands. In the process of evolution this plan has gotten somewhat battered up and deflected from the original purpose, but still, in the main, it holds good, and there is no disputing that women are happiest when they can regard their husbands as little tin gods and burn incense before them.

Of course, the fact that many tall women marry short men; that many bossy women marry meek little men who are mere worms of the dust, and that many women of strong character marry weaklings seems to belie this theory. But, nevertheless, observation shows that those marriages in which the gray mare is the better horse are seldom successful ones. Career women seem able to do everything except to stay married, and this is just as true of little Mrs. Snooks, who runs the delicatessen store around the corner and supports her I.W.W. husband, as it is of the cinema star who has married her satchel toter.

Women Must Admire Husband

In reality, there is no more curious difference between the sexes than their point of view on this subject. To get any real happiness out of marriage a woman must look up to her husband, whereas most men seem to prefer to look down on their wives. It burns a woman up with shame if her husband cannot hold his own with other men, but a man can see his frowsy, dull wife in the company of brilliant and beautiful women without even noticing that her dress looks like something the cat brought in, and that she hasn't a word to say for herself.

More than this, wives glory in their husbands' successes. Ninety-nine women out of a hundred would rather be the wives of famous men than famous women themselves. They are contented to be tagged as the wives of great doctors, or scientists, or writers, or politicians, and to have no individuality of their own. There are no more heroic tales told of selfless devotion than those of the women who married poor, struggling boys for whom they made of their shoulders a ladder on which they climbed to fame and fortune.

But rare, indeed, is the husband who is proud of his wife's success. He resents it. She might have written the book of the century, or discovered the secret of perpetual motion, and he would still consider it an insult to be known simply as her husband. You know dozens of parasitic men who let their wives support them, but you never saw one who treated his wife decently and who wasn't like the surly dog that bit the hand that fed him.

Man's Pride in Wife A 3-Point Affair

In talking to a man about his wife the only three compliments that are safe to pay her are about her looks, about her housekeeping, and about her being a good wife and mother. After that it is best to switch to the weather as a topic of conversation. But a woman will lap up the most fulsome eulogy of her husband, and ask for more.

This feeling that men have that somehow it disparages them to have wives who are more talented than they are is one that both parties should consider very carefully in selecting their mates, for it is a very important factor in the success, or failure, of their marriage. Men intuitively seem to perceive this. They sense that they will want no rival on the hearthstone, and that it will not be sooth-

WEEKLY WARTIME FOOD HINTS

Martha Logan, Swift's famed Home Economist, whose weekly cooking column is a regular feature of this page. Look for these valuable hints every Monday

by Martha Logan

A Bird for Thanksgiving

That we can still plan a traditional dinner in this fifth year of war is truly an occasion for thanksgiving

When we sit down next Monday to the Traditional Thanksgiving festivity, let us remember how incredible such a meal would seem to the vast majority of the peoples of this world. Let us determine, too, not to waste any of the good things which are still relatively so abundant in this Canada of ours.

Whether you serve Turkey, Goose, Duck or Chicken this year, you will find the recipe in the next column of real value both in pleasing palates and extending meat. Bread sauce is an Old Country trimming not widely enough known in Canada, it is delicious with all birds, it is nutritionally tops and it does help meat go farther.

There are more than 90 good recipes in Martha Logan's famous handbook of meat cookery; "Meat Complete." Send 10¢ for your copy to Swift Canadian Co. Limited, Dept. OK38, Toronto.

BREAD SAUCE (serves 6 to 8)

2 onions stuck with cloves
2 cups of bread crumbs a day or two old
2 cups milk
1 tbsp. butter . . . salt, pepper

Peel medium-sized cooking onions. Stick 6 to 8 whole cloves into each and bury in the bread crumbs in the top of double boiler. Add milk and cook gently for about ¾ of an hour. Immediately before serving remove the onions, add butter, salt and pepper to taste and stir well.

secretary.

On September 24, this group held a Bingo game in the Rifle Range School for the purpose of raising money to assist the sufferers from air raids over Britain through the Peterborough and District British War Victims fund for which some prizes had been donated, and the balance procured from their treasury.

In addition to the Bingo games, some program of an entertaining nature was given, and they had the assistance of the children attending the Rifle Range School in the matter of selling tickets for which prizes were awarded for the best in this field of endeavor, these going to Beverley Larmer and Ronald McConkey.

This event raised the nice sum of $26.70, and since this group had previously raised the sum of $236.04 for this one fund, their total now contributed stands at the splendid figure of $262.74, an achievement of which they have good reason to feel very gratified.

Having run up this good record, they are displaying the same attitude of keep on plugging which will be so necessary in all fields of endeavour until the war is won by working still further for the same objective through the working of a cut work table cloth, which later on will be made the subject of a draw to give the fund a further boost.

Personal Gifts

Outside of sending gifts personally to one's own friends in the zone actively within the range of hostilities, the fund perhaps presents the greatest opportunity for personal giving that anyone can find, for the money so given goes direct to London without any deduction for necessary expenses, from when it goes direct to the beneficiary who is in need of the help.

Money cannot buy that feeling of joy which comes from a personal act to help others, and particularly the extra mead of satisfaction one must surely be able to feel on Christmas Day, when in the midst of their own enjoyment, they are able to sit back and reflect that at that very moment others who have suffered through the exigiencies of war, are able to have a share in the real joy of Christmas, because they themselves have helped make it possible.

Two such personal gifts are listed today, one from "A Friend" for $10.00 who has given on many occasions for the fund, and the other from "L.M" in an amount of $5.00 to help things along.

Previously acknowledged	$68,218.99

A Friend (receipt No. 2740)	10.00

ing to their egos to have to be brought in perpetual contrast with a lady who is a better wisecracker than they are and a more gifted conversationalist, nor even with one who is a political shark, or makes more money than they do.

Hence it is that the girl of mediocre ability, who has no ambitions that reach higher than a vine-wreathed cottage and who asks a man to tell her what he thinks she thinks, can marry all around the young woman who has been bitten by the career bug.

Woman's Love Must Include Pride

In particular should the girl who has the mother complex avoid letting it lead her into marrying a drunkard to reform him, or a ne'er-do-well in the belief that her sacred influence can galvanize him into being a go-getter. Therein disaster lies. For while, as the poet says, "pity may be akin to love," it is not real love, or, at least, not the brand of love that lasts. The love that endures with a woman has to have pride in it, and when she loses that all is lost.

The woman who is ashamed of her husband, who has to apologize for him, who has to cover up his shortcomings with lies and call his drunkenness "heart trouble" and his laziness his "artistic temperament," is of all women most miserable.

For to be happy though married a woman has to be proud of her husband. She has to look up to him. Not down upon him.

Percy Holland was charged as a third offender, and admitted that he was drunk on Saturday, and also had had two previous convictions, although he protested that the first of these was a year ago.

"Not quite a year," remarked Magistrate Langley. "You might be able to use that fact as a plea for clemency, but under the law I have no other choice than to sentence you to three months' imprisonment."

"Can you date that back to Saturday so that I will be out for New Year's?" pleaded the accused, and Magistrate Langley concurred in the suggestion.

Horn Of Copia Pours Upon Market

The floral cycle at the market has reached the farthest end of its fall orbit, the arrival of the bloom of the chrysanthemums, including the South Monaghan specials. Most of the gladioli are gone, and only the hardy, frost resistant varieties remain. Some people went home with armfuls of the 'mums'. They are mostly miniatures of the big hothouse blooms, but they deserve [a] place in the market sequence, and they will continue to be clipped for next few weeks.

Pleasant View Gardens of Bowmanville sold out their Sheldon pears in a few minutes after arriving. Buyers were lined up waiting, and you would hardly blame them if the Sheldons of this season are anything like those of last.

Farmers have begun to dig their late potatoes. They have been showing some excellent stock on the market recently with the price fairly steady at $1.75. Reports during the week mentioned some growers selling along the streets down to $1.65. The Manvers regulars are inclined to doubt the value of that stock. And they add that the rumors of late blight do not come from their section where the practice is to follow through with the fungicides right up to the end of the season. They say there is no possible taint of blight in their stock, and the public should seek that assurance. It may be only pr[o]paganda, but there it is as you he[ar] it from the better potato practitioners.

G. S. Thorn asked $1.85 for Chippewas. Other prices Saturday were: chickens, 35 cents a pound; an odd duck at 38 cents; eggs, 35 to 50 cents a dozen; butter, 40 cents; some year old chickens, 30 to 33 cents. Tomatoes, 35 and 55 cents a basket, 6 and 11 quarts; pears, 90 cents, $1 and $1.25; apples, 50 and 60 cents a peck.

Carrots a bushel, $1 and $1.25; turnips, $1; onions, $2.75 the bushel; peppers, 35 cents a dozen; cucumbers, 50 cents a basket, and so on down the vegetable list to broccoli and egg plant.

The horn of Copia, one of the ancient deities of the harvest, is still pouring forth abundantly the products of the district gardens and orchards, funnelling through the market to most of the homes in th[e] city.

Millbrook News

Private John Cochrane, of the R.C.O.C., Hamilton, son of Lynden Cochrane, of Coronation, Alberta, with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Porter, of Lakefield, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Campbell the early part of the week. Private Cochrane's father was born and brought up at Millbrook, and was the eldest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Cochrane, the former being station agent here for many years in the days of the old Grand Trunk Railway.

Mrs. John Spence left this week for a visit with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Peacock, of Woodville, and with another daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. J. Dudley of Toronto.

A group of the Cavan ladies motored to the village on Tuesday evening and helped with the local Red Cross evening group in the work of making the three hundred hospital pads which is the weekly quota. Four hundred were completed.

Mrs. Charles Byam of New Liskeard, and her daughter, Mrs. H. Levin, of New York, were guests of the former's aunt, Mrs. H. W. Johnston, for a few days this week.

Friends of Mrs. Charles Needler, now of Toronto, and formerly of Millbrook, will be sorry to learn that, through a fall in her own home this week down the cellar steps, she has suffered a fractured hip and arm, and had to be taken to the general hospital for treatment.

At several duplicate tables West led the spade 2 against this contract, and a series of variations then ensued. In one case, after the 5 was played from the dummy, East put up the Q, and the K scored. Risky but successful play followed. The spade A and J came in, four diamonds followed when the finesse succeeded, the club K luckily found the A with West, who cashed his last spade and returned a club, giving South an extra trick.

East at another table read from the fourth-best that South had a doubleton, surely including the K, and reckoned that play of the 7 would make that declarer think a finesse of the J would work. That is what happened. Instead of taking the first trick with the 8, South used the K so he could try the "marked finesse" of the J. When East won that with the Q, a heart switch beat the contract.

East tried that same dodge at a third table, but was against a better counter. He read that the 7 play denied either the 9 or 10, so West had those cards. If West also had the Q he would have held the standard honor combination of Q-10-9, from which he would have led the 10. The 2 lead therefore caused South to place the Q with East. So he took the opening trick with the 8 and staked all on finding West with the club A, leading the K. West took it, returned the spade 10 to the K, the club 6 to 7 was a dummy entry to finesse diamonds, so an extra trick got made there, due to counting.

Newsboys Are Given Keys To City

The Examiner carrier department as a training school in citizenship was extolled by Mayor Hamilton at a dinner to its boys and girls in the Monaghan Road staff house Saturday evening at which His Worship presented symbolic keys of the city to thirty of the young company in appreciation of their collective auxiliary war efforts in promoting the sale of War Savings Stamps and Certificates, Depth Bombs and in supporting the Blood Donors Clinic of the Red Cross Society.

"Your experience as carriers of the Examiner is not only giving you valuable business training," Mayor Hamilton said, "but it is also providing you with a beginning as public spirited men and women, and that is something greatly needed at the present time. I hope that you will continue throughout your lives to keep interested in the activities that are carried on for the welfare of the community."

The complimentary dinner was fortuitously timed with the celebration of International Newspaper Carrier Day throughout Canada and the United States, and to this local occasion the Examiner boys and girls brought a record of accomplishment during the last five years that has been recognized at the International convention of the Newspaper Circulation Managers' Association and otherwise by the Prime Minister of Canada, Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, and his Minister of Finance, Hon. J. L. Ilsley, K.C.

Alderman Adam Sands presided at the dinner, representing Gordon S. Matthews, chairman of Peterborough county War Finance Committee, host to the young company who, in fair weather and adverse, manage to do so much more than their daily delivery of the Examiner.

His Honor Judge Smoke conveyed to the boys and girls the appreciation of the Red Cross Society for their assistance in enrolling many contributors to the Blood Donors Clinic.

Edward Simpson of Toronto, who is engaged in the preliminaries of the Fifth Victory Loan campaign in Peterborough, added his congratulations, telling the carriers that their stout spirit was a challenge to the whole community and especially to the Loan canvassers.

The Examiner's tribute to the youngsters was expressed by H. L. Garner, managing director, who thanked them from "the bottom of my heart for the grand job you have been doing."

Cup to Bill Edgar

To Bill Edgar, as winner of most of the smaller trophies during the year, Mr. Garner presented a tall silver cup to be retained by him as a permanent award. "You have all done a splendid job, but Bill happens to be the one to get the big trophy. We hope that Mr. Cowan, our circulation manager, will be able to get a similar cup for next year."

Mr. Garner referred to the announcement Saturday of the Examiner's University scholarship to be presented annually to one of its carriers, an enviable prize which the preceding speakers had mentioned with warm approval.

"Whether you realize it now, you boys and girls are going to be men and women who will help shape the life of Peterborough in years to come," Mr. Garner said. "The training and the schooling you get now will be a large and important part of your equipment for that period of your lives. A university education is a great privilege for any boy or girl. I did not have the chance because I was one of a family of seven, and it kept my father busy to keep us all going."

Mr. Garner said the Examiner had decided to provide the scholarship which is to be won annually by some boy or girl of the carrier staff. It affords two years' free tuition at any Canadian University, and may be deferred for any period up to four years at the wish of any winner.

"I am proud of our boys and girls. I don't know how they do it. Their work is often staggering to me," Mr. Garner said, concluding with words of thanks to Alderman Sands, Mayor Hamilton, Judge Smoke and Mr. Simpson for their kindly tributes to the Examiner's young folks.

H. B. Cowan, circulation manager, big brother and adviser of the carrier staff, had a special word for the new recruits.

Probably to most of the carriers the self-serve feature of cafeteria style was an incidental novelty. At any rate the trays that were filled for them, eventually went back empty in the prandial prelude to the presentations. The new and shining keys distributed by Mayor Hamilton were decked with red, white and blue ribbons, mementoes of an evening in their young lives of endeavor when they officially received an honor from their home community through the smiling agency of its incumbent first magistrate of 1943.

Sold 144,000 Stamps

Alderman Sands told the young people, in introducing Mayor Hamilton, that he had been requested by Mr. Matthews to extend his warmest thanks to the Examiner carriers for the work they have been doing, especially in the last year or more, of selling War Savings Stamps.

"When I remember the stormy nights you had to be out, it makes my appreciation all the keener," the chairman said. "And I particularly remember Nancy Leith and her stamp selling, and I wonder how you came through it all with so much enthusiasm. I hope you realize that you are helping the men and women in the armed services to get home from the war that much sooner. Your sale of 144,000 Stamps, or $35,000 worth, was a fine job, and I am glad the Examiner is recognizing your work by offering its university scholarships. Some day you will be at a table like this, because when you grow up you will be among the men and women who will have to manage the affairs of this city and country. The boys may be assured they will have the girls to help them. They always do."

Alderman Sands introduced Mayor Hamilton "as one of the finest mayors Peterborough has had in a long time."

Official Tribute

"It is a great privilege to be with young folks like you," His Worship told the carriers. "The people of Peterborough are proud of you, and on behalf of all of them I wish to offer you our warmest congratulations and thanks. One of these days there is going to be launched at Kingston a corvette to be named after Peterborough. I am not just sure how much it cost to build, but I would like you to think that the $35,000 you raised by selling War Savings Stamps has helped to build that boat.

You also sold 66 per cent of the city's quota of Depth Charges, and I am sure you would like to think that some of those depth charges to be sunk in the Atlantic will sink some of the German submarines. That is what makes your work so well worth while."

Mayor Hamilton told the Carriers about the ancient walled cities, with their gates and keys, and of the later custom of presenting symbolic keys of a city to heroes and men who had done great things. It was that significance which he hoped the young folks would keep in mind in retaining the keys for the future. "They will remind you of these days of the war when you sold Stamps and got Blood Donor pledges when all this work means so much."

Judge Smoke said that the 265 Blood Donor pledges which the Carriers were instrumental in obtaining by leaving cards at the homes on their routes represented one-eighth of the total number of citizens who enrolled for blood giving with the Red Cross last year. Speaking for the Red Cross Society, His Honor thanked the boys and girls for their substantial help. It is understood that a recent canvass secured more than one hundred additional pledges.

Recipients Of Keys

The Carriers who were presented with keys were as follows:

Jack Hayes, Bill Edgar, Nancy Leith, Don Padgett, Ray Harris, Gerald Rose, Walter Pridham, Ronald Doughty, Murray Wight, John Frise.

CUTTING COUPONS

"It's nice work if you can get it," remarked Hank,hired man to the highest bidder, in town for a belated mid-summer hair cut. "Clipping coupons, I mean."

"We're ALL coupon-cutters now," chuckled Mr. Picobac. "Tea coupons, coffee coupons, sugar coupons, butter coupons, meat coupons . . ."

"Don't forget your Victory Bond coupons," advised Les, the barber, busy with the shears.

"No siree," agreed Mr. Picobac. "If I had a million dollars I would put it all into Victory bonds tomorrow."

"That's the difference between me and plutocrats like you," said Hank. "You can imagine having a million dollars but I can't.—Could you spare me a pinch of that famous tobacco of yours?"

"It's a mild . . . cool . . . sweet smoke," grinned Mr. Picobac, extending his handy pocket pouch.

MILLBROOK

Mission Circle To Attend Rally

MILLBROOK, Oct. 4 (ENS). — Mrs. E. J. Powell entertained the Golden Links Mission Circle for its first meeting after the holiday season, at her home, King street east, this week, the chair being taken by the president, Mrs. M. E. Hobbs, who led in the worship service, during which regular and systematic Bible study was emphasized for spiritual growth during the current year.

Margaret Smith presided at the piano, and the treasurer, Jean Burnham, reported $40 raised to date on the total objective of $55; voluntary giving had brought about this satisfactory record, and it was felt the same method would complete the year's allocation.

The prayer partners of the Circle are Miss Jean Stewart and Rev. William Simpson, both of China, and word of the latter's recent marriage was announced by the president. Archdeacon William Simpson, of Blackstock, is Mr. Simpson's father, his former parish having been at Millbrook.

The offering amounted to $3, and it was decided to join with the Auxiliary and Mission Band for a public worship service on the fifth Sunday in October, which is World Missionary Sunday, when the autumn thank offering will be received.

Marjorie Skitch gave the stewardship message, "Saving by Giving," and Jean Burnham took up a chapter from the study book, "City Shadows." The new book will be started at the October meeting, and as large a delegation as can be provided with transportation will attend the fall Circle Rally at Knox church, Peterborough, on October 18. A letter from the Presbyterial secretary Mrs. Franklin Bannister, called attention to this gathering, and also stressed the efficiency contest in which all circles may compete. A resolution will go in from the local society regarding the one preferred for the ensuing year, and a letter from Mrs. S. J. Smith, Presbyterial Stewardship secretary, urged increased giving that the total of $9,500 may be reached.

Isolated Battles Between Tanks Rage Near Gomel

LONDON, Oct. 5. — (CP).— Despite heavy autumnal rain which Moscow dispatches said were bogging down the Red army offensive along the 750-mile eastern front, the Germans reported to-day a resumption of large-scale Soviet attacks in the Kuban bridgehead in the Caucasus and the eruption of violent fighting at the mouth of the Pripet river and west of Smolensk.

The German communique asserted that Soviet attempts at a breakthrough in the Kuban were thwarted and that "enemy local attacks" at several points of the northern sector of the eastern front were "frustrated."

The burst of activity in the critical Smolensk-Kiev sector was "still going on at present," the Germans said.

The Russians themselves announced only "engagements of local importance" in the White Russian region except for a few fierce but isolated tank battles in which Red army troops were said to have forced a new river passage near Gomel, killed nearly 4,000 Germans and captured three towns.

Enemy resistance appeared to have stiffened both in White Russia and along the Dnieper River wall in the Ukraine, but there was every indication both in the Moscow war bulletin and dispatches from the front that heavy rains were playing their part in slowing down Soviet operations, especially in the bog-infested White Russian terrain.

Pound Kerch

Russian warplanes, however, took to the air yesterday to pound the last German remnants fleeing from the western Caucasus to the Crimea. They sank six barges carrying troops and war supplies, destroyed more than 100 trucks and armored vehicles, and dispersed ground troops concentrations, the Soviet bulletin declared.

A Berlin broadcast admitted the abandonment of Starotamanaskaya, virtually the last German base on the Taman Peninsula opposite the Crimea.

While bad weather and fierce Nazi resistance had slowed the Red Army for the first time since the capture of Orel, the lull gave the Russian command an opportunity of preparing for the next big phase—a tremendous drive across the Dnieper aimed at clearing the Ukraine of enemy positions west to the borders of Bessarabia. Men and material already were being massed for this expected operation.

Yugoslavs Take Adriatic Isle

LONDON, Oct. 5—(CP).—Yugoslav naval units, joining the liberation campaign to wrest the Dalmatian coast from the Germans, have captured the Island of Lofinj, 50 miles southeast of the Italian naval base of Pola in the Adriatic, a Yugoslav communique said today.

The island is one of a string lying along the coast where the Germans and forces of insurgent Josip Broz have been grappling for control of the ports of Susak and Split, and communications.

The communique broadcast by the free Yugoslav radio and recorded by Reuters News Agency said the Montenegrin town of Prijepolje on the River Lim also had been captured by patriots.

The Vichy radio said Russian staff officers had reached the Balkans to help organize guerillas and other partisans against the Germans.

Honorable Mention

Flying Officer John D. Hooper, R.C.A.F., serving on Atlantic coastal patrol, has been mentioned in despatches for his work on aerial reconnaissance and in anti-submarine work. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hooper, Dublin Street, Peterborough.

FO. John Hooper Had Part In Sinking Sub

OTTAWA, Oct. 5 —(CP)— The "probable" sinking of a German U-boat by the crew of an R.C.A.F. flying boat operating from an east coast station, announced several weeks ago, now is officially recognized as a "kill" it was disclosed today in citations covering decorations to the airmen.

The Distinguished Flying Cross was awarded to two members of the crew, the Distinguished Flying Medal to another, and Mention in Dispatches to four others.

Following are the awards:

D.F.C.—

Sqdn. Ldr. Barry Haig Moffit, A.F.C., captain, Toronto, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Moffit, live at Simcoe, Ont.

PO. Charles B. Spence, first wireless operator, Montreal, was a warrant officer (2nd grade) at the time of the action.

D.F.M.—

Cpl. Harold Knelson, second engineer, Bladworth, Sask.

Mention In Dispatches—

FO. John D. Hooper, co-pilot, Peterborough, Ont.

Flt. Sgt. (now WO2) Lyndon A. Hunt, navigator, Fort William and Sarnia, Ont.

Flt. Sgt. Phillips Arnold Corbett, second wireless operator-air gunner, Montreal.

Sgt. William Bedwell, first engineer, Marchwell, Sask.

The citations refer generally to long periods of valuable services in anti-submarine operations, but each refers specifically to one action in which Sqdn. Ldr. Moffit's crew of the "Gannet" squadron caught a U-boat surfaced. The submarine was first sighted by Knelson and when the aircraft roared down to the attack the conning tower and front gun were still awash.

Depth charges were dropped within 12 feet of the U-boat as it was diving and the explosion hurled the craft back to the surface. It wallowed for a few moments with little forward movement and then sank. Immediately oil rose to the surface and before long had spread to a slick 800 by 200 feet. Floating in the oil were planks and timbers apparently from the deck catwalk.

The early assessment was "probable kill" but today's citations call it "destroyed."

Citations

Sqdn. Ldr. Moffit—"This officer has been flying on anti-submarine patrol duty for approximately 32 months and has at all times displayed excellent leadership and skilful flying in the performance of his duties.

Night Action Mauls Jap's Fleet

Casualties Heavy As Bombs Blast Flotilla

By WILLIAM HIPPLE
Associated Press War Correspondent

U. S. HEADQUARTERS, South Pacific, Oct. 5 — (AP). — Attacking United States destroyers turned waters of the Central Solomons into a scene of 'carnage and complete confusion' for Japanese attempting to evacuate men and supplies by barge from besieged Kolombangara Island.

A naval spokesman at South Pacific headquarters, describing two successive night actions Friday and Saturday when 40 or more barges were sunk or damaged said today a force of Japanese destroyers attempted to intervene. He added:—

"But they turned tail on the first glimpse of carnage which was outlined by the glare of burning barges and floodlights."

On Saturday destroyers intercepted a heavy concentrations of at least 20 large enemy barges and many smaller ones. Most of the large craft were sent to the bottom along with another barge flotilla which had been broken up and destroyed the preceding night.

The waters of Vella Gulf were covered with wreckage and debris and slicks of oil. The scene was one of "complete confusion on the part of the enemy," the spokesman said.

At midnight Saturday, destroyers encountered a formation of Japanese gunboats. One was sunk and others were damaged.

The spokesman said it was impossible to estimate Japanese casualties in the Friday and the Saturday night attacks. Darkness made it difficult to tell which barges were carrying troops and which were laden with equipment.

Danish Police Flee To Sweden

By JOHN H. COLBURN
Associated Press Staff Writer

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 5 (AP). — Large numbers of Danish policemen are fleeing to Sweden along with thousands of Jews to escape arrest by the Germans.

Danish reports said today the Gestapo and Iron Guard forces have begun a roundup of the policemen, many of whom had refused to aid the Nazis in their hunt for saboteurs.

Twenty Danish policemen in full uniform reached Sweden today in one boat, while another boatload was reported sunk by German gunfire and the seven occupants were drowned.

One policeman said he helped free three accused saboteurs from prison before fleeing.

The number of refugees, which included 3,000 Jews, mounted readily today as boatloads of Danes reached Sweden. Sixteen Copenhagen journalists escaped rather than submit to German censorship.

Great Bomber Fleet Faces Light German Opposition

By ALAN RANDAL—Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Oct. 5 — (CP Cable). —Frankfurt, still reeling and smoking from an American daylight raid, was pounded by R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. bombers in a mass attack last night which left the Nazi war production centre so aflame that fires could be seen 300 miles away. Canadian aircrews from the Iroquois and the Bluenose squadrons of the R. C. A.F. bomber group reported little opposition, a fact probably attributed to disorganization caused by yesterday's American daylight raid.

On the other hand, some pilots said searchlight activity over the target was intense. Some said the searchlight concentrations were the biggest ever seen.

A smaller fleet of night bombers struck Ludwigshafen.

The Canadian heavyweights—Lancasters and Halifaxes—were engaged only in the main attack on Frankfurt.

Five R.C.A.F. planes are missing.

The Air Ministry announced the night's total losses were 12 aircraft.

The Berlin radio acknowledged that the attack on Frankfurt was "severe."

A broadcast asserted three hospitals were destroyed, with 150 children buried beneath one. As usual, the German propaganda made no mention of military objectives hit. It claimed 38 Allied planes were downed in the R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. attack and yesterday's raid by United States fliers.

The broadcast said Offenbach, five miles east of Frankfurt, also was heavily hit in the night and mentioned the Saar as another raided district.

The Germans could scarcely have had time to put out the fires and reorganize their defences after the American daylight attack on the important Frankfurt warplane factory when the R.A.F. returned to the scene and gave the city its 38th battering of the war and the fourth major British blow in as many nights.

The great bomber fleet ranged over much of the Rhineland during the night delivering the main attack on Frankfurt—exceeding 500 tons— and a force of Lancasters made a subordinate raid on Ludwigshafen, which, with its twin city of Mannheim across the river, has been blasted 55 times previously.

12 Fail to Return.

From all of these operations, which included Mosquito attacks on other objectives in North-west Germany, 12 airplanes failed to return.

The attack on Frankfurt, city of more than 500,000 people and the site of many motor, chemical and rubber tire works, was the R.A.F.'s first substantial raid there, and the 18th major Allied attack in a little more than a fortnight of thundering heavy bomber activity.

Returning bomber crews reported that large fires were eating through sections of the city.

Ludwigshafen and Frankfurt are almost equidistant from Britain between 420 and 450 miles. Lud-

Nazis Murdered Italians When Forced Out Of Naples

By RELMAN MORIN—Associated Press War Correspondent

NAPLES, Oct. 2—(Delayed)—(AP).—Naples is a stricken city today, but the Italians are fiercely proud of some of its scars.

"This is where we fought the Germans," they say, pointing to streets littered with the wreckage of armored cars, to shell riddled buildings and splintered walls lining some of the most famous avenues.

Pitched battles raged through Naples the last day and night before the 5th Army took the city, the Italians declared. Unmistakable proof of their words is visible in widely scattered places.

Since last Monday horror has stalked the streets. An Italian naval captain told us that a few sailors and marines began fighting at that

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer.

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, Oct. 5—(AP).—The year's outstanding pitcher in the major leagues, Spurgeon (Spud) Chandler, faced one of the toughest southpaws of the National League season, Max Lanier, as the New York Yankees and St. Louis Cardinals opened the 1943 World Series today before a capacity crowd of 70,000 fans.

Chandler, a righthander, won 20 games and lost four during the regular season, while Lanier's record was 15 and seven.

The Cardinals' use of a lefthander on the mound caused Manager Joe McCarthy of the Yankees to alter the line-up used most of the season and place two righthanded hitters, Tuck Stainback and John Lindell, in the outfield.

Last year, when the same teams met in the series, New York won the first game with Red Ruffing pitching against Mort Cooper, but the Cards came back to take four straight for the world championship.

The Line-ups:

St. Louis (N.L.)—Klein, 2b; Walker, cf; Musial, rf; W. Cooper, c; Kurowski, 3b; Sanders, 1b; Litwhiler, lf; Marion, ss; Lanier, p.

New York (A.L.)—Stainback, rf; Crosetti, ss; Johnson, 3b; Keller, lf; Gordon, 2b; Dickey, c; Etten, 1b; Lindell, cf; Chandler, p.

First Inning Cards

With the count two strikes and one ball Klein lifted a lazy fly to Lindell in centre field. Walker drove Stainback almost to the right field wall with a long fly. Musial picked out a three and one pitch and lined to Lindell in left centre.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

First Inning—Yanks.

With the count two strikes and one ball, Stainback lined to Kurowski.

With a one and one count, Crosetti rolled to Marion and was thrown out.

Johnson was called out on strikes.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Second Inning—Cardinals.

On the first pitch, W. Cooper bounced a single off Johnson's glove.

Aerial Push Hits Greece, Brenner Pass

5 Hun Divisions Poised To Block Allies

By WES GALLAGHER
Associated Press War Correspondent.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Oct. 5—(AP). — Powerful Northwest African air armadas — some flying from Italian bases—in a thundering two-ply attack hammered Nazi airfields in Greece and blocked the German reinforcement road into Italy by smashing bridges in the Brenner Pass rail city of Bolzano, it was announced today.

On the land in Italy, Anglo-American 5th Army troops who crossed the Calore River drove to nine miles southwest of Benevento yesterday to seize Montesarchio on the lateral road to Naples. Reinforcements were poured into British-held Termoli on the Adriatic.

It was officially announced that four or five German divisions along a line from coast to coast in Italy are putting up increased resistance to the 5th and 8th Army advances.

10 Miles North.

The 8th Army, operating on the Adriatic, has pushed more than 10 miles north of Termoli, and now stands but 40 miles from Pescara, it was announced. Pescara is at the Adriatic end of the main lateral road running eastward from Rome.

Heavy and medium bombers pounded at air bases in Greece, supporting the British defence of Kos in the Dodecanese, with the two-engined bombers making the attack from new bases in Italy itself. It was the first attack on Greece from this theatre.

(Corsica has been evacuated, Berlin announced, giving the Allies a great new air base and potential invasion springboard of southern France or northern Italy.)

The Brenner Pass feed line from Germany was again blocked by heavy bombers that destroyed railroad yards and bridges at Bolzano over the Isarco River.

The double blows on Italy and Greece were a new indication of the strength of the Northwest African air force, now able to lunge out to take German pressure off Koe in the Middle East.

Tribute Is Paid To Canada

LONDON, Oct. 5 — (CP Cable) — Inspired by Canada's war effort, Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard Monday devoted its entire editorial column to telling its readers, under the subhead 'Sword and Torch,' of the Dominion and her great contribution which is "a source of pride and emulation of all the Allied powers."

"Canadians fight in Italy and in Kiska," the paper said. "They fought at Dieppe, Hong Kong. For long, critical months they provided the steel core of this island's defences against invasion."

Asking the question: "Who are these Canadians?" the editorial reviewed Canada's growth to maturity, its population and expansion and post-war plans and concluded "Canada steps out but not away from the British faith which her sons and daughters have sacrificed so much so eagerly to defend."

Mud Brings Lull to Russian Fighting

Aerial Fighting So Heavy At Front, No Planes For Long Range Work

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Nature at her best generally can beat man at his worst, and the autumn deluge finally has produced almost impassable seas of mud which have brought the fighting on the Russo-German front to a near standstill in many sectors of the 1,000-mile front.

From now until the ground freezes in mid-November much of the eastern front will be a morass. There will be fighting, probably some of it fierce, but a general lull is in order—a Godsend to the fighting men on both sides who for months have been under a strain almost beyond human endurance.

Time To Breathe.

This slackening off in the fighting will give both sides a chance to pull up their stocks. The Russians appear to be getting set for a big winter offensive which will capitalize the sensational gains of the summer. This can't come until the ground freezes, and last year the Muscovites didn't get going until Nov. 19.

Even at that date the big rivers aren't well frozen, though the ground is hard enough for the movement of troops and equipment. For instance, the Dnieper, astride which much of the fighting front now rides, doesn't freeze in most places until mid-December or later.

Reflecting the possibility of another huge offensive, the Moscow newspaper Pravda describes a fighter plane factory where production has more than doubled in a year—without additional equipment and with five per cent fewer workmen. One of the planes produced at this plant is a new wooden-fuselage fighter which is regarded as among the Soviet's best aircraft.

Many Planes Lost.

While we are on the subject of offensives and aircraft, I've been asked to explain why it is that the Nazis haven't been bombing Moscow and other Russian cities well behind the fighting front, and why the Reds haven't been attacking German cities like Berlin.

Well, there are several reasons. Foremost we must place the fact that the fighting which has been raging along the Russian front since last winter has day by day been producing some of the most terrific air battles of the war. To give a single example at random, on May 17 of this year Moscow announced that the Red Air Force had destroyed 1,300 Nazi planes in two weeks. The Russian casualties weren't given. The losses in men and machines for many months past have been staggering.

In short, the demand for fighting planes and bombers along the front has been so heavy that neither the Russians nor the Germans appear to have had either time or equipment for many long-range adventures elsewhere. Last year the Russians, in co-operation with the R.A.F., did do considerable long-range bombing.

Airways Demand Expansion

29 Applicants Want International Routes

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 — (AP) —Nearly twice as many American companies want to fly goods and passengers to foreign lands as now carry them over the continental United States.

Before the war only one company— Pan American Airways — had an international route while there were 17 domestic carriers in the United States.

The United States Civil Aeronautics Board, which grants route certificates, both domestic and foreign—the latter only with the approval of the President—already has on file more than 50 requests for new routes or extensions sought by 29 applicants.

Among these are every large domestic air carrier, all of which are flying beyond their normal route limits because of war transportation demands and some of which are successfully spanning oceans in all directions under the contract for the military services.

The pending applications call for new routes to Alaska, Tokyo, Calcutta, London, Paris, Honolulu, Manila, Chungking, Delhi and all of Canada and Latin America.

Huns Admit Leaving Corsica

Allies Control Springboard To Europe

LONDON, Oct. 5 — (CP). — The Germans acknowledged to-day the evacuation of Corsica—picturing it as a semi-victory and "operative masterpiece"—but that strategic island was firmly in French hands, a possible invasion springboard into Southern France or the Northern Italian coast.

French troops, reclaiming another segment of French territory, won the last big town of Bastia yesterday, and remaining enemy pockets were wiped out by the French, American Rangers, and Italian troops of Premier Pietro Badoglio.

Corsica will give the Allies additional and easy-range bases for bombing the Germans at Nice, Genoa, La Spezia, and Leghorn in one-hour jaunts. This birthplace of the conqueror Napoleon also is a potential base for amphibious operations. The island, 112 miles long and 52 wide, is about 110 miles from the French coast and 50 miles from Italy.

Berlin asserted the last German troops were evacuated to the Italian mainland on Sunday night to "help in defending the European southern flank."

5th Army Takes Montesarchio Nearing Volturno

By WES GALLAGHER
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Oct. 5 (AP)—The powerful Allied air arm reaching out from North Africa battered German airfields in Greece for the first time yesterday, supporting the defence of Kos in the Dodecanese, and smashed at the German reinforcement route into Italy at the Brenner Pass rail city of Bolzano, it was announced today.

Aground, the Allied advance continued in Italy, with the Anglo-American 5th Army seizing Montesarchio nine miles southwest of Benevento, and with reinforcements for the British 8th Army poured behind Nazi lines at Termoli on the Adriatic coast.

Four-engined bombers bombarded the Menidi airfields north of Naples in mighty blows to defend invaded Kos, while two-engined planes showered fragmentation bombs on the airfield at Argos in the Peloponnesus.

Sailor's Names Deadline Near

Relatives of Peterborough boys in the Navy are reminded that this week is the last opportunity for registering the names of the sailor members of their family with the Peterborough Auxiliary to the Navy, in order that Christmas ditty bags may be sent to all local men in the blue of the navy. Any names that have not been registered at all or any changes in address should be sent in before Saturday night in order that not one may be overlooked when the ditty bags are sent out. The Auxiliary is anxious that not a Peterborough boy should be overlooked but can only make sure that all will be remembered with Christmas gifts if there is so-operation from the relatives in the matter of correct addresses. Names and addresses should be mailed to Mrs. F. D. Craig, 544 Water street, convener of the Ditty Bag committee before Saturday night, October 9.

Nazis Murdered

time when they noticed indubitable evidence the Germans were preparing to withdraw.

Bottled Up Huns.

That was the day—although the Italians didn't know it then—that British troops smashed German mountain defences above Nocera and the Americans pressed toward Avellino, making German positions in Naples untenable.

The Italians had nothing but pistols and a few hand grenades, the captain said, when they started to fight.

"But whenever we killed a German we took his rifle and ammunition," he went on. "Within 36 hours we had plenty of small arms, some machine-guns and 10 armored cars."

Then the real struggle began. The German garrison was forced to confine itself to an area of a few square blocks, and only patrols in armored cars could move elsewhere.

The Italians barricaded themselves in a number of the larger and sturdier buildings and fired every time they saw a German uniform. The Germans used 88-millimetre field guns and other artillery at point blank range trying to drive them out.

In an attempt to stem the rising tide of violence the Germans began shooting every Italian sailor and marine they found in uniform. All the bodies were brought back to the street where the marine building is located and were laid there, where the people could see them.

Chained 100 Civilians.

At the same time, the Italians told us, the Germans dragged more than 100 civilians—men, women and children—from their homes near the marine building, handcuffed them, riveted chains around their necks, and led them to the main square as hostages.

For nearly two days the group stood there, unable to sit down, without food or water. They were unchained only when the Germans took some out to shoot them in reprisal for the killing of Nazis, we were told.

In the area fully controlled by the Germans, the Italians said, Nazi soldiers ran amok, destroying objects of no conceivable military value apparently from sheer rage over losing Naples. Civilians were machine-gunned if they so much as showed themselves at windows.

One of the Germans' last acts, we were told, was to machine-gun a breadline on the outskirts of the city.

"I Couldn't Eat Because Everything Turned Sour"

Had So Much Gas, Bloating and Acidity; Got Dizzy Feelings, Bad Headaches; Very Nervous, Couldn't Sleep. Relates How Syntona Gave Prompt Relief.

"In the past year I suffered with bad stomach disorders, gas, indigestion and constipation," said Mr. T. Semonovitch, 213 Caroline Street North, a well-known Hamilton furrier, in a recent statement

"I couldn't eat because everything turned sour in my stomach. I would have acid risings with belching up of hot, sour liquids. Sometimes I felt awfully dizzy and got bad headaches. Spots floated before my eyes, especially if I stooped over. My tongue was always coated and I had a bad taste in my mouth. This condition kept me from getting my proper sleep at night, so in the mornings I felt tired and nervous.

"Although I took a lot of different things, they weren't helping me any, so when I read in the paper about Syntona I decided to try it. I was really surprised how soon afterward I began to feel better. It stopped the food from fermenting and souring in my stomach. I got so I could eat regularly and not have all that gas, belching and acid risings. My bowels were acting smoothly and regularly. I haven't had any dizziness, headaches or spots before my eyes lately and my whole system feels more healthy. I am also getting sound sleep at night and feel so much better that my work does not tire me as it used to."

MR. T. SEMONOVITCH

Syntona is made from the pure extracts of 12 of Nature's Finest Herbs and Roots. It acts on stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels. It aids in the elimination of excess acid and poisonous waste matter from the system and promotes better assimilation of food for increased strength and energy.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store. (Advt.)

Canadians Able To Handle Debts When War Over

"We shall emerge from this war with a great burden of public debt and a great task ahead of us to get the country running again on the production of wealth. Neither of these problems is a bit too big for us to face."

This was the prediction voiced before the Peterborough Rotary Club at its weekly luncheon on Monday by P. C. Armstrong of the staff of the Canadian Pacific Railway, Montreal, in a thought-inspiring address on "Why Be Scared"?

Introduced by Rotarian J. R. M. Fairbairn, Mr. Armstrong dealt effectively with the views of alarmists who predicted dire things for Canada after the war.

"The problem of getting the country running again" he summed up "is simply one of whether we have the courage or the industry to do it. It does not require any patent system."

"Our real trouble is that we spend too much of our time moaning over the hardships and misfortunes of our times and far too little realizing what the pioneers did to make this country out of a wilderness and that nothing but our own weaknesses can stand in the way of our carrying that task on, until this is one of the great nations of the world."

In beginning Mr. Armstrong took a shot at the folk who have been predicting disaster.

"Now with the certainty in front of us that—short of absolute insanity on our part—we shall win the war" said the speaker, "the alarmists turn to explain to us how certain it is that we shall lose the peace."

In that connection he deprecated the danger of a war with Russia. "Actually," he said, "the record shows a remarkable lack of intention to engage in long distance adventures and there does not seem to be any tangible reason for believing that Russia will be different in the future."

"There never was a time when there was better reason to hope for the first signs of that union of minds and hearts throughout the world which is the only guarantee of peace, and for which it is useless to hope to substitute Leagues of Nations or military alliances."

No Danger Here

As for the alarmists who insisted that the economic outlook was black Mr. Armstrong was equally emphatic. He pointed out that in spite of the deaths from war and local famines and pestilences that must follow it, there would still be 2,000 million people left capable of producing goods and services and consuming those which they and others produced. The war, too, was destroying vast quantities of capital goods that would have to be replaced and in addition the agricultural resources of the world were but little damaged even by war on such a scale.

"We shall find ourselves" said Mr. Armstrong, "extremely short of very vital necessities of both durable and non-durable goods when the struggle is over. It is now realized that the world will be quite dangerously short of foodstuffs for a while. This should not be an alarming situation for Canadians when we remember what a large share of the natural resources of the world we hold in Canada and that we are only short of the manpower with which to develop them."

Mr. Armstrong declared that the problem of marketing those goods would be solved satisfactorily. The choice might have to be made in the case of certain products between cutting down the costs of production or letting other countries have the field to themselves.

We Can Decide

"The point is" said the speaker, that we have it in our power to decide which of those two practices to follow in every line."

"There seems to be no reason for undue alarm over our ability to find international markets for the volume of goods which we want to sell. We cannot find those markets on our own terms but we certainly can find them."

Pointing out that alarmists also stressed difficulties in getting a government to operate the affairs of the country so that prosperity can be obtained, Mr. Armstrong said there were two fields of thought on that point.

"One is that which holds that the Government interferes too much with business," he said, "I am not speaking, of course, of wartime interference, for we all take that as part of the cost of war, and generally accept it—particularly when it hurts the other fellow and not us."

"There are arguments for abolishing this interference but many people are quite convinced that we should take the other course and that the Government should control and direct all economic and business activity in the country and in our business affairs."

Cannot Be Half Socialist

"We shall have to make up our minds on this point for it is just as true that a country cannot remain half Socialist and half free enterprise as Lincoln's remark that a country could not remain half slave and half free. If we are to have a government in Canada which owns all the means of production; directs each man where to work, sets the orice of each commodity and the wages of each worker, buys and sells in both international and national trade then we must be prepared to take the consequences."

"Those who recommend this sort of Government are usually very careful to say that they do not intend to interfere with everybody's property and everybody's affairs at first. They are only going to go after the big corporations for the moment but if we read carefully what they say we discover that this is only for the moment and that, quite correctly, they argue that sooner or later they will be able to have the government take charge of everybody's property and everybody's affairs.

"For my own part I do not like the prospect of that sort of Government because it is exactly the sort of Government which Herr Hitler has been trying to persuade us to accept or else it is a form of Government which will not work."

Dictatorship Or Chaos

"In plain words a Government that runs everything is either going to be dictatorship or chaos."

Mr. Armstrong pointed out that under that form of government mines would have to be operated at a loss because of political pressure, political expediency would enter into the location of state factories and again in the setting of prices.

"For these reasons" he said" it seems very doubtful whether a system of the government running everything could continue at all unless we abolished elective government and turned over all the authority of the nation to one man as has been done in Germany, Italy, Russia, Brazil, Spain, Rumania and many other coutries."

That is a very practical way of running a country but up to date it never proved very acceptable to English-speaking people."

"There is nothing to be scared about in the question of choosing a Government. If we want to be all soldiers in a sort of industrial regiment and each obey the orders he gets all we have to do is let those who would like to have dictatorial power have it. If on the other hand we prefer more liberty all we have to do is to elect men who place the preservation of liberty first on their platform."

Can't Go Whole Way

"Whatever system we choose, we should not be able to go the whole way with it. We can never have a government which really controls everything for there are some acts of the human being which he will now allow the government to control. Nor shall we have a government which does not interfere at all with enterprise for we are not prepared to have any man, or any group of men, ride roughshod over the rights of the great mass of the people merely because they are wealthy."

"Whatever the system of government which we adopt, however, the wealth of the nation will depend on the character and intelligence of the people of the nation."

"The plain fact is that there can only be one reason for being scared as to the future of Canada. It must be a lack of confidence in the honest industry and goodwill of the Canadian people. It must be the idea that we are a nation of idiots."

"It is high time we stopped being scared. Let us get about the business of putting into office the sort of Government which we should like to have and let us refuse to be scared into any political course by alarmist talk. Let us get about the business of developing new factories, farms and every other sort of industry in Canada. Let us get on with the task of trying to find the best job which we can independently insisting that we are free men and quite able to talk together, employers and workers, as becomes free men."

"Above all let us stop this business of wondering if they do things better in Russia, in New Zealand or in some other place. I offer a bet that very few Canadians move to Russia after the war and that if the Russian government permits it, a lot of Russians will move here."

"In short my answer to the question Why be Scared is that we should not be scared."

Rotarian C. E. Cummer moved the vote of thanks to Mr. Armstrong for his address.

M. H. Riddle, president of the club was in the chair and guests were Harold R. Scott, M. P. P. and L. H. Ingram of the Quaker Oats Company.

President Riddle urged Rotary support for the old phonograph record collection campaign.

Knights Honor New Bishop, Extend Welcome

K. of C. Army Huts are located in all of the far flung battle zones where Canadian troops are quartered or in action, Supreme Director Philip Phelan of Ottawa told a gathering of 165 men at the K. of C. Hall, Monday evening when a banquet was held to honor His Excellency Bishop MacDonald, on his installation as Bishop of the diocese of Peterborough.

Replying to the toast to Army Huts proposed by Captain, the Rev Dr. Frank Grant, Canadian Army chaplain, Mr. Phalen said the huts are located in Sicily, in Cairo and Alexandria, and that the director at Hong Kong along with the Y.M.C.A. director are prisoners of the Japanese.

Dr. Grant in his remarks, speaking as a civilian, an army chaplain and a member of the K. of C. was generous in his praise of the fine work that has been done so far, a work that gained recognition when the flames of World War 1 were ravishing Europe.

75 Huts In England

Mr. Phelan ably replied and during the course of his remarks pointed out that the Knights had seven huts in Labrador, and 75 in England, the same number in the old country as any other Canadian Auxiliary Service. A 150 bed hostel at Victoria, another the same size at Vancouver, and a 486 bed hostel at Halifax were catering to the needs of servicemen. He added too that on one day in Halifax the Hut had served 2,800 meals.

The toast to "Our Order" was proposed by District Deputy George Lee of Belleville and replied to by State Deputy Dr. Gerald Lunz of Hamilton. Dr. Lunz highlighted his remarks with the information that Knights of Columbus Councils across Canada, were co-operating with the Federal authorities by having each council set up a committee to consider post-war rehabilitation and reconstruction, under five headings, Christian democracy, family life, rural life, capital and labor, and co-operatives and credit unions.

The toast to Bishop MacDonald was proposed by John R. Corkery Peterborough lawyer. "It is but natural that the members of the K. of C. should rejoice that the Episcopal throne is now filled by a new shepherd to guide and rule the diocese of Peterborough," said Mr. Corkery in his first remarks. "We welcome him because his priestly career has been marked by service to his fellowman, far beyond the boundaries of the spiritual realm, for he has always been zealous of the social and the economic welfare of his charges particularly those of the working class. We welcome him too as a brother member of the Knights of Columbus, and extend to him the hand of fellowship."

This Order must at all times have the vitalizing, life-giving element that is spiritual, and we must keep also before us the high ideals of the founders of the K. of C. To Your Excellency we pledge our support and loyalty in all your undertakings, and trust that you may enjoy long fruitful years in your new charge."

Suggests Scholarships

Bishop MacDonald in responding said he was deeply appreciative of the honor bestowed on him by the gathering and was particularly grateful because so many high officers of the K. of C. attended the banquet. He talked in a humourous vein practically throughout, turning to the more serious side when he stated his hopes that the men of the diocese would be practical Catholics, that is men who knew their religion and practised it. He paid tribute to the Knights of Columbus for supplying readers to the pupils in the high schools, and mentioned too that some Councils had set up scholarships so that Catholic boys might obtain a higher education.

"Catholics like all other Canadians have serious work to do, and it is my earnest wish that this Council will devote time and thought to the post-war program as outlined by Dr. Lunz. The points are basically religious and moral.

Grand Knight Ernie Wolff was chairman at the dinner and he turned the gavel over to Dr. Mark Crough who presided in a capable manner as toastmaster.

Catering for the dinner was done by the Catholic Women's League. Junior Division under the convenership of Miss Gladys Costello, and during the program several musical numbers were provided by an orchestra composed of pupils from the Separate Schools.

PLEADS GUILTY.

"I would like this man remanded a week. There are some other matters to look into," said Inspector J. F. Reid in Police Court this morning after Harold Brooks had pleaded guilty to a charge of begging. Magistrate Langley remanded the man to jail until next Tuesday.

Crossetti was safe and Lanier was charged with an error. On the first pitch Crosetti stole second. Johnson bunted safely, sending Crosetti to third, as Sanders fielded the ball and was unable to tag Johnson or beat him to the bag. Litwhiler flied deep to Lindel and Sanders went to third after the catch.

Jap Barges Riddled In Retreat

Nips Evacuating Kolombangara Mercilessly Bombed

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, the Southwest Pacific, Oct. 5 (AP).— Retreat from the Central Solomons has become a hell for the Japanese.

For more than a month the self powered steel and wooden barges with which the enemy is seeking to remove from nearly-encircled Kolombangara Island a garrison once estimated at 10,000 men have been hunted down relentlessly by Allied planes and torpedo boats. During September more than 100 were blasted from the water or wrecked ashore.

Now, as the attempted evacuation reaches its height, destroyers have moved onto the scene and sent the rescue craft and their packed cargoes of troops to wholesale destruction.

On the night of October 1-2 and again the following night whole flotillas of barges were intercepted in Vella Gulf northwest of Kolombangara.

40 Barges Sunk

More than 40 of the barges were sunk or shattered, a communique disclosed today. Uncounted scores —perhaps hundreds— of Japanese soldiers were killed or wounded or cast helplessly into the sea.

(At Admiral William F. Halsey's South Pacific naval headquarters, a spokesman said that probably few of the barges reached their destination on Choiseul Island, 50 miles to the north. He left no doubt that the attempted withdrawal from Kolombangara meant the Japanese fully intended to abandon their last holdings in the Central Solomons.)

Gunboats guarding the smaller craft also came under heavy fire from the bigger guns of the Allied ships. One was destroyed and several others damaged.

The Japanese and the Allies also exchanged a series of air blows in the Central and Northern Solomons at a reported cost to the enemy of nine planes destroyed plus a destroyer and a large merchant ship damaged. The Allies lost one fighter plane and suffered, in an enemy dive bombing of Vella Lavella Island "moderate damage and casualties."

Turkey Swings To Allied Cause

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 (AP) — Turkey, staunch friend of the Kaiser's Germany but a diplomatic question mark in this war, supplied the United Nations today with their latest—and perhaps most exciting—weapon in the battle of nerves aimed at Hitler's besieged European fortress.

Diplomats once exceedingly wary of even discussing Turkey's role in international affairs boldly assert now that this key country is completely out of sympathy with the Reich and will enter the war on the Allies' side when the time is right.

The diplomatic grapevine said the Nazis have given up hope of enticing Turkey into their orbit and hope now only to keep her out of the war.

Ministers Ask Cancellation Of Midnight Shows

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 5 (ENS) —Thinking only of the welfare of boys and girls in this community, members of the local Ministerial Association attended the council meeting Monday night requesting that body stop midnightshows being held here. Four members of the association comprised the delegation which waited on council and each voiced the opinion, formulated at a meeting of the clergy earlier in the day, that the show which began after midnight on Sunday, was unnecessary.

Councillors gave a sympathetic ear to the opinions expressed by various members of the delegation who in turn addressed them, and expressed whole hearted support for their idea. Said Capt. Alex. Turnbull of the Salvation Army, "I don't believe these shows are a good influence on the 'teen age boys and girls....for the benefit of the community it would be well to do away with them." Other members of the association present were Rev. G. N. Maxwell, Rev. J. O. Ralston; Rev W. J. Hicks.

In support of the view presented, Mayor Long declared he had heard other citizens complain of the midnight show and he felt if this fact was drawn to the attention of the management they would discontinue the practice. He recalled the purpose of the entertainment at that hour was to provide an opportunity of relaxation to those who worked on the night shift all week. Questioned concerning the matter Solicitor N. A MacColl asserted the council could pass a by-law governing the opening and closing hours fo the theatre.

Councillor O'Sullivan said: "So far as I'm concerned I'm opposed to the midnight show."

Councillor Donald: "I disliked the idea from the time it started."

Deputy Reeve MacMillan: "There have been several complaints come to me regarding the noise early Monday morning and I took it up with the night constable who said that while he was on one side of the river they kicked up a rumpus on the other side."

"I think we should place some restriction on the closing hour of the restaurants as well," said Councillor Mason.

Restaurants Left

Shedding further light on the situations in so far as the restaurants were concerned the Deputy Reeve reported the night constable had to break up two fights between 10 p.m. Saturday and 1.30 a.m. Sunday at one restaurant and he felt too that some action should be taken to curtail these all-night sessions. On motion council left the midnight show question with the legal committee with power to act and the restaurant matter was deferred to a special meeting slated for October 14.

Speaking on behalf of local Boy Scouts, N. A. MacColl requested permission for that organization to hold its annual apple day here on October 16, but when it was pointed out this would conflict with the I.O.D.E. appeal for its National War Services Fund, it was decided to shift the date of the Scouts' drive to October 23. Road and Bridge Chairman MacMillan declared the sidewalk built from Second street to the Bedford property had been completed at a cost to the town of $210.63. For the benefit of critics who had estimated the cost everywhere from $500 to $1,000, he broke down the expenses as follows: Cement, $67.90; gravel, $4.50; labor and cement mixer, $138.23. Work contributed by Mr. Bedford included drawing gravel, $30; fill, $46; ploughing, $1.80.

A petition signed by local merchants requesting an extension of the present closing bylaw which expires this months was received. The petition requested a continuance of the practice of closing at 10.30 on Tuesday evenings throughout the entire year and that stores remain closed all day Wednesday the year round except during the month of December. On motion of Councillors Brady and Taylor the solicitor was authorized to make the by-law conform to the petition.

Under the heading "Reports of Committees" Council Brady reported a $25 offer from Mr. Manson LaBrash for a property on Second street. On motion the offer was accepted.

Fuel Trouble

"We will be held responsible if the people are unable to get fuel and cold becomes a real hardship this winter," said Mayor Long who suggested that council emulate the plan of other municipalities in providing a supply of wood to be sold to hard pressed citizens during the winter. Other members agreed the situation was critical and felt it was up to the town to do something now. Reeve Calder suggested the Mayor appoint a committee which would be empowered to buy up to '3,000 worth of fuel wood as soon as possible. The motion carried and the mayor appointed a 3-man committee comprising Councillors Mason, Donald and O'Sullivan.

Another question raised by the mayor was that of providing an anti-noise bylaw. He had received a number of complaints from persons residing on Front street of the unnecessary noise throughout the early morning hours. "People living on the main street must realize that certain noises are uncontrollable, however there are others that can be controlled. Action on this was deferred to the special meeting as was the proposed construction of a 132-foot strip of sidewalk on Kent street brought before members by Deputy Reeve MacMillan.

Determined not to exceed this budget the deputy reeve suggested the matter could wait till the finance chairman brought in a report. The deputy expressed the opinion that whoever sat on next year's council should be prepared to spend a considerable amount on sidewalk repairs. However road expenditures would be lessened so this did not necessarily mean a bigger budget.

Final business of the evening concerned the annual Court of Revision which was set for October 22 in the council' chambers at 7:30 p.m.

The mayor appointed members as follows: Reeve C. H. Calver, Deputy Reeve P. H. MacMillan, Councillors W. H. Brady, J. O'Sullivan and H. Fowlds.

Murray Given 1 Month For Using Bad Cheque

COBOURG, Oct. 5 — (ENS). — Remanded for sentence from last week on a charge of passing a bad cheque, Harvey Murray of Percy Township was sentenced to one month in jail by Magistrate R. B. Baxter yesterday morning.

"I would suggest that you stay as far away from Wesley Rogers as you can. It looks very much as if you were well aware of what you were doing," commented the Magistrate.

Evidence last week revealed Murray tendered a cheque to Mrs. S. McCaig of Percy Township in payment for cattle. The cheque was no good and apparently had not been signed by the accused, although it bore his name. John Wesley and Roy Rogers were with him when the cattle were bought.

CAMPBELLFORD

Christ Church Burns Mortgage

CAMPBELLFORD. Oct. 5. — (ENS).—The congregation of Christ church had more than one reason to observe with piety the annual Thanksgiving services here on Sunday since in addition to the blessings of harvest, members were informed by the rector that a mortgage carried on the Parish Hall for the past 17 years, had now been liquidated.

It was the payment of this debt which called for a special gathering in the Parish Hall on Monday night, serving the dual purpose of welcoming their second wartime pastor, Rev. W. J. Lennox and his family, and providing a setting for the ceremony of burning the mortgage.

Close to a hundred members of the congregation attended the ceremony which was interspersed with a musical program and concluded with a few remarks from the rector and refreshments. Inspired by the evident enthusiasm of the gathering, Rev. Lennox voiced confidence for the future of the church here which in June next will celebrate its 90th anniversary.

He recalled the first Anglican missionary had come to Campbellford in 1835 and suggested that past traditions and experiences were valuable "only when they inspire us to future achievement." Opposed to the holding of bingo and lotteries as a means of raising money for church expenses, Rev. Lennox urged his parishioners to adopt a plan of systematic giving.

The program of the evening included violin solos by Bruce Elmhirst and Vernon Marks, a piano solo by Miss Barbara Stephens, piano duet by Mr. and Mrs. George Nichols and a reading by Mrs. C. Newman.

CAMPBELLFORD

German Child Biggest Task During Peace

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 5 (ENS) —The question of what to do with Germany in the post war world was propounded by N. Alex MacColl Monday. Speaking to Rotarians at their weekly luncheon, Mr. MacColl reflected how Germany had staged a comeback for another try at world domination after the terms of the Treaty of Versailles and what they stood for had been forgotten.

Describing Prussia as the last state from the east to become a member of the civilized race the speaker traced the formation of the Germanic state from its loosely federated Holy Roman Empire up to the outbreak of the world war in 1914. His commendation of the German people was more of a warning than a compliment. Said he: "They are patient and assiduous in anything they plan and prior to 1914 they had established a real industrial machine by which they armed the strongest army in the world and built a fleet second only to that of Britain. Then they decided to take on Europe but by 1918 they had lost everything but the determination to try again, and they insisted the war was not of their making."

Fought Five Wars

The Germans have fought five wars in 75 years and the question now arises, "how are we going to prevent them from doing it again?" Evidence of German determination is plain as it comes from captured high ranking officers who obviously regard the present war as but a campaign in the Hun quest for world domination. They regard their plight as but one of the fortunes of war and if they lose they hope to salvage enough to go back where they were in 1918 and start all over again.

As to Germany's post war status the speaker said there were two schools of thought. One of these is advanced by an Englishman, Lord Vansittart, who belives the German people as a whole are to blame and must be punished, "so we must take possession of Germany and keep her down indefinitely. Her people have the fault in their blood. They have never sought to assert their rights as people. For them there has been no Red October, no Bastille Day, no Habeas Corpus, no Oliver Cromwell." In 1919 they were given a ready made democracy which proved to be merely a false front, "and they were quick to turn from their milk and water democracy to follow the saber rattlin of Hitler who, was elected to power by the people who knew his plans."

The second school of thought regarding Germany after the war is presented by Labor Leader Bevan who declares the Vansittart plan is an admission of the defeat of democracy. "He claims we must look to the time when there will be some good Germans." The fact Hitler found it necessary to surpress all parties but his own clearly indicates he recognized there were some who held a different view.

German children have been educated under the Nazi influence for the past ten years and it will take a long time to re-educate them but it must be other Germans who do this. Sending men from the United States or some other country to govern and educate will be futile in the opinion of Mr. Bevan. The country may be occupied for ten or even twenty years after the war, but such an occupation must be in accordance with a plan whereby they will eventually be discharged as self respecting citizens of the world.

The speaker concluded by saying "it is unlikely that as individuals we will have much to say concerning the final treatment of Germany but it is to be hoped that our leaders will take a strong attitude and not yield bit by bit as they did in the past."

TIRED FEELING ADDS YEARS TO YOUR LOOKS

If your mirror shows tired, droopy lines in your face, it's time to take action!

Tired people often have an overworked digestive system. Clogged with food waste and fatigue acids, because liver fails to supply 1 to 2 pints of bile every day. If liver bile slows down, your whole body slows down, fatty foods cannot be digested. You feel punk.

If always tired, get after your liver—purifier of blood, storehouse of energy. If liver carries off impurities, you feel full of pep. The safe way to increase liver's daily flow of bile is with BILE BEANS. These small laxative pills tone up entire digestive system—liver bile, stomach, kidneys. Never a Twinge of NEURITIS Now . . . . . .

If neuritis bothers you, deal with it as Mrs. Scully dealt with hers. She even dares to go swimming now!

"For years I was unable to knit," she writes, "owing to neuritis in my hands. Last year I started taking Kruschen, and now the knitting craze is on I can keep up with anyone. Already this year I have knitted about 12 pieces in all. I often go swimming now, and never feel a twinge of pain. I owe it all to Kruschen. I have not felt in better health for years, and will keep on taking Kruschen as long as I live." —(Mrs.) A. Scully.

Neuritis like rheumatism, lumbago and sciatica, may be caused by deposits of needle-pointed, flint-hard uric acid crystals which pierce the nerves and cause those stabbing pains. Kruschen helps break up these deposits and converts them into a harmless solution, which is removed through the natural channel—the kidneys.

And because Kruschen assists in keeping the inside so regular—so free from fermenting waste matter—body poisons such as uric acid don't get the chance to accumulate again.

Kruschen Salts are 25c and 75c at all drug stores.

Rome In Ruins

Dispatches from Switzerland say that the Germans mean to establish a line of defence at Rome, and are determined to hold that line against the Allies even if the city is reduced to ruins.

There may be no truth in this report. Often the Germans have planted stories with Swiss news agencies, knowing that they would be circulated widely in the Allied countries, merely to see what the Allied response would be. There is no compelling military reason why the Germans should hold Rome. Indeed, if the Allies disregarded that city and hastened northward the German defenders would find themselves in a trap. There is no natural line of defence around Rome, and a German decision to fight there would be an arbitrary one.

We cannot dismiss the German threat on purely military grounds, however. It may be that the Germans mean to destroy Rome in order to teach the Italians a lesson, and to give warning to the other satellites of the Axis of what they may expect if they seek to withdraw from the war.

Or the threat to leave Rome in ruins may be made in fulfillment of the German boast that if the Third Reich falls, all civilization will fall with it. The destruction of an ancient and beautiful city would be an act of barbaric vengeance, but the Germans have already proved at Naples that their greed for revenge on the Italians knows no limit. It may be that the Germans, realizing that the jig is up, are going to make their retreat through Italy a spectacular progress of rapine and pillage, so that if they cannot go down to posterity as conquerors, they will at least be remembered as titanic housebreakers.

Rome may be declared an open city at any time; the conditions for such a declaration have been made clear. The chief of these is that no troops and no supplies of war shall pass through the city. The choice which will decide the fate of Rome will rest with the Germans. Of course, they may take the opportunity of forcing thousands of Catholic Allied troops to wreck a city which they regard as holy; their pain in such an action would be equalled by that of thousands of other soldiers who would be forced to attack one of the loveliest cities that the world has ever seen. The sack of Rome, merely to spite the Vatican, would not be beyond German ferocity. Even the very mild resistance which has been offered them by the Pope has made him an object of their vengeance.

The fate of Rome is in German hands; it could hardly be in worse keeping.

Sir Thomas Raps The CBC

Sir Thomas Beecham, generally regarded as one of the greatest living orchestra conducters, has denounced the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, saying that it is, "not only the worst in the world, but has the reputation of being the worst".

Probably this will cause a tempest in a teapot. If it does so, Sir Thomas will be pleased; he likes to cause tempests in teapots, for sometimes the tempest gives the teapot a thorough scouring. In his recently published autobiography, A Mingled Chime, he tells us that when he was still a young man he discovered that a good public row on some artistic subject had a wonderful effect of clearing the air. We may assume, therefore, that when Sir Thomas condemns the CBC roundly he is overstating the case in order to attract attention to a situation which he thinks should be corrected.

Let no too-fervid Canadian resent this criticism from an Englishman. Thomas Beecham has made it his business to travel widely in the British Empire, and he has done more to raise the standard of musical performance in the British Dominions than any other single man. When he talks about broadcasting systems he knows his subject. He has had experience with broadcasting corporations in many parts of the globe, and we may assume that he knows a good one when he sees it.

His chief complaint against the CBC is that it does not do enough for Canadian musicians. We have said the same thing many times in these columns; the writers and musicians of Canada need more encouragement from the CBC than they get, and this is owing to a great extent to a timid policy on the part of the program department; "timid" is our word—Sir Thomas said "weak and spineless".

But not all the fault lies with the CBC employees. There are circumstances which Sir Thomas probably does not know. Hardly a year has passed since the CBC was initiated that it has not been the subject of some sort of an enquiry; that makes for an uneasy atmosphere, and is absolute death to first-rate artistic effort. It has been handicapped by an ineffective Board of Governors; this body does not appear to be made up of men and women who are genuinely interested in the cultural development of Canada, or who have first-hand experlence of guiding large corporations; their lethargy infects the whole organization. The CBC has been the stepchild of its Governors and the football of Parliament; is it surprising that it is a timid and unsatisfactory broadcasting system?

Sir Thomas Beecham's criticism may be taken as the opinion of an outsider who knows a lot about broadcasting systems, and about the encouragement of art. We who are Canadians know where much of the trouble lies. When are we going to set matters right?

A Boaster And a Liar

The Germans have some excellent proverbs; for instance, they say, "A boaster and a liar are first cousins". Do they think of that folk-saying these days in relation to their Fuehrer? They might well do so, for he has boasted and lied to them in a manner far surpassing their own great Baron Munchausen.

As another winter draws near do they recall the speech which he made on last September 30, when their forces were within reach of Stalingrad, and when they were far into Egypt, with the Suez Canal apparently within their grasp? It was then that he said:

"Our enemies believe that some sort of expedition lasting nine hours (Dieppe) is an astounding and most encouraging sign of victorious action. If we advance 1,000 kilometers, that is nothing. If we advance to the Don and finally reach the Volga, that means nothing. If we advance to the Caucasus, if we occupy the Ukraine, if we take in our possession the Soviet coal, if we take 65 to 70 per cent. of all Russian iron, if we get the greatest grain country of the world, if we secure for ourselves the gasoline sources there, that again is nothing.... The occupation of Stalingrad, which will also be concluded, will become a gigantic success. And you can be of the firm conviction that no human being shall ever push us away from that spot.

"If I had an opponent of adequate scope—of real military size—then I could actually calculate approximately where he would attack. But if one has before one military idiots one cannot even guess where they will attack. I can assure Mr. Churchill that...regardless of where will be the next place he will choose, he will be able to speak of good fortune if he will be able to stay on firm land for a mere nine hours.

"We shall be in the lead with our oldest ally, Italy.

"Our U-boats are succeeding beyond all expectations. That will not change.

"I can tell the home front today: You may be fully reassured that the entire front, whether in the east, west, north or south, stands unshakable."

Only one clause of this speech is true today — "one cannot even guess where they will attack".

How amply the boaster has proved himself a liar, and how little greatness as a military leader is shown in his words! No good soldier despises his enemy. That jibe about "military idiots" will be remembered to Hitler's discredit as long as history lasts. If he did not hate the Jews so bitterly he might have been acquainted with a saying of theirs —"Whosoever shall say, Thou fool, shall be in danger of hell fire",—and from it he might have learned the wisdom of humility. But it is not possible for men like Hitler to learn from books; they must learn from experience, and experience, to quote another proverb, is the name which people give to their mistakes.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A gossip is now being defined as a person with a keen sense of rumour.

In U.S. concentration camps, all the disloyal Japanese are being segregated. Putting all the bad eggs in one basket.

Girls in five Ohio war plants have been forbidden to wear sweaters. Camouflaging the home front?

Several job shirkers are reported to have been rounded up during raids on pool rooms. But they are still behind the eight ball.

The smell of soft coal burning these autumn nights reminds the Kitchener Record of a visit to an old-time blacksmith's shop. Especially if someone lights up a cigar of the type which faithfully reproduces the smell of scorching hoof.

Alarm Over Juvenile Crime

From the
WINNIPEG FREE PRESS

THOUGHTFUL people everywhere in Canada are worried about the great increase in juvenile delinquency — both major and minor offences, and girls as well as boys. "The total number of children judged delinquent in 1942 numbered 11,758, as against 7,613 in the year 1939, an increase of 54 per cent," the Canadian Welfare Council said recently. The increase in the different provinces is now given by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. In the Prairie Provinces that increase is much greater than anywhere else except in Prince Edward Island, though the percentage of delinquency is actually higher in Ontario and Quebec.

In Manitoba, the increase in the three years was from 45 to 81 per 100,000 of population; Saskatchewan from 24 to 52; in Alberta from 56 to 104.

Ontario had 115 convictions for juvenile offenses per 100,000 of population last year, and Quebec had 120.

Manitoba was second highest in juvenile convictions for major offenses with 68 per 100,000 as against 80 in Ontario, 59 in Alberta, 44 in Saskatchewan.

But Manitoba was second lowest in convictions for minor offenses with 13 per 100,000, as against 45 in Alberta, 35 in Ontario, eight in Saskatchewan.

Some may say that too much leniency with minor offenses would mean a failure of correction and would encourage an increase of major offenses. On the other hand, the extension of the probation system is frequently urged.

THE juvenile court judge in Toronto strongly favours bringing fewer children into the juvenile court and having as many cases as possible taken care of by the probation officers, without the children having the unfavourable distinction, or the notoriety, of being brought before the judge. The superintendent of the Children's Aid Society in Edmonton says that "taking juveniles to juvenile court is used only as a last resort." The probation officers try to befriend the boys and girls and direct them into right channels. Magistrate H. S. Wood, appointed by the British Columbia government to survey the magistrates' courts with regard to improving the system of dealing with juvenile delinquents, recommended among other things that the probation system be extended as far as possible to all young offenders.

An increase in juvenile delinquency is sure to lead to an increase in serious offenses by youths, and the situation regarding the latter in Ontario was deplored by Chief Justice R. S. Robertson of that province a short time ago.

"Magistrates and police inform us," he said, "that in the present times there are many young people of both sexes living without restraint and indulging in crime of all sorts. This is a very disturbing fact at a time when the betterment of social conditions is so ardently desired and planned for.

"What kind of social order will we have if we continue adding to the members of the criminal class and allowing young boys and girls to fall into that way of life?"

An earnest purpose of the people of the country is needed, he said, so that with all other social improvements, this festering sore should not be permitted to grow and spread.

"These boys must not only cease to do evil. That can be accomplished by locking them up. They must learn to do well. It should be possible to salvage many to cure the ravages of this war and, perhaps, to fill the places that would be otherwise empty," he declared.

ONE of the difficulties in preventing the increase in juvenile delinquency was stated by the Canadian Welfare Council to be "the fact that our youth and recreational agencies are being increasingly stripped of their key workers," and it said that "in this weakening of wholesome leisure-time and recreational programs for young people lies part of the answer to what is happening."

An opinion on the causes of delinquency and methods of prevention expressed by Brig. D. C. Draper, Chief of Police in Toronto, who said that for many years he had observed at close range the problem of delinquency and crime. With all the preventive efforts that were being made, he said, we are not reaching the core of the problem.

"We are not getting into the bad spots, cleaning out the crime-breeding elements, and providing other channels of diversion through progressive recreational, body-building and, above all, character-building activities that will guide this delinquent, abnormal behavior group to the road of clean living and good citizenship.

"The greater percentage of juvenile delinquency will disappear," he declared, "when behavior is reckoned with humanely, intelligently, and scientificially; when home, school, community and government become aware that a child's behavior has even more to do with his usefulness than his health. Then a police or probation officer's or parents' report of symptoms of delinquency will be responded to immediately, and trained personnel will go into action, as when a doctor reports that a child has smallpox. We will then no longer stagger and continue to flounder under the problem of juvenile delinquency."

EVERYONE knows that the lack of parental responsibility is the chief cause of the trouble but one not easily cured. And the social workers state that there has been a serious decline in the parental sense of responsibility. Methods must be found of dealing with that as far as it is possible. And by wise planning, some progress undoubtedly could be made.

There are other things that the community must do. It must clean up the slum conditions and assure every family of a decent home. It must make greater provision for playgrounds and recreation facilities for the young. They must be kept interested and occupied. Delinquency has been definitely reduced in this way. The schools, and the home and school associations, might also play an important part.

Neglect of the delinquency problem will be very costly. Preventive measures will pay for themselves. There is nothing inevitable about most of the delinquency. It is due to natural causes and unfortunate conditions that can be corrected. That calls for a broad program, and the high importance of the problem should assure it of the full support of the community and of the public authorities.

"VALLEY OF THE SHADOW"

Reminders Of Pauline Johnson

(T.A.K. in the Montreal Gazette)

SOME twenty-five years ago, Miss Evelyn H. C. Johnson, sister of Miss Emily Pauline Johnson, Indian poetess who boasted of a long line of ancestors high in the councils of the Six Nations, bequeathed a box of personal treasures to the Brant Chapter, I.O.D.E., of Brantford, Ont., with the proviso it was not to be opened until 1943. The time having elapsed, the Brant I.O.D.E., with consent of executors of will of Miss Johnson, broke open the box. The relics therein were found to be of sentimental value—two large pictures of Napoleon, for whom her father, Chief G. H. M. Johnson, had great admiration; other photographs, letters and books; Indian necklaces, pictures of Indian types, legends, a snow-white lock of her mother's hair, and some trifles.

Until her death in 1913, Emily Pauline Johnson was a familiar figure in Canadian cities, in many of which she delivered lectures. She was famous in her native Canada, and in the United States and Great Britain as well, for her poetry, which had a fascination all its own because of its championship of the cause of the Red man.

Miss Johnson (Tekahionwake was her Indian name) was born on the Indian reserve near Brantford in 1862, the daughter of G. H. M. Johnson (Onwanonsyshan), head chief of the Six Nations, and of Emily Howells, of Bristol, England. She early showed an aptitude for literature and as a girl wrote poetry. It was in 1892 that she attracted public attention by a recital she gave at a gathering of authors, assembled to read their own work. The Toronto newspapers gave her such favourable notice that a fortnight later she was called upon to give a recitation all her own, and at which she recited one of her best poems, "The Song My Paddle Sings," from which we quote these lines:

West wind, blow from your prairie nest,
Blow from the mountains, blow from the West.
The sail is idle, the sailor too,
O wind of the West, we wait for you!
Blow, blow,
I have wooed you so.
But never a favor you bestow,
You rock your cradle the hills between,
But scorn to notice my white lanteen—
I stow the sail, unship the mast;
I wooed you long but my wooing is past;
My paddle will lull you into rest.

After this recital it was arranged that Miss Johnson should go to England to find a publisher for her poems, in which quest she was successful. Her poetry found a ready market on both sides of the Atlantic. For sixteen years thereafter Pauline Johnson conducted recitals, always with a favcrable reception. The fact that she was of noble Indian blood intrigued lovers of literature in Canada and across the border, but her poetry had true merit and could and did depend upon itself for readibility and worth. Theodore Watts-Dunton ventured to predict the Canadians would cherish the memory of Pauline Johnson more and more as the years passed.

"The Pilot of the Plains" paid tribute to the Indian's trustworthiness and gift of woodlore:

Late at night, say Indian hunters, when the starlight clouds or wanes,
Far away they see a maiden, misty as the autumn rains,
Guiding with her lamp of moonlight
Hunters lost upon the plains.

Another Johnson song was of the robin, its title being The Songster, some lines of which herewith are quoted:

Music, music with throb and swing,
Of a plaintive note, and long;
'Tis a note no human throat could sing,
No harp with its dulcet golden string—
Nor lute, nor lyre with liquid ring,
Is sweet as the robin's song.
He sings for love of the season
When the days grow warm and long,
For the beautiful God-sent reason
That his breast was born for song.

The revelation by the I.O.D.E. Brant Chapter of the contents of the mystery box recalls a fascinating Canadian singer of a past day; perhaps this reminder will lead readers of poetry to resort again to the poems of E. Pauline Johnson, gifted daughter of two races.

U.S. Tribute to Our War Controls

While Canada's price and wage ceilings and other wartime restrictions are under heavy pressure from several quarters and the target for a gathering volume of abuse, there is a vast army of onlookers across the border who are looking this way with admiration and even envy.

The great majority of the Canadian people, more concerned in the successful outcome of the war and preservation of the country's economic and financial stability than in furtherance of selfish personal aims, are loyally accepting restrictions of various kinds as the price of a winning war effort. Unfortunately, they are less vocal than the dissatisfied and the troublemakers who desire to win the maximum benefit for themselves regardless of other interests.

Outsiders may have a clearer vision. In any case the following statement by the Enterprise, a Minnesota daily, should be of interest to all Canadians: "It is suggested that the national administration send to Canada for copies of the laws and rules which seemingly are taking the Dominion through the harried war days in a stride which has increased respect for law and order, and accomplished the objective of maintaining the national economy on a sound and stable footing. Canada gets much of her gasoline from the United States, yet the rationing is more generous than here. Canada has kept the cost of living low, yet no fantastic point system governs the distribution of food. Indeed, common sense regulations applied by a government which feels an obligation to all of the people happen to be the key to the success with which the brethren to the north hold the line on the home front."—Calgary Herald.

Einstein

When Professor Einstein visited Palm Springs last year, another distinguished guest at his hotel was James Schnozzola Durante, Bennett Cerf writes in Saturday Review of Literature. One day the manager called Jimmie and said, "Professor Einstein has his violin with him. I told him you might accompany him at the piano for a while." Jimmie agreed, and there followed the most incongruous duet in the history of music. "I don't play so good," confessed Jimmie. "Every time I made a really terrible mistake the professor gave me a hurt look like I done it on purpose." As an afterthought, he said, "The professor made plenty of mistakes, too!"

Professor Einstein is fascinated by American slang. He listened carefully three times to the story of the employer who told his secretary, "There are two words I must ask you never to use in my presence. One of them is 'lousy', and the other is 'swell.'" "Okey doke," answered the secretary. "What are the two words?" asked Einstein. When he finally comprehended, the professor threw back his head and roared with laughter. Jascha Heifetz's irrepressible sister Pauline stopped him cold when she sat next to him at dinner at a recent Princeton function. "Tell me, professor," she said with deadly seriousness, "is this mathematics racket really on the level?"

Mental Casualties

Selective Service officials in the United States say that 23 per cent. of all men rejected by local boards and by examiners at induction centres are turned down for neuro-psychiatric reasons, The Toronto Telegram points out.

Military officials says the rate of rejection is much higher than it was in the Great War. They cite army figures which show eight out of every 100 men examined are rejected for neuro-psychiatric reasons prior to induction—as compared with a rate of about two per 100 rejected for nervous or mental unfitness during the last war.

This increase is not attributed to any increase in mental disorders among the general population. Rather, it is attributed to advanced knowledge of psychiatric techniques, to more thorough screening of prospects, and to a realization of the tremendous costs to the Government that resulted from mental cases in the last war.

It is estimated that the Government already has spent more than $1,000,000,000 on the mental casualties of that war, and that the care of each case costs approximately $30,000.

A Bible Message

Behold, God exalteth by his power: who teacheth like him? Who hath enjoined him his way? or who can say, Thou hast wrought iniquity?

Remember that thou magnify his work, which men behold. (Job 36: 22-24.)

Blessed be the Lord God, the God of Israel, who only doeth wondrous things. And blessed be his glorious name for ever: and let the whole earth be filled with his glory; Amen, and Amen. (Ps. 72: 18, 19.)

I know that, whatsoever God doeth, it shall be for ever: nothing can be put to it, nor any thing taken from it. (Eccl. 3: 14.)

And God saw every thing that he had made, and, behold, it was very good. (Gen. 1: 31.)

Unconsidered Trifles

An old-age pensioner, unable to write, drew a circle on her form instead of the usual cross.

"Why didn't you make a cross, as you usually do, madam?"

"Well, my dear, it's this way," replied the old lady, shyly. "I got married again yesterday and changed my name."

Their cars having collided, Jock and Pat were surveying the situation. Jock offered Pat a drink from his bottle. Pat drank and Jock returned the bottle to his pocket.

"Thank ye," said Pat, "but aren't you going to have a bit of a nip yourself?"

"Aye," replied Jock, "but not until the police have been here."

Little Gordon had arrived home from school with a cut lip and a black eye.

"Dear me!" exclaimed his mother. "Do you mean to say you've walked through the streets like that?"

"I had to, mum," grinned Gordon. "You see there wasn't room for two of us in the ambulance."

At 2 o'clock in the morning a lady telephoned the president of a department store. After much ringing the man answered with a sleepy and gruff Hello."

"This is Mrs. Brown," said the lady, in a syrupy voice. "I just couldn't help calling you personally to tell you that the hat I bought at your store last week is stunning."

"That's very nice," yawned the president, "but would you mind telling me, madam, why you call me at this hour of the night about a hat you bought last week?"

"Because," she replied politely, "your truck just delivered it."

Sheep on the Golf Course

An eminent golf course builder, Stanley Thompson, has pointed out that golf courses in Canada cover more than 100,000 acres and that approximately 70 per cent of them, or 70,000 acres, would make splendid sheep grazing, that the sheep would not destroy the greens, would keep grass short in the fairways and places difficult to mow, where balls are generally lost; that they would provide much valuable manure and would not interfere with play.

The few Canadian clubs which have adopted sheep raising as a wartime measure, have reported favorably upon the venture; it is an old established practice in England; but not likely to become widespread in this country, as boards of management of Canadian clubs are for the most part unfamiliar with matters pertaining to agriculture.—Family Herald and Weekly Star.

LCW To Celebrate 30 Years Of Activity In Community

The Local Council of Women of this city, which this Friday evening celebrates at a tea the 30th anniversary of it's founding, was founded in February, 1913 by Mrs. Willoughby Cumming of Toronto and Mrs. J. C. Davidson was it's first president.

During the first year of it's existence, 1913-1914, the council was instrumental in securing medical inspection in the public schools, discussed the value of mother's meetings in the schools, aroused public opinion to the need of a policewoman, and assisted in the formation of an associated charities board and in raising money for a hospital ship. Since then the council membership has swelled from 22 societies to 62 and the Council has played a prominent and important part in community affairs, introducing many reforms.

The L.C.W. took an active part in discussing the right of women to the franchise, a right that was granted by the legislature in 1917. During the war of 1914-18 it co-operated with the government in the National registration and in a campaign for the conservation of food and also was active in war work. It endorsed the principle of women trustees on the Board of Education and in 1923 supported two women candidates for the Board.

In 1917 the Council led in protest against the admission of children to certain types of shows, and in doing so, found a perennial matter for protest, for in 1924 it asked theatre owners to discontinue the showing of a poor type of film and vaudeville show; in 1928 it urged special films for children; in 1939 a resolution was passed strongly objecting to midnight shows and a successful movement to have these shows abolished was led by the Council and supported by the Ministerial Association and the City Council.

Police Matron

Among the improvements instigated by the L.C.W. was the appointment of a police matron, the establishment of a well-baby clinic, religious instruction in the schools, and the opening of the reading rooms of the Public Library on Sunday afternoons for the use of those who had no homes in the city and nowhere to go on Sundays.

Many excellent speakers, local and from out of town, have addressed the regular meetings of the Council, among them Mrs. Courtice, founder of the Home and School Association, Mrs. R. C. Smyther and Mrs. Wilson, provincial and national presidents of the Council of Women, Dr. Maude Royden, Miss Winnifred Kydd, Senator Iva C. Fallis, and Mrs. R. C. Matthews, president of the Navy League of Canada.

Among the women who have served terms of office as president of the Peterborough Local Council of Women are: Mrs. J. C. Davidson, the first president; Mrs. F. C. Neal, two years; Mrs. Robert Harstone, three years; Mrs. A. Mowat, three years; Mrs. A. Stevenson, three years; Mrs. C. H. Edwards, four years; Mrs. B. W. Harvey, two years; Mrs. C. M. Scott, four years; Mrs. E. Wand, four years; and Mrs. W. H. Morton, the current president, elected last January, at the annual meeting.

Last spring the Council gave a very successful spring tea at which the chief feature was a doll's house built by John Todd, a crippled boy, and a display of over two hundred dolls. So successful was the tea and display, that the council has decided, in response to many requests, to hold a similar display at the fall tea, to be held at the Y.W.C.A. on Friday evening from 6.00 until 9.00 p.m. when, in honor of the 30th anniversary, there will be a birthday cake with 30 lighted candles.

The office staff at the Genelco presented Miss Elgar with a handsome solid walnut coffee table and before she finally left the Y.W.C.A., where she had boarded during her term of residence in Peterborough, her girl friends there had a personal shower which included many beautiful gifts. The Stars Say . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE.
For Wednesday, October 6.

A difficult day with much of an open antagonism from those higher up as well as from hidden, peculiar and obscure or intriguing sources, is read from the prevailing astral influences. There may be many subtle temptations, luring to affiliations of a sordid or sinister nature, and these may be at the root of want of co-operation from desirable places. Side step these entanglements, safeguard the resources and there is fine prospect of business prosperity, and much pleasure in domestic or affectional relations. The social aspects may prove helpful in placating antagonists.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is while having the definite promise of a happy and prosperous year, with many gratifications in personal and business affairs yet may be lured to failure and sinister experiences through trickery and deceitful snares. Beware of all sorts of subtle or obscure intrigues, guard against all traps and snares involving finances as well as reputation, turning away the good will and aid of those in influential positions. With caution and probity there is keen promise of success and social and affectional gratification.

KING EDWARD GAINS 2-1 DECISION OVER QUEEN MARY IN SOCCER

Goal Marksmanship Very Erratic

King Edward won their first soccer league game in the Public School soccer league on Monday afternoon when they got the edge on Queen Mary by the score of 2 to 1. The winners got their meagre lead in the first half but wilted to the energetic losers in the second half and were hard pressed to hold their lead that gave them two valuable points.

First Half

Opening exchanges proved interesting as the elevens endeavoured to get the breaks through combination and after ten minutes of play, Byers stopped Queen Mary forwards in the nick of time. He punted the ball down into the left wing where Clark dribbled his way towards goal, then slipped the ball over to Lawson who gave it a gentle tap inside the corner of the upright. Thereafter, Queen Mary bombarded the King Edward goal without success as they missed their objective by inches. Twice did Bradley have a splendid opening but he shot into the custodian's hands. Just before the interval, Murray broke up a dangerous raid by Queen Mary and carried the sphere right into goal Eakins gained possession and registered the second counter. Half time: King Edward 2, Queen Mary 0.

Second Half

On resuming, Queen Mary put Alex Archibald in goal in place of Revoy who went up on the attack. His presence was evident as he rattled in a smart goal within two minutes. Encouraged by their success they confined the play inside the King Edward territory to find Dibben, Byers and Murray the stalwarts that held them in check for the remainder of the period. Six minutes before the finish, Dibben conceded a penalty kick and Nicholls sent the parting shot into the custodian's arms. Riches making a smart clearance. Murray punted clear to send Lawson away to the other end where he witnessed Archibald save his parting shot. Fowler carried the ball down the centre to concentrate Queen Mary's forwards on King Edward goal who were compelled to kick to touch to safeguard their meagre lead. Full time: King Edward 2, Queen Mary 1.

Goal scores: K. Lawson, L. Eakins, King Edward; V. Revoy, Queen Mary.

Queen Mary: A. Archibald, goal, J. Gray and W. Finnie, full backs, K. Nicholls, J. Flowers and B. Collins, halves; R. Knapp, V. Revoy, P. Russell, H. Bradley and R. Butcher, forwards. Subs: H. Grafstein and T. Taylor.

King Edward: A. Riches, goal; A. Crocker and D. Downer, full backs; H. Dibben, J. Byers and J. Murray, halves; N. Lane, L. Eakins, K. Lawson, D. Floyd and R. Clark, forwards. Subs: Billy Dolan, J. Robertson, M. Chambers.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 5 — (AP). — A peculiar thing about this World Series is that the experts who have been watching American League baseball all season generally are picking the Cards to repeat, while the National League followers go for the Yanks....That apparently reflects their opinion of 1943 baseball while they're still picking on the basis of what it used to take to win.

Down the middle:

One way of figuring the strength of a ball club is to rate them on the catcher-centre field axis....A tipoff on this may be that the Cards have completed 180 double plays this season and the Yanks have grounded into 137, just four short of a record.

One-minute sports page:

Branch Rickey and Chuck Dressen sat together at the Garden fight last night—which can be interpreted any way you please.... But don't expect any announcement from Rickey about Leo Durocher's status as Dodger manager until the Series furore has died down.....Bobby Ruffin's victory over Beau Jack reminded some of the more literate fight followers of Harry Markson's favorite scrambled quote: "Punches roll off him like a duck takes to water."

Thrown for a loss:

To hear Manager Chick Wergeles tell it, yesterday must have been Beau Jack's unlucky day.... First he weighed more than greed on and Bobby Ruffin's followers insisted on a larger "cut" in the receipts to fix that....Then there was an argument over dressing rooms and they had to toss a coin for the favored cubicle....And finally Beau lost the fight....."We won the toss," moaned Chick, "but that's the only thing we won all day."

SPORTS — DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

Everything is set for a lively evening at the Brock St. Arena tonight when Killer Katan and Gentleman Jack Clayborne will at long last settle their argument in a grudge battle that promises to surpass anything in the line of excitement seen here since Promoter Frank Tunney revived the mat game in Peterborough. Clayborne, anxious to even up with Katan for the doubtful victory the Panther grabbed off the last time the two met here six weeks ago and the Killer just as eager to take the Black Comet to the cleaners for forcing a return engagement are both likely to turn on the heat from the first minute and there should not be a dull moment from then on. Katan is plenty tough and also plenty capable and it will take all the colored grappler's speed and skill to keep himself intact for the hour the battle is scheduled to last. The winner gets a shot at the British Empire title but according to our idea of tonight's tussle the two would fight just as hard if there were nothing at stake. It should be a memorable match. A lot can be expected, too of the battle between Toar Morgan and Al Bunny Dunlop. The Toronto boy has been handing out plenty in recent bouts but he meets a fighter tonight who can be just as tough as he is and who in addition moves faster than the big weight-lifting champ. The more Dunlop tries to dish out the more of the same kind of stuff will be headed his way and it promises to be a wow of a contest. Buster Hayes of Ottawa a new-comer here is being asked to handle the roughhouse Doc Felice in the other bout. If Buster can turn the trick he will have the unanimous approval of local fandom for Felice is in the black books here for his rowdy behavior.

Golfers are still talking about the long-drawn-out battle for the championship of the Peterborough Golf and Country Club, between the veteran Bob Abbott and Stan Payne in which the latter won out by one hole. It was undoubtedly the longest playoff in the history of the club. The two finalists started in a week ago Sunday and were to have settled the argument with a 36-hole match that day. However after the first 18 holes had been played and Payne was three holes up rain interfered and it was decided to postpone the remaining 18 holes. The two met last Wednesday and this time Abbott had squared the match at the end of the second 18 holes. Instead of playing an extra hole to settle the championship the decision was to play 36 holes more last Sunday. The result was that at the end of the first 18 holes Abbott and Payne were still on even terms. However Payne went one up coming home and it was enough to win for him but it was a tight fit indeed. As a matter of fact the veteran had a chance to tie everything up with his very last shot at the 72nd hole but he missed—and the championship went to Payne. It was a grand battle between two fine players and will long be talked of in local golf circles.

It's Getting Thicker

Is this Hattie Eakins business going to haunt us all fall? Last week The Examiner received a letter from F. R. Feaver, secretary of the Ontario Amateur Softball Association in which that official stated positively and definitely that Eakins had never been granted a military replacement permit by the O.A.S.A. and that if the Genelecs had happened to have defeated Oshawa by using the Lindsay pitcher they would have been disqualified. That seemed to be the last word on the subject. We had no reason to doubt the secretary's statement, although we had been under the impression all along that the O.A.S.A. had authorized Genelecs to use Eakins, and his declaration apparently closed the controversy. But now the whole thing is in the air again for along comes George Soup Campbell, Oshawa sports writer and coach of the Oshawa Colts with the positive statement that Secretary Feaver had informed him during the series that the Lindsay man was eligible to play for Genelecs. Personally we have got to the place now where we are wondering whether there ever was a fellow by the name of Eakins and we propose to sit back and wait to see what if anything Secretary Feaver has to say about the latest turn in the situation. We throw up the sponge, so far as comment is concerned.

* * * * * *

Anyway here is what George Campbell has to offer in the Oshawa sport column to further muddle up the situation: "Well, we are not going to take any sides in this argument, for in the first place, Colts didn't care who they met in Peterborough, figuring they could win anyway BUT this writer would like Fred Craig, Peterborough sports scribe, to pass along the information that not only did a qualified and reliable O.A.S.A. official, "Dave" Leether of Peterborough, state that the military replacement had been allowed by the O.A.S.A. but this writer, on behalf of the Colts, made a point of telephoning the O.A.S.A. secretary just to see what it was all about and Mr. Feaver himself informed us that Eakins was eligible to pitch for "Genelecs." This writer is not trying to add fuel to the fire but we have always had extremely fair treatment at the hands of "Dave" Leether, our O.A.S.A. convener in this district and the "Genelecs" proved themselves good sportsmen in Oshawa. We feel that they are not to blame. We pointed out to Mr. Feaver that it seemed highly irregular to grant a military replacement for a player who actually had never taken part in a game but he stated that permission had been granted. We'll take our oath on that. It looks to this writer as if the whole move was made just a little hastily and is now regretted but we are not in accord with the belated effort of the O.A.S.A. and Peterborough Assn. officials to attempt to wash dirty linen now."

Belleville Wants Them

Reading about the attempt of the Lindsay hockey authorities to induce Ed Wildey to move his junior A Young Ranger squad to Lindsay, Ken Colling comes to bat with the suggestion that if the Toronto outfit is looking for a new home they can find one in Belleville. Here is what he says: "Recent news dispatches from Toronto and Lindsay indicated that there was a movement on hand to have Ed. Wildey's Young Rangers of Toronto play their Junior "A" home games in the O.H.A. next winter at Lindsay Arena. Even the slightest indication of such proposal should be thoroughly investigated by the management of the Hume Arena, especially with S. R. 'Sandy' Burrows, the rink owner, being a member of the O.H.A. executive. What has the Lindsay Arena that the Hume Arena hasn't? Actually you could put about 2,000 more reserve seat customers in the local palace de sport for a hockey game than the Lindsay rink could hold in the reserve section. Junior "A" hockey should pack the Hume Arena to the gunnels. Actually 2,300 reserve seats can be sold and perhaps another 1,000 added in the matter of standing room. This is by far a much better financial inducement than the Scugog river rink moguls could hope to offer, as their rink boasts of but 600 reserve seats and last year the attendance at Peterborough Intermediate "A" games weren't of such a financial success as to prompt the Liftlock City management to try the venture a second time."

By the time this gets into print the first game of the world series will be over and it may have settled the question of how effectively southpaw pitching can hold the Yanks under control. With Spud Chandler, leading pitching of the majors, nominated as the McCarthy pitching selection Manager Billy Southworth of the Cards has selected his dependable left-hander, Max Lanier, 15-game-winner this season to meet the Yanks' ace. The choosing of Chandler needs no explanation. He was the logical nominee for New York in view of his season's record. We imagine there are several reasons why the Cards pinned their faith on Lanier. One of course was to test the reaction of the Yanks to good southpaw elbowing. A second was the fact that Lanier needs considerable rest between games by using him in the opening encounter Southworth made sure that he would be available in good

Fritzie Zivic outpointed Henry Armstrong in a thrilling 15-round boxing battle for the welterweight title at New York three years ago to-night. Solving Armstrong's buzz-saw style by backing away and boxing beautifully, Zivic closed the Negro's eyes early in the fight.

Wild Battle Likely Here Tonight

Whether its wrestling at its best, it certainly will be wrestling at its wildest, tonight at the Brock Street Arena where John "Killer" Katan meets Gentleman Jack Clayborne. The bout has become an absolute natural both from the promotional as well as the fans' point of view. It's a match that everyone wanted except Katan and he was forced to take it. That suits the fans, Clayborne, promoters, and us right down to the ground, but Honest John has been going round with a face like a "meat-axe" ever since he found he could no longer duck his black Nemesis. Now its strictly up to Clayborne to prove that his followers' faith in him was justified. And from this observation point we think the big Black Cloud will come through like the fing tornado that he is. Whatever happens tonight that Brock Arena mat is going to see some terrific action before it's all over.

The other matches shape up as a strong supporting card behind a main bout of considerable importance.

In the semi-final Bunny Dunlop will try his Strongman stuff on Wilbur "Toar" Morgan of the Guadalcanal Fighting Morgans and Buster Billy Hayes meets Tony Doc. Felice of Yugoslavia.

COMBINES TAKE EASTERN CANADA LACROSSE FINALS IN 2 STRAIGHT

Beat Lachine 15-13; Had Big Lead

TORONTO, Oct. 5 — Mimico-Brampton Combines last night reached the Dominion lacrosse finals for the second straight year when they edged Lachine R.C.A.F. 15-13 in the second game of the Eastern Canada finals at Maple Leaf Gardens.

Protecting a 14-goal lead gained Saturday in the first game of the goals-to-count series, Combines sat back and let the Quebec Lacrosse Association champions come to them.

Lachine Improved

The Ontario Lacrosse Association titleholders took an early lead, and, although the Airmen came close several times, they lacked that extra drive needed to tie the score.

Lachine gave a better account of themselves than in Saturday's game. Checking was harder, passing smoother, and Ross Wheaton steadier in the nets.

The forwards had more drive and were constantly breaking through Combines' defense. Frank Eddolls, Lachine coach who played last night in an effort to strengthen the team, started two rallies in a torrid fourth period that twice brought Lachine within two goals of Combines. Successful sorties by Whoopee Arthurs and W. Thompson ended both threats.

Eddolls contributed three goals to the total for the Airmen, and Pat Egan, borrowed from Valleyfield Army of the Quebec Association, scored four times.

But it was Combines all the way. Paced by Bill Brunskill and Bill Isaacs, the Dominion lacrosse champions led 5-3 at half-time and stayed with the determined Quebeckers in the fast second half.

Combines left for British Columbia immediately after the game, where they meet either New Westminster Salmonbellies or Patricia Bay R.C.A.F. in a best-of-seven series for the Mann Cup, starting Oct. 9.

Lachine: Goal, Wheaton; defense, Egan and McKenzie; rover, Bourgeon; centre, Phillips; forwards, Bourgeon and Eddols; subs, Anderson, Scott, Woods, Bulger, Nelson and Gilligan.

Combines: Goal, Large; defense, G. Thompson and Arthurs; rover, Gimblett; centre, B. Mullis; forward, Brunskill and W. Thompson; subs, Rock, Isaacs, Worthy, Hayes, Masters, J. Bryan, Dixon and Harrison.

Officials—Max Peart and Marty Cahill.

Prolongs Series

NEW WESCTMINSTER, B.C. (CP). — New Westminster Salmonbellies stayed in the running for the British Columbia box lacrosse finals last night, setting down a last-quarter uprising by Patricia Bay R.C.A.F. to defeat the Airmen 12-10 and tie up the best of three series at a game apiece.

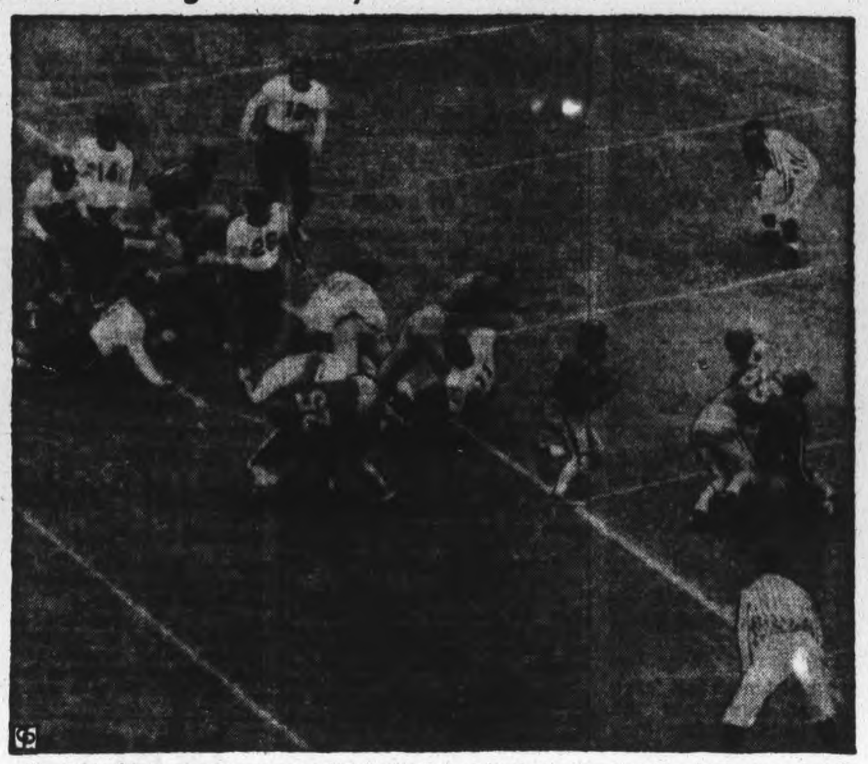
Good Blocking Paves Way For Touchdown



Good blocking, so necessary on the football field for the perfection of a play, is graphically illustrated in this picture taken during the recent California-St. Mary's game at Berkeley, Cal. Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

After three games in the Prairie Football Conference, two backfielders of the Winnipeg R.C.A.F. Bombers stand tied at 10 points each in the aggregate scoring tables, the leaders being LAC. Andy Branigan and the grid veteran Ches McCance—each with a brace of touchdowns. The Peggers are leading the race with two wins against no losses.

In the Ontario Rugby Football Union Annis Stukus of Toronto Balmy Beach still led the senior scorers today but scoring statistics compiled by The Canadian Press show that potent Joe Krol of Hamilton Flying Wildcats is threatening his supremacy. Krol broke out in a scoring rash as Wildcats whipped Balmy Beach Saturday with 15 points on two touchdowns, a field goal, a single and a convert to increase his scoring total from five to 20 points. On the other hand Stukus was held to three points scored on a field goal for a total of 26 in his three games this season.

5th Title

Defeating Claude Harmon, Detroit war worker, Al Watrous, Oakland Hills pro, won his fifth Michigan Open Golf championship yesterday at Pontiac by a single stroke in an 18-hole play-off, after the pair had tied at 215 for the regulation 54 holes.

Ridley College opened its grid season yesterday at St. Catharines by applying a 37-0 splash of whitewash to the heavier Hamilton Central Collegiate team in a lively football exhibition.

An R.C.A.F. hockey sweater of the Ottawa Allan Cup team of 1941-42 went into aerial battle in the raid on Kassel, Germany, Sunday night, when FO. Jerry Philbin of Valleyfield, Que., made his first bombing flight after recently arriving overseas from Uplands station. Philbin wore the same sweater throughout that hockey campaign.

It was all Halifax Navy in the opening of the Maritime Baseball finals at the Eastern port yesterday when the Tars, last year's senior champs, swept a double-header against Saint John dockmen 5-4 and 9-2. Larry Angus and Dick Pawley were the winning twirlers.

Goes to Leafs

Formerly a defence star with the Fort William Hurricanes in the Thunder Bay Senior Hockey loop, Ross Knowles is leaving the Lakehead to report for training with the Toronto Leafs of the N.H.L. at St. Catharines Oct. 12. Knowles previously had played pro hockey with Fort Worth in the American Association.

But for his illness, Ziggy Sears of the National League staff would have been one of the umpires in the World Series. His withdrawal spoiled a father-and-son combination which would have meant calling 'em on his son, Catcher Ken Sears of the N.Y. Yankees.

In the Associated Press baseball poll last spring, 41 sport writers of the United States press predicted the Yankees and St. Louis Cards would compete again in the World Series. Three of them, Bud Rennie of the New York Herald-Tribune, Sid Mercer of the New York Journal-American and H. G. Salsinger of the Detroit News, named the four clubs in the proper order in the first division of the National League but everybody missed on the American League finishing order.

70,000 Fans Expected As Series Opens

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(AP). — New York Yankees and St. Louis Cardinals and some 70,000 just-plain fans moved in on Yankee Stadium to-day for the start of a world series that was as close as butter on your bread.

With Spud Chandler, hottest pitcher in the American League, a lop-sided 5 to 8½ choice to give lefty Max Lanier a hurling lesson in the opening shindig, the Bronx Bombers drove into the annual fall fuss the sortest price they've been in more than a decade.

But while the gambling guys put the Yanks on a 5 to 7½ pedestal to win back the world championship in this return match with the St. Louis swifties, just about everyone else was making this return match of the 1942 taffy-pull strictly a case of "you pays your money and you takes your choice."

Yanks Have Pitching.

From all angles it was a hair-pulling "rassle" between the speed and all-round hitting of the "sweethearts of St. Loo" against the noted pitching edge and the extra-base blasting of the Bombers.

But in spite of the merry-go-round the betting boys are starting to spin around the premises, the crystal ball was popping up with almost a guarantee that all records for series financial jackpots would get the spot-remover treatment for the opening game to-day. The annual tea-party was shooting at the 69,902 "high" mark hit by the Cards and the Yanks in their Sunday game here a year ago.

The choice of Lefty Lanier, with a record of 15 wins against seven losses for the just-concluded campaign, had the National League Cheering and Chowder Society insisting that Billie the Kid Southworth named Lefty Max as his first flinger because he's been steadier lately that Mort Cooper, the Cards 21-game winner, and because Mort's been straightening out a shaky soup-bone.

On form, the Yanks have an edge in both ends of the infield and more particularly in left field, where Charley Keller is the block-buster.

Red Birds Win 2nd Straight

SYRACUSE, N.Y., Oct. 5 — (AP). — The Columbus Red Birds stand to-day only two games removed from their third straight Little World Series title, thanks largely to a couple of ration-conscious hurlers.

The Birds defeated Syracuse Chiefs last night 5-2, behind Southpaw Erwin (Preacher) Roe's six-hit twirling. Ted Wilks, in a somewhat more polished performance, shut out Syracuse with a half-dozen blows in the opening contest.

But Columbus, held to five hits in the opener, showed they apparently have what it takes at the plate by rattling 11 safe blows off three Chiefs' hurlers last night, running their extra-base total to six doubles.

Manager Nick Cullop's boys now hold a wide advantage in the junior classic, having gotten by Manager Jewel Ens' two mound aces—Millard (Dixie) Howell in the first game, Cuban Tom De La Crux in the second.

With George Dockins sidelined by a sore arm, Ken Burkart, who won 12 and lost 11 during regular-season play, will probably pitch for the Birds to-night. Arnold (Lefty) Carter (14-11) is the likely Syracuse hurler.

Roe, while in trouble several times, bore down in the pinches, and fanned eight and walked four, as the Birds pounded De La Cruz, 21-game winner, from the mound in the second inning.

A crowd af 5,396 swelled the players' pool to $7,379.

Whiff King

Cleveland's young fireball pitcher Allie Reynolds, a rookie, is on his way to becoming the 1943 strikeout king of the American League. Reynolds, playing his first season for the Tribe, has whiffed 144 batters this season to take the lead over Hal Newhouser, of the Tigers, who has 141. Reynolds has won 10 games for the Indians.

Beau Jack Loses To Bob Ruffin

NEW YORK, Oct. 5 — (AP) — Chalking up one of the outstanding ring upsets in Madison Square Garden history, long-shot Bobby Ruffin outpointed ex-lightweight champion Beau Jack in 10 bruising rounds last night before a crowd that nearly filled the huge Eighth Avenue arena. Ruffin scaled 135½, Jack 140½.

A 9-to-0 underdog and so lightly rated that he was put on last night's card as a tune-up for Jack's Nov. 19 lightweight title tussle with Bob Montgomery, Ruffin outboxed the Jumping Jack from Georgia most of the way and piled up points with jabs and counter-punches.

The local youngster, a Long Islander now, although a native of Bridgeport, Conn., wound up with a badly gashed left eye, but he knew too many ring tricks for the wild-swinging Beau.

Honored By Fans

NIAGARA FALLS — (CP). — Although he had not been an active sport participant Walter (Jeff) Kalbfleisch, former baseball and hockey star, was voted the 1943 winner of the W. L. Houck Trophy for the district's most outstanding athlete because of his work among local juveniles. The cup was given three years ago in memory of the late Touch Woods of St. Catharines.

Breaks Record

ST. CATHARINES — (CP). — When the local Lincolns snagged the O.B.A. Junior B baseball title from Dresden 6-3 on Saturday in their sixth battle of the provincial series, the result broke the five-year hold on the Ontario title by the Western Ontario nine. Incidentally, the Lincolns were the only Niagara District team to take a provincial championship during the past season.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Oct. 5— (CP)— The Winnipeg football coach, Reg Threlfall, marvels that the Regina-Winnipeg grid feud has carried into the fifth year of war despite great obstacles. Threlfall gives credit to players policies of the Roughriders and Blue Bombers. "The development of home talent has been maintained and the imports carefully selected," he told Dave Dryburgh of the Regina Leader-Post.

Reg pointed to the type of imported player selected by Regina and Winnipeg—men who settled down in the Canadian cities, married Canadian girls and became part of the community. He mentioned Regina's Dean Griffing and Hal Walker, both American-born stars of many 'Rider teams. Winnipeg imports, Fritz Hanson, Bert Oja, Art Stevenson, are serving in the Canadian armed forces. Others such as Bud Marquardt and Harb Peschel, married Canadian girls and were settled in Winnipeg jobs when war influenced their return to United States to take Army commissions.

Threlfall says: "We must see that the entire western circuit moulds its teams along these lines and shuns the here-today-gone-tomorrow football wanderer. We can develop our hometown youngsters, import a few key men—name players with color and a desire to settle down."

Dryburgh expresses the opinion the reason Calgary was unable to continue in football was that many of their imported players arrived in August and left in November—were strangers when they started on the field.

One of the results of Winnipeg's import plan was emphasized last week when a record crowd of 5,381 saw the opening game of the Winnipeg high schools football league. That crowd indicates the popularity of school football in Winnipeg. Students pay 10 cents, adults 15 cents to see the games. The youngsters draw 50,000 fans a season. The school game was brought to its present popularity partly by the coaching of the so-called "imports." It ensures a supply of high-class players for the post-war sport boom.

Incidentally:

Owen Griffith of the Montreal Gazette says Phil Watson, long-time star of New York Rangers in the National Hockey League, is seeking reinstatement to play with Fairchilds in the Montreal War Industry League. Gaston Gauthier, last season a star with Washington Lions, seeks reinstatement for the same reason. Eddie Shore's Buffalo Bisons of the American League will open their training camp at Hamilton, Ont., on Thursday...Theresa McCarthy, 16-year-old Toronto figure skater, has joined her older sister, Norah, as a professional with the Ice Follies touring troupe.

TOO MANY QUACKS

Reeve Johnston Tells Council Of Toronto Trip

"I don't mind being in a minority, Mr. Mayor," said Alderman Dutton as he failed to persuade the Council last night to accept the implications as well as spirit of an apology by Reeve M. H. Johnston of North Monaghan, and his explanation of the township Council's purpose in consulting the Ontario Municipal Board about extending the area for proposed annexation before acquainting the joint committee of the two municipalities of this procedure, which the Board of Works rather sharply resented last Thursday night.

Alderman Dutton found himself in the unusual position of withholding support from his own committee report, the adoption of which was moved by Alderman the Municipal Board for permission its chairman.

Alderman Bradburn seconded the Gordon motion, and all the other members present voted for it except Alderman Dutton.

The episode was a sequel to the Board of Works recommendation to oppose Monaghan's application to the Mnuicipal Board for permission to extend the area proposed for annexation by including a strip of land along the south side of Lansdowne Street westerly from the C.N.R. (Peterborough - Port Hope line) almost to the C.P.R., and including the May's School property. The application incidentally would make several other additions to the area on its north-westerly boundary. The resolution also instructed City Solicitor Huycke to prepare the necessary brief, secure witnesses "and altogether prepare the city's case.'"

That was clause six of the Board of Works report which Alderman Dutton read to the Council for its approval. Relative to it was clause seven: "That the special committee appointed by the Council continue its negotiations with North Monaghan Council regarding the proposed annexation to the city of an area of the township."

Reeve's tSatement.

At the opening of the meeting last night Reeve Johnston explained the Township Council's course. The proposed southern boundary of the area for annexation is Lansdowne Street extended, or No. 7 Highway. If the suburban section of the township west of Monaghan Road to Western Avenue and north of No. 7 Highway became a new part of the city, the township would be left with a greatly reduced population to be served by May's School, with consequent loss of sustaining taxes, unless an agreement could be made with the city for its use as a union school. Facing that problem, the Township Council wished to refer it to the Municipal Board, with special inquiry about the union school proposal or the alternative proposal to extend the area for proposed annexation.

Reeve Johnston told the City Council last night that Chief Inspector V. K. Greer informed the township delegation that the union school idea could not be considered. That left the alternative extension of the area chiefly to incorporate May's School in the proposed shift to the city, and the Municipal Board assented to the township making that application. Reeve Johnston declared that the Township Council desired to ascertain its position before the Municipal Board with respect to the proposed May's School addition, and if the reply was favorable that the city then be informed of what had been done.

No Covert Motive.

"We certainly were not trying to put anything over on the City Council," Reeve Johnston said. "I don't know how you could get that idea, especially that we could think of being able to put anything over this Council if we dared to try. We wanted to know first whether the Municipal Board was agreeable to us applying for the extension of the area that is being considered for annexation, and then we could tell you people.

"The by-law to extend the area is now being prepared by our solicitor and in due course it will be before you. I hope you will take this apology in good spirit, because there was no intention on the part of our Council to keep anything from you."

Mayor Hamilton informed the Council that Bruce Johnston, the township clerk, had told him the township was going to interview the Municipal Board about an application to include the May's School area.

"Later that day I met you (Reeve Johnston)," His Worship said, "and you told me that as the case. I told members of the Council what you had told me, but I couldn't take it as an official notice."

"We told you in confidence that we were asking the Municipal Board to deal with this, that we ere going to have a copy sent to you, with the resolution required, and we wanted the city to co-operate with us," Reeve Johnston said.

When the Council reached the stage of receiving committee reports, after Reeve Johnston had gone, Alderman Dutton in his turn submitted the report of the Board of Works, and paused on clauses six and seven.

Mayor Hamition admitted that he could not see any point to the Township Council's suggestion that the consulting of the Municipal Board should be a matter of confidence, and that opinion was held by all the members.

Proposed Deletion

Alderman Dutton suggested the deletion of clauses six and seven, and Alderman Gordon reminded him that he could not amend his report.

Mayor Hamilton remarked: "Reeve Johnston came here to try and rectify things, but apparently he didn't succeed."

"I think we should accept his statement in good faith," Alderman Dutton urged.

"I admire him for coming and trying to rectify the oversight of the township council,' said Alderman Bradburn, "but I cannot see why it was necessary to take the action they did in view of the fact a special committee was set up at their request to go into this whole question of annexation."

The objection of the Board of Works Thursday night was that the township should have first informed the special joint committee, including several city members, of their intention to ask the provincial authorities for permission to apply for an extension of the area proposed for annexation.

Shadow of Doubt

Obviously referring to the township's course Alderman Bradburn said he could not help feeling that there was something that had not yet come out.

"Why didn't you ask Reeve Johnston when he was here?" Mayor Hamilton suggested.

"I didn't wish to embarrass him," Alderman Bradburn replied.

"I think their solicitor, Mr. Kerr, hasn't all the necessary information, the correct description of the extra property," said His Worship. "I think that is all Mr. Johnston was referring to."

Concession to Amenity

Accepting the statement by Mr. Johnston, Alderman Dutton said it would be a gracious thing to receive the apology and return to the former ground of understanding, deleting from the Board of Works clause six, authorizing opposition to the township's proposed application for an enlargement of the area to be annexed."

"But, why were they so hasty about it," Alderman Bradburn enquired. "Why didn't they tell us about it?"

Mayor Hamilton stated that there was nothing in the township application that would not ultimately have come before the city council's committee. "Their action was thoughtless more than anything else. If you leave this clause in the report, you are going to have our solicitor do a lot of work to no purpose whatever."

Sees Higher Taxes

Alderman Curtis said that as a representative of the city taxpayers he believed their taxes would be increased "by annexing this area the township council wants us to take in."

Alderman Gordon told the members that the city's special annexation committee was meeting Wednesday night, and that a deputation was expected from the residents of the southeast end of the township. "We may be able to report more completely after than on this question of annexation."

"Couldn't we keep out clause 6 until after that meeting," Alderman Dutton proposed, "especially in view of Reeve Johnston's statement that the information would reach us in due course as to what the township council wished."

He further said he was inclined to move the deletion of clauses six and seven.

"You have got to stand by your report," Alderman Gordon objected.

Alderman Curtis said he understood the township council was not unanimous.

"It can't be Councillor Cassan, because I was talking to him Saturday," said Mayor Hamilton.

"I understand it is Councillor Grady," Alderman Curtis said.

"I am afraid you won't get a supporter," Mayor Hamilton suggested to Alderman Dutton. "You'd better let it go.'

"I have felt as strongly as any other member," Alderman Dutton replied, "but after a man came here as Mr. Johnston did I think that reason requires us to do something on our part. I knew the township was considering extension of the area. City Engineer Parsons said he was asked to look at the site."

Mayor Hamilton: "Reeve Johnston told us that all they wanted was to make an application in the required legal form, to inform you when they got it ready and send you a copy of it."

Terminated By Gordon

Alderman Gordon put the closure on the discussion by moving adoption of the Board of Works report as Alderman Dutton had read it. Alderman Bradburn seconded the motion.

An amendment by Alderman Dutton proposed the deletion of clauses six and seven. Alderman Sullivan suggested that the report be referred back to the Board for further consideration.

"And that would give us time to hear from the south end." Alderman Mark said.

"I had in mind the deputation Alderman Gordon said he expected," Alderman Sullivan explained. "I am in favor of the resolution as we passed it Thursday night. I don't think they have played so fair. It may have been only a mistake. It certainly was an indiscretion."

"Well, I don't mind being in the minority," Alderman Dutton concluded as his amendment lapsed without support and the motion carried.

Listeners Are Stars On Aleutians Airways

The listening audience seldom complains about the quality of the program from Radio Station SNAFU—because they're the performers too. SNAFU is the R.C.A.F.'s unofficial station in the Aleutians, built by Flight Sgt. Andy Kufluk of Welland, Ont., with parts salvaged from damaged planes and a few "scrounged" articles. When SNAFU goes on the air, listeners just leave their receiving sets and crowd into the studio to offer their talents. Before long there are no listeners and all are radio "stars." Here is the station staff—Flight Sgt. Kufluk, Sgt. Paul Doyle of Toronto, and LAC Stan Tournageau of Arnprior — with some of the talent. (R.C.A.F. Photo)

Canadian Airmen Build Own Radio Station

By PILOT OFFICER DAVID GRIFFIN, R.C.A.F. Public Relations Officer.

AN R.C.A.F. ADVANCE BASE IN THE ALEUTIANS.—Back home in Canada, you don't appreciate the things that come to you normally and without any effort on your part. Up here, on the fringe of nowhere, where the R.C.A.F. is on guard in the fog-shrouded Aleutians there isn't much in the way of ready-made things. If you want something you make it yourself.

The R.C.A.F. men up here wanted to hear a Canadian radio program. The U.S. Army radio station down the line dispenses good entertainment, but that was not quite filling the need for hearing home town names and Canadian news.

So the R.C.A.F. men built a broadcasting station. From this station they send out Canadian programs whenever the urge strikes them. It's all very unofficial —the lads just got together and whipped it together themselves.

Flight-Sergeant Andy Kufluk of Welland had been a radio maintenance man with the Ontario Forestry Department in civil life. He scrounged enough discarded parts from plane radios to do the trick. He built the other things he required, using bits of receiving sets, sections of tinfoil for condensers, and even wound some of his own coils. For a microphone, he used the transmission mouthpiece from a fighter plane. This he wired to the end of a broom, in lieu of a "mike" standt. The business end of the broom helps the announcer to hold the whole rig steady on the floor.

The station has a radius of almost a mile, which means that that it can nicely cover every Quonset hut in the R.C.A.F. section of the camp.

Broadcasts run on a loose schedule. A couple of the airmen will drop into Andy's hut, carrying mouth organs. He'll switch on his set, grab the "mike" and announce that Station SNAFU is on the air. Then he'll hold the phone down close to the musicians, and they'll get in there with some old-fashioned tunes. Resting in another hut is an airman who plays the guitar. He hears station SNAFU broadcasting, grabs his instrument, and goes running to join it. Others follow suit, until pretty soon, the broadcasting hut is full of talent.

The way it usually winds up is that everyman on the station stops listening and runs over to get on the air himself. It's probably the only radio station in the world in which the audience becomes completely absorbed in the show. By the time station SNAFU has been on for an hour, few are listening, most everyone is broadcasting to nearly empty huts. But they go on enthusiastically, sometimes for two or three hours.

Everyone gets a chance to go on the air. Some sing, some tell stories, others recite sentimental poems. If the urge strikes a man to do something, he steps up to the "mike" and does it.

By this time Sergeant Paul Doyle of Toronto has taken over as master of ceremonies. He gives out straight faced announcements, introduces the artists, and conducts himself in voice and mannerisms, in the way that all radio announcers conduct themselves. When he ennunciates a "commercial" it's something to hear. Yes, they have commercials. Two airmen who develop and print snapshots are frequent advertisers on station SNAFU. So are the lads who make knives and rings. They claim that advertising pays. The boys who have things to swap also use the advertising medium.

Station SNAFU doesn't get much fan mail—in fact not any. If some one has a complaint he dumps it directly into the lap of Flight Sergeant Kufluk. So far complaints have been minor.

News bulletins are given a distinctly Canadian touch by the pooled letter system. Men on this far-out-of-the-way station snip bits of home-town gossip from the mail from home, and a rewrite job is done by Sergeant Doyle, who reads off the melange of Canadiana. By the time he reads it, it's old stuff,

Cost Of Living Index Shows Increase

OTTAWA, Oct. 5 (CP)—The official cost-of-living index maintained by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics rose from 119.2 at Aug. 2 to 119.4 at Sept. 1 for a total wartime increase of 18.5 per cent, the bureau reported today.

This is the 7th consecutive month in which the index has risen.

There is no immediate change in cost-of-living bonus payments to workers in most industries. The bonuses are adjusted quarterly and the next change is to be at Nov. 15 on the basis of the index figure for Oct. 1.

Unless a drop of sizable proportion is shown in the index for that date, higher bonus payments will be required Nov. 15.

The bonus payments are not changed unless the index has altered one full percentage point since the last adjustment. Thus, if there is a drop of more than 0.5 per cent between the Sept. 1 and Oct. 1 figures, the bonus payments will remain unchanged.

At the present index figure, however, the maximum bonus would be $4.62½ cents a week or 18.5 per cent of earnings. For the majority of workers who received the bonus for the first time in Aug., 1942, the bonus would be increased from 60 cents or 2.4 per cent a week to 97½ cents or 3.9 per cent.

Small increases for foods, home furnishings, and in the miscellaneous group accounted for rise in the index during August, the bureau said.

The food index advanced from 133.2 at Aug. 2 to 133.5 at Sept. 1, reflecting advances in the price of eggs, beef and pork which outweighed declines for potatoes and lemons. The home furnishings index moved up from 117.9 to 118.2 on scattered increases for furniture and hardware.

An advance in the transportation section caused the miscellaneous group index to rise from 108.2 to 108.3. Other groups were unchanged—rents at 111.5; fuel and light at 113.4, and clothing at 120.6.

counter-attack was beaten off with losses to the enemy, the communique added, and the Allied advance continues despite difficult country, demolitions, and enemy pockets of resistance.

With radio France here reporting that Field Marshal Albert Kesselring had abandoned all hope of making a stand along the Volturno River in Italy and was withdrawing his forces rapidly toward Rome, and official reports telling of continued Allied successes, the slow fight up the Italian boot hit a new tempo today.

Although not confirmed by headquarters here, the withdrawal from the Volturno River line by German forces had been predicted by military leaders. If true, the way would be cleared for the Anglo-American 5th Army to make a more rapid advance toward Rome.

Playing the now familiar, but still winning, trick of amphibious operations, Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery landed troops some 17 miles behind the enemy lines along the Adriatic coast, encircling and trapping the German force barring the approaches to Termoli, midway between the Italian heel and the mouth of the river Po.

East of Rome

Gen. Montgomery's forces now stand almost directly eastward across the Italian peninsula from Rome. Should the 8th Army continue its swift progress up the Adriatic coast it might be impossible for the Germans to make a stand south of Rome, or even at the Po River, where Hitler's legions have been expected to make their main Italian stand.

Above Naples, the 5th Army made somewhat slower progress, being impeded by rain. However, they forced an important crossing over the Calore River, which move seemed to make it impossible for the Germans to make a stand on the Volturno River and gave weight to the unofficial announcement that Kesselring had abandoned that strongpoint.

MORE ABOUT—

Frankfurt Pounded

wigshafen is located on the Rhine about 50 miles due south of Frankfurt on the River Main.

The R.A.F. overnight foray followed a day of great activity by American heavy bombers, during which an aircraft factory at Frankfurt was subjected to a smashing attack and 75 German planes were shot out of the sky.

The assault on Frankfurt was carried out by a strong formation of heavy bombers, which also struck at other targets in Western Germany and at the Nazi airbase at St. Dizier in France. Other bombers simultaneously engaged in operations over the North Sea.

Strong oposition was encountered by the big four-engined aircraft, a communique said. Long range fighters which accompanied the big bombers downed 19 additional enemy planes, the bulletin said.

Fifteen heavy bombers were listed as missing in yesterday's operations.

Once more the R.A.F. split its force between two targets using the strategy of confusion against the harried German defences. By hitting Frankfurt in only a matter of a few hours after the Americans, it gave impetus to the recent suggestion by Prime Minister Church that the time eventually would be reached which would permit the methodical destruction by day and night of Nazi military objectives.

Ludwigshafen and Mannheim are two of Germany's most important industrial cities. I.G. Farbenindustrie chemical works is situated in Ludwigshafen and most of its industries are concerned with the production of chemicals.

MURRAY GOODWIN'S eyebrows shot up towards his receding hairline. "What? What's this? Who said that?"

"I did. The Postum you just ordered. You're looking at me as if you are sure you are not going to like me. You think I'm just a substitute for tea and coffee, don't you?"

Mr. Goodwin recovered his eyebrows and voice. "Well—yes. If I hadn't been warned to cut down on tea and coffee, I wouldn't be trying you."

"Let me tell you a thing or two, Mr. Goodwin. I'm no substitute. I have a very special flavor of my very own. Millions of people call me their favorite mealtime drink."

"What brought on all this success, may I ask?"

"I was going to tell you anyway. I'm all wholesomeness. No harmfulness. Nothing to upset nerves or digestion. Add that to my tempting flavor—and you've got good reason why I've become one of the great mealtime drinks."

Mr. Goodwin didn't say a word. He was busy drinking the Postum. A pleased smile settled over his face.

To the waiter he said, "M-m-m—I really have discovered something. I'll have another cup of Postum."

British Reserve, Shyness Worn Away With The War

By JAMES A. ROY

(This is the eleventh article in the series of articles being wr'tten for The Examiner, by Prof. James A. Roy, of Queen's University, Kingston, on wartime conditions in Great Britain.)

I was invited to dine the other evening at the Waldorf Grill. I find that the house or cover charges everywhere have been greatly curtailed. The highest house charge allowed is now 3s (about 60 cents) for luncheon and 5s 6d (about $1.10) for dinner, and going down as low as 6d (12 cents). All meals are limited to three courses and the more expensive the hotel menu was in wartime the poorer it obviously is now.

I have tasted some strange dishes since coming to England. When I spoke about this I was told that as a result of the food shortage many new recipes had been invented.

Communal meals, especially at weekends, have become commonplace in wartime. Neighboring families, all anxious to save as much as possible in labor, light and heat, bring their own food which is communally cooked and served by the women folk.

The total weekly ration of butter per person is 2 ozs., of pure butter, 2 ozs. of lard and 4 ozs. of margarine. Eggs are drastically rationed but an increased allocation of dried eggs has made up for any deficiencies in the fresh supply. There is no actual shortage of tea but, in order to ensure ample supplies for the future it has been rationed at the rate of two ozs. per head per week. Children under five years of age who get fruit juices get no tea ration. The average price of tea is 2s 6d per lb. (60 cents), one-fifth of which is duty. Beef, pork mutton, etc., are rationed as "Meat." The total weekly ration of 1s 2d worth (28 cents) may be taken in any kind of meat that happens to be obtainable Fish are not exactly short, but not as plentiful as they used to be. They are not yet rationed but they are "zoned," the reason for that being transport difficulties. In order to preserve fats for edible purposes, soap has been rationed. The ration is 4 ozs. per head per week. Babies under 12 months get 12 ounces weekly. I have already noted the price of cigarets are plentiful. Beer is also abundant, but there is very little whisky drinking. When the war began whisky cost 12s 6d a bottle ($3.00). Now it is 23s ($5.52). So not many people drink whisky these days. The price of champagne and brandy is, I am told, terrific, and the stocks of imported wines have completely disappeared. So far as it is possible, the Government has made luxuries quite prohibitive by restricting their manufacture and by a Purchase Tax of 100 per cent.

The Black Market in England is just a name. Very heavy fines and long imprisonment very quickly killed the racketeers.

People go very sparingly with light and heat. Matches became scarce in the early days of the war and lighters became more and more expensive until the Government stepped in and decided on a design as well as a price.

I have referred to the difficulties of railway travel. The Government discourages unnecessary travel. People are limited to 100 lbs. weight for baggage. At all bus and railway centres are large posters reading "Finish travelling by 4 o'clock and leave the buses and trains for war workers." There are also large posters in front of the ticket offices, which read, "Is your journey really necessary?"

The food, whatever it is, is wholesome; everyone gets the same quantity and the nation in spite of many privations and inconveniences, after four years of war is in a better state of health than ever before.

One thing I have noticed in England is not only the tremendous number of women who wear slacks but the great popularity with both sexes of corduroy slacks. "Corduroys" were formerly worn only by farm-laborers, navvies (road-workers), and small boys. Utility clothes are cheap because they are price-controlled at every stage in manufacturing and distribution.

I have mentioned utility furniture. This began in January of this year and—like clothing and footwear—it is price controlled from the issue of the raw material right to the point of delivery to the ultimate user. It is price-controlled should it come on the market again as "second-hand."

Actually, this utility furniture is not yet on sale to the public except by special permit, and this permit is issued only to couples who marry or whose homes have been "blitzed."

Paper as fancy wrappings, individual cartons, and colored containers, has disappeared. Envelopes are used over and over again by sticking a small label over the used address. When shopping one takes either paper, basket or bag because, except for fish and other perishable food, nothing is wrapped.

Motoring

On the 8th December, 1942, the Control of Motor Fuel Order was published which made it a crime to use a car, even when petrol was legitimately issued for it, if the journey could have been accomplished by public transport or other means. Police may stop motorists and call upon them to prove that the use of the car is necessary for the journey they are making. There is, consequently, not the least semblance of private pleasure motoring in Britain today. Most people have a bicycle with a shopping basket. There are no deliveries or collections; people must fetch their supplies themselves from their grocers, butchers, fishmongers, etc.

The organization for the collection of salvage is most thorough. As a result of the seriousness of the rubber situation, long distance buses have been taken entirely off the road. It is now an offence, punishable by a fine of £500 (say $2,000) or two years imprisonment, or both, for anyone to be found destroying, throwing away, abandoning or putting in a refuse bin with other salvage, rubber of any kind, new or old.

I am told that much of the British reserve and shyness had worn away as the result of war conditions. I can imagine that that held during the blitz. The English at least are retiring into their shell again and the other day at the War Exhibition in Burlington House there were notices, prominently displayed, urging people to be on their guard against friendly strangers who offered to help you put on your coat. Strangers who offer to remove a thread from the lapel of your coat are especially dangerous, it would seem.

All theatres in London now begin about 6:30, partly as a result of the blackout, and in order to enable people to get home early—some may have to go on fire watch duty. The types of plays are much the same as before the war: musical comedies, light plays, Congreve and Shaw.

It is impossible to do more than refer to the magnificent work of the Home Guard. A volume would have to be written even to begin to try to do justice to what the women of Britain have done in this war. I have already said something about it, but there was one aspect of their work I forgot to mention. In Scotland they are pre-fabricating more ships than ever before, and more than in any other part of the country. The whole hull and all the ship's structure are being built in sections far inland in factories which before the war had nothing to do with ships. These sections, which are being built largely by women, are transported to special assembly sites. Anti-U-boat vessels are being built in this way. In one yard making tank landing craft more than half of the workers are women.

One shipyard in Scotland plans to make ships quicker and cheaper than Henry J. Kaiser. The Kaiser ships, one overseer said to me, won't stand up to it. They are being built for a special and immediate job. The new scheme in the shipyards I refer to plans to install machines that can do the work of 18 men, while the whole system of work will go forward in one cycle instead of going to and fro between one department and another as is the case now.

The coal situation remains the most serious domestic problem in both England and Scotland. Lord Traprain emphasized to me the other day that coal production is becoming a major war issue. The coming transfer of Mr. Charles Reid, production officer in Scotland, to the position of chief production officer to the whole country, it is hoped will help the situation greatly. Mr. Reid, a man of great vitality and courage and plain-spokenness, has 40 years' experience behind him and is recognized as one of the most enlightened and progressive men in the industry. It is a thankless task, but until the coal situation is improved —and improved it must be—what Mr. John G. Winant said in a speech in Baltimore cannot be quite true: "The most moving thing in England today is its unity of purpose."

War—25 Years Ago

By The Canadian Press

Oc. 5, 1918—French forces freed Reims, captured Brumont and Nugent l'Abasse driving the enemy back on a 25-mile front. British east of the breach in the Hindenburg line took Montbrehain and Baurevoir. German Chancellor proposed in the Reichstag that the Allies state terms.

Woman Aged 67 Operates Night Canteen

Workers at the Outboard Marine plant during the long hours of the night have become accustomed to watching a bright faced lady, still young at 67, working at the canteen handing them out refreshment and giving them a cheery word. She is Mrs. W. H. Loescher, 430 Sheridan street, who has been working in the plant for 4½ months.

Mrs. Loescher's husband has been dead for 10 years, and for 9½ of those years, she had a pretty tough time, and she said that being on relief and struggling along is no sinecure. So she got herself a job now that the labor situation has brought about such a shortage of help.

"I was too old to do anything before, but now I have work that I like and I thoroughly enjoy the company of people, particularly young people, and I hope that I can keep going for a long long time. I'm really liking it."

Pampers Feet

The canteen operates from 8 p.m. until the next shift takes over at 7 a.m. and Mrs. Loescher usually leaves about 7 o'clock to get her bus. She says that her feet "need nursing" and the buses are eccentric, so she doesn't take any chances. Some night she punches the clock around 7:32 and others around 7:22.

As soon as she punches in, this sprightly worker dons her smock and heads for the canteen, where she manages on her own, serving the workers over a window counter. Because of the dust which seeps through from the plant, her first task is to wipe off the cooler and the shelves, and then she arranges her goods.

"There are times we have lots of chocolate bars and sometimes not so many, the gum situation is painful and also the cake. I have a fairly plentiful supply of tobacco and soft drinks and we serve sandwiches, also tea in half pint bottles.

Ties Up Cuts

"I also do first aid work and I am very interested in it for it has always been a hobby of mine. I have never had any training nor have I been able to take the St. John Ambulance course, but you don't bring up six children without learning something. I have always read anything I could get hold of on the subject. This work particularly interests me because of the personal contact. It opens the way for really friendly understanding with my co-workers."

Although the first 1½ hours keep Mrs. Loscheur on the hop, she always has time to pass a cheery word to her customers and says that the plant has a fine personnel and that she believes consistent courtesy is the opening wedge in being nice to everyone and making friends. Her companions have never been anything but respectful and she repays them in kind.

This is just one of the women who have risen to industry's need, and many more must answer the call if the forces are to be supplied with the necessary implements of war. The Local Council of Women, who are sponsoring a drive for factory recruits this week backed by the Selective Service, has said that every able bodied woman, no matter what age, would be acceptable. Russian women have risen to Stalin's decree that the civilian front is just as important and demands as much sacrifice as the actual fighting front. Can Canda do less?

Council Notes Navy Casualty

Although Dick Evans is actually a resident of North Monaghan, in the May's School area, he has lived so long in this community that the City Council regarded him as virtually one of its own citizens in extending to him last night sympathy in the recent loss of his son in action at sea.

Alderman Gordon's resolution, seconded by Alderman Cotton, was as follows: "That the City Clerk inscribe in the minutes of this meeting the record that Able Seaman Llewellyn Evans, son of Richard Evans and the late Mrs. Evans, Lansdowne Street, made the supreme sacrifice in September, 1943, while serving with the Royal Canadian Navy, and that the sympathy of this Council be conveyed to his father."

Drafted upon happier circumstances was another resolution by Aldermen Gordon and Cotton as follows: "That this council notes with pleasure that Pilot Officer William Hamilton, R.C.A.F., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hamilton, Homewood Avenue, has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross for daring service against the enemy, and that the congratulations and appreciation of this Council be conveyed to Pilot Officer Hamilton and his parents."

26 FARM SALES.

Twenty-seven auction sales are listed in the classified advertisement columns of the Lindsay Post of Monday, October 4. All but one of them are farm sales, livestock and implements, and most of them are within Victoria county. Several are in Durham. Walter Neals, seven miles west of Bethany, includes 40 head of Aberdeen-Angus cattle in his sale Thursday. Norman Laidley, a mile and a half south of Omemee, announces a sale on October 13. Sixty Jerseys will be offered at Irving Farms in Gwillienbury township, two miles north of Keswick.

NOON ENTERTAINMENT.

The twelve o'clock scramble out of offices and home to lunch proceeded at a slightly faster pace than usual today for those in the vicinity of Hunter and Queen Streets. Racing across town came the two fire engines and ladder truck and fire-chief's car, with all the customary dash and siren-cranking. People poured out of buildings, expecting a hot time, but there were no flames or smoke. What was going on? They soon found out. It was merely an underwriters' test, the first in Peterborough since 1937, and pumpers, hydrants and fire pressure with hose laid out were being tested by a representative of the Canadian Underwriters' Association. The only excitement was provided by a hydrant which blew off one of its caps and gave the street a better than average sprinkling, along with the firemen who happened to be tending it. Then everybody went along to lunch.

Father J. T. Finn Asks For Women

Continuing the campaign to enlist the services of married women in the battle of war production, another group of war workers who have been at their jobs only a short time will go on the air tonight at 6.45 and tell the reason's why they joined Canada's ever-growing war-labor forces in the essential industries.

Selective Service is urging, in a measure designed to alleviate the serious shortage of available employees which exists at present, that every able-bodied married woman who can go to work without detriment to the life of her home get into this battle of production without delay.

As the Allied armies close in on the Fortress of Europe and the tempo of warfare increases in ferocity with more and more men engaged in the fighting, the need is for more, not less munitions of war and for larger and still larger quantities of supplies of all kinds. This is the necessity which motivates the current drive to bring in everyone available in the service of the war effort, in order that the rising needs of the armed services on far-off battle fronts may be met fully and on time.

Father Finn Speaker

The program tonight will include an appeal to married women to come forward and join the ranks of war workers and will be delivered by Rev. J. T. Finn of St. Peter's Cathedral. The women who will tell about the parts they are playing in the work they have just recently taken up will include Mrs. Olive Ash and Mrs. Doreen Carveth, both of whom are employed at the Canadian General Electric; Rosa Scott and Dorothy Moore, working at Johnson Motors; June Macgregor, with the Quaker Oats Co.; and Viola Parsons, Bonner-Worth.

Mrs. Carveth, who started in last Wednesday in the Cord Sets Department of the C.G.E., is a typical example of the patriotism of many married women on the home front. The mother of five children, she had never worked before, but she takes up her war job with enthusiasm and enjoyment. A brother of hers has been overseas for a year, and she has two brothers-in-law who are also in the service.

NOW FLYING OFFICER.

Word was received by his parents of Pilot Officer Alfred Waddell in India last week that he had had a recent promotion to Flying Officer in his unit.

The Lord Mayor Makes Plea For Aid To Fund

Recently the secretary of the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund received a letter from the Lord Mayor of London, in response to an enquiry to him as to the future work of the National Air Raid District Fund.

This reply was dated August 30, and while excerpts from this letter appeared a day or so ago, other portions of it will undoubtedly be of much interest, and the very nature of his earnest plea for continued help were such that they can very easily stand repetition.

Another portion of the letter read as follows: "The Council of the Fund are at this moment busy formulating a scheme for giving grants for the education of children orphaned by the loss of one or both parents in air raids, or where the financial position of the parents had been seriously affected from the same cause, and the children would otherwise not be able to receive the education they would normally have received. This is an important work which will make heavy demands on the Fund."

Then of course there was his earnest plea for help so that funds would be available to give the children who either had lost their homes, or for security reasons had been evacuated to more safer places, some cheer at the coming festive season of Christmas.

To many this would yet seem a long time away, and yet it is none too early to plan to raise money for this particular effort, if their work for the cause is going to take the shape of a group presentation of some kind or other, and the better the plans are made in advance, it usually shows itself in the extra amount of money made.

The fund is hoping to duplicate last year's contribution at Christmas time, which required a sum of $6,720.00, one-third of which went to Christmas treats to a large number of children, and the other two-thirds towards the more necessitous work of caring for those immediately affected through losses incurred by enemy air raids over Britain. Towards this the fund now has $125.00 in the bank gathered since the £500 was cabled last Thursday, and with a little longer period available in which to gather the amount needed, there should be every reason to expect that this sum can be raised and cabled to give them joy at the blessed season at Christmas.

Induction Test 14th

The Induction Motor Test Department of the C.G.E. Co. Ltd. is the smallest group of employees in this large industrial plant, and from the small number of people involved could hardly be classed as such, yet largely through Miss A. McCracken they stand quite high in per capita givings to the fund with their 14th contribution which appears today. The total to come from the C.G.E. and Genelco plants now stands at the impressive sum of $5,202.52.

One personal gift of $5 is recorded which was handed to the secretary of the fund when he went to collect the penny box in the Bank of Montreal, which is also credited with $2.10 in today's list.

On Saturday, the Peterborough Nature Club had its autumn meeting with an excursion to nearby country, so beautiful and resplendent at this season of the year through the work of an Almighty Hand, in the midst of which they could remember others of God's children not so fortunately situated, and held a draw on a cake among themselves, which has realized the $2.70 appearing in their name today which will go on its mission of mercy to help these sufferers back to their normal life and happiness.

ASK FOR SCHOOL

Following up its recent interest in Wartime Housing assuming part of the school costs incurred by the increased attendance from their housing areas, the council in a motion by Alderman Gordon, seconded by Alderman Cotton, last night, asked the company to build a two-room school in the north end of the city on a site to be approved by the Board of Education.

CHARGES ADJOURNED.

Two charges against Leslie Carr, one of careless driving and the other of failing to remain at the scene of an accident, were adjourned in Police Court this morning.

GETS THREE DAYS.

Carl O'Leary, no address, who pleaded guilty last week to a begging charge, was given three days in jail by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in Police Court to-day after it was stated that the man had no previous record. O'Leary said that he formerly worked on a Great Lakes boat and had come here looking for a job.

JUMBO POTATOES.

Another big potato! As present three of them are on display in the Examiner's Hunter street window. The newest arrival is a 2 lb. 3 oz. Chippewa grown by Joseph McCarrell, who is in his 80th year, leaving on the Peterborough-Lindsay highway near Fowler's Corners.

"AD" APPRECIATED.

Appreciation of the advertisement of Peterborough in Toronto papers, a full page display by Simpson's Limited, was extended to the company in a resolution by Aldermen Swanston and Bradburn last night. "We don't get publicity like that very often," Alderman Swanston said, "and I think we all feel we would like to thank them for it."

Council Ready To Authorize Housing Compact

Legislation to validate financial agreements between the Wartime Housing Limited and Ontario municipalities has been promised by the new Provincial Secretary G. H Dunbar, in a recent conference with representatives of Hamilton, Windsor and St. Catharines.

Peterborough is equally concerned in obtaining from Wartime Housing payment for services which are being supplied to the housing communities in this area. The amounts are $30 and $24 respectively for two types of houses.

Mr. Dunbar said he would take the municipal petition to the Cabinet in the expectation that requisite legislation would be brought down at the first session of the new government.

Prepare Bylaw

A resolution by Alderman Gordon last night, seconded by Alderman Sands, directed the City Solicitor Huycke to prepare a bylaw authorizing the execution of the long suspended agreement with Wartime Housing Limited. It may be recalled that municipalities generally were holding out for a basis of taxation of the temporary houses, but gradually as the company declined to recede from their attitude, the cities have become more or less reconciled to accepting the $30 to $24 a year annual payment instead of a tax levy.

Thieves Steal Auto Rip Out Radio

The car which sideswiped another automobile driven by L. L. Maguire at the west end of Charlotte Street late on Saturday night and then was driven off from the scene of the accident without stopping, has been located, but the police are still looking for the driver.

The hit-and-run vehicle, it has been learned, was a stolen car. It wsa taken on Friday night from an Ottawa parking lot where it had been left by the owner, Sub-Lieut. A. B. Hollingsworth, R.C.N.V.R. After the accident here Saturday night the car as abandoned near Rossmount on Highway 28, but before leaving it the thieves ripped the radio out of the machine and carried it off. Otherwise the stolen vehicle was not damaged.

Sub-Lieut. Hollingsworth was here to pick up his car to-day.

IN MEMORIAM

CORNER—In loving memory of a dear playmate Carol Rosemary Corner who passed away one year ago to-day, October 5, 1943.

Sunshine passes, shadows fall,
Love's remembrance outlasts all;
And though the years be many or few,
All are filled with remembrance, dear, of you.

— Ever remembered by Lois Paddock.

CORNER — In loving memory of Carolyn Corner who passed away one year ago to-day, October 5, 1942, age 10 years.

"Suffer little children to come unto Me."

— Fondly remembered by Mrs. George Bloom and Family.

NORTHEY—In loving memory of my sister Gertrude Mae who passed away October 6, 1942.

Heavy are our hearts to-day,
Memory brings you back once more,
To the time when you were with us,
To the happy days of yore,
Sweet memory will linger forever,
Time cannot change them it's true,
Years that may come cannot sever,
Our loving remembrance of you.

— Fondly remembered by Mrs. Harry Garrett and Family.

NORTHEY—In loving memory of my dear daughter and a sister Gertrude M. Northey who passed away October 6, 1942.

One year has passed, the blow was great the shock severe,
We little thought the end was near,
And only those who have lost can tell,
The pain of parting without farewell.
More each day we miss you,
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow,
That lies within our hearts concealed.

— Ever remembered by Mother and Brothers, Stanley and Percy.

Manners Help You in Getting Dates

Etiquette When Taking A Taxi

Some girls seem to BELONG in an atmosphere of taxis, elegant restaurants and glittering ballrooms.

Yet, these beautiful manners are simple. Any girl can learn them. Sometimes it's just a matter of letting the other person play his proper role.

Instead of "running ahead" of your man on a date—jumping in and out of taxis—you wait for him to help you. Instead of calling out your address to the driver, you wait for your date to give it.

Sometimes it's a question of saying the right, the gracious thing: "It's been grand to have you," in reply to "I enjoyed your party!"

Men, too, can learn to date the girls who rate highest! Our 32-page booklet has tips for both men and girls on what to say and do in date situations—dining and dancing, theatre and parties, telephoning, introductions, invitations.

For your copy of ETIQUETTE FOR YOUNG MODERNS send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

"The Authority on Authorities"

MARINES NO SOFT TOUCH

ANYBODY that counts on the United States Marines beating themselves will revise his ideas if he comes into conflict with them. That goes just as much for bridge opponents as it does for Japs and Nazis. The real battle of the bridge table comes when you get together four of these stalwarts who range from the Halls of Montezuma to anywhere you can name. And it is just as true of the young women who are members of the Women's Reserve of the corps.

It took confidence in his partner to make the big pass by Lieut. A. S. Haeussler in the South, but she was Lieut. Zeta Scholz (W. R.) and she showed sound courage with those two major four-carders when she opened. Lieut. John Laughlin in the West and Lieut. H. C. Ripley in the East did their dog-gonedest, but sound bridge by L[illegible]ussler pulled out the game in the surest and best way.

Taking the diamond Q lead, he sent the heart J to the A, captured the diamond return, ruffed his last diamond, settled the hostile trumps with the 10, led the club 2 to the A, took the returned club J with the K, eliminated the last club with a ruff and then finessed the spade 9 to the 10. East now had to furnish a ruff and discard by returning a club or diamond, or else lead into the spade tenace, so the contract was in.

Notice how much sounder was the 9 play on the first round of spades than the Q finesse. If the Q had lost to the K, it would have left both the J and 10 out, so that the defenders would have been bound to take the setting trick. Playing as Lieut. Haeussler had done—first eliminating both minor suits and then using the 9 on the first spade trick—made sure of success.

Munition Plants Switch To Food Output

By EDWARD WATERMAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

CANBERRA, Australia, Oct. 5 —(AP).— The emphasis on war production in Australia is shifting from munitions to food. The Commonwealth hopes to become the larder for all United Nations forces fighting in this part of the world.

The Government's intention, apparently the outgrowth of decisions reached in Allied high councils, became evident with the announcement that Australia's munitions output is to be reduced.

As an immediate result, 50,000 workers will be released. Of this labor force, many of the male workers are expected to go directly into farming and most of the women into food processing.

Parts of some munitions factories will turn to the manufacture of agricultural machinery to help speed food production.

The balance of the munitions capacity no longer required to make small arms and ammunition in largeamounts, will concentrate on marine engine construction and on ship and aircraft building and repair.

The lessened need for arms results from the accumulation of a substantial reserve and the elimination of the Middle East as a field of war where Australian troops must be supplied.

Mess Room Chatter Of Canada's Airmen

By ALAN RANDAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

With the R.C.A.F. Somewhere in England, Oct. 5 —(CP)—Canadian bomber pilots who flew their Wellingtons to Boulogne in the course of a night attack which dovetailed with a recent great combined operations exercise reported afterwards that anti-aircraft opposition from the German-occupied French city was nothing like that encountered over German towns.

"There was nothing to that job," said Sgt. Irvine Caskey of Portage la Prairie, Man.

Others on this sortie included FO. Tom Barber of 102 Rose Ave., Toronto; FO. Joe Bourke of North Bay, Ont.; PO. John Clair of Port Credit, Ont.; Sgt. Al Williston of Sydney, N.S.; Sgt. Charles MacKinnon of New Westminster, B.C.; Flt. Lt. J. S. Burns of Ottawa and Sgt. Lawrence Brant of Miami, Man.

The combined operation in which the Wellingtons took part continued for days—and nights—with Canadian planes of all descriptions taking part, especially fighters and medium bombers. Altogether there wasn't much opposition. Mainly the assault of the fighters and lighter bombers was directed at enemy airdromes and airmen on these operations included FO. J. W. Murdoch of Regina, flying in a Boston squadron, FO. W. A. Johnston of Renfrew, Ont., Flt. Sgt. H. Murphy of Maplewood Ave., Montreal and PO. L. A. Dodd of (312 Naire Ave.) Winnipeg.

PO. Brynmor Granville Evans, D.F.M., of the R.A.F., called by Sir Charles Portal, Chief of the Air Staff, the "most modest hero of the war," has been killed in a raid over enemy territory. Evans was a member of the dare-devil squadron whose raids in France in 1940 were commended by General Gamelin and high R.A.F. officers. He earned Sir Charles Portal's praise for his part in a raid on Knapsack, near Cologne.

That raid was a daylight affair with Blenheim bombers flying at rooftop level. Many Canadians took part in it.

Air Commodore Gus Walker, D.S.O., D.F.C., youngest Air Commodore at 30, in the history of the R.A.F. has been named as an Air Ade-de-Camp to the King. He lost an arm when a bomb exploded near him last December but it causes him no great physical disability.

Good news for all those who followed the exploits of Sqdn. Ldr. J. A. F. MacLachlan, one-armed fighter ace, is word that he is a prisoner of war. Double holder of the D.S.O and the D.F.C., MacLachlan was previously reported missing during operations over France. His plane was seen to crash. He has 16 2-3 enemy aircraft to his credit. Within two weeks of the amputation of his left arm in Malta he was flying again.

In a little more than 18 months the marine craft section of a Coastal Command flying boat station has salvaged 19 flying boats which had crashed out at sea and were in danger of becoming total wrecks.

"NERVES" SHE CALLED IT

Losing interest—losing friends—she never went out any more—always too tired. "Nerves," she thought—but it was her kidneys, the filters of her blood, that needed attention. Delay meant danger. She took Dodd's Kidney Pills at once. The improved action of her kidneys helped to clear away blood impurities and excess acids. Fatigue, headache, backache, lack of energy, disappeared. 117

Creamery Butter Stocks Show Increase

OTTAWA, Oct. 5 — (CP). — Creamery butter in store in nine principal Canadian cities at October 1 totalled 50,930,712 pounds, an increase of 1,000,000 pounds over September 1 and 17,699,640 pounds over the same date last year, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics said Monday. Reporting these holdings, the Bureau said October 1 is the peak point of the year in stocks of butter.

Cheese holdings in the nine cities were 39,987,853 pounds against 51,717,978 last year.

Cold storage holdings of eggs showed a marked decline, with 357,499 dozen reported for October 1 against 5,838,918 dozen on the same date last year. Holdings of frozen eggs were 13,501,699 pounds against 15,139,553 in 1942.

Large shipments to the United Kingdom have affected the Canadian holdings of both eggs and cheese.

The cities covered in the survey are Quebec, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Regina, Saskatoon, Edmonton, Calgary and Vancouver.

ISN'T IT THE TRUTH? By Ti-Jos No. 19

SAVE NOW, SPEND LATER

Before long our government is going to ask us again to put every penny we can spare into Victory Bonds. That is to save our money now, when spending it actually harms the war effort, in order to be able to spend it after Victory is won, when it will help keep Canada prosperous. It surely makes sense to do that!

ALLIED ADVANCE CUTS ROAD TO ROME

Great Britain Stands By Her Word But War In Europe Comes First

QUITE NATURAL FOR BRITONS TO PLACE MORE STRESS IN REPLY TO CRITICISM OFFERED BY COL. KNOX, SECRETARY OF UNITED STATES NAVY

LONDON, Oct. 6—(CP).—Agreeing with Frank Knox, Secretary of the United States Navy, that the Pacific war holds second place in the minds of Britons, Herbert Morrison, Home Secretary, said today that this was only natural because of the nearness of the European conflict. He reiterated Britain's determination to fight the war in full force until both Germany and Japan are defeated.

"After all, it was not the Japs who bombed London," Morrison said at a luncheon of the Anglo-American Press Association in a discussion of possible sources of misunderstanding of Anglo-American problems.

"It is plain," he added, "that the Far Eastern war does not at present loom as large in the mind for British people as the war in Europe, but that fact has no long-term meaning. It is a very natural state of affairs.

"Europe is 20 miles away; it is where most of our troops from the home country are fighting—or soon will be. And I know you will forgive me for mentioning that the war in Europe has been with us a little longer than the other."

Recalling that Prime Minister Churchill plainly stated the British Government's attitude toward the Pacific war Morrison said that "some Americans, however, think that though the attitude of the Government is clear, the point of view of the British citizen is less so. I do not myself share these doubts."

This obviously was a reference to Knox's statement of September 24 that he had found a feeling among the British public that the "real war is in Germany and the other is a side show."

To begin with, Morrison said, "a pledge has been given in their (the people's) name. Nothing in the record of the British people in modern times can throw any doubt on the effect of such an undertaking."

"There are two British self-government Dominions in the Pacific," he said. "To them defeat and destruction of the Japanese menace is a matter of life and death. Our war is theirs....

"In the vast Far-Eastern theatre, taking British, Australian and Indian troops, the Empire's contribution in manpower is comparable to America's own."

Britain's military record in Burma and Malaya was an "unhappy one," Morrison said, but he added that "we know the failure to train and arm the native people, far from being a sign of Imperialist sloth and negligence, was an expression of the best Wilsonian principles."

Volturno Is Crossed By 5th Army

Two Towns Are Captured North Of Naples

By EDWARD KENNEDY
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Oct. 6 (AP). — The Allied 5th Army has forced a crossing of the Volturno River, the German's strategic first line of defence on the road to Rome, it was announced today, and captured the towns of Aversa and Maddaloni, north of Naples.

Fifty Army units rolling through the coastal plain of Naples occupied all the territory up to Lago Di Patri, a marshy lake 10 miles north of Cape Miseno, and about eight miles from the mouth of the Volturno.

This aldvance swept up the towns of Pozzuolo, Qualiano, Villarecca, Anzano and Marano, and straightened the Allied line to run almost due west from Aversa to the coast.

One unit crossed the Volturno, which runs 20 miles north of Naples, at an unspecified point. The river, flowing into the coastal plain on the west side of Italy, had been expected to be the scene of a delaying action by the Nazis.

Stubborn Resistance

Reserves of Lt.- Gen. Mark Clark's troops were thrown into action because of stubborn German resistance.

On the Adriatic side, Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's 8th Army of which the Canadian 1st Division is a part, engaged the Germans in heavy fighting along the Biferno River line near Termoli as the enemy attempted a strong delaying action there.

The Germans have thrown four to five divisions (up to 60,000 or 75,000 troops) into the Italian battleline.

Coursing far ahead of the land troops, four waves of American heavy bombers rained hundreds of tons of bombs on Bologna, rail centre on the Brenner Pass line 180 miles below the German border, in "one of the most accurate and successful attacks" ever made by the Northwest African Air Force. Other planes hammered

Two Cooper Brothers Suffer Loss Of Father Prior To Game

SECOND GAME

CARDS	001	300
YANKS	000	100

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Spost Writer

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, Oct. 6—(AP)—St. Louis Cardinals fired their big guns early on Ernie Bonham's fork-ball today, and paced by homers by Slats Marion and Ray Sanders, zoomed to a 4-1 lead over New York Yankees after four innings of the second game of the world series.

While Mort Cooper, pitching although his father died this morning, held the Yanks hitless until the fourth, when singles by Frank Crosetti and Bill Johnson and Charley Keller's fly netted a run, the Cards clouted Bonham's offerings hard.

Marion dropped the first pitch in the third inning into the lower left field stands for his homer, and in the fourth, the Cards collected their other three tallies on three hits.

Stan Musial led off with a line single to centre that almost took Bonham's head with it. After Walker Cooper, serving as battery-mate for his brother, sacrificed Stan along to second, Whitey Kurowski shot another single through the middle that once more came within a few feet of Bonham's ears. This scored Musial. Then Sanders, after taking two balls, belted one that fell just into the lower right field stands for a two-run homer.

A tremendous throng that appeared larger than yesterday's turnout and possibly a new record high was on hand as the Cards got a running start in their attempt to equal the

1,200 Men Return To Work On Halifax Docks

HALIFAX, Oct. 6 — (CP). — About 100 stevedores returned to their places on the Halifax waterfront this afternoon and began their regular work of loading ships making preparations to resume waiting to take on perishable cargo destined for overseas.

They started the winches on the deck of a ship waiting to be loaded and made everything in readiness for the handling of freight.

Members of the armed forces had not returned from their lunch period when the handful of union longshoremen plodded back to the docks.

Wait Until All Retprn.

Non-union stevedores, who have been given special "working permits" said they would wait until all the regular union men returned to their posts, before going back to work.

Many more of the union workmen were expected to return on the regular shift which starts later in the atfernoon. They will be followed by workers going on the night shift. It is believed that by to-morrow morning all 1,200 men will be back on their regular shifts.

The stevedores, who have been out on a sympathy strike with 400 freight handlers, made the decision following a telegram from their international president, Joseph Ryan of New York, urging them to return to their jobs and saying that they had no authority to leave work without instructions.

Meanwhile, no action has been taken by the 40 freight handlers who have been out since last Friday, in protest against a decision of the National War Labor Board at Ottawa, which granted them a wage increase of four cents an hour instead of a higher rate of 75 cents they asked. They now receive 56 cents an hour plus 6½ cents an

$300,000 Damage Kingston Store

KINGSTON, Ont., Oct. 6 (CP). — Fire of unknown origin caused damage unofficially estimated at $300,000 to the F. W. Woolworth Co. Ltd., store on downtown Princess street here early today.

Reginald Barr, manager of the store, said he was unable to estimate the exact damage immediately

The fire was one of the worst in Kingston in recent years and the fourth serious blaze in the city's business section in 10 months. Last December 2, the Bibby Block was destroyed by fire and the Mahood Block was razed May 9. Both were on Princess street. On May 23, the Jackson Press building was burned.

Dead Man Serving Overseas

Soldier Appears On Embarkation Leave

WINDSOR, Oct. 6 (CP)—Windsor police today said they have been contacted by Mrs. Betty Foster, wife of Tpr. Arthur J. Foster, who, the Windsor Star reported, is serving overseas with the Canadian Army although it had been thought he was buried in St. Alphonsus cemetery here.

(A body taken from the Detroit river, July 19, 1936, was identified as Foster and funeral services were held here.)

Mrs. Foster, in Detroit, told police she identified the body as that of her husband's "in good faith" and did not know he was alive until he went to see her while on embarkation leave last March.

(The Star said that Tpr. Foster is in an Army Recording office in England and learned only last December that he was supposed to be dead and buried. His sister, Mrs. Jennie Mowry, told the Star, her brother visited his grave while on embarkation leave last March.)

Mrs. Foster told police that she did not contact the Insurance Company which paid her a death claim, after she found out her husband was alive, but later she notifed them she would return the money in instalments. A thorough investigation will be made into the case.

RCN Manned Boats At Salerno

Canadian Troops Extremely Good In Landing Operations

By FRANK LOWE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (CP)—Commander Anthony Kimmins of the Royal Navy, back from the battle for Salerno, said here today "Some Canadian Commando-type soldiers" took part in the Allied 5th Army's invasion at that Italian port.

He also declared at a press conference that "a great many" Royal Canadian Navy officers and ratings were used to man the landing craft during the Salerno operation.

This was the first definite word from an Allied source that Canadians were in action at Salerno. The Germans had broadcast early in the September operation that Canadian troops and tanks were a part of the 5th Army and London reports indicated the Canadian 1st Army Tank Brigade may possibly have been landed at Salerno.

There has still been no official announcement covering the point.

It is generally accepted that the Canadian 1st Division is with the 8th Army, as it was in Sicily. The 8th landed on the toe of Italy.

On Every Landing

Commander Kimmins, who has taken part in every landing made by the Allies in the Mediterranean theatre, said the Canadian troops he saw at Salerno were "extremely good."

"Unfortunately," he said, "we were a little too busy to visit much at that time and I saw only a few of them. Most of them were the Commando-type of soldier, and I heard that they played an important part in the landing operations."

He was unable to say in what strength the Canadian troops were represented.

He said he personally watched one landing craft, manned by Canadian naval officers, making its way to the beaches, keeping on although "peppered with shell holes."

"Canadian sailors," he continued, "are considered excellent for this landing craft type of work by Allied commanders. Maybe it's because they get so much experience in small craft in Canada, but whatever the reason, we are always glad to have them along."

Caused Train Wreck

Clovis, N.M., Oct. 6 (AP)

STATE Police Officer Joe Roach said construction worker B. M. Huffman, 27, explains last night's events like this: Huffman was operating a bulldozer along the Santa Fe right-of-way. The heavy blade struck the track, shoving the rails two inches out of line. Before Huffman could report the damage, a passenger engine and four cars were derailed, injuring the engineer and an unannounced number of United States Navy Seabees.

Allies Beating Japanese In South Pacific

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—(AP).—President Roosevelt's assertion that the Japanese are being beaten in the South Pacific was regarded to-day as possibly an indirect reproof of those critics demanding more aid for the forces of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Allied commander-in-chief in the Southwest Pacific area.

The President left the impression by his remarks at a press-radio conference yesterday that MacArthur is doing well with what he has, and it is the Japanese in fact who are unable to get enough material and men into the area.

Mr. Roosevelt singled out the plight of the Japanese on the Kolombangara, noting that they are fleeing in small barges, many of which have been sunk by Allied airmen. Obviously, United States naval forces have drawn such a tight ring around the Solomons that the Tokyo admirals are afraid to risk protective warships in the action.

Evacuation of the Solomons—like as Kiska—itself is a new blow to Japanese prestige. The whole Allied campaign there is much more important than the public attention it has been getting, the President added.

Mr. Roosevelt showed a willingness to discuss the war in all theatres, in general, usually a sign that things are considered as going well.

In Italy the Allied 5th and the British 8th Armies are consolidating with fairly good progress, he said, though hindered by flanking mountain ranges.

New Thrusts By Russians Are Imminent

Prepare New Drive To Turn Flanks At Ends Of Long Line

LONDON, Oct. 6 — (CP). —Reports of growing activity of Russian mobile columns on both ends of the long, rain-soaked eastern front suggested the possibility today that Red Army forces were preparing a new drive in force to turn the flanks of the Germans in one or both of these widely separated sectors.

The central front, on which the rival armies stood massed on either side of the Dnieper River line from Kiev south to Dnieperpetrovsk, remainded quiet.

Despite almost inpassable roads and German counter-attacks, the Red Army apparently was keeping the initiative in the soggy marsh lands of White Russia. Yesterday Russian forces captured 46 towns and villages in the Vitebsk sector to anchor three spearheads only [illegible] miles from that important Nazi bastion, a Soviet communique broadcast from Moscow said.

140 Miles of Latvia

That single gain placed the advancing Russians within 140 miles of the Latvian frontier and storming of Vitebsk would point a direct threat at the whole German held Baltic region.

Kolishki, 30 miles east of Vitebsk, was the most important of the 46 towns liberated in the White Russian action.

Around Gomel, to the south of Vitebsk, the war bulletin reported the capture of an important rail line and said that here, too, the enemy counter-attacks were repulsed with losses. More than 1,150 German soldiers were killed in the Vitebsk and Gomel fighting, the communique said.

Berlin reported Russian forces were deploying in strength around Lake Ilmen, far to the north, and at the southern end of the front just north of the Sea of Azov.

Soviet air force pilots silenced 16 Nazi batteries on one unidentified sector, the communique said and destroyed 70 loaded trucks while dispersing infantry concentrations. Off the Taman Peninsula other Red Army warplanes sank 4 troop-laden barges, presumably some of those evacuating the last German remnants from the Western Caucasus.

Berlin indicated the Germans would probably make a stand on the Dnieper River.

1,000 Persons Killed

Stockholm, Oct. 6 (AP)

AT least 1,000 persons were killed and 3,000 houses destroyed in Frankfurt by Allied air raids, the newspaper Aftontidningen said yesterday, quoting a German-language broadcast from an unidentified radio station. Rubble filled 64 of the city's streets.

The city's anti-aircraft defences were said to have been caught unprepared and fire from incendiary bombs damaged the Central Station and Der Roemer Castle.

British Battling Strong Nazi Forces On Kos

CAIRO, Oct. 6. (AP).—The British defenders of Kos Island in the Dodecanese are continuing to battle against strong German forces which landed there last Sunday, a Middle East communique announced today.

There is no change in the general situation on the island, said the bulletin, which gave no details concerning the progress of the fighting.

(The Berlin radio claimed yesterday that German forces had broken the backbone of British resistance on the island and were in possession of all important military installations.)

The communique added that R. A. F. Hudsons and Beaufighters had attacked airfields on Rhodes and Crete Monday night, returning without loss.

Rhodes Not Occupied

ANKARA, Oct. 5 (Delayed)—(AP)—Belief that British forces have occupied all of the 12 islands in the Dodecanese group with the exception of Rhodes grew here today amid conflicting reports of the progress of fighting on the key island of Kos.

Travellers reaching Istanbul from Bodrum on the Turkish coast reported German bombers have been attacking all the islands in the group except Rhodes repeatedly in recent days.

These reports gave rise to belief that British forces had forged a ring around Rhodes with the occupation of the other islands in the group except Rhodes repeatedly in recent days.

These reports gave rise to belief that British forces had forged a ring around Rhodes with the occupation of the other islands in the group and were preparing for an assault on that island when German parachutists and sea-borne troops landed on Kos in an effort to recapture the isle.

The situation there remained obscure.

Armed Bands Worry Rommel Men

Italian Soldiers Are Wrecking Nazi Communications

By FRANK BRUTTO
Associated Press Writer

At the Swiss-Italian Frontier, Oct. 6 (AP)—Armed bands led by Italian officers are sweeping down from the mountains of northern Italy to strike at German communications.

Frontier dispatches reaching here today said Field Marshal Erwin Rommel had issued a new decree threatening death for sabotage throughout northern and central Italy.

The order decreed death for anyone who attacks a German soldier or a member of a German bureau, or anyone committing an act of violence against the German army, its installations or equipment. Less grave cases will be punished by imprisonment.

Information from Italy indicates one group of more than 1,000 men had established headquarters in the Lecco mountains near Lake Como and were making repeated forays against German communications. It was understood similar bands were operating in the Bergamo mountain areas.

Another warning decree was issued by the newly-appointed military commander in Milan province, Col Sassenberg, who told Italians that listening to foreign broadcasts is forbidden and that there must be complete blackout of homes. Violators will be brought before German military courts.

Another order instructed the Italian commanders of airdromes in Nazi-occupied territory to present themselves to receive instructions for their organizations and personnel.

The Milan newspaper Corriere Della Sera announced a further reduction of trains in northern Italy beginning today.

Lavoro Fascista, official publication of Mussolini's "Fascist republican party," announced the arrests of Count Giuseppe Volpi di Misurata, former minister of finance, and Senator Vittorio Cini.

Uncivilized

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP)

THE beheading of an Allied aviator by the Japanese in the Southwest Pacific, President Rosevelt said Tuesday, shows a lack of civilization.

Mr. Roosevelt remarked to a press-radio conference that he supposed that was the worst thing he could say to the Japanese, because if there is one thing that gets under their skins it is to tell them they are uncivilized.

He said he did not care very much if he offended their feelings.

Two Typhoons Bag 4 Planes

LONDON, Oct. 6.—(CP)—Allied fighters and fighter-bombers kept th aerial assault on German Europe going yesterday with attacks on targets in France and the low countries, some Typhoons penetrating the Paris area close enough to see the Eiffel tower.

The Typhoons shot down two Junkers-88 and two Fiesler Storch Army co-operation planes just south of Paris.

Other Allied planes struck at communications, factories and military installations, destroying a number of locomotives, an oil refinery near Ghent, Belgium, and planes aground on Nazi airdromes.

Six Allied planes were missing from the day's operations which followed heavy R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. raids on Frankfurt, the second in 12 hours, Ludwigshafen, Mannheim, Worms, Offenbach and Saarlautern Monday night.

Rome Poses as Allies Toughest Problem

Rome Allies Have To Take It By Force Should Germany Decide To Hang On To

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst.

Should the Germans decide to hang on to Rome, despite the certainty of ultimate encirclement by the Allies, it will pose one of the war's toughest tactical problems for the Anglo-American armies which are continuing their steady advance up the Italian peninsula.

Hitler, the anti-Christ who actually set himself up as a Messiah and has for years been making bitter assaults on all Christian churches, is in effect holding the Pope as hostage to shield the Nazi troops in the Eternal City. As added protection the Hitlerites are surrounded by hundreds of thousands of civilians and are encamped in the midst of shrines of Christendom and the monuments which are among the priceless relics of history.

The Allies have sworn to free Rome, the Vatican and the Pope. President Roosevelt the other day attributed something of the aspects of a holy war to this operation, saying there were certain elements of a crusade in driving out the Germans. Because of all this, and because the capital city is the centre of Italy's chief railways, its capture is one of the main objectives of the campaign.

Obviously, however, the last thing the Allies want is to have to take Rome by force. That would mean the death of many civilians and the destruction of some of the world's most cherished heirlooms. Yet if the master gangster should order several divisions of his troops to make a stand there, the Anglo-American armies would be compelled either to storm the city or accept the alternative of leaving the Nazis in temporary possession. Any idea of starving this metropolis into submission seems outside the pale.

There is no doubt that the Allies can surround Rome, despite increasing enemy resistance. Completion of the conquest of the Island of Corsica, just off the western coast of Italy, will facilitate the landing of an amphibious force north of the capital to co-operate with Generals Montgomery and Clark who are advancing from the south.

Still, Hitler might consider it well worth while to sacrifice his force of occupation in order to keep the Allies out of Rome. From his standpoint there are two arguments in favor of this gamble. One is that possession of the heart of Italian railways would handicap the Allied advance up the peninsula. The other has to do with the moral effect, which would be calculated to impress the might of Germany on the small Axis satellites and any wavering Italian Fascists.

Dangerous Thinking

VANCOUVER, Oct. 6 — (CP). — Field-Marshal Sir John Dill, senior representative in Washington for the Chiefs of the British General Staff, warned in an interview last night that "there would thinking that the war is nearly over."

No Shots Fired. 4 Ships Sunk

Japanese Task Force Run Foul Of Mines

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6—(AP)—The story of a strange sea victory in which four ships of a Japanese task force were sunk without a shot having been fired, and while United States vessels were many miles away, was told by seamen here today.

The Navy confirmed the bare details.

Heroes of the victory were three old type, four-stack destroyers, veterans of the first Great War, no longer fit to engage in fast-striking, hard-hitting modern war, and converted to minelayers.

During the summer the Navy had reason to believe the Japanese would try to reinforce holdings in the Solomon islands. Minelayers were given charts of waters through which enemy convoys might pass. Mines were laid and the destroyers went about other business.

Then a Japanese task force ventured into the area. An explosion tore one ship apart and it sank. Japanese escort ships swarmed around, concluding a submarine had attacked. Another explosion sent a second ship to the bottom, and as the enemy ships tried evasion tactics, others were blown up.

Aerial reconnaissance the next day disclosed that four Japanese ships had been sunk, and that probably several others met the same fate.

The old destroyers now proudly bear four little Nipponese flags painted on their sides.

ROYAL NAVY AND PART OF U.S. FLEET RAIDS NORWEGIAN COAST

German Fight-shy Warships Remain in Hiding Places

LONDON, Oct. 6 — (CP). — Britain's Home Fleet has daringly "trailed its coat" in far northern waters in an open bid for the coy Germany navy to come out and fight but was unmolested by the powerful Tirpitz and her fleet as it struck a sharp surprise blow at Nazi supply lines off the coast of Norway.

The daring foray, which failed to draw the Nazi fight-shy warships from their hiding places in the Norwegian fjords, was disclosed in an Admiralty communique yesterday. The announcement said that a number of United States vessels, including an aircraft carrier, also took part.

The attack was carried out early Monday in the Bodoe area north of the Arctic Circle, the bulletin said. This would place the Royal Navy and American ships within a few hours' steaming time of the reported hideout of the mighty battleship Tirpitz in Altenfjord near Narvik.

The flotilla also swept close to the Norwegian shore in an area in which it is believed a number of other German naval units are concentrated, but the Nazi ships apparently chose to ignore the Allied dare.

The bulletin said only preliminary reports on the operation had been received, but added:

"It is clear that United States carrier-borne aircraft obtained hits with bombs on a number of large enemy merchant ships, including an 8,000-ton tanker."

The battle fleet was under command of Admiral Sir Bruce Fraser.

Two Nazi planes—a Heinkel 115 and a Junkers 88—which attempted to shadow the fleet after the attack were shot down.

Three Allied planes were brought down by German anti-aircraft fire, the communique said, adding, "It is possible that some of their crews have been captured by the enemy."

The communique said the action took place in "leads," denoting the channels between the mainland of Norway and the Lofoten Islands to the west.

Germans Lift Martial Law

LONDON, Oct. 6 (CP)—The Berlin radio announced today German occupation authorities in Denmark had lifted martial law which was clamped down on the country last month in an effort to end a wave of sabotage.

At the same time dispatches from Stockholm quoted Swedish press reports as saying the Germans also had ended a country-wide curfew under which Danes had been banned from the streets between 9 p.m. and 5 a.m.

The situation within Denmark, however, apparently remained unsettled. Reports from Stockholm last night said the Nazis had assumed all police functions after arresting high Danish police officials and disarming the state police, estimated at some 7,000 men.

The Germans were said to have taken this action because of the refusal of the Danish police to co-operate with them in rounding up Jews and hunting down saboteurs.

Two Are Arrested On Breaking Count

Pte. Gordon A. Spencer, a Picton member of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, Camp Borden, was arraigned before Magistrate O A. Langley, K.C., in police court today on a charge of having broken and entered the house of W. W. Steinburg, Belmont township on September 28 and stolen a number of articles.

Spencer, who said he was 20 years old, was in civilian attire. He pleaded not guilty to the charge and was remanded until October 13 for trial.

Mrs. Muriel Maracle, 20, of Shannonville, who was similarly charged, also pleaded not guilty and she, too, was remanded in custody until the same date.

The two were arrested by Provincial Constable Archie Grayling of Havelock and brought into Peterborough Tuesday evening.

Russians Reject Post-War Plan

LONDON, Oct. 6 (CP) — The Financial News said today the Russians had declined an invitation to participate in the drafting of a post-war currency plan, presumably because they had no wish to share the responsibility for elaboration of a monetary scheme on capitalistic lines.

"This does not mean that it (Russia) would decline to participate in an International monetary arrangement elaborated by the Allied Government," the News said.

The original plan, after American and British negotiations had reached the advance stage, the newspaper related, was to form a "drafting committee" composed of delegates from the Soviet Union and China, and two representatives of continental governments and two from Latin American governments.

The idea of the "drafting committee" has been dropped, the News said, and instead American and British negotiations will aim at working out a detailed plan and the other Allies will be asked to adhere to the scheme or suggest modifications.

4th Battery Staff Appointed This Week

The Administrative and Train- Staff of the 4th (R) H.A.A. Bty. here has been appointed, following a visit last week of Col. W. Slack of Ottawa, in command of the 33rd Brigade Group. Major J. F. C. Maunder, M.C. is training officer and adjutant. B.S.M. William Crain and B.S.M. George Randall are assistant instructors, and Bdr. Max Grose is Orderly Room clerk. The unit is under the command of Capt. R.A. Phillips, who was O.C. the 4th (R) Fd. Bty. RCA before the change-over.

Officers and N.C.O.'s are needed at the 4th (R) H.A.A. Bty, RCA, since this local unit became an anti-aircraft battery instead of a field unit. The establishment of ranks is considerably increased and, it is felt, that there are a number of trained men who could readily fit into the new setup as a reserve force unit. Those interested are asked to phone the Armoury or come up on Monday or Wednesday evenings for information.

hour cost of living bonus, and 10 cents an hour extra for night work.

Three ships were being loaded entirely by servicemen here earlier to-day, but it is expected the stevedores will take over full charge of loading operations when they return to work and the troops will be called off Halifax docks.

Unofficial sources said they believed the longshoremen's decision to return to work would have a great effect on the freight handlers' attitude and they too may decide to return to work later today.

At a meeting held in camera this morning the freight handlers again were reported to have turned down a request made by their local president and business manager — George W. Horne—that they return to work, pending a Royal Commission sitting to hear the case. They made this decision before they knew about the longshoremen's decision to go back to work.

Reoccupy Leros

(A Reuters news agency dispatch from Ankara last night said reports from southern Turkey suggested that the Germans also had reoccupied Leros, the only other island in the Dodecanese group which Britain previously had announced to be in her hands. There have been reports that British forces have occupied Castelrosso Island, but these have never been confirmed.

Kos has the best air facilities in the Dodecanese and was being used extensively by the R.A.F. to bomb Rhodes when the Germans launched their attack on Oct. 2, the Bodrum observers said.

They declared the British troops on Kos were landed in three days of intensive air operations.

British forces were reported to have constructed a new airfield on the north coast of Kos near the village of Kumburnu, from which Allied planes were said to have launched almost continuous attacks on Rhodes.

Columns of smoke rising from that island are clearly visible from the Turkish shore.

A British reconnaissance plane, presumably on an observation mission over the Aegean, was forced down yesterday near Izmir, Turkey, and the pilot—who was uninjured—was interned

Sold Bag Of Potatoes Above Pegged Price

"I was beguiled into bringing in that one bag of potatoes," said Fred McMahon, farmer from the Millbrook district in police court this morning after he had pleaded guilty to a charge under the war time prices and trade regulations, of having sold a bag of potatoes here on June 19th last at a price higher than the ceiling price.

"He means that he was coaxed into bringing the potatoes in," said Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., who appeared for the Wartime Prices and Trade Board as prosecutor. "I have reason to believe that was the case and that this was an isolated instance. He had not been violating the regulations on any general scale and I am asking for the minimum fine under the circumstances.

It was stated that McMahon had charged $4 for the potatoes.

Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., mentioned $10 as a possible fine.

"Since The Examiner wrote up the Charlton case," said Mr. Gordon, "the minimum for such cases in this court has been raised to $20. We have got to consider The Examiner."

Magistrate Langley, K.C., fined the accused $20 and $2.50 costs.

$1,250 Granted By City For Yule Gifts

Grants of $1,000 to the Women's Auxiliary of the Active Army and $250 to the similar auxiliary of the R.C.A.F. were passed by the council Monday night.

The auxiliary of the Active Army, represented by Mrs. J. A. Dewart and Mrs. J. W. Stevenson had informed the finance committee that they were preparing to send 1,200 Christmas parcels to Peterborough men on active service. Before dealing with that request the committee decided to enquire from the women's auxiliaries of the two other branches of the service as a guide to the financial assistance which they might give.

Mrs. G. H. Roper and Mrs. G. Graham estimated Monday night that $250 would enable them to send the boxes they were planning and also to continue their monthly supply of cigarettes for local R.C.A.F. men who use them and other monthly gifts for non-smokers.

Enquiry from the Women's Naval Auxiliary advised the council that they were sending 350 parcels, but did not require any financial assistance from the council.

All the churches of the city are engaged in preparing Christmas boxes for their members in three services, and it was remarked Monday night that apparently the Peterborough men and also women would know that their home town folks were not forgetting them.

The council has approved a design for a Christmas card to be sent to all the Peterborough men and women in the three branches of the armed service. It features a group of photographs of typical Peterborough scenes, six or seven of them arranged in an arrtistic "layout." Distribution will be made through local organizations and if there is some duplication of this Christmas message of remembrance the council is making no objection. This method affords all the more assurance of at least one of the Christmas cards reaching every Peterborough man in the army, navy and air force.

Most of the 70,000 fans in the big stadium for the second game of the series, however, did not know of the drama unfolding in front of them and thought only of the Cardinals' attempt to come back on even terms with the New York Yankees after losing the first contest, 4-2.

Mort's catcher, of course, was his brother, Walter Cooper.

Both received their early baseball training from their father.

Opposing the Cards on the mound was big Ernie Bonham, who had won 15 and lost eight during the regular season. Cooper's pitching record was 21 and eight.

The line-ups:

St. Louis—Klein, 2b; Walker, cf; Musial, rf; W. Cooper, c; Kurowski, 3b; Sanders, 1b; Litwhiler, lf; Marion, ss; M. Cooper, p.

New York—Crosetti, ss; Metheny, rf; Johnson, 3b; Keller, lf; Dickey, c; Etten, 1b; Gordon, 2b; Stainback, cf; Bonham, p.

Umpires: Reardon (N.L.), plate; Rue (A.L.), first base; Stewart (N.L.), second base; Rommel (A.L.), third base.

First Inning.

Cardinals: Klein flied to Metheny. Walker worked the count to two and two and then fanned, and Musial lifted a high fly to Stainback.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Yankees: Crosetti took two strikes, raised a foul, and then grounded to Marion. Metheny was thrown out by Klein. Johnson lined directly at Klein, who speared the ball with his gloved hand.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Second Inning.

Cardinals: After getting over two strikes, Bonham served three wide balls to W. Cooper, who then popped high to Crosetti on the grass in back of shortstop. Kurowski fanned on three pitches. Bonham walked Sanders on five pitches, and Litwhiler flied to Gordon in short right.

Yankees: With the count two strikes and two balls, Keller flied to Walker. Dickey also worked the count to two and two, and then flied deep to Walker, and Etten fanned.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Third Inning.

Cardinals: On the first pitch Marion lined a home run into the lower left field stands and brought a tremendous cheer from the crowd. M. Cooper lined to Keller. Klein flied to Gordon in short centre. Bonham gave three straight balls to Walker, got over two called strikes, and then Walker grounded out to Crosetti.

One run, one hit, no errors, none left.

Yankees: Gordon went down on strikes, swinging hard. Klein jumped and made a one-handed catch of Stainback's liner. Bonham bounced to Kurowski and was thrown out.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Fourth Inning.

Cardinals—On the second pitch Musial lined a sharp single to centre field. W. Cooper sacrificed on the first pitch, Dickey to Etten. Kurowski singled sharply past Bonham's head into centre field and Musial scored without even drawing a throw from Stainback.

With the count of no strikes and two balls, Sanders lined a home run into the right field lower stands, 350 feet from the plate, as Metheny backed against the wall in a vain effort to catch the ball, and Sanders trotted home behind Kurowski.

Litwhiler hit a foul fly into the upper deck of the left field stands but then struck out and Metheny ran far over into the right field corner to make a one-handed catch of Marion's fly.

Three runs, three hits, no errors. None left.

Yankees—Crosetti, attempting to bunt, popped a single over Sanders' head. Metheny flied deep to Walker. Johnson lined a single to centre, sending Crosseti to third. Keller flied to Walker, and Crosetti scored as Sanders cut off the throw from the outfield. Dickey flied to Litwhiler.

One run, two hits, no errors, one left.

Fifth Inning

Cardinals: M. Cooper struck out. Klein waited out a walk. With the count two strikes and one ball, Walker bunted and when Bonham was slow going after the ball, the fleet Redbird beat it out for a hit, Klein holding up at second. Musial flied deep to Keller. W. Cooper lined sharply to Gordon, who made a fine catch.

No runs, one hit, no errors, two left.

Yankees:— With the count one and one, Etten sent a lazy fly to Musial.

Gordon smashed a hard single to centre, and when Walker fumbled the ball momentarily for an error Gordon raced safely to second.

Walker made a great running catch of Stainback's long fly in left centre.

Bonham sent a roller to Marion and was thrown out.

Yugoslav Army Severs Line To Trieste

LONDON, Oct. 6 — (CP). — Important new successes against the Germans, including the cutting of the strategic railway line between Trieste and the Austrian border, were announced by the Yugoslav National Army of Liberation to-day.

A communique said Croat patriots had won complete control of the former Italian island of Lussino, 50 miles off the Dalmatian coast, following a surprise naval assault which overpowered the German garrison. Croat units attached to the Partisan Army of Josip Broz completed the occupation of the island, the communique said.

Severance of the Trieste-Austrian railway, one of the three main lines feeding German troops and equipment to the Italian battle front, was described as an effective blow in support of Allied forces battling their way up the Italian peninsula. The successul attack was carried out 14 miles from Postumia.

Fear Seamen May Join Other Strikers

1,000 Troops Are Working On Halifax Docks

HALIFAX, Oct. 6 — (CP). — An order telling seamen to stay on the job and not to take any "strike action" was taken as an indication here to-day that officials are attaching importance to the possibility sailors aboard a ship being loaded with perishable goods in the harbor by members of the armed forces may join striking stevedores and freight handlers.

The six-day strike of 400 freight handlers seeking higher pay and the walkout of at least 1,200 sympathizing stevedores that brought 1,000 troops on to the docks to keep perishable freight cargo moving, was as unsettled as ever to-day.

The longshoremen, following a short meeting held in camera last night, were reported unable to agree on taking the advice of their international president, Joseph Ryan in New York, to return to their jobs. They are holding another meeting this morning.

Peter Garnier, president of the Halifax union, would make no statement to-day, but it was learned from reliable sources that Mr. Ryan sent the stevedores a telegram saying that they had no authority to leave work without instructions and urged them to return to the docks.

Meanwhile, the executive of the Halifax branch of the Canadian Seamen's Union issued orders that its members should not take any action unless instructed and not act in the capacity of "strike breakers."

Injustices Alleged

Harry Allison, business agent for the Seamen's Union, said that their executives "realized" that "injustices" were imposed on the freight handlers, but that they believed the freight handlers could obtain their objective by other than strike action.

For several days reports have persisted that crew members of the ship concerned in the strike had said they would refuse to sail the boat loaded by troops because the cargo would "not be properly stowed."

A denial that cargo was being stowed improperly was issued by Capt. W. A. Innes, port warden, who said he had made an examination of stowage operations and that it was "highly satisfactory."

Institute Plans Joint Meeting In Port Hope

COBOURG, Oct. 6—(ENS)—There is no immediate prospect of a tax sale, Councillor Alan Field told council at its regular meeting here. The announcement followed a letter from Miss Mable Kerr which requested a reduction in the taxes on her property because it was vacant during 1941 and 1942. She requested that the matter be referred to the Court of Revision on October 20, and that it not be put on the tax sale list.

Council directed that Miss Kerr be advised that it would be dealt with at the Court of Revision and that it would not be put on the tax sale list.

Prisoner Service

Mayor Jack Burnet read a letter in connection with the Canadian Legion War Services activities for war prisoners. Relatives of prisoners of war would be duly informed of the services of this department of the Legion, the mayor said. In all prisoners of war camps educational centres had been set up with complete course to university degree, and these were available through the Legion.

Statement of current tax collections revealed that to Sept. 30, current collections amounted to $119,685.25, which with arrears collected of $10,384.21, made a total of $130,033.46.

In connection with the visit this month of the Signal Corps band, council decided to pay for one dinner at the hotel and the Victory Loan committee to pay for one.

Join Port Hope

It was announced that the town council would go to Port Hope today to the public meeting arranged by the Aeronautical Institute.

Mayor Burnet revealed that the lake had gone down some 18 inches since its high level mark and it was felt that the danger had passed in regard to the fishing houses being undermined. On motion of Councillors Alan Field and Douglas Glen, it was decided to accept the offer of Eddie Gurry to purchase the Meehan property for $730.25 tax arrears. Following were the committee accounts passed.

Highways and streets, $711.13; public buildings and printing, $20.71; police, $10; fire, water and light, $490.09; health and sanitation, $17.72; finance and harbor, $615.82; and direct relief, $28.28.

Belgians Trained In Canada Now Ready To Battle Hun Invader

Soldiers shown in these pictures are Belgians who were trained in Canada for the day when they can take another crack at Nazi invaders now holding their beautiful country in thralldom. They are now overseas, the last contingent of Belgians trained in the Dominion having recently arrived in Britain. TOP LEFT shows a platoon of the last Canadian-trained Belgian troops tramping resolutely down friendly Quebec roads near their training camp at Joliette, Que. TOP RIGHT, a Belgian soldier stands beside the double flag which was flown at the camp, one side showing the Belgian colors, the other bearing British colors. It was a symbol to the men of the lasting friendship between the two nations. At LOWER LEFT, a lieutenant and a sergeant-major of the Belgian forces look over ground near Joliette for a training scheme, and at RIGHT two of the Belgian soldiers study the intricacies of a modern rifle, "the faithful friend of the soldier." Hundreds of Belgians were trained at Joliette before the camp was closed up following departure of the last contingent for overseas. (Canadian Army Photos)

Loan Objective Remains At Same Level

COBOURG, Oct. 6. — (ENS).— The National War Finance committee this week announced the breakdown of objectives for the various canvassing districts in the County of Northumberland. Last week, the County Executive Committee stated that objective set for the county by Provincial headquarters would be $1,700,000 or approximately the amount of money raised in the Fourth Victory Loan campaign last spring. The drive opens on Monday, October 18 for three weeks.

The objectives are as follows:

Cobourg	$500,000
Hamilton Township.	175,000
South Monaghan township	40,000
Haldimand township	100,000
Alnwick township	35,000
Percy township	110,000
Cramahe township	60,000
Village of Hastings	45,000
Village of Colborne	70,000
Township of Brighton	60,000
Village of Brighton	125,000
Township of Murray	80,000
Campbellford	175,000
Township of Seymour	125,000
	$1,700,000

Mr. R. G. aPrker, chairman of the Payroll Savings Committee stated that his section covering the canvass of nine large industrial plants in the county has been asked to raise $110,000. Individual objectives for these plants have not been established but in view of the fact that the objective is about the same as last loan, he felt that the amounts to be raised from each plant would remain about the same. Last spring this section raised $118,000 in Victory Bonds.

Highlighting the campaign in the county will be the event of several visiting army and air force bands. Dr. A. R. Richards, the new public relations chairman, for this drive, stated in Cobourg that on Saturday, October 23, the R.C.A.F. Brass Band will play at engagements in Brighton and Campbellford. The Public Relations Committees of these communities are busy planning to make the occasion of this visit a memorable one.

Dr. Richards also informed the press that on Friday and Saturday, October 22 and 23, the Signal Corps Brass Band from Kingston will visit Cobourg to help the drive, and on Sunday, October 24 the Royal Canadian Army Service Corp Training Centre Band from Toronto will arrive in Cobourg to take part in a demonstration being planned to celebrate Army Cadet day. Further details regarding this aspect of the National War Finance Committee work will be announced later.

Loan officials are quite confident that the county will again meet and exceed its objective as it has always done in the past.

"The last few months has seen the war enter into a new phase. The difficult days which saw the United Nations absorb and repel the enemy's most violent blows have been succeeded by days in which our attacks have grown steadily in intensity and the ring around the inner circle defences of Nazism drawn tighter.

"While it is with a sense of relief that we think of what has been accomplished up to this time, we must still realize all that still remains to be done. The scale of attack needed to bring the enemy's "unconditional surrender" will demand a heavy price in human life and suffering, and as well in the weapons of war. We cannot now afford to relax in either our determination or our efforts to see the job through," Headquarters said.

Loan officials urged that the people of Northumberland get ready to buy Victory Bonds when the salesmen call upon them and to "Speed the Victory" by purchasing bonds to the utmost of their ability.

Ida MacKenzie Will Be Speaker At Autumn Meet

ROSENEATH, Oct. 6—(ENS)— The members of the W.M.S. met in Mrs. J. A Nichols' home on Tuesday afternoon for the regular meeting of the society. The president Mrs. R. Crego presided.

During the business session it was announced that Miss Ida MacKenzie, Dominion Field Secretary, would be guest speaker at the autumn thankoffering service to be held on Sunday morning October 31, in the church.

The first chapter of the Study Book, "For All of Life," was presented by Mrs. R. Crego, when those who are without the "Light of Knowledge, were cited as follows three-quarters of the world's population who cannot read; illiterate persons open to exploitation; those to whom the Bible is a closed book; and those who have neither voice nor vote in political economic or religous destinies."

CAMPBELLFORD

Red Cross Winner Of 13 Fair Prizes

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 6—(ENS) —The Campbellford and Seymour Branch of the Red Cross Society had good reason to be pleased with the quality of work its members have been turning out. A survey of the competitions at the recent fall fair disclosed the Red Cross had walked away with 13 prizes on items they had displayed in the War Work exhibits.

Members felt this was particularly noteworthy since much of their work had been shipped a week before the fair took place. At their meeting held on Tuesday afternoon thanks was also expressed to all who gave their services to tag on fair day.

As a further means of raising money to augment their funds the branch will sponsor the ""Lifebuoy Follies", consisting of eight professional entertainers—four men and four women, who had been touring military, air force and naval stations in Canada for the past two years. Final arrangements for this presentation are yet to be made, however, it is expected that this will be one of the treats of the season.

CAMPBELLFORD

Ministers Plan Religious Survey

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 6—(ENS) —A religious survey is being considered according to a report of the Campbellford and District Ministerial Association which held its October meeting on Monday morning when the clergy were guests of Captain and Mrs. Alex Turnbull at the Salvation Army Citadel.

The suggestion that a complete survey to determine the religious affiliation of every person in the community was greeted with enthusiasm and a committee comprising Rev. J. W. Lennox, Rev. G. N. Maxwell and Captain Alex. Turnbull was named to study the proposal and bring in a report at the next meeting.

Another suggestion made during the meeting was that of holding a joint Sunday evening service once every month in one of the Protestant churches. Definite action on this proposal was postponed till the next meeting in order that members might have an opportunity to study the plan. In accordance with a resolution passed at a previous meeting concerning the review of books the clergy considered of particular interest, it was announced that Rev. Ralston and Rev. Maxwell had chosen for study and discussion "Religion and the World of Tomorrow" by Walter Vandyke.

Rev. H. R. Bryant, who presided for the meeting and the subsequent election of officers, extended a welcome to Rev. J. W. Lennox of Hastings who was attending for the first time as a member of the association. Officers for the ensuing year were named as follows: President, Rev. G. N. Maxwell; secretary, Rev. J. R. Bick.

CAMPBELLFORD

Rev. Townsend Speaks At Special Services

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 6 (ENS) —Rev. T. F. Townsend, B.A., B.D., of Stirling, was guest speaker at the Tabernacle United church, English Line on Sunday. when that congregation observed its annual anniversary services.

Large congregations were on hand for both services and the church itself was decorated with flowers artistically arranged throughout the edifice. A full choir under the able leadership of Mrs. Harry Grills contributed a number of anthems at both services, with Miss Elsie Ranney being the pianist of the day. Mrs. T. F. Townsend was the guest soloist and sang at both services.

As his text in the morning, Rev. Townsend chose, "Out of the depths have I cried unto Thee," and he dwelt on the thought that so many leave God out of their lives until some dire exegiency arises. In the evening his theme was "The Red Shield of Heroism" and he recalled that to win battles against adversities soldiers were not relaxing one atom of energy or interest. Christian people required these same qualities of devotion against the forces of evil. The pastor, Rev. J. R. Bick, was in charge of the evening service.

COBOURG

2 Boys Steal Victory Bond

COBOURG, Oct. 6 (ENS) — Jack Wilde, age 17, and a 15-year-old juvenile, both wards of the Bowmanville Boys' Training School, appeared in police court yesterday charged with theft of a $50 Victory Bond from Fred Campbell of Hope township and of six dollars in cash from Floris Campbell, daughter of the other theft victim.

The two were arrested by Provincial Constable Alex MacLeod of Cobourg.

Statements were given by the two to Constable MacLeod, revealed that the juvenile, who works for Campbell, met Wilde near the farm last Sunday and went to the farm-house while the family was away. The older boy stole the bond and six dollars from the purse, giving the juvenile two dollars for himself.

Had Some Fun

The young lad went on a spending spree after the theft, purchasing and consuming a bottle of pop two hamburgers, two hot-dogs and four chocolate bars. After that he went home and had his supper.

Constable MacLeod located Wilde at Port Hope and placed him under arrest.

J. J. Brown, superintendent of the Boys' training School, Bowmanville, told the court that the juvenile did not have a very bad record and that the older boy had shown himself to be a very good worker.

The juvenile was committed to the care of Mr. Brown and the older lad was remanded for a week while efforts were made to secure empoyment with his father the latter a resident of Oshawa.

The Election To Come

In a recent address to an organization of his followers Premier King said that he would not call an election before 1945 unless he were forced to do so by an obvious lack of confidence in his administration; he specified certain circumstances under which he would feel obliged to go to the people for a decision. His statement has since been interpreted by Mr. Bracken and Mr. Coldwell and the press in a variety of ways. Both Opposition leaders have accused Mr. King of playing politics. They are quite right. That is what he is doing, and that is one of his duties as Prime Minister. Putting aside the hypocritical pretences with which we shroud our governmental system in Canada, it must be obvious to anyone that one of the chief duties of a party leader is to get his party into power and keep it there. That is what Mr. King is doing. That is what Mr. Bracken and Mr. Coldwell would like to do and what they spend all their waking hours trying to do. And as they have no such task as conducting a national war effort to distract them, they have far more time for playing politics than Mr. King and his Ministry.

Political leaders desire power because they think that they can do good with it. In Canada we have had remarkably few politicians who pursued power for its own sake. The party leader who best convinces the people that he will do good with power if it is given to him will be elected. The political struggle is complex and sometimes unsavoury in detail, but in essence it is merely a struggle for power with which to do good, or what a section of the public believes to be good.

The Prime Minister has said that he will not call an election before 1945 unless he is forced to do so. His opponents have declared that he is threatening them with an election if they criticise him. Now there can only be one reason why they should dread an election, and that is that they are not ready for one. If they thought that they could win they would be eager for an election and would do everything in their power to bring it about. By 1945 they will be ready, and if the war should still be going on then we shall not find them refusing to go to the people on that account. War governments decline in popularity from week to week, and the Opposition parties seem confident that one or other of them could gain power in an election which came toward the end of the war.

They would do well, however, not to forget about the Peace Conference. Canada is not likely to send a man to the peace-table who has had no experience in international politics and who has only a layman's knowledge of how the war was fought. At the Peace Conference all the United Nations will have to speak their minds with the utmost clarity and force; any fumbling or left-handedness on the part of the Canadian representative will be inexcusable. If the Canadian people think that either Mr. Bracken (who has yet to take a seat in the Commons) or Mr. Coldwell (whose party has only recently begun to take an interest in prosecuting and winning the war) would represent them well at the Peace Conference they will have lost their political sagacity. We shall want an old hand at international affairs sitting in Canada's seat when the peace discussions begin.

Sometime between now and 1945 an election will be called. The power to call it is one of the Prime Minister's principal political weapons. In the meantime he and his Ministry will continue to direct Canada's part in the war — a part which neither of the aspirants to power has succeeded in belittling, except in matters of detail.

All three party leaders are playing politics, and their desire is the public good. But the final say rests with the public, which will choose its own man when the time comes.

Death From Anaesthetic

It is surprising and somewhat shocking to read that twenty persons have died from the effects of anaesthetics in Toronto since the first of January. Anaesthesia was one of the great medical discoveries of all time and its benefits cannot be calculated; it has made expert and accurate surgical work possible—indeed, with the discovery of antiseptics it has entirely revolutionized surgery; it has reduced pain and suffering immeasureably; and yet it appears to be dangerous and fatal in some cases.

The question which arises at once in the layman's mind is this: are anaesthetics themselves incalculable and liable to produce sudden unfavourable effects, or does the fault lie in the way they are used by some practitioners? When an operation is performed in a hospital an anaesthetist is usually at hand, ready to give all his attention to the effect of the anaesthetic on the patient; death under these circumstances seems to be rare, or at least it is rarely reported. But some of the Toronto deaths occurred when a physician gave the anaesthetic himself, when preparing to treat a minor ailment in the patient's home. Was there carelessness or ignorance in these cases?

These are matters which the medical profession would do well to discuss in their own organizations. Anaesthesia is too great a boon to mankind for us to allow a fear of it to grow in the minds of the public. It would be most unfortunate if people began to avoid necessary operations because they were afraid of the effects of an anaesthetic. Anaesthesia is still a young branch of medicine and there is much to be learned about it, but the public has a right to ask that what is known about it now be used by physicians with the utmost discretion.

What Is The Y.M.C.A. Thinking?

We have received a book called Young Canada Confers, which is a report of the conference of Canadian Y.M.C.A.'s which was held at Hart House, in Toronto, last April. At this conference, apparently, a search was made for a goal toward which the Y.M.C.A.'s might work, in the hope of making Canada a better place to live. According to the Introduction, "Goals and objectives were formulated. A high degree of determination to work for these objectives was engendered".

But what are the goals and objectives? We have read the book with care and we have found a great many suggestions, vaguely worded, but little that is definite. The first section of the book is a summary of a speech by Gregory Vlastos, and of the discussion which followed it. But the report is preceded by a disclaimer which says: "The statements herein are not necessarily the views of Squadron Leader Vlastos, nor are they necessarily the consensus of the Conference". Then what are they? Is the Y.M.C.A. trying to play safe in its report? The views of Professor Vlastos are well known, and no body which invites him to speak needs to apologize for them. He is a pink thinker: that is to say, his views have a mildly Christian Socialist tinge, and are also somewhat rosy and vague in form and expression. The conference, indeed, to judge by this Report, took place in a rosy cloud.

Some of what was said appears to be good sense. Much was merely talk, obviously by people who knew what they wanted but had little idea of how to set about getting it. And what they wanted would not, we think, suit everyone, or even a majority of people, in Canada. A great part of the planning for the future at the conference was founded on the belief that if we can raise huge sums of money for war, we can go on raising them in times of peace; this fallacy has been exposed time and again, but planners of the future continue to build their hopes on it. Someone else at the conference thought that a more equal division of this world's goods could be gained by "a very steeply progressive income tax, similar to and perhaps steeper than the one the war forced upon us"; the Y.M.C.A., which depends greatly upon donations from well-to-do citizens, should really be more discreet in its plans to join in the good old game of soaking the rich. Or is this one of the views provided for in the disclaimer, which no speaker expressed, and no majority endorsed?

The Report is an interesting document, and it is good to know that young men are doing so much talking about the future of this country. But if we may offer a word of advice to the Y.M.C.A., it would be wise in future to issue reports which attribute all statements to their right sources, and which do not deal so much in generalities. The Y.M.C.A., in its long history, has done many fine things, but it did not do them by talking; it chose possible goals and worked for them. Advocacy of labour-management schemes from people who have had little experience either as labour or management have slight value; plans to re-build the taxation scheme from people who, in most cases, pay no taxes because they have not begun to earn, are unconvincing: for people who are barely at the threshold of life to talk of "bringing others into close contact with the realities of our day" is impertinent, though doubtless unconsciously so. The Y.M.C.A. obviously wants to do some post-war planning, and that is a good thing; but first of all it should get down from the pink clouds and closer to the brass tacks.

A Brooklyn Childhood

By
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

OF LATE years the Borough of Brooklyn has come to be the subject of jokes by great numbers of people who have never seen it and have no very clear idea of why it is supposed to be funny. As Englishmen joke about Wigan, speaking of it as a sort of outer darkness into which no sensible man would seek to penetrate, so Americans speak of Brooklyn; it is known as the home of the Dodgers—"dem Bums"—and as the place of origin of a remarkable accent which turns "oil" into "erl," and girl into "goil." But presumably Brooklyn is peopled by men and women who have their joys and their sorrows like the superior residents of Manhattan; indeed, this point is well and truly made in "A Tree Grows In Brooklyn," a novel by Betty Smith which is published in Canada by Mussons.

THIS novel has received the highest praise from New York critics. Perhaps a sense of guilt at having made fun of Brooklyn for many years has driven them to overdo their praise; the novel is certainly a good one, and one of the important novels of 1943, but it is not so world-shaking as the New York critics would like us to believe. Although it is a first novel, Miss Smith has written several plays, and so she has none of the faults of the novice of writing. Her book is cut up into short, clear episodes, expressive and not over-written; her outlining of character is sharp and exiguous; she has a notable gift of pathos and a splendid and robust sense of humour. But somehow the sum of her book is no more than a simple addition of its parts. The first hundred pages raise expectations which are not fulfilled. There are no weak passages, no blunders or fumblings, but there are also no peaks. It is a book without a climax.

THE reason for this dead level of achievement may be found in the nature of the book's theme. It tells the story of a poor Brooklyn child, Francie Nolan, from her earliest recollections until her seventeenth year. Miss Smith gets everything out of her theme that is in it, but the question is: has this theme enough meat on its bones to make a really first-rate novel? Has not the author done herself a disservice by choosing a theme which is not quite big enough for her talent? But after reading the book and thinking about it—for you will think about it—you may agree with me that this is a book which the writer had to get off her chest before she could go on to anything else, and that her next novel will certainly be a more carefully formed work.

FRANCIE NOLAN is the oldest child of Johnnie Nolan, a singing waiter and a drunk, and his wife Katie, a firm and capable woman of Austrian parentage. Although extreme poverty hangs over the family they have uncommon gifts of imagination, lightness of heart and a sort of innate culture and fineness of spirit. Francie has a bitter time of it, guarding her small treasure of sensitivity against the assaults of a sordid environment, degrading and overcrowded schools filled with brutalized children, and the ceaseless compulsion to follow the profitable, rather than the desirable, course of action. But her father is a source of strength to her; although he was a drunk Johnny was also something of a poet and a true gentleman. And her mother gives her strength in another way; she fights her battle with truly great courage. Francie's childhood and adolescence are hard, but when her widowed mother marries McShane, the precinct politician, a new world is opened up to her, and a college education—her greatest ambition—is assured.

FRANCIE is completely credible all through the book, and Miss Smith rarely makes a false step with any of her characters. Perhaps Grandmother Rommely is a little too good to be true; she is also the only character in the book who talks like an old-fashioned melodrama. But Aunt Sissy is a notable figure, a large-hearted trollop with astounding worldly wisdom. Excellent also are Uncle Willie Flittman, who was hated by a horse, and Aunt Evy, who was loved by the same horse; McGarrity, the saloon-keeper is another fine creation, and so is McShane, "the Honest Cop" who enters politics. There are some brilliantly handled scenes of comedy, such as the fearsome weaning of Gussie, and the scene in which Aunt Sissy acquires a Gideon Bible. There are scenes also which many readers may find repulsive in their brutality, but it will do them no harm to learn that very poor people suffer many indignities for no other reason than that they are poor. "A Tree Grows In Brooklyn" is a book which can be recommended without reserve; it is no masterpiece, but it is high above the average. The title, of course, refers to Francie; a fine thing may flourish in Brooklyn, in spite of the bricks and mortar, the depressing and sordid atmosphere of the poor sections, and the tendency of the great part of mankind to destroy and revile anything which is beyond its comprehension.

Good Neighbour, Good Friend

Visitors from Latin-American republics to the south of us are always welcome, but there will be a special warmth in the greetings extended to Senior Joaquin Fernandez Foreign Minister of Chile, who is now in this country. Called to direct his country's foreign policy in October, 1942, after a long career as a diplomat in European and South American capitals, he has discharged his duties with both courage and foresight.

The days after Pearl Harbor were troublesome ones for many countries on this continent, but Senor Fernandez did not hesitate to exert his influence and lend his leadership to those of his countrymen who wished to show by some concrete action their abhorrence of Axis aggression. Early this year the Chilean Senate approved a resolution severing relations with the Axis countries, after he had set forth his views in a clear and lucid statement.—New York Times.

BRIDGE

At the Centre of Empire

(By DOUGLAS AMARON, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, Oct. 6 (CP)—War and peace blend in mysterious combination along the south coast of England where guns point their muzzles to the sea and sky and their carriages to the fertile flower gardens of Hampshire, Sussex and Kent.

By day troops in tanks and smaller vehicles rumble along the winding roads overlooking the Channel. Barges and a great assortment of other landing and assault craft manoeuvre in the sea.

By night there is only stillness. A half moon shines down on the sea pointing to France 20, 30, 40 or 50 miles away. A searchlight fingers the sky. The war is still there, but for the moment there is peace.

These were impressions of a drive, begun at dusk in Portsmouth, and ended the following noon in bomb-pocked Dover There were stops at nameless ports to watch landing craft set out to sea and at the chalk cliffs of Beachy Head.

The drive came at the final stages of a great amphibious exercise which ended with a flotilla of barges and other ships sailing toward the French coast and returning without once drawing fire from the enemy.

Thousands upon thousands of Allied troops, including Canadian troops were somewhere along the roads but they might well still have been in their camps. Camouflaged, their concealment was letter perfect.

For weeks southern England had been a banned area and time after time, sometimes three times in a mile, sentries asked for identification.

At Beachy Head, a high promontory which juts out towards France, the cliffs already were taking shape in the first light Soon it was possible to see the flotilla of craft moving slowly towards France.

As the red sun emerged from the water a solitary Typhoon flew overhead then a pair, then a squadron—first of hundreds of aircraft which flew thousands of sorties across the Channel that day.

Farther east, along the coast, an anti-aircraft gunner manned his post and told how earlier in the day he fired "a good shot" at a German reconnaissance bomber. The crumps coming from the invisible French shore were our bombs bursting, he said.

He wondered at the miracle of movement which could bring the war so close yet still leave it so far away.

Petrillo's Victory

(NEW YORK TIMES)

THE terms of the contract that the Petrillo union has signed with Deca Records Inc., have now been made known, and they confirm the worst misgivings. Under the contract the company agrees to pay directly to the union a fee on every record sold. The company must file with the union the serial number of each record, together with additional information that the union may examine the employer's financial records. In return for these and other concessions from the company, it is hard to see what the Petrillo union gives except willingness to end its strike or boycott. It agrees that all its laws, rules and regulations are formally made a part of the contract. This protests, among other things, the union's continued right to call a strike when it deems it necessary. The union also agrees that it will not change its constitution or by-laws to contravene the terms of the pact. The practical effect of this would apear to be to prevent the members of the union from voting to have the record fees paid to the actual makers of the records, or from changing the constitution or by-laws to give them any greater control of the union's affairs than they have at present.

It need hardly be pointed out how dangerous the precedent here established would be. Under it Mr. Petrillo levies a private tax on employers. At best he will administer the proceeds estimated at $500,000 annually if all record companies accept the terms—to set up his own private system of unemployment relief. But there is no public control whatever of the manner in which he uses these funds. If only a small part of the funds do go to pay unemployed musicians, if the bulk of them are used instead to increase the salary or expense accounts of Mr. Petrillo and other union leaders, neither the record companies nor the consuming public that will ultimately pay this private excise tax through higher record prices will have anything to say about the matter. The arrangement renders Mr Petrillo and his fellow-union leaders financially independent even of the members of their own unions.

If past experience is any guide, the Administration and Congress will be complacent about this contract. Why should they interfere, they will say, with an arrangement that a private concern has voluntarily agreed to? But to take such an attitude is to be willfully blind to the main point, which is that Federal labour policy itself has placed in the hands of labour leaders the private irresponsible powers which enable them to drive bargains so clearly against the public interest.

"The Hungry Sheep Look Up"

(By LEWIS MILLIGAN in The Tweed News)

WHEN Macbeth asked the physician attending his wife "Canst thou not minister to a mind diseased? he posed a question which should be addressed to the churches today. It is said that there are more people in hospitals and other institutions suffering from emotional diseases than there are in hospitals suffering from physical illnesses. And it is probably true that there are more people outside of institutions who suffer from emotional impairments than physical disorders.

This condition constitutes a challenge to the churches. The Founder of Christianity is referred to as "The Great Physician," but He was primarily the physician of men's souls. He told his followers to "seek ye first the kingdom of God, and all these things shall be added unto you." He repeatedly declared that His Kingdom was a spiritual one—"The kingdom of heaven is within you."

The churches have lost the power of spiritual healing because too many ministers have reversed the gospel of their Master and are seeking first a material kingdom. They have been trying to turn the gospel into a system of economics and have abandoned the doctrine of immortality and Heaven in the hereafter for a socialist Utopia here and now—or as soon as they can elect a socialist government. They are not concerned with the fact that most of us will be dead before the C.C.F. politicians and professors can put their plans for a heaven on earth into operation. By that time a new generation will arise with ideas of its own and will want to be free to learn the lessons of life at first hand. Young people resent the dictation of their elders. They want to work out their own salvation, and there is no room for that in the straight jacket of a ready-made Utopia.

To preach Christianity as a system of socialism is to put Christ below the level of Karl Marx, who did propound some concrete ideas for economic reconstruction. Christ's attitude to the socialists of His day is set forth in the following passage:

"And one of the company said unto Him, "Master, speak to my brother that he divide the inheritance with me." And He said unto him, "Man, who made me a judge or a divider over you?" And He said unto him, "Take heed and beware of covetousness: for a man's life consisteth not in the abundance of things which he possesseth."

Then followed the parable of the man who decided to pull down his barns and build greater, so that he could enjoy the little Utopia he had planned for himself and his friends. He was branded as a "fool," and it would be no less foolish for Canadians to pull down their present national structure on the presumption that they can build a better one in which they could live happily ever after.

The preacher who substitutes socialism for the gospel is not only misrepresenting Christianity, but is holding out false hopes of a heaven in this life to mortal beings. Here we have no continuing city, but we seek one to come," said St. Paul, and it is as true for Christians today as when it was first uttered. Nothing short of immortality can satisfy the yearnings and aspirations of the human soul, and until preachers are obedient to the heavenly vision and authoritatively declare the gospel of Eternal Life their preaching will be in vain and the churches will be empty. "Where there is no vision the people perish," and they are perishing from spiritual starvation.

"The hungry sheep look up and are not fed,
But swol'n with wind, and the rank mist they draw,
Rot inwardly, and foul contagion spread;
Beside what the grim wolf with privy paw
Daily devours space, and nothing said;
But that two-handed engine at the door
Stands ready to smite once, and smite no more."

Milton wrote that against the ecclesiastics and poets of his day who had no spiritual message for the people. "Milton, thou shouldst be living at this hour," for we have lost that "inward happiness" that comes with a consciousness of immortality. We have forfeited the vision of the Eternal for an economic plan and political mirage.

A Bible Message

But there went up a mist from the earth, and watered the whole face of the ground. And the Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life, and man became a living soul....And the Lord God caused a deep sleep to fall upon Adam, and he slept. (Gen. 2: 6, 7, 21.)

Consider and hear me, O Lord my God: lighten mine eyes, lest I sleep the sleep of death. (Ps. 13: 3.)

As for me, I will behold thy face in righteousness: I shall be satisfied, when I awake, with thy likeness. (Ps. 17: 15.)

I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills, from whence cometh my help. My help cometh from the Lord, which made heaven and earth. He will not suffer thy foot to be moved: he that keepeth thee will not slumber.

Behold, he that keepeth Israel shall neither slumber nor sleep. (Ps. 121: 1-4.)

Arise, shine; for thy light is come, and the glory of the Lord is risen upon thee. (Isa. 60: 1.)

Nancy To Get Share Of Oakes Money

NASSAU, Bahamas, Oct. 6.—(CP).—The will of the late Sir Harry Oakes, Canadian mining millionaire slain at his home here last summer, was filed for probate Tuesday and his daughter, Nancy Oakes de Marigny, will receive a full share of the $14,6886,000 estate by a preliminary evaluation.

It has been reported that Mrs. de Marigny, Sir Harry's eldest daughter and wife of the man charged with murdering him, had been disinherited.

Lady Eunice Oakes, who applied for probate before leaving by plane for Miami, testified at an investigation into the slaying of her husband that de Marigny was not acceptable as a member of the family and "certain changes" had been made in the will.

Estimates of Sir Harry's wealth range as high as $200,000,000. Of the amount named in the preliminary estimate, Lady Oakes receives one-third, or more than $4,800,000, and the remaining two-thirds is to be divided equally among five children.

Trial Opens Oct. 18.

De Marigny will go on trial on the murder charge here Oct 18.

Sir Harry also bequeathed £50,000 ($200,000) to Lady Oakes and directed that each of the five children receive $12,000 annually in United States currency.

Lady Oakes was named the sole executrix, and with Walter Foskett, West Palm Beach attorney, and Newell Kelly, the slain baronet's Nassau business manager, a trustee for the division of the property. Trustees were given power to invest the money and are to receive reasonable compensation.

Amounts in Sterling.

Each child will receive nearly $2,000,000. All amounts except the specific United States currency bequest, however, are in sterling.

The five-page will provided that each child will come into full possession of shares at the age of 30, and may bequeath their shares to persons of their choice in the event of death before 30.

The children, in addition to Nancy, are Sidney, 16, heir to the title; Shirley William and Harry.

No bequests were made outside the family. Lady Oakes has six months to file a final valuation.

The immensely valuable Lake Shore mine and real estate holdings outside the Bahamas were not listed in the will filed here. It was explained that the Bahamian tax of 2 per cent. does not apply to them.

Mr. And Mrs. Baker 50 Years Married

Mr. and Mrs. William Baker of Lakefield recently celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. Mrs. Baker, 75, is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gordon, and her husband, who is 92, is still active around the community.

LAKEFIELD

Bakers Observe Golden Wedding Recall Early Hunting Prizes

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 6.— (ENS). — Mr. and Mrs. William Baker were at home to a host of their friends and relatives on Sunday afternoon when they celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. This was the second golden wedding to be held in this house, Mr. Baker's parents, Samuel Baker and Margaret Northey they having held their fiftieth anniversary there some years ago.

Mrs. Baker, the former Alma Gordon, was the daughter of Thomas Gordon (designer of the famous Gordon canoes which he manufactured in the village) and Sarah Down. One of a family of 13, Mrs. Baker was born 75 years ago in the house where Charles Tanner now resides. Later the family moved to the house Mrs. Dora MacMillan now owns, and which Mr. Gordon built.

Good Hunting.

In recalling interesting events of her girlhood days in the village, Mrs. Baker said it was the custom for her father to shoot seven or eight deer each season (which was permissible then), and remembered quite vividly when he brought home a huge bear measuring twelve inches between the ears, which he had shot. At one time her father lost an entire shipment of canoes being sent to England, which represented a whole winter's work. Damaged en route across the Atlantic in a storm.

Mrs. Baker was an ardent church worker and taught Sunday school in the United church until ill health prevented her. Born on the farm a mile north of Selwyn, which his parents cleared, Mr. Baker remembers when the top wages for cutting wood were 50 cents a day and the worker supplied his own food. His father, who had the first horse in Smith, farmed with one horse and one ox. His parents used to go to market in Peterborough with an ox hitched to a large hand-sleigh.

92 Years Old.

A farmer in his early days, Mr. Baker has been retired for some years. He and his wife have lived in their present home except for the eleven years when thy resided in Bowmanville. Although in his 92nd year he looked after his own garden this year and splits his own wood.

Mr. and Mrs. Baker have two sons, Samuel who lives at home and Walter, who is employed in the General Motors in Oshawa. There are also nine grandchildren.

The happy couple were the recipients of many lovely gifts, flowers and money.

Childhood Friend.

Among the afternoon's guests was Mr. Wellie MacDonald, who is 91 years and has known Mr. Baker since he was eight years old.

Mrs. Baker's two brothers, Gilbert and Charles Gordon, of Bobcaygeon, with their wives, were also present, and Mrs. Baker's sister, Mrs. William Gillman, assisted at the reception.

Langton of Peterborough and Charles Hemsley of Lakefield, duettes by Miss Eva Whitmore and Mrs. Herbert Tucker of Apsley and the Misses Maureen and Phyliss Woodbec and a chorus by Sunday School children.

Chairck and Miss Langton. At both services the Misses Woodbec were accompanied by Maureen Woodbec on the guitar.

Sandlot Champs To Stage Series

TORONTO, Oct. 6 (CP)—Plans for a "World Series" in 1944 between Canadian and United States Sandlot baseball champions were approved today by the National Baseball Congress following conferences here between President Ray Dumont of Wichita, Kas., and Lloyd Douglas of Toronto, Canadian Commissioner of Sandlot baseball.

A Congress announcement said the first three games of the best of seven series will be held in the United States city which is host to the 1944 American Sandlot champions. These games have been scheduled for Aug. 29, 30 and 31.

The finalists will resume the series in Canada, starting Sept. 2, in the city host to the 1944 Dominion champions.

Expenses of both clubs will be paid by the National Congress. A percentage of gross gate receipts will be awarded to the participating teams.

Provincial Playdowns

Playdowns will be held in all Canadian Provinces with Provincial winners eligible to compete starting Aug. 3 in the third annual National tournament at Toronto, which will determine the Canadian representative in the Sandlot World Series.

The United States representative will be determined at the 10th annual National tournament at Wichita, Aug. 11 to Aug. 23.

The announcement quoted Dumont as saying that terms of the contract governing the final series will be in effect for a 10-year period.

"This series should not only help develop sandlot baseball throughout Canada and the United States," said Dumont. "It will also do a lot in creating further good-will among the two nations."

Service teams captured the Canadian and American Sandlot championships this year, the London, Ont., army team winning in Canada and the Camp Wheeler Spokes of Georgia in the United States.

Foul By Foot Hard On Cards

YANKEE STADIUM, N.Y., Oct. 6 (AP)—A mere matter of some 12 inches prevented the Cards from tying the score 4-4 in the seventh inning of Tuesday's opening game of the world series.

With Ray Sanders on first and one out, Martin Marion belted one of Spud Chandler's curves on a line drive toward left. It looked like a sure homer, but at the last second the ball curved and went into the stands foul by a foot. Marion then grounded into a snappy double play.

Four official errors and four more mistakes that don't show in the box score brought this comment from a Pittsburg scribe: "This is more like the Phils and Athletics playing."

Today's hero: Joe Gordon, Yankee second baseman, who was a dismal failure in the series last year.

Yesterday's goat: Walker Cooper, Cardinal catcher, whose running around in circles looking for the ball in the sixth inning let Frankie Crosetti score from second base with the winning run.

Gordon's eight assists equalled the series record held jointly by Herman Schaeffer of Detroit (1907); Hal Janvin, Boston Red Sox (1916); Eddie Collins, Chicago White Sox (1917) and Bucky Harris of Washington (1924). Incidentally, Harris watched the game from the press box.

Charley (King Kong) Keller, Yankee slugger, belted three drives into the rightfield stands during the pregame batting practice, but the only one he poked into the seats during the game was a harmless foul.

Notables on hand included Governor Thomas E. Dewey, Jim Farley, Babe Ruth, Lt.-Col. Larry MacPhail, and, of course, baseball's high commissioner, K. M. Landis.

Before the game Third Base Coach Art Feltcher of the Yanks said he expected to direct plenty of traffic at the hot corner. He did.

Chandler threw 107 pitches in the nine innings, 74 strikes and 33 balls. Lanier threw 105 pitches in his seven innings on the mound, 72 strikes and 33 balls. Harry Brecheen threw 19 pitches in his one innings, 10 strikes and nine balls.

No Great Thrill For Yanks Winning Game

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, Oct. 6—(AP)—The triumphant New York Yankees, off to a lead in the world series, got no particulalry exciting thrill in bowling over those swift St. Louis Cardinals 4-2 in the opening game Tuesday.

Winning world series battles is an old custom with the Yanks. It's the ninth series for their manager, Joe McCarthy, and the 14th for boisterous Art Fletcher, their graying coach.

Fletcher, emitting a few yips and yells, attempted to stir up a little excitement as the Yanks clattered into their dressing-room, but the player paid little attention to him. Instead they swarmed around their winning pitcher, 34-year-old Spud Chandler, the former Georgia footballer.

Chandler dropped into a chair and took a relaxing deep breath.

"Boy, what a ball game," he puffed. "I'm glad that's over. I still have butterflies flying around in my belly. The toughest inning was the eighth when they had two men on and Walker Cooper came up. He's a dangerous hitter and I really bore down."

McCarthy warmly praised Chandler's pitching effort.

"He pitched one hell of a game," he began. "He stopped those good hitters of theirs from getting those extra-base blows.

"We were playing the Cards' style of ball game today. We were running and they were standing still."

McCarthy like the showing of Rookie Billy Johnson at third base, playing in his first world series contest. Johnson, too, thought he did all right

Nick Etten, the Yankee first baseman, who, in a rage, threw the ball into the dirt in the 5th inning, thereby setting up the Cards' second run, was positive that he had caught Ray Sanders, the St. Louis first baseman, coming into first.

"I didn't hear Umpire Beans Reardon call him out, but I was sure that I had him," Etten related. "It was a good lesson t ome. After this, I won't try to umpire."

In the silence of the Cardinals' dressing room, where a phonograph had blared out before the game, Manager Billy Southworth remarked:

"You know the winners can do the talking today, so don't put me on the spot. I'll pitch either Alpha Brazle or Mort Cooper today and we'll be right out there."

Catcher Walker Cooper, sitting wordlessly in front of his locker for perhaps a half hour after the game, refused to answer questions about Max Lanier's wild pitch that got away from him in the 6th inning.

Probably the most cheerful person in the room was Pte. Terry Moore, former Cardinal centre fielder, who flew up from his post in "The Islands" to watch the series.

"You sort of forget about baseball down there," he said. But I thought the boys looked better today than we did last year when we were winning."

Cooper Boys Father Passes

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 6—(AP)—Robert J. Cooper, 58, father of Morton and Walker Coper, who may form the battery for the Cards in today's world series game with the Yankees, died today.

Cooper, rural mail carrier and ardent baseball fan, spent a restless evening after the Cardinals lost the first game to the Yanks yesterday. Mrs. Cooper said he got up in the early morning and she found him dead on the living room floor. Cooper had suffered from a heart ailment.

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

Local rugby fans will be glad to learn that there is a chance of seeing their favorite game played here again this fall, after a total blank last season. The game is being revived at the Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational School and the squad had its first workout yesterday. The intention is to organize a couple of school teams and from the material thus uncovered select a team to play Lindsay Collegiate later on in the interscholastic series. The Lindsay students were crowded out of the Lakeshore group at the annual meeting this year. The P.C.V.S. squad will necessarily be composed of young players for the championship team of two seasons ago is nearly all in the armed services now. However there is a lot of enthusiasm among the youngsters and they are delighted at the opportunity to carry on. Coach H. L. Bamforth will tutor the team and that should mean a fast-moving outfit with a repertoire of smart plays. The advent of Collegiate rugby on the scene will be greeted with pleasure by a large number of folk who used to get a lot of thrills in the past, watching Collegiate squads doing their stuff.

* * * * * *

A few days ago this column called attention to the fact that nearly every member of the Peterborough junior hockey team of three and four seasons ago had enlisted in one branch or another of the armed services and remarked that few sporting organizations in Peterborough could equal that record. A basketball squad, one that represented the Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational School in the intermediate interscholastic series a few years ago comes close to matching the hockey club's mark. There were eight players in that cage outfit and seven of them have joined the R.C.A.F. or the Navy and the eighth was turned down as physically unfit. Of the Collegiate basketeers four, Ted Clarke, Hewitt Amys, Sam Rogow and Eric Taylor enlisted with the Air Force and three, Andy Scott, Les Acsott and Jack Craig with the Navy Two of the little group have made the supreme sacrifice, Hewitt Amys losing his life while on active service with the Air Force overseas and Sammy Rogow being killed in a flying accident while on instructional duty in Canada.

Yanks Win First

Just as they did a year ago the Yanks got the jump on the Cards yesterday to grab off the first game of the world series. Well over 68,000 fans at the Yankee Stadium watched the men of McCarthy defeat the National League winners 4 to 2 after a pitching battle between Spud Chandler, right-handed ace of the Yanks and Max Lanier, stocky left-handed star of the Cards It was Chandler's first win in three world series and it must have been sweet for the veteran, coming after he had dropped his one start of the 1942 series to the Cards and lost his only game in the blue-ribbon round two seasons ago to Brooklyn. Chandler allowed the Cards only seven hits and one earned run in grabbing off the win but at that he had little in effectiveness on Max Lanier, who held the Yanks to seven blows in the seven innings he worked and fanned seven of the winners. However the southpaw's own defensive slips represented the difference between the two great pitchers. His error on Crosetti, first man up in the fourth paved the way for the two Yanks runs in that inning and then he uncorked a two-base wild pitch to score the third Yankee counter and set the stage for the fourth.

* * * * * *

It was a fair ball game, although far from the best that has been staged in the annual classic. Reports say that the Cards were not as jittery as they were in the opener a year ago but at that they were guilty of some sloppy work defensively that hurt their chances. However the loss of the first game will not seriously disturb Cardinal fans. There were not many of them surely who expected their favorites to take the series in four straight and so yesterday's defeat at the hands of a pitcher who had set up the best earned-run average in the big leagues for nearly 20 years should cause little loss of sleep. If the Yanks were to win at all and nobody called them to disappear out of this year's series without taking a game or two at least then surely they might reasonably be expected to win with Chandler who has by long odds the best pitching mark of the season. Far more significant we believe will be today's game particularly if Manager Billy Southworth does as most fans expect and starts his star right-hander Mort Cooper. A loss for Cooper following on the heels of a trimming for the Cards' most dependable southpaw would be a real test of St. Louis morale. The chances are that both Chandler and Lanier will see more action before the series is over.

Kingston expects to have plenty of co-operation from the military authorities in icing a strong senior O.H.A. team this season, according to Scribe Bill Walshe. In that connection it is reported that Joe Blewett, fast-moving leftwinger of the Petes will be in Kingston this winter and should make a strong bid for a regular position. Here is what Bre'er Walshe says about the outlook: "Kingston is in the toughest league in the world of hockey, the O.H.A. senior series, that will include some of the greatest stars of the modern game. As a fitting setting for the Hockey Hall of Fame, Kingston will some day welcome stars of the past and this year will play host to the stars of today as members of the armed forces in the major series of Ontario hockey. One week from today Kingston will hold its first senior practice and the best team possible will have to be organized to be a contender in the O.H.A. major division. A team in the Ontario senior group this year has to be much better than ever before with some of the squads staffed by players who are considered the greatest stars in the game today. Playing against other services and also against civilian clubs, Kingston has the honor and reputation of one of Canada's main military districts to uphold. The army can not afford to be a runner-up and the officials, operating the Kingston team, will do everything possible that does not interfere with the training of troops to have a team worthy of M.D. 3, Kingston city and the home of the Hall of Fame in its birth year."

A well-known Peterborough softball twirler has just pitched his team to the championship of the British Isles. LAC. Bob Strickland, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Strickland, Elcome Crescent and brother of Norma Strickland, pitcher for the Aircraft team, has been pitching for a crack R.C.A.F. team overseas and has set up quite a record. Now a cable has been received from the young hurler that his team has captured the service championship, with LAC. Strickland on the rubber in the big game that meant the title. His last appearance as a pitcher locally was with Shorty Barrett's Quakers of several seasons ago. After enlisting with the R.C.A.F. he pitched a lot of ball during his training in Canada and then overseas and Archie Weir and other Peterborough boys who saw him in action said that he had developed into a great pitcher.

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Jim Coleman up and declares that this year's Yankees and Cardinals are two of the weakest teams ever to meet in a world series and he may have a lot on the ball at that....Marty Marion of th Cards drove in the first St. Louis run with a double and he came so close to chasing in two more with a homer in the seventh that Yank rooters nearly had heart failure before his long drive into the bleachers was finally foul by a foot. People's Choice Triumphs In Grudge Fight

Referee Bert Maxwell has done it again! The last time Gentleman Jack Clayborne and Palermo John Katan wrestled here on the Tunney show six weeks ago the official awarded Katan a doubtful fall that gave him the win and precipitated a riot. Last night in the weekly card at Brock Street Rink the shoe was on the other foot when Maxwell declared Clayborne the winner on a fall that to most of the spectators looked like as if it should have gone to the other man. This time of course there was no riot for the people's candidate had triumphed and everybody but Katan was satisfied.

The dubious decision came after 14 minutes wrestling in the third round and was a funny one at that. Clayborne had been pressing the Killer and Katan managed to reach the ropes. The Negro grappler grabbed his opponent by the feet and pulled him back into the ring but Clayborne fell with the Panther on top of him and most fans believed that he had outsmarted himself and given the fall to Katan. Referee Maxwell made his count and then surprised the customers by raising Clayborne's arm in token of a win. He explained afterward that in the position in which the men fell both had their shoulders on the mat until the two-count was reached when Clayborne bridged enough to save himself.

Katan complained long and bitterly but his protests got him nowhere.

The bout was even-Stephen until that surprise fall. Katan was the aggressor in the early stages, giving Clayborne quite a going over. He was working on the Negro's face and head with punishing holds and two or three times the Comet was almost blinded when Katan kept rubbing his hands across his opponent's eyes. Clayborne came back to toss the Panther around the ring with a series of body slams that shook Katan up considerably. On one occasion the colored flash tossed Katan through the ropes but he came back strong and eventually took the fall with one of his favorite holds, the unconscious chin lock. He applied it so vigorously that Clayborne was soon as limp as a rag and it was an easy matter for Katan to drop him on the mat and pin him for the count.

Vaults Over Referee

The Comet squared the match five minutes after the rest with his pet strategy of vaulting over the referee's head. Katan, pepped by his victory in the first fall opened out in the second round as if he were going to wind the thing up in a hurry. He harried Clayborne with a series of chin locks and tossed in a few punches for good measure until he had the Ebony Flash decidedly groggy in the corner. Referee Maxwell started to count the Negro out but Katan refused to remain in the corner. Maxwell was waving at him to go back when suddenly Clayborne bounded to his feet, vaulted high over Maxwell's head and crashed into the surprised Katan who dropped to the mat and was pinned there before he knew what it was all about.

Both men were battling fiercely for the third and decisive fall and honors were about even until the sudden surprise ending.

A Merry Battle

The Katan-Clayborne bout was billed as a grudge fight and it was a bitter battle but the real grudge brawl was the semi-final mill between Now-ask-Him Dunlop, Toronto Strongman and Wilbur Toar Morgan, the battling Marine. That started out as a wrestling match and wound up in the best exhibition of boxing seen here in many a moon. When the final bell sounded Dunlop and Morgan were trading punches, swinging lefts and rights to the jaw and they kept right on battling after the argument had officially ended, finally winding up outside the ring and still punching. Referee Maxwell had to follow them out to make his official decision of a draw. The two big fellows were really swinging and it is no military secret that the bout was resumed back in the dressing room where more punches were exchanged until Phil Lawson finally broke it up.

It was a merry argument all the way with Dunlop using his usual roughhouse tactics and Morgan meeting him half way with plenty of the same kind of stuff in return. Half way through the bout Dunlop tossed the Marine through the ropes and he fell heavily on the arena floor. When he tried to get back in Bunny twice kicked him out again. Morgan got his chance a little later and hurled Dunlop out of the ring and when the Toronto battler was climbing back in Morgan hit him with a pile-driver that bounced him right out again.

Finally as the half hour was nearly gone th two rivals started throwing punches and from there in it was a fistic combat with both men taking a lot of punishment.

Win For Felice

Tony Doc Felice who got his usual Bronx cheer from the crowd and wanted to fight all and sundry at the conclusion of the bout had too much experience and power for Buster Hayes, an Ottawa boy who was making his first appearance on a local card. Hayes tried hard and gave the Yugoslav rough-house artist a few bad moments but Felice was too strong. He finally settled the argument after 17 minutes by tossing Hayes all over the ring with a series of body slams, using Buster's hair for a good grip and after he had softened the Ottawa grappler he applied a chin lock to make the fall an easy matter.

Felice was roundly booed after the bout and responded by tossing his bath robe on to the floor of the arena and challenging his hecklers to come out and battle it out with him. Doc is in the list with Katan, Hogan and Dunlop as a public enemy so far as Peterborough fandom is concerned.

All three bouts were refereed by Bert Maxwell and as usual Fred Scates did the announcing and the timing.

Higher And Higher He Goes

How high is up?—Ask Dixie Parsons, Detroit catcher, for he's endeavoring to find out as he leaps into the ozone on this play at plate during the final game with A's in Philadelphia.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 6—(AP).—Walker Cooper likely will be elected to the exclusive Schnozzle Society (remember Lombardi's swoon at the plate in the '39 World Series?) as a result of losing sight of that wild pitch yesterday, but in our book Nick Etten committed a more serious error when he protested a close decision by tossing the ball away with a runner on first....All he had to do was to let himself get trapped off the bag in the same inning and Nick would have been back with the Phillies today....Even though the Yanks escaped the consequences, it's a good bet they'll spend part of the winter looking for another first baseman....As for Cooper's looking the wrong way when the ball disappeared over his shoulder, Manager Billy Southworth has as good an explanation as any: "When they go that high you don't see 'em."

First game follies:

Just after Joe Gordon clouted his homer, the rolled-down canvas screen in front of the centre field bleachers began to smoulder.... Looked like a Cardinal fan burning up....And what about that story that the Cards would run the Yanks ragged?...Here's how the Yanks got their first run: Crosetti reached first by running over Lanier when the Card pitcher juggled the throw; then he stole second and Walker Cooper threw a mile over the base; Johnston bunted and was safe when Sanders dived for the ball and tried to roll far enough to tag Billy because there was no one covering first; then Crosetti scored on a double play....Sounds like a typical Card rally.

Mayor Complains Bomber Flew Low

NEW YORK, Oct. 6—(AP)—First Air Force headquarters today was investigating a complaint by Mayor La Guardia that a four-engined bomber had flown "dangerously low" over the Yankee Stadium during yesterday's world series opener.

The mayor said a B-17 Flying Fortress "flew right down over the stands" three times and added: "If anything had happened, a thousand people would have been killed."

He said it is illegal to fly below 1,000 feet over an open air assembly and asked that the pilot be disciplined.

The United States 1st Air Force said that investigation so far has indicated the plane was not based in this area.

WORLD SERIES OPENER COMEDY OF ERRORS WITH YANKS WINNING

Defensive Play Of Both Teams Generally Poor

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 —(AP). — One up and three to go, the New York Yankees today were just where they were a year ago in their World Series battle with St. Louis Cardinals, but this time they had Joe Gordon in good working order and that took a lot of the knocks out of the motor.

Victors in yesterday's 4 to 2 comedy of errors opener that produced some of the wierdest fielding ever seen in any kind of baseball, the American League champions send Ernie (Tiny) Bonham, their ample right-hander, out in today's second game to follow up Spud Chandler's fancy seven-hitter.

If he can come anywhere close to a carbon copy, with some of the same kind of offensive and of defensive aid from Gordon, the Yanks will be halfway to the goal of a four-straight series at which they're aiming as revenge for last year when they dropped four in a row after getting in the first punch.

As for the Cards' curver for today, Manager Billy Southworth refused to choose between rookie left-hander Alpho (Bet) Brazle or fireball right-hander Mort Cooper until nearly game time at 1.30 p.m. E.D.T. when another tremendous turnout possibly approaching yesterday's 68,676 is expected.

Gordon's Record

Yesterday Gordon looked like Gordon, instead of two other guys. The "bum" of last year's set and a so-so performer all of this summer, the Flash flailed a 400-foot homer on one of Lanier's 3-1 'cripple' pitches. The second baseman also equalled one World Series record by making eight assists and came within one of another mark by handling twelve chances.

A couple of times, he pulled Chandler out of the fire. These came in the seventh when he started a double play to stop one St. Louis rally and again in the eighth, when he worked the cut-off play twice to chill the swifties strongest threat.

Except for Gordon and Bill Johnson in the Yankee infield and Marty Marion and Whitey Kurowski for the Cards, the defensive play, generally, was poor.

Walker Cooper and Max Lanier between them, set up the Yanks' winning rally in the sixth, when with two on, Max turned loose a wild pitch. The ball rolled toward first base and Cooper went looking for it toward third. One run scored and another was set up.

And in the fourth, the Yankees got their first run without a ball being hit out of tthe infield when Frankie Crosetti was safe on Lanier's bobble, stole second on Walker Cooper's high throw, went to third on Johnson's scratch single—one of a pair he posted in the game— and pranced home on Charley Keller's double play grounder. It was immediately afterward that Gordon hit the jackpot. The blow was the most solid of all eight Yankee hits, seven of which Lanier gave up in his seven-inning trick. Max also whiffed seven.

Heroes Of The Yanks' Win

JOE GORDON

SPUD CHANDLER

Here are the two outstanding New York performers in the opening game of the World Series. Joe Gordon, goat of the 1942 clash, belted a homer and handled 12 chances brilliantly, while Chandler pitched seven-hit ball to win his first World Series victory after defeats last year and in 1941.

Sport Shorts From Britain

By ALAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Oct. 6.—(CP).—A trio of foreign stars took to the field as England's professional football season opened—but only two could be identified and one of those played under the wrong name.

The goalkeeper for Brighton was listed in the program as "A. Pole." A Pole he is, and one who in peacetime played for Poland in international matches. A young airman who prefers anonymity for fear of reprisals on relatives in Poland, he showed such ability in inter-regimental matches here last season that Brighton offered him a trial.

The Brighton boys, incidentally were beaten 4-0 by Reading.

The identified two, each of whom scored a goal, were Emile de Busser, Belgian forward with Queen's Park Spanish Civi War refugee with Rangers, and Emilio Aldecoa, a Wolverhampton Wanderers.

Aldecoa wasn't identified until after the game. He reached the playing field 10 minutes before the start and presented a letter of introduction. Maj. Frank Buckley, Wolves' manager, decided on a gamble. He put Aldecoa in at centre-forward in place of 17-year-old Bob Lee who was to make his pro debut.

There wasn't time to announce the change. After the match, which the Wolves lost 4-2 to Crewe, three directors of the Wanderers termed the play of "Lee" as brilliant. Then they were introduced to the Spaniard. The fans didn't know about the change until two days later when newspapers noted that the goal credited to Lee should have gone to Aldecoa.

Another curiosity in the composition of opening day teams found Northampton with two Kinnears on the line-up. Both are forwards and, to harassed reporters, how to distinguish between them without using up reams of wordage looms as the season's big problem.

Famed as foremost exponents of Britain's two national games, the Compton brothers drove from the cricket season into the football season in a taxi. It didn't do anyone any good.

The lads, Denis and Les, were performing for Middlesex against Kent at Lord's. On a plea from the Arsenal management, they were released to play soccer.

Despite their presence, Arsenal lost 1-0 to Charlton. Without them, Middlesex lost by nine wickets.

Meanwhile, the man who might have saved Arsenal from defeat sat in the stands. That was Frank O'Donnell, $45,000 forward and a sergeant in the Royal Air Force. He had been invited to lead the Arsenal attack but was benched when the Comptons obtained permission to foresake the cricket pavilion.

Columbus Birds Up One Game In Title Series

SYRACUSE, N.Y., Oct. 6 (AP)—The Syracuse Chiefs go west today, down a game to the Columbus Red Birds but still strong contenders for the 1943 Little World Series title.

The International Leaguers shattered the Birds' long dominance last night when they trounced the American Association Club, 5-1. Columbus, firing for its third consecutive Junior Series flag, had won six straight from the Chiefs, four in last year's classic.

A six-hit salvo good for four runs in the first inning kept Manager Jewel Ens' boys in the running for the final card of contests which open at Columbus Thursday night, with the Birds leading two games to one. Lefty Arnold Carter held Columbus to five hits.

Syracuse's Millard (Dixie) Howell, who pitched a five-hitter in the opener only to lose 2-0, is due to tangle again, in the Ohio opener, with Red Wilks, who straight-jacketed the Chiefs with six blows.

Should there be something to Horace Greeley's go-west-and-prosper advice, and the Chiefs win that fourth game, their position would be good for a triumphant finish.

The first three games drew 17,851 fans, and created a player pool of $9,655.17.

Terry Moore Watches Games

By WHITNEY MARTIN
Associated Press Sport Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—(AP).—An army bomber roared over Yankee Stadium so low Slats Marion could have fielded it and somebody said: "There comes Terry Moore."

It wasn't, of course, because Pte. Terry Moore was sitting there among 68,000 or so fans watching the Cardinals outfumble the Yankees to lose the first game of the World Series, and he must have been experiencing jumbled sensations as he looked out over the same field on which a year ago he was one of the brightest stars. He covered centre field like the grass in the 1942 classic.

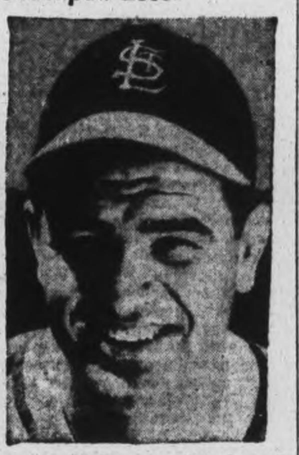
Later he sat in the Cardinal locker room talking with his former teammates, who sat around morosely. He looked fit and sturdy.

No, he hadn't followed the Cardinal games so closely this year. He did when he could, but out where he was news was slow.

"It's a fine bunch," he said, referring to the Cardinals. "It's the morale that makes this team click. Every man working for the team. That was a game of breaks to-day. It could have ended any way."

Moore has a 30-day furlough, and after that will head for the Panama canal zone again. He went down there after the series last year as an athletic instructor. About six months ago he enlisted in the army.

Southpaw Loser



Max Lanier, who pitched good ball against Yanks yesterday but helped beat himself with two defensive slips.

Scribes Favor Yanks To Win

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (AP) — The world series is an open book to the sports scribes, but opinion is about evenly divided on how to read it.

Most of the experts here to cover the diamond classic agreed that the Yankees and Cardinals would need from five to seven games to reach a decision, but beyond that it was every man for himself.

Here is a sampling of the scribes' viewpoints:

Sid Mercer, New York Journal-American: Yankees in six games.

John Carmichael, Chicago Daily News: Six games, all right, but I like the Cards.

Jud Bailey, Associated Press: Cardinals to repeat.

Paul Menton, Baltimore Evening Sun: Yankees in six.

Chilly Doule, Pittsburg Sun-Telegraph: Playing the first three games at home gives the Yanks enough edge to win.

John Drohan, Boston Traveller: The Yanks in five.

Joe Williams, New York World-Telegram: Yanks in five or six.

Ed Bang, Cleveland News: Six games—the Cards.

Al Buck, New York Post: I like the Yankees' pitching in five.

Irving Vaughn, Chicago Tribune: I'm hedging in favor of the Yanks.

Jesse Linthicum, Baltimore Sun: St. Louis in six.

Gordon Cobbledick, Cleveland Plain Dealer: The Cards have so much edge I like 'em in three straight, if necessary.

Max Kase, New York Journal-American: Yanks in six.

Wilbur Wood, New York Sun: The Bombers'll need only five.

Harold Kaese, Boston Globe: I'll take the Cards in seven.

Havey Boyle, Pittsburgh Post Gagette: The Cards to win.

Lou Effrat, New York Times: St. Louis'll need only five.

Bill Ogrum, New York Journal-American: The Cards might even do it in four.

Bill Dooly, Philadelphia Record: Cards in five—the Yanks' only win will be the game Cooper pitches.

Tom Meany, New York PM: The Cards in six; they have more ways of scoring than the Yanks.

Quebec Union Seeking To Join C.R.U.

By The Canadian Press

R. W. (Bobby) Hewitson, secretary of the Canadian Rugby Union, said at Toronto last night that a mailed vote of the C.R.U. executive will determine whether the Quebec Rugby Football Union's application for membership in the C.R.U. will be accepted.

Hewitson said the Quebec union has fulfilled all obligations required in seeking C.R.U. membership. Letters have been mailed to members of the executive asking their approval of the application.

At the last C.R.U. annual meeting it was decided that league who are not members of the C. R. U. would be required to seek C. R. U. membership before October 1, if they desired to apply. Only affiliated leagues are eligible to participate in play-offs for the Grey Cup and the Canadian football championship.

Commandos To Operate

The Ottawa Commandos, who won the Allan Cup last season will operate Ottawa's franchise in the Quebec Senior Hockey League again this winter. It was decided at a meeting of army officials and officers of the Ottawa football club yesterday. The football club holds the franchise, and is loaning it to the army for a second season. Plans for the Quebec campaign will be discussed at a meet- at Montreal tonight.

Last Two Week's Racing

The final two weeks of the Ontario racing season open today at Dufferin's half-mile track in Toronto. The first week is Long Branch meeting, to be followed by Dufferin's own meet. The Long Branch feature is the $1,200 Parkdale handicap in which Fred Schelke's Shepperton will be ask- to carry high weight of 140 lbs.

Champion Wins

Word has been received at Wingham, Ont., that Captain T. W. Platt, former Ontario police revolver champion, won the 1943 pistol championship of the famous Ham and Petersham Rifle Club at Richmond, England. Capt. Platt is stationed overseas with the No. 1 Canadian Army Retaining unit.

Seen Every Series

Al Lang, the 'voice' of St. Petersburg, Fla., who has seen every world series since they started in 1920, saw the Yanks beat the Cards yesterday. He says the most thrilling series of all was the last year's, between the same two teams.

Kogan Wins

At Brooklyn, N.Y., last night Julie Kogan of New Haven, Conn. knocked out Angelo Callura of Hamilton, Ont., in the ninth round of a scheduled 10-round main bout. Three thousand fans saw the fight which ended at 1.08 of the ninth. Kogan weighed 135¼, Callura 135½.

Blunt Wins In Ten

At Akron, O., Eddie Blunt, the Brooklyn negro heavy weight, snapped Lee Savold's winning streak at 10 when he punched out a close 10-round decision before 3,400 fans. Blunt weighed 218, 24 pounds more than Savold.

TORONTO, Oct. 6 — (CP). — Winnipeg reports hopefully that Babe Pratt is expected to enlist in Winnipeg, But R.S.M. Dick Mansell, coach of the Toronto Army team, says he will not be surprised if the former Rangers-Maple Leafs hockey star turns up in an army outfit here. Mansell already has Billy Taylor, Syl Apps, Gordon Drillon, Hank Goldup, Buck Jones, and Peewee Summerhill.....Harry Scott of the Calgary Albertan says Eddie Wares, Detroit's veteran right-winger, plans to enlist shortly....Doug Cairns, last season with Calgary Buffaloes, but long sought by professional hockey clubs, had enlisted with the Navy in Calgary.

Civic pride:

Appointment of Carson Cooper as coach of Detroit Red Wings in the National Hockey League led Jack Park of the Cornwall Standard-Freeholder to recall Cooper is the third former Cornwall man to become an N.H.L. coach. The others were Cy Denneny, who had Ottawa Senators and Boston Bruins, and Newsy Lalonde, formerly with Montreal Canadiens. Cooper has been chief scout for Red Wings and has gathered most of the ivory for the Detroit farms Park says Cooper "is probably the best ivory hunter in Canada."

Puck parade:

Owen Griffith of the Montreal Gazette says wistfully that Montreal Royals Juniors expected about 10 new players from the West, but the only two to show so far are Eddie Cutts, defenceman with the Edmonton Canadians last season, and Neil Moffat, left winger from Portage La Prairie.....The Boyer brothers, Cliff 24, and Eager 26, will be given trials by the Toronto Maple Leafs......The Boyers were sparkplubs of the famous Tessalon Eagles four years ago when that intermediate club was smothering all other Northern Ontario opposition. Both the Boyers have been turned down by the Army.... Doug Stevenson, spare goalie for Chicago Black Hawks last season, is en route from his Edmonton home to an Army camp at Kingston, Ont.

Incidentally:

Herb Manning of the Winnipeg Tribune compares Lieut. Lee Sherman, Winnipeg United Services backfielder, ith Art Stevenson, one of the best all-round football players ever to show in West. Sherman, formerly of Schenectady, N. Y., is with the United States Army at Winnipeg....The Quebec Senior Lacrosse League played to a total of 27,858 fans in 34 league games this season, an average of 819.... Montreal will have nearly 100 rinks on civic playgrounds this winter, a considerable increase from last year.

Montreal Claims Hall Of Fame

MONTREAL, Oct. 6 — (CP). — Frank Hogan, chairman of the Montreal Athletic Commission, said last night he received word from Capt. James Sutherland of the Kingston, Ont., hockey "Hall of Fame" committee, that Kingston had never based claims to the site of the Hall on the assumption that the first hockey game was played there. Rather, the letter said, the chief reason for putting forward claims was that Kingston was in a central position between the Montreal, Ottawa, and Toronto hockey centres.

Hogan had written Sutherland protesting that Kingston had no right to claim the "Hall of Fame" site and asked for a round table discussion on whose claims were the most authentic.

Boxer Drops Dead

FRESNO, Calif., Oct. 6— (AP). —Irving (Chick) Rogers, 19-year-old Fresno boxer, came out of a clinch with his opponent, slumped to the canvas and died instantly last night in the last round of a scheduled four-round professional fight. Dr. George K. Nider, State Athletic Commission physician, said death apparently was the result of a heart attack.

Milkweed Need For Further Rubber Tests

Secondary experiments in the making of synthetic rubber may be delayed a year if the public fails to supply the new pilot plant at Ottawa with at least 100,000 pounds of milk weed this fall, Dr. A. H. Senn, assistant botanist and plant pathologist of Canadian Experimental Farms, Ottawa, told the Examiner Tuesday.

"We have passed the laboratory stage where our tests have indicated that the milkweed provides the most promising substance for incorporation with Buna-S," Dr. Senn said. "The government has built a pilot plant costing something like $20,000 and we are ready to carry our tests from the laboratory into the practical sphere. At present we are all exceedingly anxious about the quantity of milkweed the people are collecting for us. We require at least 100,000 pounds, and it may be that we will get it; but so far as actual indications point at present we are feeling uneasy.

Depends On Public

We need a lot of milkweed to mix its elements with Buna-S, and then go ahead with experiments with the rubber they will make. That is the stage of the work we have planned for the coming fall and winter months, but it all depends on whether the public will go into the fields and pick milkweed leaves. That is our position.

The laboratory experiments have all been encouraging; now we are ready to go on with the secondary phase of this work, but we must have the public's co-operation. There is plenty of this weed in the country. We have sent out 5,000 bags upon request; and we have replied to enquiries from all parts of the country, as far as British Columbia. This is an indication which tends to encourage us in the hope of getting more milk weed than we expect."

Dr. Senn met School Inspectors Downie and Copp, and during his present stay in Peterborough examined the milkweed fields around this district he appealed to local farmers and school children for a special effort in milk weed collection from the Peterborough district.

The Examiner made an appeal of this kind previous to the week-end and some citizens went out into the country and picked milk week, and brought it in to F. C. Paterson, agricultural representative, at Hunter and Chambers streets. Dr. Senn confirms the urgency of this appeal. Locally the patriotic feature of the work has been emphasized, but also the government pays three cents a pound for the stuff. That does not amount to much because the payment is made for the drier weeds. But, they will take anything that looks like milkweed, and if a piece of the stalks gets into the bag, there will be no objection to leaving it there.

"It all depends on what the people do in the next two or three weeks before all the leaves are off the stalks," Dr. Senn said. "The response must be immediate, if we are to be able to project our experiment from the laboratory to what might be called the factory stage and also in actual use of the synthetic rubber."

Naples Celebrates

With the 5th Army in Naples, Oct. 3 —(Delayed)—A mighty chorus of thanksgiving rose from the churches of Naples today as the city's inhabitants celebrated their first Sunday of freedom from Fascism and deliverance from the German Army. the Free Yugoslav radio, reported fighting had spread to all parts of the Yugoslav mainland, with the Patriot forces striking lightning blows against the Nazis. Battles were in progress in Bosnia, Montenegro, and Herzegovina, and additional Croatian forces were said to be joining the Army of Liberation.

Sanguinary fighting was reported between Pakek and Postumia in Slovania, where the Patriot forces were attacking along the Trieste-Ljubljana railway line. Here a heavily-fortified hill was captured from the Germans, who had brought up heavy reinforcements, including 30 tanks, some of the tiger type, and were employing heavy artillery and airplanes in large numbers.

Rakek, which had changed hands several times during the last few days, was finally evacuated by the Patriots after a bitter battle in the town itself.

Nazi communications elsewhere in a wide area.

The Volturno River crossing probably was made inland in the mountain areas where the river is a tortuous stream.

Aversa, seized in the steady Allied thrust northward in the face of heavy road demolitions, is an important rail junction eight miles north of Naples, and was much-bombed by the Allies. Maddaloni is 14 miles northeast of Naples.

The Germans are using tanks in their battle with the 8th Army in the Biferno river area, and lively artillery duels took place yesterday along the river, which British units have crossed in some places.

Bologna, one of the strategic links in the Nazi rail supply system, is a heavily-defended area, and the bombers met strong opposition.

This attack followed an assault Monday on Bolzano on the same rail line 35 miles south of Brenner Pass.

(The Yugoslavs reported their Liberation Army had cut the railroad from Austria to Trieste, one of three main links feeding German troops and equipment into Italy.)

The 8th Army pushing west of Termoli, seized in a surprise landing Sunday, and on the general line of the Biferno River southwest of the port encountered enemy forces.

"Heavy fighting is reported," the war bulletin said.

Medium bombers attacked highways and bridges at Formia, Isernia and Mignano.

British 8th Army forces landed behind the German lines at Termoli Sunday and were pushing toward the west where Allied headquarters said they were "in contact with the enemy forces."

The 5th Army, meanwhile, rapidly brought up reserves, the communique said, and rushed the repair of bridges blown up in the path of their advance by the retreating Germans.

Allied night bombers heavily attacked the Grosseto airfield, north of Rome and opposite the island of Elba, last night and several large fires and explosions were seen. Elba now is directly menaced by the completion of the French conquest of Corsica.

Fighters and fighter - bombers swarmed over the battle area to attack German motor transport and troop and freight trains.

Fifteen enemy planes were shot down during the day's operations to a loss of six Allied planes.

Mignano and Isernia, attacked by Allied medium bombers yesterday, lie approximately 40 and 50 miles northeast of Naples and Formia is up the coast 45 miles from the port.

The Allies pushed northward against a sharply-resisting German force estimated as consisting of four to five divisions—some 60,000 to 75,000 men.

C.I.O. Stresses Pledge Which Bars Strikes

BUFFALO, N.Y., Oct. 6 (AP).— R. J. Thomas, president of the United Automobile Workers (C. I. O.), urged the union Monday to reaffirm its "no strike" pledge and declared "we've done everything to prevent strikes while the forces of reaction have done everything to provoke strikes."

Addressing the opening session of the U.A.W.-C.I.O. eighth convention, Thomas also asked the delegates to 'go on record 100 per cent behind" President Roosevelt and vice-president Wallace.

He urged the convention to demand that "if labor is frozen to jobs by any national service act, manufacturers should also be frozen," and added:

"If government permits labor to take care of the manpower problem, labor can do it without any national service act."

Scotland In Wartime Reveals Very Little External Change

By JAMES A. ROY

(This is the twelfth article in the series of articles being written for The Examiner, by Prof. James A. Roy, of Queen's University, Kingston, on wartime conditions in Great Britain.)

Somewhere in Scotland—I have only been for a very short time in Scotland but long enough to feel the pulse of her people. Scotland has changed little externally; in spirit she has not changed at all. The heather is still as lovely on the moors, the hills are still as green and blue; it rains as hard as ever in the West and the wind is just as snell as ever it was in the East. The grain is still largely uncut there are hay ricks still in the fields. There is an air of peace and contentment in the country districts. Fewer cars, of course, none on the roads for pleasure, but at times one forgest the war entirely and wonders whether some of the people have ever heard of it. One sees the familiar muffler and cloth cap and clay pipe at some of the street corners; the familiar tartan shawl wrapped round some woman and her baby, as she gossips with her neighbor about things that seem far removed from the realities of the present. Taxis are scarcer, but it you happen to be on the spot when one is wanted, you have little difficulty in getting one, or even sharing one with strangers. There are the same policemen at the same old corners, the safe, if rather thinner, rows of porters at the railway stations. The shops seem just the same; the theatre is advertising a revival of "The Admirable Crichton." The movies are doing to good business; people throng the parks to listen to the music. Scotland has lost many of her sons in battle; she has known sorrow upon sorrow; the horrors of the blitz and the inconveniences of the prolonged blackout, but her people have gone through it all without plaint and have come up smiling. They do not worry about the blitz any more in Scotland; they feel that it belong to the past. But they have not relaxed their blackout regulations an' Scotland at night remains swallowed in Stygian night. Scotland is a little older, of course, and a little grayer, but her will to win is stronger than ever if that is thinkable; her spirit is high, and her face resolutely set towards the foe.

One has heard of the Poles and the Czechs and the Free French; of the Australians, the Canadians and the New Zealanders, of the Americans, the Dutch and the Norwegians; of them multifarious uniforms that one sees in Scotland. It is all true. There is an amazing medley of uniforms here. We were accustomed to that in the last war, but this time the uniforms are more varied as well as more numerous and in the last war there were no Polish uniforms because there was no Polish army. The same applies in the case of the Czechs. Besides the many and varied uniforms of the men, there are those of the women. Women seem to be everywhere doing many of the duties usually done by men in time of peace. The third thing that strikes the returned native is the queues. They, too, seem to be everywhere and many of them are enormous. We have, of course, our queues in Canada—queues for the movies, crowds in the stores. The queues here are different. People queue up to get on to buses, onto railway platforms. They stand in queues, too on week days sometimes because queuing up has become a national habit, even a social event. Queues for buses and movies are to be expected, or those for luxuries such as cakes, or scarcities, but there is absolutely no need to queue up for the necessities of life such as bread and potatoes, as there is an abundance of these commodities. MAIN STREET TOPICS

DEER SEASON

Local distributors of hunting licenses are being reminded that the season for deer extends from November 8 to 20, inclusive, south of the French and Mattawa Rivers.

FIRE REPORT.

Sparks from the chimney at the residence of Frank Adams, 50 Robinson street, set the roof on fire Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, but damage was minor as only a few shingles were burned.

FISHERMAN'S LUCK.

Members of the Ketchecum Lake fishing party who are winding up the season this week, are enjoying ideal weather that has been notably dry.

MORE MAGAZINES

At the outbreak of the war the Peter Robinson Chapter of the I.O.D.E. undertook to ship between 2,000 and 3,000 magazines a month to the sailors in Halifax. At the present time the supply has dwindled to 100 a month and they are appealing for more. Only those which are not more than three months old will be accepted, except in the case of picture magazines or Digests. Books should be turned in at the Belleghem store on Hunter street.

CASE MUST GO ON

A charge against Ernest Graham of stealing a tire from William Brick in the township of Smith that has been hanging fire for some time was again called in police court today and Acting Crown Attorney F. D. Kerr, K.C. stating that the complainant was not present asked for another adjournment. "The crown is just rearing to go," he said, "but we can't get along without Bricks." Magistrate Langley adjourned the case for a week, adding that it would have to go on then or be dismissed.

ANOTHER REMAND

John O'Leary, Indian River, arrested last week on a charge of drunken driving on Armour Road, asked for another remand when the case was called this morning in police court and Magistrate Langley granted the request when there was no objection from the crown. O'Leary is out on bail.

COLD ALOFT.

Jack Ferguson of the R.C.A.F., who is at his home, Rogers street, on a little vacation, told the Examiner that the temperature of the air has been down to 8 degrees below zero at some of the night ceilings. And no protection of any account in the Hudsons. Clients of Bigar & Crawford will remember this young flier who used to post market prices on the board.

BEHIND PETERBOROUGH.

While Peterborough City Council adopted a salary schedule this year Brantford has only reached the stage of appointing a special committee to consider this question "for the consideration and guidance of the Council of 1944." Brantford council on Monday night approved an increase of 50 cents a day, retroactive from July 2 last, for all the members of that department except the acting chief and master mechanic.

Frost Puts End To Tomato Pack

Canada Packers are switching from tomatoes to pumpkins this week, and the activities of the canning department are entering their last phase.

"They have had frost south of Rice Lake these last two nights," G. S. Matthews, general manager, informed the Examiner today, "and that means the end of our supplies from that district."

Work on the pumpkin pack will begin Thursday. Tomatoes were slightly less than the objective C.P.C. had been hopefully setting, but on the whole Mr. Matthews said, the tomato pack was quite satisfactory.

"I wish I could tell the public about the response of a number of women in helping us with the tomato pack," Mr. Matthews said. "Evidently they read a news story in the Examiner that we needed considerable extra help, and immediately these women reported to us ready to go to work. They were a real help to us, and we certainly appreciate what they done."

School Pupils Collect 1,400 Records

The matter of collections made to date in the current record drive it was revealed today by Jacob Low, chairman of the the committee handling the drive, that upwards of 1,400 records had been turned in by pupils at the different schools. The campaign to gather as many old records as possible for the entertainment of servicemen throughout Canada began last Friday and is to continue during this week and possibly longer.

Reports have not been received from many of the country schools on their individual collection to date, so the list is necessarily incomplete, but the number of records definitely counted already indicates satisfactory progress in the drive. Only two other localities have sent their collections into headquarters at Toronto up to the present time, these being the town of Simcoe, already in excess of 1,000, and Chatham with 1,500.

The accomplishment of school children, who are in many cases canvassing their neighborhoods for old discs, was a favorable sign of the attention that was being paid the drive and the effort going into it to make it a success, Mr. Low said.

The list of schools which have reported their collections to the committee so far includes: King Edward School, 33 records; King George School, 107; Queen Alexandra, 155; Prince of Wales, 375; Central, 200; Sacred Heart, 375; St. Mary's School, 71; and S.S. No. 1, Asphodel, the Westwood School, 56.

Several questions had arisen in regard to the manner in which collections were to be handled by the agencies responsible for the disposition of the old records, Mr. Low indicated. All records are sent to Toronto and ones that are in good condition are sent on to the camps for immediate use. Those which are chipped, cracked or broken are assigned to the melting pot, and the shellac obtained from them is used in the manufacture of new discs. It takes shellac from a number of records to provide enough for the coating of a new one and old records are practically the only source of this material, as shellac was early in the war placed under high priorities for war purposes.

Though 1,000,000 is the announced objective for the whole of Canada in the salvage drive, no particular goals are being set in the various communities because of the impossibility of making estimates of a reasonable yield. As far as Peterborough and district are concerned, the goal is as many records as can possible be gathered in.

Some indication of the work that is being done by school children to make the drive a success is shown by the amount of records they have brought in individually to their schools: Peggy Withers, six years old, 10 records; Eleanor and Marilyn Logan, 12; Eleanor Watson, junior grades, 55. King Edward: Edward Hillier, 9. Queen Alexandra: Norman and Beulah Nicholls, 15. Prince of Wales School: Bill Rowbotham, 11; Lorne Rowbotham, 12; Marilyn Galbraith, 20; Florence Peters, 11; Alfred Lee, 32. Central School: Bill Whatley, 19; Don Marshall, 9; Grace Marshall, 9; Lillian McFarlane, 10; Shirley Lustic, 8. Sacred Heart: Frank Marino, 38. St. Mary's School: Isabel Hunt, 13. Other names include: Marilyn Windrim, 315 Maitland avenue, 23; Bernice Huggins, 375 Dobbin avenue, 63; Norma Gray, 352 Armstrong Drive, 10.

Charge Is Dismissed Against Cafe Owner

"After having investigated this case I have satisfied myself that I could not expect to get a conviction on the evidence I could produce" announced Acting Crown Attorney F. D. Kerr, K.C., in police court this morning when a charge against Ping Jung of having operated a disorderly house at 226 Charlotte street was called.

Mr. Kerr said that in view of the judgments that had been given on the point involved he did not propose to offer any evidence.

Accordingly the charge against the Chinese accused was dismissed.

Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., appeared for Ping Jung who had at first pleaded guilty to the charge but after receiving legal advice was allowed to change his plea to "not guilty."

PO. Whitnall Is Safe At Gibraltar

The impersonal telegraphic service made heart-lifting amends to Mr. and Mrs. Philip Whitnall, 549 Murray street, in delivery to-day of a message of the safe arrival at Gibraltar of their son Pilot Officer Philip Whitnall, who was reported missing in a R.C.A.F. operational flight over France during the night of April 17-18.

P.O. PHILIP WHITNALL

"All well and safe; please don't worry; keep smiling," was the text of the telegram which completely cancelled the official missing notification received by Mr. and Mrs. Whitnall six months ago. Mr. Whitnall is a letter carrier in the city.

This happy news was preceded by the following wire yesterday from the R.C.A.F. casualties officer at Ottawa: "Pleased to advise you that your son, Pilot Officer Philip Whitnall, arrived safely at Gibraltar October 1. Letter following."

In accordance with censorship practice, Mr. Whitnall was requested in April not to make public the brief and gloomy information which they received then. Some meagre intimations, chiefly based on surmise, suggested at that time the possibility that the young flier might have made a safe landing. That hope was greatly encouraged two months ago by an official message that P.O. Whitnall was safe. Since then his parents have been patiently waiting for corroborating announcement.

Philip Whitnall is an only child. He was educated at Queen Mary's school here and the Collegiate, and is twenty-three. He enlisted in the R.C.A.F. in December 1940 and went overseas as a wireless air gunner two years ago this month. He is a member of St. John's church.

Hunger Pangs Sweep China

"You don't feel much like eating after you get a letter from your family in China," Hum Hoy, proprietor of the Paris cafe, said Tuesday night glancing eloquently around at a goodly number of diners.

While Mr. Hum's family are not in occupied territory, they are so hemmed in by the Japanese invaders that importing is impossible and the food situation has become more than critical. The people there have not had meat to eat since their New Year, which is the first of February in this country, and prices have soared to a point far beyond the reach of the average family.

Pulling out a letter with its neat rows of Chinese characters, Mr. Hum's fingers travelled down the column quoting: For 1¼ pounds of rice, $32; for 1¼ pounds of pork, $62; and for 1¼ pounds of pure lard, $80.

The letter stated that all civilians from old men to tiny children are helping the farmers. The community must be self supporting and an agreement has been made whereby he who helps grow, shares the harvest, only until the present time there hasn't been much harvest. Rice and vegetables are the main foods grown in the area and for the past year the rice crops have been a failure.

There are two rice crops a year. The first is under cultivation during March, April and May, and the second crop is planted during June, July, August and September. Last year and the first crop this year spoiled because it was too dry, but the second crop this time has been successful. In this section of the country there is no frost and the temperature remains fairly even.

"Malnutrition has become almost as deadly an enemy as the Japanese," the restaurant manager continued. "My family say that a number of the population have gaunt bodies and hands and feet swollen out of all proportion."

Omemee Groups Give $61.35 For War Victims

From two different groups in the township of Emily centered around the village of Omemee, the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund has received the substantial sum of $61.35, which was forwarded through Rev. R. M. Patterson, who represent the fund in that place.

This year the July 12th celebrations for the district presided over by John White, County Master for the L.O.L. for the Counties of Victoria and Haliburton were held in Omemee, concluding with a Bingo and Street Dance, the arrangements for which were in charge of a committee presided over by Harry Deyell, Immediate Past County Master, and from all accounts they had a most successful day, for from the proceeds of this they have given the nice of $50.00 to help the sufferers from air raids over Britain through the fund.

In this they display a loyalty to the motherland consistent to the tenets of their title, which has been shown on more than one occasion previously through other donations to the fund for the same purpose.

Horticultural Society Helps

Those who are interested in horticulture are very much in touch with the bounty that comes to all mankind through the work of a Great Creator, which undoubtedly would promote a desire to use some of the fruits of their labors towards helping those in less fortunate circumstances than themselves, and thus for the third time at least, there comes a contribution from the Emily and Omemee Horticultural Society, this time in an amount of $11.35, making this particularly a day in the funds annals which goes to the credit of this one district.

As supporters of the Lord Mayor's Air Raid Distress Fund, this one district ranks quite high in the history of the local and district fund through which the money has been forwarded, for counting to-day's contributions, Rev. R. M. Patterson has sent in the splendid sum of $589.53 to this date from them.

Softball League Draw

The Peterborough Ladies' Softball League have turned their hand to a different type of sportmanship, when they sponsor a draw for the fund in which there are three prizes, the first of which is a ladies' or gent's suit, the 2nd a $10.00 war savings certificate, and the 3rd a $5.00 war savings certificate. There is no better type of sportsmanship than that of helping others who have lost through no fault of their own, and in undertaking this they place their sports on a much higher plane.

The members of the League will be glad of your support in this effort, the draw for which will be made on October 30.

SEES ACCIDENT INCREASE

LONDON — (CP). — Within 20 years after the war, the number of automobiles on the roads will be 20 times greater than in 1939 and a constructive program must be inaugurated now else there will be "increasing slaughter and mutilation on the road," said Noel Baker, parliamentary secretary to the Ministry of War Transport.

Peterboro Needs 550 Women In War Plants

Climaxing a campaign to draw attention to the urgent need for more women workers in order that the city may meet its production quotas, the last of a series of radio interviews of married women who have taken essential jobs in industry will be broadcast this evening at 6.45. Later, at 8 o'clock, there will be a showing of war industry films for the general public at the Collegiate Auditorium, followed by a fashion parade.

The appeal to patriotic women to step forward and take their places in the home-front ranks of production will be made over the air this evening by Dr. E. W. Young, president of the Ministerial Association. On the program to be interviewed will be five married women now working in local plants, and the story of their experiences on the job should serve as an inspiration and an example to others who are contemplating answering the appeal. Their names are: Mrs. Frank Lundy, Genelco; Mrs. Pat Cummings, Johnson Motors; Mrs. Bessie Sage of the Quaker Oats; Mrs. A. G. Kennedy, Bonner-Worth; Mrs. Isobel Johnson, Fanning's Laundry.

No Delay

Registration of married women will open Thursday at local headquarters of Selective Service in the Barrie Building, and an enlarged staff will be on duty there to handle applications. Previous experience has taught administrators of these campaigns that it is both necessary and desirable, in the interest of obtaining maximum results, that a simplified procedure be adopted for registering applicants as they come in. Such a procedure will be in use tomorrow and on succeeding days, so that applications can be handled speedily. In fact, it will be possible for a woman who enlists for war work Thursday to go to work that day.

The objective in Peterborough has been set at 550 married women, it was announced by Gordon Anderson, Toronto, Public Relations Officer for National Selective Service, who is in the city now. Mr. Anderson said that two campaigns in Toronto proved highly successful in meeting their goals, and that at the present time there are drives in progress in various sections of the Dominion.

Day Nursery

It is probable that a day nursery will be organized in Peterborough to help eliminate one of the most important factors retarding many married women from taking up war work. In the nursery the younger children who have not yet reached school age and would normally be about the house without their mothers to care for them would be under the watchful eyes of competent aids who would bathe, feed and otherwise administer to their needs while the mothers could go off to their jobs without worries.

Mr. Anderson indicated he would take this matter up with headquarters in Ottawa, and that speedy action in its approval was more than likely. At present, he said, eight day nurseries were operating in Toronto and still others were being formed to meet the increasing needs.

Obituary

EUGENE MURPHY

The funeral of Eugene Murphy, one of Ennismore's oldest and most highly respected citizens, was held from his late residence to St. Martin's Church on Tuesday morning, with Rev. V. J. Gillogly celebrating the Mass assisted by Rev. V. McFadden of Downeyville as deacon and Rev. C. Maloney of Huntsville as sub-deacon. Graveside prayers were recited at St. Martin's Cemetery by Rev. Father Gillogly, assisted by Rav. Father Maloney.

Ill only three days, Mr. Murphy died on Sunday morning at the age of 80 years. He was born in Ennismore, and lived there all his life, during which time, through his kind words and actions, he won many friends in Ennismore and the surrounding district. The love and esteem in which he was held was exemplified by the many spiritual offerings and floral tributes received by his family and friends.

The casket bearers were Michael Ross, Peter Flood, Thomas Twomey, John Shanahan, William D. Cavanaugh and William Austin.

DANIEL SHORTER

MARMORA, Oct. 6 (ENS) — Daniel Shorter, formerly of Havelock, but more recently of Marmora, where he was employed at the Royal Hotel, passed away in the Belleville General Hospital on Sunday evening at the age of 72.

He had been in failing health for some time and was a veteran of the last war. He was born in England and upon coming to this country settled in Rawdon township.

The remains are resting in Curtis' Undertaking Parlors, Havelock, the funeral to be held on Thursday afternoon.

Corn Crop Cut Silos Filled For Winter Feed

The corn crop is cut; most of the silos are full; late potatoes are being dug; apple picking is at its peak; and the fall wheat has done well in this part of the province, as reflected in the weekly report of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, but in areas of western Ontario they express some apprehension of the young wheat being set back by continued dry weather.

The harvest of canning corn in Hastings county is about done. Ontario county farmers who protected their crops against blight all through the season are noticing a decided increase in yields over the returns from fields that were not protected.

Weanling pigs are bringing low prices in Grenville, and farmers are short-handed because "everyone is trying to get silo filling done at once."

The rural picture for the last week lacks variety and color. Middlesex says a lot of western cattle were brought into that county. Weather has been ideal for harvesting of beans, turnips, potatoes. "Some fall wheat acreage has not been seeded because of the lack of moisture."

Welland says: "Grapes have ripened well during the last few days and cutting is general." Wentworth farmers are selling large quantities of poultry. Egg production in Lincoln is increasing rapidly. The fruit harvest in that area is now complete, but tomatoes are still being picked for the cannery trade.

Why Not City Take May's Deputy Asks

"If the city is going to take most of the pupils they might as well consider taking in May's school," said A. W. Archibald, Deputy Reeve of North Monaghan to-day.

Endorsing everything Reeve M. H. Johnston had told the city council Monday night, Mr. Archibald said the township council was holding back nothing from the city.

"The idea that we are trying to put something over the city is ridiculous," he added. "If the city stopped at Lansdowne street the children in that part of school section No. 2 at present would no doubt want to attend a city school. Naturally we had to think of what the township would do about May's school. We wanted to find out from the Department whether we could make May's school a union school. So a deputation went to Toronto to get information on that point. We were told that a union school could not be considered. The extension of the area that is being talked about for annexation was the next point, and that was mentioned to Mayor Hamilton."

With Boys In Services

The editor of this column will welcome extracts from letters from boys serving or any other information concerning them.

By JEAN STENTON

LT. J. NORMAN CRAIK

Lieut. J. Norman Craik of the R.C. N.V.R. who has been on active duty for two years, has been transferred to the Ottawa Naval Buildings. He is the son of Rev. F. W. and Mrs. Craik of St. James Church. Lieut. Craik served aboard a minesweeper for six months and until recently has been commanding officer on the Fairmile, a sub chaser, and he has seen quite a bit of action. He graduated as a sub-lieutenant from King's Naval College, Halifax in 1941 and was immediately posted to active duty.

Cpl. Melville J. McGill of the Royal Canadian Dragoons, who is with the military police overseas, will be in a hospital for three months following a motor accident in England in which he broke his leg. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert McGill, 491 Parnell street and will have been overseas three years in November. Cpl. McGill has been in the Army ever since he was at Collegiate and for a time was an instructor at Toronto.

A letter recently reached Mrs. J. W. Sandbach of Fraserville from her son, Gnr. G. E. Sandbach who saw action in Sicily and who is at present in hospital due to a bout with malaria fever. He left Canada with a tank regiment and transferred to the Royal Canadian Artillery after reaching England. His father, J W. Sandbach saw action in the First World War and is at present attached to the R.C.A.F. in Canada.

F.S. GRIFFIN YOUNG

An interesting picture of a flier's life in North Africa has been given by F.S. Griffin Young, R.C.A.F., attached to the British North Africa forces in a letter to the Air Force Auxiliary. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Young, 141 Rubidge street.

"I have been very fortunate with my mail lately. Now that they have an air mail service to Africa, I have been getting letters within 3 weeks which is very good out here. This place is not much like Canada or England. I like the weather here to a certain extent, but it would be a change to have some rain as we have gone for months now with plenty of sunshine. I prefer a change like we have at home, summer and winter. Really it is not much hotter than at home on July 1.

"We manage nicely about fruit and right now there are grapes, watermelons and squash. My friend and I generally manage to eat a melon a day between us. Oranges will soon be ready too. Oranges and eggs kept us alive during the African and Tunisian campaigns last year. I certainly missed out on the better half of the battle. I thought I would see more action in Sicily and Italy, but the medical men said no.

"The entertainment for the troops has improved out here. We can go to an American theatre once or twice a week to see a picture or concert. They have a very good variety with Bob Hope and other movie personalities. Then they also bring in English concert parties.

"The troops are getting plenty of Canadian supplies right now such as soap and razor blades. So far I have only met two Peterborough chaps out here in Africa, but I understand there are a few local lads in Sicily. According to the letters I've received, the people in Peterborough are surely going to town with the war work and Victory Loans."

ROBERT HONOUR

Bob Honour of the R.C.N.V.R. has arrived overseas according to word received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Honour, 496 College street. Before enlisting he was employed in the boiler room at the C.G.E. While Bob was at Collegiate he was an officer of the Students' Council and his cousin, George Payne, is a stoker with the Navy also.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Barnard of Bailieboro have received word that their son, Lieut. Keith Barnard with the R.C.A. in Canada, has been promoted to the rank of captain. He was formerly teaching in a Toronto school. A brother, LAC. Joseph Barnard, who was formerly on the staff at King Edward School here, is with the R.C.A.F. in England.

A memorial cross has been sent to Mr. and Mrs. John Caban, 543 Park street, honoring the memory of their son, Pte. Victor Caban, who was killed on active service in Sicily. The cross, hung on a purple ribbon, has a crown at the top with 3 maple leaves and is designed with a wreath in the centre bearing the initials GR. Accompanying the cross was this message:

"This Memorial Cross is forwarded to you by the Minister of National Defence on behalf of the Government of Canada in memory of one who died in the service of his country."

The Women's Auxiliary to the Navy in Peterborough is preparing to send ditty bags for Christmas to all Peterborough boys in the Navy, and they want all names to be in by Saturday, October 9. At the present time the Auxiliary has only 269 names on record out of 400, and they are anxious that no boy be missed.

Mrs. Gordon Emery, 193 Hunter street east, has been notified that her husband, Pte. Gordon Emery of the R.C.A.M.C., has arrived overseas. For two years he was stationed at the Training Centre, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Emery, Brown street.

Since leaving Peterborough and joining the Navy, Eric West, who is a Ship's Writer, has seen the country from coast to coast. He took his basic training in the West, spending about five months there, before he was transferred to Naval Service Headquarters in Ottawa. After about a year in the capital city, he went to Winnipeg where he remained about nine months serving under Commander Orde who originally came from the Peterborough district. His last stop was in the Eastern part of Canada. Eric is the son of Mrs. Jessie West and a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Spence, and while in this city he was very active at the Y.M.C.A., particularly in basketball.

While Canadian boys in England watch their comrades fighting in Sicily, they keep on with their own intensified training while awaiting their big chance. A letter from Louie Vitarelli gives an outline of what they have been doing recently. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Vitarelli, 541 Elm street.

Commenting on the job done in Sicily, Vitarelli says that they are all waiting their chance, hoping that it will come sooner than is anticipated. He recently came off a course which he found very interesting, and while they worked harder than around camp, because it was entirely new, the boys all found it very interesting.

At the time the letter was written a softball team has been organized in his unit and due to the kindness of the Auxiliary Service, they were supplied with the necessary equipment. Since a softball league has been established the games are keenly contested.

"Captain Ken Kingston was up to see us all recently and he looked fine. He stayed for two hours telling us all the news of Peterborough. The mail is coming through fairly well and we all wait eagerly for news from home." Louie wrote.

Jim... do you realize how much we're worth in VICTORY BONDS alone?

JIM: We've done our share every loan. So it should be a tidy sum.

MARY: It is, but I wish we had a lot more. There is nothing like preparing for a rainy day, and buying Victory Bonds is one of the best ways to save.

JIM: Well, let's see. We bought a $100 bond the first loan, and found it so easy to pay for on the installment plan that we doubled that for the second and third loans. That's $500 right there!

MARY: Then, the last loan, to help back the attack, we signed up for a $500 bond.

JIM: Well, in the next loan, we'll take another $500 bond . . . and a little bit more. That will give us a nice nest-egg for the future. When peace comes we can start building that home we've got planned. And there'll be plenty of good business opportunities to look into.

MARY: Besides all the things we'll be needing when everything is available again.

JIM: But by gosh, Mary . . . despite the kick we get out of providing for the future, I get my greatest thrill in knowing the money we lend is helping to beat the enemy . . . to bring our troops home quicker . . . and make this a better world for our children to grow up in.

MARY: It all ties together, Jim. By investing everything we can in Victory Bonds, we are being practical as well as patriotic. That's why, with victory on the way, we should save harder than ever before.

JOB SATISFACTORY SUBSTITUTE FOR HAVING MISERABLE MATE

Bit of Heaven on Earth Becomes Deepest Hell When Man Abuses Wedlock.

DEAR MISS DIX—I do not see eye-to-eye with you on the question of marriage when you ask why a girl with a good job should wish to give it up for the doubtful joy of matrimony. It has long been noted by me that old maids never ask this question. They all want to marry. Nor are they warned off of it by being told not to do so. They realize that one may have trouble in this world, but they prefer to choose the kind of trouble they have. And I venture to state that no marriage, however dreadful, is as full of anguish as the state of single blessedness.

The picture of an independent life, having your own latch key and your own pay check, never includes the vital fact that these things are obtained at a price, the pound of flesh nearest the heart. The average woman is devoid of ego. She lives only for men. She must have something to love, to manage, to try to improve, otherwise she turns in on herself, than which there is no deadlier fate.

Having worked for ten empty miserable years, I would advise every girl on earth to marry as early as possible.

MRS. A. T.

Character of Husband Important Consideration

ANSWER—I quite agree with you that every woman wants to marry, and that every woman's dream of bliss is to have a husband, children and a home, and that if she does not get these she feels frustrated and as if she had been cheated in life, as we all do when we fail to realize our heart's desire. To marry, to be a helpmate to her husband, to rear children and make a home, that is the career that Nature predestined for women, and that is the sphere in which, taken as a whole, they do their best work for the world.

But whether women are happier married or single depends upon two things. First and foremost, upon the kind of a husband they get. The wife who has a tender, loving and faithful husband has undoubtly received the best gift that God can bestow upon a woman. And, secondly upon the woman's temperament, for there are women with hearts of dogs who lick the hand that beats them and who are happier married to any brute than they would be if single.

But if marriage at its best is a bit of Heaven on earth, at its worst it is the deepest hell into which a woman can fall. There is no other torture that a woman can be called upon to suffer equal to that which wrings the heart of a wife who knows that her husband has ceased to love her, and that he has forsaken her for some younger and fairer face. Jealousy is a bitter brew for anyone to drink and the business or professional woman, or the socially ambitious woman who see others preferred before them may not relish their potion, but it is only when sex jealousy is thrown in that it becomes the gall and wormwood that the neglected wife has to quaff.

The old maid may be lonely in her little apartment, but she does not spend anxious nights waiting for the drag of a drunken step coming in. She does not have to endure insults from a man because his status as a husband gives him a legal right to curse and abuse her. She does not have to have her heart torn into shreds, as many a wife does, by seeing her husband beat and mistreat her children.

Unhappily Married Woman Helpless

She does not have to steel herself to the heroism of a long endurance of a miserable life because she has spent the years in which she might have been learning a trade that would have made her a living, in slavery to a master who has not given her a penny for her services, and so she is dependent on him, and because she cannot abandon her children to their father's untender mercy. No woman is more helpless and hopeless than the middle-aged woman who is unhappily married.

My correspondent is mistaken in thinking that I advise women not to marry. On the contrary, I urge them to do so if they can find Mr. Right. But I also warn them to look very carefully into Mr. Right's credentials before they march to the altar with him, and to be sure that he is what they want in a husband.

And to the large number of women who, for one reason or another, fail to marry, I offer the consolation prize that a famous woman once did to her sex in the days when the spinster was considered a target for the jokesmith. She said: "It is better to be laughed at because you are not married than not be able to laugh because you are."

In these days when every door of opportunity is open to women and when any woman who has get up and get about her can support herself better than the average husband could do, there is no reason for the spinster to shed any tears over her lot. True, a good job isn't a pay-off for not having a good husband, but it is a mighty satisfactory substitute for having a poor one.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am in love with a girl whom I have known all my life, but only recently realized that I was in love with her. Before I began taking her out she had met an Air Force man who was in this country for training, and before she went back home she promised she would wait for him. When she told me this I felt reluctant to continue seeing her, but sre said she hoped I wouldn't stop and I have kept on going with her. Nor did she stop me from kissing her good-night.

I feel sure she does not really love this Air Force boy, but that she is merely fascinated by his attentions, and since his departure has formed a rather romantic picture of him. People who met him tell me that he is somewhat of a wolf, with a way with women.

Now I shall be leaving in a few months for active service and would like to have things settled before I go, as I realize the uncertainty would create a disturbance in my mind and hinder me in my fighting job. What should I do? Should I drop her and forget about her, or force her to make a choice between us?

Profess Love and Let Girl Decide

ANSWER—I think it would be fatal to your chances to put it bluntly up to the girl to choose between you because, in the first place, that is too masterful a way to deal with the subject. Any girl would resent being put on the spot that way. And, in the second place, the girl's mind is in such a confused state that shé doesn't know what she wants to do herself, or which one of you she really loves.

I think your play is to tell her how much you love her, but that you wouldn't want her to come to you unless she did it whole heartedly, and so you are just going to leave it on the line for her to decide. Tell her you want her to think it over and do what she thinks would be for her happiness.

The chances are a hundred to one that the Air Force boy was just having a little flirtation with a strange girl, and that he will just gradually fade out of the picture. Probably he has gone back to his home girl already. And, anyway, his glamor will lessen with distance and time and she will realize how much more she cares for you.

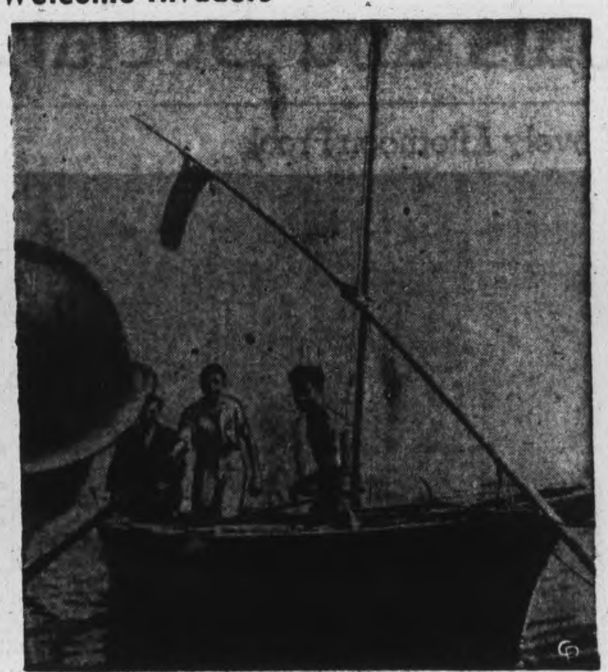
Italian Citizens Came Out In Boats To Welcome Invaders

As boatloads of citizens bearing white flags put out to welcome the Allied invaders at Agropoli, Italy, the first man aboard this invasion craft was Frank (Vito) Ruocco, who lived in Brooklyn thirty years ago.



As the Allied invasion armada neared Agropoli, on the southern flank of the Fifth Army's proposed beachhead in the Salerno area, a committee of citizens bearing a white flag in their small boat put out from shore to welcome the invaders. They gave valuable information as to numbers and movements of Nazis in the town and its vicinity.

Scotland In Wartime

heard a story about a woman who came across a queue and joined it instinctively. She asked a woman in front of her what the queue was for. "Tales of Hoffmann," was the answer. "I've never heard o' thae sort o' tails," said the first speaker, "but I micht as weel try to get some to tak' hame for my man's supper." The time of waiting in some of the queues is, however, occasionally due to the shortage of staff in the shops.

The people here are of one mind. "Carry on with the war and get it over with as soon as possible," is the attitude. And that doesn't merely mean the war with Italy and Germany. It means the war with Japan as well. The war with Japan is as much at the back of people's minds as is the war with Italy and Germany. Scotland has suffered too much at the hands of the Japanese to dream of giving up the struggle until her enemy in the Far East has been broken and humiliated and reduced to impotence. Scotland has too many of her sons and daughters in Japanese hands; she has temporarily lost too much valuable territory to dream for one moment of giving up the struggle against Japan until total victory has been won. No, there is no weakening of the national purpose in Scotland, no slackening in the will to win.

How do the people in Scotland look? They look well fed, better fed in fact than many of them could ever have looked before. Even the familiar old "bums" have lost something of their former hang-dog look and loaf around on the seats in the parks which used to be surrounded with railings, and pick up discarded cigaret butts with a new born nonchalence. The people one sees in hotels are well dressed, as well dressed as the people one sees in the same type of hotels in Canada. One reason for this is because these people had a good stock of clothes before the war and have taken good care of them since. People who had a poor stock of clothing, or clothing of inferior quality, have been hard hit. They can, of course, buy new clothes but their coupons are limited. Out of the limited number of coupons each person has to provide not only underwear, suits, coats, etc., but shoes, stockings, handkerchiefs, ties and gloves. No hats have been rationed so far; but hats ration themselves owing to the price. One thing that hits the housewife badly is the rationing of towels and certain materials, except blackout material. If the household require towels the housewife has to provide them out of her own coupons unless she can cajole the household into contributing some of theirs. Workers engaged in heavy occupations get extra coupons for overalls, etc. School children are also specially provided for to keep pace with their growth.

The rationing system, despite its apparent hardships, has proved to be most successful. Under it everybody is assured of getting a share of the vital necessities — butter, cheese, tea and sugar. Bread and vegetables are unrationed but fruit in Scotland is very scarce. Most of the fruit crops, which have been largely picked by schoolboys and schoolgirls, have been sent direct to the jam factories. Of course one can grow as much fruit as one likes in one's own garden but the sugar difficulty is always there. This has led to a large increase in bottling fruit for winter use. It is not only in berry picking that school children have been useful. School holidays have been largely regulated by the need of farmers for help in the harvesting and potato lifting. A certain amount of Italian prisoners' labor has been utilized as well, but the results have not been good. The Italians have been non-co-operative and have in general not shown a good spirit.

One of the first things I had to do after landing was to get an emergency ration card which entitles me to a weekly supply of rations. The emergency ration card is different from the clothing coupon book. It is at first a little bewildering to hear talk of coupons, rations, points, and personal points. Coupons are for clothing. Rations are the weekly allowance of meat, butter, cooking fats, cheese, bacon, sugar, tea and eggs. In addition to these rations every holder of a ration book has 20 points per month. These go by four-week periods. All dried fruits, tinned meats, tinned fish and breakfast cereals are on points, and it is up to the housewife to make the best use of her points. Oatmeal and barley are not on points as they are home products, but rice, sago, lentils, etc., are. The more people there are in a household the easier it is for a housewife to allocate her points. The value of commodities in points varies according to the supply. For instance, dates might be 12 points for a pound one month and the following months might be reduced to six. Personal points are for candies. Everybody I have met agrees that Lord Woolton, the Minister of Food, has done a splendid job. The health of the nation as a whole, thanks to him, is very good, and although adults at times would like to have more milk, they realize that the need of the children is paramount and that the health of the nation in the future depends on the health of the children now.

On my visit to the Food control office for my emergency ration card I was interested in all the many departments. If one keeps bees one may obtain a permit for extra sugar for feeding during the winter; even the hens have a ration of grain, but woe to the hen which does not produce an egg, for its owner gets no egg ration from the shop if he or she has a ration for the hen feed.

Three were departments where special cards could be obtained for vegetarians, for diabetics, for those who eat Kosher food, and for priority milk and eggs for invalids. Expectant mothers are specially well catered for (by the way, these get extra coupons for wool); and certainly every care is being taken to build up a strong nation. When a cargo of oranges comes into this country the first distribution is for children, and every child is entitled to a pound of oranges on production of his or her green ration book. The public are entitled to any that are left over, five days after the start of the children's distribution. This shortage of oranges for grown-ups has led to all sorts of experiments on the part of housewives. I have just tasted the most beautiful marmalade made from the rinds of three oranges, the insides of which had been used for children's consumption. To the rinds of the oranges when grated was added a pound of cooking apples, four pints of water and two pounds of sugar saved over a period of weeks from the weekly ration.

Price Control and Rationing News

The Women's Regional Advisory Committee, consumer branch, Central Ontario, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, answers questions put to this paper regarding price control and ration regulations.

Q.—Please tell me if whole mixed pickling spice is listed at 25c lb. as that is what I am being charged?

A.—The retail price of spices is controlled by set markups. No, 25c lb. would not be too high for them. There is no list of ceiling prices which would apply to every store. You can see that it would be impossible to make up such a complete list of ceiling prices as the thousands of commodities vary in price from store to store. Each store has its own ceiling price which is the highest price charged for that particular article during the basic period, Sept. 15 to Oct. 11, 1941. Price increases have been authorized in some exceptional cases, where costs were out of line with the basic period price.

Q.—I was charged 27c lb. for bologna at the same store where I used to get it for 22c. Is this right?

A.—Certainly not! Definite ceiling prices were set for bologna in August. The ceiling is approximately the selling price level of the basic period. However, since 1941 an increase had taken place in the cost of the meat ingredients of bologna and the Price Board agreed to pay a subsidy of 2c lb. to maintain the selling price in line with the ceiling. In your district the ceiling price is 24c lb. Thank you for giving us the name of the store which is charging 27c. This will be checked by the board's investigation department promptly.

Q.—At one store a tin of canned milk cost me 11c, at another 9c and at another 18c. Is there not a ceiling price on canned milk?

A.—Yes, canned milk does come under price ceiling regulations, but prices will vary from store to store depending on what their basic period price for the article is. It is quite likely the price would vary from 9c to 11c tin, but we can't understand the 18c price for the same brand. Are you sure you did not buy two tins or did the clerk make a mistake?

Q.—One year ago at my bakery, pies sold for 15c and 18c. Today the same pies sell for 25c. Three-cornered tarts or turnovers used to sell for 15c a dozen, then they were raised to 18c. A few weeks ago, these were withdrawn from the counters and exactly the same tart put out in a rolled form at 30c doz. Is this not too big a jump? Is there no ceiling on bakery products

A.—Indeed there is a ceiling on bakery products. You should not pay more for the same kind and quality at the same bakery than you did during the basic period, Sept. 15 to Oct. 11, 1941. Thank you for giving us the name of the bake-shop. A check-up will be made at once.

Please send your questions or your request for the pamphlet, "Consumers' News," or the Blue Book (the book in which you keep track of your ceiling prices), mentioning the name of this paper, to Wartime Prices and Trade Board, 406 Metropolitan Bldg., Toronto.

Mission Circle Honors Charter Member

The annual Fall Rally of the Murray Street Mission Circle was held in the church dining hall on Tuesday evening. Supper was served by Mrs. C. Clark and her assistants, and the meeting was held around the table. Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe led in the singing of several hymns. Mrs. G. R. Scott, president, opened the meeting with prayer. Mrs. Walter Kidd made the presentation.

Another attraction was the birthday cake, also in honour of Mrs. Garbutt, which had the figures, "91" on in it pink candles. Mrs. Garbutt received many congratulations and Miss Ethel Garbutt thanked her mother's friends on her behalf.

Mrs. A. H. Campbell read the scripture, which was followed by prayer by Mrs. Campbell and Mrs. B. Jackson. Miss Phyllis Rome sang "Eternal Light" and Mr. Sutcliffe introduced the speaker, Dr. J. D. Smart, who gave a fine talk on the many reasons why missions are needed throughout the world.

Fowler delighted the members with two solos, accompanied by Mrs R B Harle.

Mrs C. Boate, secretary of the Nicholls Hospital Auxiliary, was guest speaker and gave a very informative talk on the work of the auxiliary, and her close familiarity with the subject made her talk interesting to the members.

Mrs. F. W. K. Harris voiced the thanks of the members to Mrs. Boate, after which Mrs R Morrow and her group were in charge of a social hour.

Phyllis Brown Marries Jack Dinsdale

The wedding took place in St. James' church on Saturday, solemnized by Rev. F. Craik, of Phyllis Minnie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Brown, to Jack Arnold Dinsdale, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Dinsdale. Mr. Cecil Lapp was at the organ and during the signing of the register Miss Iris Whalon sang "Because."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white slipper satin with three-quarter sleeves and a sweetheart neckline. Her finger-tip veil fell from a heart-shaped head-dress and she carried Bettertime roses and bouvardia. Her only ornament was a single strand of pearls. Miss Jackaline Brown attended her sister, wearing floor-length powder blue taffeta with short sleeves, matching net mittens and headdress, and carrying a bouquet of Briarcliffe roses. Shirley Jean White, niece of the bride, wore floor-length maize taffeta as flower girl, and carried a nosegay of yellow roses and mauve asters. Mr. Don Dinsdale was his brother's best man and the ushers were Mr. J. Victor Brown, brother of the bride, and Mr. Ken McCannan.

A reception was held at the bride's home, where her mother received in a two-piece dress of moss-green crepe with rust accessories and a corsage of Johanna Hill roses. Mrs. Dinsdale, mother of the groom, also received, wearing a two-piece rust wool crepe with black accessories and a corsage of Johanna Hill roses. Mrs. T. Bennett of Ottawa, cousin of the bride, poured tea.

Later the couple left on a trip to Montreal, the bride travelling in a beige and brown wool suit with matching accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses. They will live at 567 Armour road. The groom's gift to the bride was a set of matched travelling bags, to the best man ogld cuff links and watch chain, to the ushers gold tie sets, to the bridesmaid a pearl necklace, to the flower girl a locket, and to the soloist a compact.

Thelma Wallace Is Wed To Everett Parr

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 6 (ENS) —A pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Wallace on Saturday, at twelve o'clock when their eldest daughter, Thelma Jerrine, was united in marriage to Everett Ivan Parr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Parr, Hoard's Station.

The bride entered the living room on the arm of her father and wore a floor length gown of white sheer crepe over taffeta with embroidered bodice, long full sleeves and high neckline. Her finger tip veil of white tulle was held in place by a wreath of orange blossoms.

She wore a double strand pearl necklace, the gift of the groom, and carried a bouquet of Briarcliffe roses and baby's breath. Miss Marjorie Wallace was her sister's bridesmaid and she chose a floor length gown of orchid chenille organza over taffeta with fitted bodice, full gathered skirt and sweetheart neckline. Her headdress was of pink roses and she carried a colonial bouquet of mixed flowers. Mr. Ray Parr, brother of the groom, was best man.

The ceremony took place under a large white bell hung from an arch of evergreen, maple leaves and fall flowers, banked with foliage and geraniums. Rev. Donald MacKay of Burnbrae Presbyterian church officiated. Miss Elsie Rannie played the wedding music, and during the signing of the register Miss Isobel Irwin sang "O Perfect Love."

Following the ceremony a reception and wedding dinner were held at the home of the bride's parents, where about forty-five guests were present. The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a bracelet set with brilliants, to the pianist, and the soloist, a compact, and to the best man a gold pen knife. For travelling the bride donned a brown tailored suit with matching accessories. Following a wedding trip to Toronto and Niagara, Mr. and Mrs. Parr will reside in Seymour East.

Auxiliary Holds Supper Meeting

The annual supper meeting of the Helen Roger Auxiliary of Knox United church was held Monday in the Lecture Hall. The president, Mrs. Howard Clegg, welcomed the members and their guests and Rev. H. J. Mahoney replied on behalf of the guests. During the business period it was announced that the next meeting would be a Thank-offering meeting, the place to be announced later. Mrs. George Hutchinson and her committee prepared the supper and Miss Mary Morton and Mrs. E. Mesley had charge of the program, the theme of which was "Christ Gives the Light of Knowledge" from the study book, "For All of Life." Mrs. Mesley conducted the worship service.

Miss M. Morton introduced the first chapter of the study book, "The Light of Knowledge," and told how missionaries all over the world have learned many languages and are studying still more and giving the Bible to people in their own language and teaching them to read and write. This work of teaching the illiterate in all lands was explained in a conversation between a questioner, Mrs. Gourlay, and a missionary in Guatemala, Mrs. J. Donaldson. Miss Morton and Mrs. A Sproat read articles describing work among illiterates in Arab villages in Syria and Mrs. Moore read "The Great Day," and Mrs. Dale, "Lifting the Shadow," articles describing similar work in India.

October 6

A child born on this day, although good natured, well intentioned and possessed of worthy traits, with ambition and creative talents, yet may be victimized.

For Thursday, October 7

A LIVELY and pleasant day in all the affairs and interests, with a sudden turn in the tide that may be destined to lead on to good fortune and fame. The prospect is for a lucrative as well as thrilling episode, of an unexpected nature, possibly involving travel, chance, fresh interests and new associations. Writings, contracts and agreements are involved and the social angle is emphasized. However, refrain from rash or ill considered alliances.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a pleasant and progressive year, in which the elements of luck and good fortune suddenly present an unlooked for, perhaps thrilling climax. This may call for unexpected change, travel, new pastures and associates, with possibly new and exciting objectives. The personal as well as business or financial interests are involved, but in all refrain from impulsive, erratic or emotional behavior.

A child born on this day although particularly versatile and talented, with much ingenuity and skill, yet may be imbued by extravagant, impetuous or emotional moves, detrimental to the highest results.

Friends Honor Popular Couple

Mr. and Mrs. Earl J. Pollock of Rush Point, on their 25th wedding anniversary, received congratulations and best wishes for their future happiness from nearly eighty friends and relatives who gathered at their home in honor of the occasion.

During the evening an address was read by Mrs. Ross Richards and Ben Newton and Harold Seeney presented them with a Queen Anne style occasional chair in walnut finish, and a matched console table with book and magazine shelves. A pyrex casserole and a silver cake plate were presented by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Pollock and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pollock, respectively.

Although completely taken by surprise, Mr. Pollock replied gracefully, expresing sincere thanks and appreciation on behalf of his wife and himself.

After another social hour the friends departed to their homes, amid expressions of good will to their host and hostess.

Home and School Association News

QUEEN MARY.

The first regular meeting of the season of Queen Mary Home and School Association was held on Monday evening, with the president, Mrs. C. H. Crowe, in the chair.

At this meeting the work of the kindergarten and Grade 1 was stressed. Miss Harrison addressed the parents on behalf of the kindergarten and explained the work taken up during the year. Miss Walton presented to the parents an outline of the subjects that the children study in Grade 1.

The music of the kindergarten and Grade 1 was explained to the parents by Miss Musa Cox, music supervisor of public schools. The first step is to teach the child to follow a tune and Miss Cox suggested the use of nursery rhymes, folk songs and well chosen radio programs in the home.

A splendid resume of current events was given by Mrs. T. Carley and two brilliant piano solos were given by Miss Elsie Chambers.

Reports were read by the secretary-treasurer and the convener of the Membership committee.

CENTRAL SCHOOL

Confidence that the boys and girls attending school to day will measure up to life's problems and make their contribution to Canada and it's development, was expressed by D. G. H. Melton, member of the Board of Education, in an address to the 1942 Graduating Class of Central School on Monday evening. Mr. Melton said that the older generation always worried about the younger, and questioned its sense of responsibity. A few years ago he said, they doubted the quality of the students of that day, who are now reaching new heights of self-sacrifice and skill and manning the battlefronts of the world.

Mr. Melton recalled that Central School is the oldest school in the city and that many men and women have left its halls to make their mark in the world and had given the school the enviable background which should prove an inspiration to those now attending it.

When Churchill said "Give us the tools and we'll finish the job" Mr. Melton said he did not mean "tools" in the usual sense of the word, but rather the best talent and workmanship of all the British people. He said that in the schoolroom and later in the workshop students must learn to develop their abilities not only that they may make a living, but also to give them satisfaction in their work. He maintained that education does not stop with the gaining of a diploma but must be a continuous process.

Barbara Craig, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Craig, was the valedictorian and her fine address was itself proof of the educational standards in the city schools. Nan Pitchford and Jackie Sutcliffe contributed piano and violin solos respectively. Mrs. L. R. Groombridge presided as refreshments were served by Mrs. A. Jones and her committee. Miss Whitman's class won the prize for attendance of parents.

QUEEN ALEXANDRA SCHOOL.

A most successful parent and teacher rally was held under the auspices of the Queen Alexandra Home and School Association on Monday evening at the school, when many new members were welcomed by the president, Mrs. A. Nelson.

J. E. R. Munro, principal of the school, was the speaker and in opening paid tribute to the teaching staff, describing them as very able and outstanding teachers. He declared that in the next ten years there would be a remarkable change in education, with the trend being toward the development of the senses (eyes, ears, nose and hands) and he recommended to the parents that the greatest thing they could do for their children would be to train them to use their eyes to see more.

Mr. Munro discussed the proposed change in writing and said that he hoped this new method of writing would be given a tryout. He very much favored it as he believed that if a child made the letters as he saw them in print in his textbooks or in the newspapers that the tendency would be towards better spellers.

In closing he urged patience and faith in dealing with children, to be realistic and look with clear eyes at what is best for the child.

Mr. Munro was thanked by Mrs. Q. McKinney.

Miss Isabel Connolly, the new kindergarten teacher, was introduced by Mr. Munro.

The Association honored Miss Ada Gillespie, who for years was kindergarten teacher and who retired in June. Miss Gillespie was presented with a necklace and address read by Mrs. G. Wilson Craw.

The musical part of the program consisted of a piano solo. "Praeludium" by MacDowell, played by Miss Pauline O'Donnell and as an encore she played "Intermezzo."

The roll call for mothers was won by Miss Connolly for the junior rooms and Mrs. Pilon for the senior rooms. Mrs. Sutton read the aims of the Home and School Association and also read the creed, and Mrs. L. Richardson gave an explanation of Home Education.

The Association voted to have a tea, the date to be set by the executive. At the close of the meeting Mrs. C. Althouse and her committee served refreshments.

MAY'S SCHOOL

The regular meeting of May's School was held in the principal's room. The president, Mrs. G. Robinson, opened the meeting with a hymn, after which Miss M. Brown of the staff, spoke briefly of the loss to the community in the death of Llewellyn Evans, an ex-pupil of the school, who was reported lost on the St. Croix last week. In his memory a moment's silence was observed.

The president introduced Mr. Fred Stinson of the Board of Trustees, who acted as chairman and introduced the new teachers, Mr. Burns, the principal, Mrs. Sheehy and Mrs. Cooper. Mr. Burns replied suitably on behalf of the teachers and himself, basing his remarks on the three factors, the child, the parent and the teacher.

Mr. Downey spoke to the graduating class and presented the certificates to 13 pupils: Joyce Abernethy, Sylvia Selby, Brenda Pillow, Gwendolyn Abraham, Gwenyth Cooper, Lavonne Lavoie, Winnifred Land, Allan Lee, Ralph Dallon, James Roberts, Graham Oscar, Donald Gifford, Reginald Shaer.

CONFEDERATION SCHOOL

The October meeting of Confederation Home and School Association was held on Monday evening, with a large attendance, as 17 proud and happy boys and girls of the 1942-43 entrance class received the diplomas. Mr. W. Bannon was chairman for the evening. The boys and girls of grades seven and eight put on most of the program, which included three numbers by the choral group accompanied by the orchestra, "Idle Hours," "Massa's in de Cold Cold Ground" and "The Lord is My Shepherd."

Mr. A. Pitchford introduced the Rev. J. H. Mahoney, guest speaker, who gave an inspiring talk on "Giving our Best." He divided the topic into three sections. First, the physical, in which he told the young people to keep their bodies fit, in order to help them reach their objectives in life, and to do this said that they must remember to keep their hearts pure. Concerning money, he said that it was a help on the road of life if it was used rightly, and should be consecrated and used only for that which was honest. The third topic, service, he said that they must give of their very best through life, for only by giving could they hope to receive.

After a piano solo "I Love You Truly" by Ruth Chesher, valedictories were given by Mary Morrison and Wallace Chesher and Joyce Mein gave two vocal solos, "Tales from the Vienna Woods" and "Close to You" and Mr. Mahoney was called on for two piano accordion solos, "Indian Love Call" and "Londonderry Air." The principal, Mrs. E. Johnston, spoke briefly to the graduating class, and Martha Aitkens presented her with a bouquet of flowers.

IN MEMORIAM

DRAIN — In loving memory of John Drain who passed away four years ago to-day, October 6, 1939.

Your gentle face and patient smile
With sadness we recall,
You had a kindly word, and smile
And died, loved by us all.
But bitter was that trial to part
From one, so loved as you,
And loved one, you are not forgotten
Nor will you ever be,
As long as life and memory last
We will remember thee.
We miss you now, our hearts are sore,
As time goes by we miss you more,
Your loving smile, your gentle face,
No one can fill your vacant place.

—Ever remembered by Wife, Sons, Earl and Basil.

HUNTER — In loving memory of Thomas Joseph Hunter, who passed away one year ago, October 6, 1942.

A helping hand to all he knew:
He was so kind, so generous and true,
Grant him, Jesus, heavenly rest.

—Ever remembered by Wife and Sons.

NORTHEY—In loving memory of a dear mother, Mrs. Gertrude May Northey, who passed away one year ago October 6, 1942.

Two dear bright eyes, a tender smile,
A loving heart that knew no guile.
Deep trust in God that all was right,
Her joy to make some other bright.
If sick or suffering one she knew,
Some gentle act of love she'd do:
No thought of self, but of "the other":
I know He said, "Well done, dear Mother."

—Ever remembered by her Son, Elwood and Daughter-in-law, Lillian.

JOHNSTON — In loving memory of Col. T. J. Johnston, who passed away four years ago, today, October 6, 1939.

"The Authority on Authorities"

A NEW SLAM CONVENTION

SOME FOLLOWERS of this department may recall a slam convention it presented a couple of years ago, whereby, after a suit fit had been shown or guaranteed by a force, either player's next bid could ask for ace-showing if it was the lowest possible bid which could not be in the suggested declaration. Response was on the next ranking declarations. After that, if the slam signaler then bid the lowest possible thing, he was asking for kings, and that could be carried on even to include queens. That principle now has been improved upon.

North: ♠ A J 9 7 2 ♥ K 4 ♦ A K 8 ♣ A 8 3

West: ♠ 6 ♥ 10 9 7 3 ♦ Q J 10 2 ♣ J 7 6 2

East: ♠ 10 5 3 ♥ 8 2 ♦ 7 6 5 4 ♣ Q 10 9 5

South: ♠ K Q 8 4 ♥ A Q J 6 5 ♦ 9 3 ♣ K 4

(I : South. Both sides vulnerable.)

R. F. Gawryla, who with his wife won the Greenwich Village championship tournament in 1935 under direction of this department as his introduction to duplicate, aided in getting up the "Koenig System of Bidding at Duplicate Contract Bridge," sponsored by his business associate and bridge partner, Thomas W. Koenig, of Johnstown, Pa. In it is an amazingly interesting new slam convention, which enables the slam signaler to take his choice between asking about his partner's aces and kings, or showing his own.

It is startlingly simple. Used only immediately after one partner has made a forcing bid, the signal is four of a minor. If it is 4-Clubs, it says "I want to show you my slam controls." Partner's response of 4-Diamonds says "All right, show them." (Anything else would be a sign-off.)

Then come the showings as indicated above. Bidding 4-Hearts would mean "No ace," 4-Spades would show one, 4-No Trumps two, 5-Clubs three, the response made. Now the lowest possible next bid asks for kings, shown in like manner. Two are shown, so South bids the grand slam in No Trumps.

If North had wanted to ask about aces and kings instead of showing his own, his slam signal would have been 4-Diamonds instead of 4-Clubs.

You may hear a lot about this in the future. Why not try it out?

Tomorrow's Problem

North: ♠ A Q 10 4 2 ♥ A 6 4 ♦ 5 2 ♣ Q 10 6

West: ♠ 6 5 ♥ Q 9 8 7 ♦ 6 4 3 ♣ A J 8 7

East: ♠ J 9 8 3 ♥ 5 3 2 ♦ Q 9 8 ♣ 9 5 2

South: ♠ K 7 ♥ K J 10 ♦ A K J 10 7 ♣ K 4 3

(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

What is it basically that makes 6-No Trumps a sounder contract on this deal than 6-Spades?

Rationed Foods May Be Served

A good deal of confusion exists over the serving of rationed foods at church teas and suppers, it was stated today by W. E. Foley, local representative of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

"A new Board order," Mr. Foley said, "consolidates all previous orders with regard to the serving of rationed foods at church teas and suppers, and the sales of home-made cakes, jams and jellies. The principle of 'shared meals' makes it lawful for one or more members of a group to bring foods bought against their ration books for general consumption at a group function."

As regards the sales of home-made foodstuffs, Mr. Foley went on to say, sugar and butter were considered to have lost their identity when incorporated in a cake, and therefore there was no legal restriction on the sale of the finished product.

According to the W.P.T.B. representative, some members of the retail trade are not clear on what preserves are rationed and what are unrationed. "Preserves rations," Mr. Foley stated, "mean fruits in caps, bottles, jars or other air-tight containers and include canned fruits with other ingredients such as peaches and rice, or pears and rice. Pie-fillers, if canned and made from whole, fresh fruit, or fresh fruit sliced, pulped in pieces, or in sauce form, are considered preserves and are, therefore, rationed. Glazed fruits in cartons are rationed, and maraschino cherries in liquid, bottled, are rationed also."

Farmers Urged To Hoard Seed

OTTAWA, Oct. 6 (CP). — Farmers in Eastern Canada were urged Monday by the Agricultural Supplies Board to save supplies of all varieties of seed grain, but particularly oats and barley, for planting in 1944.

"With production of grains this year in the eastern provinces substantially below 1942, especially so in Ontario, and more livestock to feed to meet the high demand, there is a danger that farmers may feed all their available grain including some that may be suitable for seed," said the Board in a statement.

"While it will be possible to obtain supplies of seed wheat, oats, barley and other grains from Western Canada this involves an added burden on transportation facilities, already overloaded, to meet the abnormal demand for feed grain for livestock in Eastern Canada."

He quoted Dr. Sherwood Eddy of New York, 'It mattered not what denomination won the world, so long as the world was won for Christ,' and Mr. Everson further maintained that in the new order of post-war re-construction that Christian peoples must be united, to be worthy of a share in that new order.

Special music was offered by the choir, comprising of a solo, 'Two Cities,' by Miss Winnifred Gainer, a duet, 'God's Way' by Eldridge White and Harland Seens, and two anthems, 'The Trinity' and 'Break Forth Into Joy.'

Ottawa Statement Indicates No Relaxation Likely on Liquor Rations

ONTARIO'S MONTHLY WHISKEY QUOTA THREE TIMES GREATER THAN BRITISH COLUMBIA, BUT LATTER PROVINCE HAS MANY MORE PERMIT HOLDERS PER CAPITA

By R. K. CARNEGIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Oct. 7 — (CP). —The restrictions on sale of alcoholic beverages which went into effect in Canada last autumn apparently will be continued unchanged into their second year beginning November 1, for there has been no indication the Government plans any alteration of policy, informed sources said today.

The original wartime alcoholic beverage order, announced last December 16 by Prime Minister Mackenzie King but retroactive to November 1, provided that sales of beer during the year ended October 31, 1943, must be cut to 90 per cent. of sales in the previous 12 months. Wine sales were cut to 80 per cent. and spirits to 70 per cent.

The order was to be in effect until November 1, 1943—but last month it was amended by inserting: "And any year thereafter during continuation of the present war."

Investigations made by Excise Revenue officials have convinced them the restrictive orders have been "completely effective" so far, a departmental spokesman told The Canadian Press.

The Canadian Temperance Federation as its meeting in Ottawa last week praised the restrictions but said there still was room for improvement. It has asked Mr. King for an interview.

The Brewers' Association is meeting in Winnipeg this week and will decide whether to press the Government for any changes.

A Canadian Press survey showed that in British Columbia, where the 1941 census gave a population of about 818,000, liquor permits issued between January 1 and August 31 totalled 602,346. The individual quota there is 13 ounces of liquor a month, or two dozen pints of beer, or one gallon of domestic wine or one-half gallon of imported wine.

In comparison, it is estimated unofficially there are 750,000 permit holders in Ontario—only about 150,000 more than in British Columbia, although the Ontario population is about 3,787,000 compared with British Columbia's 818,000. The Ontario quota is much higher than the one at the coast—40 ounces of spirits monthly plus 18 quarts of beer monthly and 52 ounces of wine a week.

Drastic restrictions on the sale of liquor are often followed by an increase in the production of illicit liquor. Officials here said there has been no particular increase in the number of illicit stills

Reds Breach Nazi Line In New Push

Germans Stiffen Resistance In White Russia

LONDON, Oct. 7 — (AP). — The Red Army surged forward in a new offensive, the Germans said today, breaching the Nazi line on the north-central front between Velikie Luki and Smolensk.

The Germany daily communique asserted the Soviets had launched a major attack in the Velikie Luki sector, and the Nazi news agency D.N.B. added that the drive, obviously aimed at separating the German armies of the north and south, had succeeded in breaching their line.

The agency said the drive was begun yesterday with the rail and highway centre of Nevel, 35 miles southwest of Velikie Luki, as its first objective.

Massed battalions of infantry and tanks attacking under an umbrella of fighter formations, were thrown into the assault, D. N. B. said, and despite heavy losses the Russians plunged forward in considerable depth along the lake and forested-studded northern battlefront.

The Russian midnight communique said strong German counterattacks against Soviet spearheads in White Russia were hurled back with 1,800 Nazi dead left on the battlefields. The clashes took place around the German strongholds of Vitebsk, Mogilev and Gomel, where the Nazis attempted to relieve increasing Red Army pressure on these enemy bases.

Canadian Labor's Support Of Loan Asked

OTTAWA, Oct... 7.—(CP).—Officials of three major labor organizations called upon Canadian workers to-day to support Canada's Fifth Victory Loan opening Oct. 18 with a three weeks' campaign for $1,200,000,000.

The appeal was made in statements issued by Percy R. Bengough, president, and J. A. Sullivan, secretary-treasurer, on behalf of the executive council of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada; A. R. Mosher, president of the Canadian Congress of Labor; and A. J. Kelly, chairman, and W. L. Best, secretary, for the Dominion Joint Legislative Committee of the Railway Transportation Brotherhoods.

Mr. Bengough and Mr. Sullivan said the supply and delivery of weapons of war can be achieved only if workers invest "every possible cent they can spare" in the forthcoming loan. They added:

"It is better to buy bonds as free men than be forced to buy bonds or work as slaves under Nazi tyranny. Therefore, we appeal to the members of the International Trade Union Movement and their families to rally all possible support behind this Fifth Victory Loan."

Mr. Mosher, urging Canadians to give "whole-hearted" support, said loans and high income taxes were necessary to meet war expenditures but they also served "the purpose of lessening the purchasing power available for consumer demands which cannot be met and which would otherwise cause inflation."

Mr. Kelly and Mr. Best urged the "enthusiastic support of all in this effort to save for our individual future benefit, and in so doing speed the victory of our Allied cause."

60,000 Fans Watch Third Game Of World Series

CARDINALS	000 200 0
YANKEES	000 001 0

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, Oct. 7—(AP).—St. Louis Cardinals landed on Hank Borowy for a pair of runs in the fourth inning today to take a 2-0 lead over New York Yankees going into the fifth frame of their third World Series game, before the third straight throng of more than 60,000 to see this year's classic.

To gain the get-away victory before the two teams move to St. Louis to resume play Sunday, Righthander Hank Borowy went to the mound for the Yankees and Lefty Alpha Brazle pitched for the Cardinals.

Borowy had a record of 14 victories and nine defeats with seven straight successes at the close of the season, while Brazle, after coming to the Cards in mid-July from the Pacific Coast League, won eight and lost two.

The presence of a southpaw on the mound for the Redbirds caused the Yankees to return to the line-up they used in the opening game on Tuesday, when they beat Max Lanier. This time, however, Tuck Stainback was in centre field and John Lindell in right.

The batting order:

St. Louis (NL)—Klein, 2b; Walker, cf; Musial, cf; W. Cooper, c; Kurowski, 3b; Sanders, 1b; Litwhiler, lf; Marion, ss; Brazle, p.

New York (A)—Stainbach, cf; Crosetti, ss; Johnson, 3b; Keller, lf; Gordon, 2b; Dickey, c; Etten, 1b; Lindell, rf; Borowy, p.

Umpires: Rue (AL) plate; Stewart (NL) first base; Rommel (AL) second base; Reardon (NL) third base.

First Inning

Yankees—Stainback singled to left on the first pitch. Crosetti sacrificed, Brazle to Klein. Johnson

500 Japs Drown When Sub Sinks Steamer

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—(AP). —An Allied submarine, slipping boldly into the waters off Japan's west coast, sank a Japanese steamship Tuesday in an attack which took the lives of more than 500 persons, Tokyo broadcasts declared to-day.

The steamship, which plied between Shimonoseki on the principal Japanese island of Honshu and Fusan, Korea, was on its regular ferry run, according to a Domei News Agency broadcast, quoting a railway ministry announcement.

The Domei broadcast, as recorded by the Associated Press, said the ship was the Konron Maru, while a Toyko broadcast of the railways ministry announcement, recorded by U. S. Government Monitors, gave the name as Hondon Maru.

Despite efforts by warships and naval planes to rescue the passengers and crew, Tokyo said only 72 of the 616 persons aboard had been reported saved up to the time of the announcement. Rough seas and communication trouble were said to have hampered rescue work.

The announcement said the ship was hit by a single torpedo and sank "after several seconds." It described the site of the attack as in the vicinity of Okio Island which lies in the Tsushima Strait between Japan and Korea separating the East China Sea and the Sea of Japan.

In reporting the receipt of the Tokyo broadcast, the Office of War Information said that to penetrate those waters "an Allied submarine would have to dare risks almost, if not as great, as those that confronted the U.S. submarine that made its way into Yokohama harbor."

Wake Island Attacked By U.S. Navy

Details Lacking On Surprise Dawn Campaign

PEARL HARBOR, Oct. 7 (AP)—A strong force of United States warships, including at least one aircraft carrier, opened a heavy attack with guns and planes on the Japanese at tiny Wake Island, more than 2,000 miles west of Hawaii.

The fact the ships had moved in close enough to pour accurate fire on the enemy seemed to indicate the Japanese defences there were overwhelmed.

How long the attack lasted, or if it had yet ceased, was not stated in a two-sentence communique issued yesterday by Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander-in-chief of the Pacific Fleet. The communique confined itself to the report that the attack by naval units under command of Rear Admiral Alfred E. Montgomery commenced at dawn October 5 and that "further details are not available."

Held War Talks

Admiral Nimitz' report of the attack on Wake followed by only a day his disclosure that strategic Pacific plans had been drawn at a Pearl Harbor conference attended by Admiral Ernest J. King, commander-in-chief of the United States Fleet, Admiral William F. Halsey, commander of the South Pacific force, and Nimitz. It was the second naval assault on Wake since an American garrison finally was overwhelmed there Dec. 23, 1941, after 16 days of fighting.

New blows against the Japanese also were struck in the Southwest Pacific area by Allied troops. A communique today from headquarters said Australian fighters had advanced seven miles up the Ramu Valley on New Guinea to get within 50 miles of the enemy's coastal base of Madang. That base's defence outpost at Bogadjim was given a 39-ton pounding with bombs from four-engined aircraft.

In the Solomons, where the Japanese are trying to get out of the central New Georgia group, other Allied planes pounced on enemy shipping around Bougainville and Choiseul.

Fishing Schooner Loses Biggest Catch This One That Got Away Was Submarine

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7—(AP).—In the office of the Co-ordinator of Fisheries to-day they were laughing over the story of the fishing crew that caught the biggest one in all history—and were glad to see it get away.

A trawler, the Adelaide T. (so the story runs) was operating off the eastern end of Long Island, N.Y. Suddenly the vessel started going backward. That continued at some speed for 40 minutes.

The crew was staring openmouthed into the sea trying to guess what sort of monster their net had snagged when a smoke bomb emerged from the water and exploded in air. That was enough. The crew cut loose the net, containing the day's catch. The trawler's backward movement stopped.

Twenty minutes later a United States submarine surfaced.

Kos Island Allied Force Continues Terrific Battle

CAIRO, Oct. 7—(AP).—A British communique acknowledged today that German forces, striking back fiercely against the threat to their "iron ring" defences of the Aegean, had captured a number of landing grounds on Kos Island but declared resistance was continuing on the Dodecanese Island.

The Germans control the town of Kos, the Middle East communique said. R.A.F. bombers continues to pound German airfields on the nearby island of Rhodes and Crete Tuesday night.

Direct hits were scored on hangars and fires and explosions were caused at Maritza, on Rhodes, an enemy encampment near Kattavia on Rhodes was machine-gunned, and the airfield at Kastelli on Crete was bombed.

The harbor at Syros north of Crete also was attacked, the communique said.

Returning Beaufighter pilots who attacked landing parties at Kos on Sunday when the Nazis launched the attack said the Germans had not effected the landings without cost.

Rake Landing Craft.

They said they swooped low with cannons blazing to plant bombs among the Nazi vessels.

One squadron leader said he saw four enemy ships southeast of the island as they were pumping shells over the hills onto the centre of the islands.

"Our bombs dropped among the ships, but the flak barrage was too intense to observe results," he said. "As we were coming away we could see there was an air raid going on over the airdromes of the island."

A flight lieutenant reported he saw one tank landing craft burning on the beach and "small craft were drawing up to the beaches under heavy fire from shore."

He said he saw two bombs burst near a large motor vessel and smoke pouring from another landing craft.

Unity Permeates Allied Ranks

By FRANK LOWE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 — (CP) — There's a move—well, for the sake of accuracy let's say a barely perceptible motion—afoot to call British and American troops taking part in joint operations "Brusas," the English pronunciation of "Bruisers."

The new word was advocated as a substitute for the common definition "British-American" before a somewhat startled press conference here by a former playwright and author, Cmdr. Anthony Kimmins of the Royal Navy, a veteran of all the landings the Allies have made in the Mediterranean theatre during the last year.

It came about when he was telling the story—of how British and American troops were co-operating in the Italian fighting.

He termed this unity "amazing" and put forward the thought that it was because "shirtsleeve conferences" had taken the place of formal gatherings of military heads.

"When a joint operation is being planned," he said, "the officers don't meet in stuffy conference rooms. They go out in the olive grove, take off thier coats, light their pipes and talk it over. First thing you know they are calling each other by their first names—and once that happens the operation is assured of success."

Armor Duel Shaping Near Termoli

Clark's Army Forges Ahead On Voluturno Front

By NOLAND NORGAARD
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Oct. 7 — (AP). — The battle for Rome has begun with the Germans launching powerful infantry and armored attacks in the Termoli area along the Adriatic where the British 8th Army of Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery stands 130 miles east and slightly north of the capital city.

Official announcements at the Allied headquarters today said the Germans had shifted an entire armored division from the west side of the peninsula and thrown it into an onslaught against General Montgomery's forces which include the Canadian First Division.

Gen. Montgomery's troops also have been reinforced for the show down fight, and have beaten off the attacks, the communique announced.

Navy Gives Aid

Two British destroyers brought naval artillery to the aid of the 8th Army, driving boldly into the narrow Adriatic and pounding railway and enemy military targets to the northwest of Termoli countering and dislocating the German attack just as naval forces were used to assist in the offensive against Naples.

While fresh German tank units hastened to oppose the 8th Army's flanking threat, the Germans rushed the task of fortifying the Volturno River 20 miles north of Naples against Lt.-Gen. Mark Clark's 5th Army which reported dogged progress northward despite extensive demolitions and heavy rains.

Further information from the front said the crossing of the Vol-

British Chief Reaches India

NEW DEDHI, Oct. 7—(CP)—Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, Allied commander-in-chief in Southeast Asia, arrived today by plane at the New Delhi airport to take over his new post.

Wearing a semi-tropical Royal Navy uniform Admiral Mountbatten was met by a large gathering of British, American and Chinese officers.

Original leader of the famed Commandos and cousin of the King, Admiral Mountbatten is the first British officer to be placed in supreme command of Allied forces in an entire theatre of war.

His appointment was announced immediately following the Quebec Conference of Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt.

The new military command in Southeast Asia was created to intensify the war against the Japanese in Burma.

As defined by unofficial sources in London, Admiral Mountbatten's command ranges from the waters off Madagascar east to Sumatra and spans French Indo-China, Thailand, Malaya and Burma.

Geographically, the Southeast Asia theatre has been defined as stopping at a line running south from Indo-China through the China Sea, passing between Sumatra and Java. Responsibility for all the area from this line east to Guadalcanal in the Solomons rests with Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

German Soldiers Aid Danish Jews

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 7 — (AP).—German soldiers, expressing disapproval of the Nazi persecution of Danish Jews, have been assisting them to escape to Sweden, according to statements made by refugees to the Swedish press to-day.

The refugees said German soldiers in some instances had changed into civilian clothes in order to help the Jews without drawing attention to themselves. This assistance, coupled with the aid that members of the Danish police force have given the Jews, might explain how more than 3,000 Jews have been able to reach Sweden.

Allies Must Halt Japanese Barbarity

Fighting Measures Now Would Boost Civilian And Military Morale

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

One respectfully submits that it would have a salutary effect the world around if we could have a special official declaration that the heaviest punishment compatible with civilized practice will be dealt out to all Japanese who had anything to do with the beheading of the captive Allied airmen in the Pacific theatre, and that any other instances of such savagery will meet similar retribution.

It would be a great thing for Allied morale, not only military but civilian. It would create both moral and physical fear in the camp of a brutal enemy with whom we still have to come to full grips.

Oh, yes, even the throwbacks to barbarism among the Japanese experience fear — fear not only for their hides but, strangely enough, for their reputations among respectable peoples. President Roosevelt said that the worst thing he could devise in the way of comment on the beheading was to call the Nipponese uncivilized for perpetrating this act, because nothing gets under the skin of a Japanese more than to be called barbaric.

Resent Barbarism

F.D.R. was right, as was demonstrated a few hours later when the Japanese rushed to the radio and broadcast a denial that they had committed such an atrocity. Their pride had been given a slap in the face of the world's reaction to this horror.

Of course, an official announcement that we shall exact grim vengeance for atrocities would be in effect a reiteration of the United States' State Department's strong note to Japan last April after confirming the execution of American airmen who bombed Tokyo in 1942. This note— which the State Department says applies to the present case— warned that for such "acts of criminal barbarity inflicted on American prisoners" the United States Government "will visit upon the officers of the Japanese Government responsible for such uncivilized and inhuman acts the punishment they deserve."

Still, this would seem to be the time, as the final showdown with bloody-minded Japan approaches, for us to reiterate in fighting language that we do intend to make the enemy pay for every atrocity which we can prove. Punishment should apply not only to those who carry out atrocities but to those who order them. In the case of the beheaded airman, justice should reach clear back to Premier Gen. Tojo whose policies call for such barbarities.

Dependents Given Increase

Senate Drafts Fathers For Army Service

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(AP).—The Senate's point-blank refusal to halt the draft of men who were fathers before the United States entered the war was the signal today for immediate action on sharp increases in cash allowances for service men's dependents.

The Senate took the initiative in seeking to ease the financial burdens of soldiers' families by approving monthly allotments of $80 to wives with one child and $20 for each additional child.

Similarly higher allowances are contained in a House of Representatives bill which the Military Affairs committee expected to report out to-day.

The law now provides for $50 to a wife, $12 to the first child and $10 for each additional child.

(In Canada, where fathers aged 19 to 30 and single men up to 40 are eligible for call-up for home defence, allotments are: A wife, $35 monthly, and also $20 from a soldier's pay, $12 monthly for each of the first three children and $10 monthly for others.)

The Senate measure was passed after rejection, 48 to 26, of a final proposal by Senator Burton Wheeler to prohibit further father drafting.

Fascists Re-Appear In Rome

German Guns Protect Il Duce's Henchmen

BERNE, Oct. 7.—(AP).—A Rome dispatch to the Tribune De Geneve said to-day that under cover of German guns Fascists have emerged on the streets of the Italian capital, but declared they still dared to appear in public only in groups.

The dispatch, which passed through German censorship, frankly added the comment that opponents of the party believe "the Fascists' return had doomed them even more than did the events of July 25"—Mussolini's abdication.

The Fascists, toward whom the Nazi occupation forces were said to have an attitude of "tolerant well wishing," were retaliating for hte popular destruction of party insignias and emblems on the streets and buildings of Rome, the correspondent declared.

He added that the emblems of the House of Savoy had been removed and destroyed wherever possible, and that over the Palazza Venezia flies an Italian flag with the centre emblem of the House of Savoy cut out.

Fascist headquarters have been established in the Piazza Colonna and Braschi Palace where Mussolini for a time was held prisoner. Both are protected by machine-gun nests and tanks equipped with cannon.

AT A PARTISAN BRIGADE HEADQUARTERS IN YUGOSLAVIA, Oct. 2 — (Delayed)—(AP). — German strength is spread dangerously thin along the seagirt mountainous "under-belly" of Yugoslavia — and the Nazis know it.

More fiction than truth has been printed in the outside world about military events in Dalmatia. When 12 Italian divisions disintegrated as a fighting force on September 9, claims that the Partisans controlled all the coast were fantastic, but the fact remains that two German divisions "Der Teufel" and "Prinz Eugen," had their hands more than full in attempting to restore the situation.

Huns Hold Trieste

Here is the latest information, made available to me by the commander of this Partisan Brigade Headquarters:

The Italian port of Trieste, terminus of trans-European rail lines into the Danube Basin, continues to be in tight German grasp. Street disorders occurred on September 9 after the Italian armistice became known, but the Nazis never let the Partisans make a real fighting bid.

Partisans recruited from Slovenians of the countryside exercise authority over most of the Italian peninsula province of Giulia, between Trieste and Fiume. The coastal towns of Parenzo and Rovigno, and may be expected to take back more of Giulia if they are seriously harassed.

Fiume was a brilliant triumph for the Partisans. Disarming the large Italian garrison, the Partisans outfitted hundreds of new volunteers with Fascist-made rifles and machine-guns.

The Germans, Italian Fascists and Croatian Ustachi (elite hero guard of Dictator Anton Pavolich) counter-attacked. Bitter streeting fighting developed.

Brave Soldiers

The Partisans were compelled to retreat from both Fiume and nearby Susak, but all evidence indicates they fought bravely. Like the Russians, these Yugoslavs know how to die.

Bethel Church Has Second Anniversary

Bethel Baptist Church, of which Rev. L. E. Jones is the pastor, celebrated its second anniversary Sunday, marking the completion of four years of ministry in Peterborough by Rev. Mr. Jones.

The guest speaker, Rev. G. Wardell of Toronto, who also was present at the corner-stone laying ceremony, congratulated pastor and people on the fine appearance of the church. Mr. Wardell stressed the fact that to live a victorious Christian life, one must be dead to self.

At the evening service he spoke on 'Building for Eternity.' The speaker used as a simile the building of Solomon's temple, the building of the new Bethel Baptist Church, and building lives as a fit temple for Christ Who is the chief cornerstone.

Franco Facing Conspiracy Against Regime

LISBON, Oct. 7 — (AP) — The weekly newspaper El Espanol of Madrid, in a full page article entitled "Dissolution of the Falange?" asserted today that "there exist in Spain conspiracies against the Caudillo (Gen. Francisco Franco) which favor a regime of free-for-all shooting."

Strongly defending the Falange and its achievements against its enemies, "which are not the Reds alone," El Espanol declared:

"The Reds, who were responsible for bloodshed in the past, are now acting with such moderation that it contrasts with the conduct of their own ideological enemies, who likewise are enemies of the Falange.

"The Falange has never hated the Reds, whom it took up arms to fight—and will again if necessary—for reason which are supremely Spanish. But we know that the well-to-do (Bien Pensantes) operate against Spain and Franco for their 'Nationalist, Capitalistic, Conservative and Christian Liberalism' labels, behind which they hide."

El Espanol denounced Freemasons allegedly operating with foreign aid and inspiration against Franco and the unity of Spain which, it said, had been developed under the influence and control of the Falange. It asserted that the "Conservatives are semi-allies of the Reds" in the conspiracy against the Falange.

turno by 5th Army elements, which was reported yesterday, was only along the main tributary of the Volturno system, commonly known as the Calore.

The German defences on the north bank of the Volturno itself across the plain from the mountains to the Turrhenian Sea are still intact, it was stated here.

Flanking Threat

Although the crossing of the Calore, an eastward extension of the Volturno, constituted a flanking threat to the enemy river line, a military spokesman said the Germans were believed to be holding the northern bank of the Volturno "in some strength."

The headquarters communique said merely that "the 5th Army has made further progress and are working forward to the line of the river Volturno."

(The BBC said the town of Capua, on the Volturno directly north of Naples, was within Allied artillery range.

(The German communique said that "repeated enemy infantry and tank attacks" were repulsed at the Volturno, and that "embittered fighting" was continuing in the Termoli area. It admitted a retreat "in the southern Appennines.")

German divisions fighting here, as well as as along the Volturno and north of Termoli were disclosed to be a part of the Nazi 10th Army which has been entrusted with the defence of central and northern Italy.

Fear 8th Army

Front-line reports so far gave no indication whether the full command of all defences at the front rested with Marshal Albert Kesselring or whether he was subject to the orders of Marshal Erwin Rommel, the German commander in northern Italy.

The rising tempo of the fighting indicated the Germans were fully aware of the danger of a continued advance by Gen. Montgomery's 8th Army, which is on a line slightly north of Rome.

The 8th Army's advance was menacing Pescara, a coastal town 50 miles northwest of Termoli and the terminus of the main lateral highway across the peninsula to Rome.

The pumping of 4.7-inch shells by the two British destroyers, Jervis and Offa, into the coastal railway north of Termoli demonstrated that German efforts to mass and supply a major force of tanks for their first big battle in the Adriatic sector would be complicated by the vulnerability of their communication lines.

Enemy armored reinforcements speeding toward the Termoli area through the Appennines, also were blasted by Allied fighter-bombers which were credited with destroying 82 vehicles and damaging 113.

Borowy pitched two balls to Litwhiler and time was called while Crosetti came to the mound for a conference. Litwhiler took a strike and fouled off another pitch, then lined a single to left, scoring Musial and Kurowski. On the throw to the plate Sanders reached third and Litwhiler took second. Cardinals—Kurowski popped to Etten. Gordon went to his right to make a great backhanded stop of Sanders' grounder and threw him out. Litwhiler struck out. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Yankees—With the count two and two, Borowy slapped a liner over Litwhiler's head and it bounced into the left field stands for a ground rule double. Musial reached into the crowd to make a fancy gloved hand catch of Stainback's foul fly in the right field corner, and Borowy raced to third after the catch. Litwhiler took Crosetti's fly in short left and held Borowy on third with a good throw. Kurowski ran over in front of shortstop to take Johnson's grounder and fumbled the ball for an error letting Johnson reach first and Borowy scored. Keller grounded to Marion on second forcing Johnson.

Walter Holland Remanded On Murder Count

TORONTO, Oct. 7 (CP)—Walter D. Holland, 53-year-old automobile storeroom keeper, charged with murdering Mrs. Olive Casselman, 32, was remanded to Oct. 14 when he appeared in court today.

Mrs. Casselman, 32-year-old mother of two children, died suddenly after she had taken a capsule believed to have contained poison. Police said the capsule was given to her by Holland the night before she died to relieve a headache.

Mrs. Casselman died after she collapsed in a house on Woodycrest avenue. Driver for a cleaning firm, she became ill in her truck and had gone into the house to telephone her employers.

Police said Mrs. Casselman had left her husband and for the last 11 years lived with Holland in Peterborough, Ont., and Windsor, Ont., before coming to Toronto.

Irish Terriers Liven Police Court

Two Irish terriers supplied a lively interlude in a police court case this morning on which Charles Martin was charged with the theft of a dog from Clifford Chapman.

The case started yesterday and was adjourned until this morning on the understanding that Martin would produce the two terriers he had at his home, both of which he claimed as his property while Chapman asserted that one of them belonged to him.

According to the crown witnesses Martin had taken Chapman's dog from the Chapman property. Chapman said he had had the animal for over four years.

Martin on the other hand said that the dog he had taken was his and that the terrier was a little over two years old.

When the male dog of the pair brought into the court this morning was released it took a hand in the proceedings by climbing up on the lap of Chapman.

After all the evidence had been heard, including that of L. L. Maguire who had once owned the Chapman dog and identified the male dog in the court as the one he had sold to Chapman, the case was wound up by Martin agreeing to let Chapman have possession of the dog with the understanding that Martin had the right to enter suit in the civil courts for possession of the animal if he saw fit to do so.

"I wouldn't have any hesitation in determining the ownership of the dog" said Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., the only doubt is to whether or not Martin kept the dog believing it to be his

W. C. Grant defended Martin and Acting Crown Attorney F. D. Kerr. K.C., prosecuted.

Bombs Smash Mestre Near Venice

1,200-Mile Foray Carries War To Northern Italy

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Oct. 7 (AP)—American heavy bombers attacked the railway junction of Mestre, five miles northwest of Venice, in a raid yesterday, smashing at freight yards, warehouses and engine shops, it was announced today. The Allied 5th Army was officially reported as "working forward to the line of the river Volturno."

The communique said British naval units bombarded German positions and railroads on the Adriatic coast northwest of Termoli in support of the 8th Army which has been reinforced.

The Anglo-American 5th Army has made further progress on the western flank of the line across the peninsula and is advancing toward the Volturno River 20 miles above Naples, the bulletin said.

The naval bombardment in the Termoli area was directed against German infantry and tanks counter-attacking along the coastal road. The enemy was repulsed, the communique said.

The flight of heavy bombers on a 1,200-mile round trip from Africa to Mestre brought home the air war to a new section of northwest Italy. Mestre is the main rail junction of the Venice area.

Blast 6 Planes

At the same time medium bombers attacked highways, overpasses and road junctions at Mignano, Formia and Esernia while fighters and fighter-bombers attacked motor transport in the battle area. Six enemy aircraft were destroyed during the day. Three Allied planes failed to return.

The Germans were said today to have moved a tank division in against the 8th Army on the Biferno River line.

Mestre, situated on the Italian mainland where the rail causeway from Venice joins the main coastal line, is an important railway point for military supplies from Austria and Hungary. It also is an important communications link with Yugoslavia where the Germans now are being harried by Partisans.

Mignano, Formia and Insernia, attacked by the medium bombers, all stand north and northwest of Naples on the escape and supply routes for the enemy forces facing the 5th Army. Formia is a port 47 miles to the northwest, Mignano is inland 42 miles to the northwest, and Isernia is about 50 miles due north.

Price advances were influenced by the posting of new barley futures on the Chicago Board of Trade. Offerings in the pit were light and no outside buying was reported.

No large scale business was reported in cash coarse grains.

The wheat pit was practically deserted, with only the odd closing out trade indicated. Small amounts of Nos. 1, 2 and 3 Northern were taken in the cash wheat market to fill old orders. Oats and barley futures remained untraded at the ceiling.

Daley Opposes Plan Freezing Wages

ST. CATHARINES, Oct. 7 — The methods used to freeze wages were entirely wrong and have brought about much of the present difficuty between employees and management, Labor Minister Charles Daley said here last night. He spoke at a complimentary banquet in his honor.

While conceding that inflation must be fought to keep the dollar sound, Mr. Daley told his audience that had the Federal Government examined the wage structure before freezing, brought wages in comparable industry into line, established a reasonable basic rate for common labor and then proceeded to freeze wages, a great deal of the industrial turmoil could have been eliminated.

"Instead we find different basic rates in comparable industry, different conditions as to hours of employment, some getting holidays with pay, some not, and cost of living bonus of various amounts from 60 cents to $4 a week," said the Labor Minister. "All this makes for discontent, dissatisfaction and provides fertile ground for enthusiastic organizers in which to work. The difficult part of it is that many of the claims presented appear to be reasonable, but my hands are tied more or less by rules and regulations laid down by the Federal Government, and so my job grows more difficult day by day.

"One of the big questions is holidays with pay," Mr. Daley continued. "I think that the man who works faithfully and well, who has not brought penalties upon himself by absenteeism, or by staying away without permission, should be given holidays with pay and this should be written into the budget of the employer."

Dealing with the question of recreation, Mr. Daley said his Government would not be unsympathetic to a recreation scheme that would assist youth with a view of curbing juvenile delinquency.

"But this scheme appears to be entirely different," said Mr. Daley,

British Subs Torpedo 6 Nazi Ships

Undersea Craft Penetrate German Defences

LONDON, Oct. 7.—(CP).—British submarines operating in the Mediterranean have sunk six German-controlled ships and damaged two others, the Admiralty announced to-day.

One submarine, the Admiralty added, penetrated the northern Aegean sea to bombard the coastal town of Stratoni. Hits were scored on a factory and the pier was severely damaged.

A communique said the submarines, operating as far north along the Italian shore as the gulf of Genoa, sank a medium-sized munitions ship and a small troop transport, while a medium-sized freighter was damaged by torpedo fire.

Another British undersea raider torpedoed two supply vessels off the northern coast of Corsica. The Admiralty said one vessel broke in two and sank, while the other was badly damaged.

Other victories were chalked up in the Adriatic north of the Italian town of Bari and in the Mediterranean near the French naval base of Toulon.

As is customary, the submarines were not named, but their commanders were announced as follows: Lieut. E. J. D. Turner, Lieut. W. H. Kett, Lieut. A. D. Piper, Lieut. L. E. Herrick and Lieut. M. L. C. Crawford

No Medicine Ever Helped Me Like Syntona Did, He Says

Was the Only Thing That Gave Relief From Itching, Burning Eczema On Hands and Face. Also Suffered With Stomach Gas, Acidity, Dizzy Spells and Headaches

The great popularity of Syntona is not surprising, for this medicine actually does give wonderful results as vouched for by the many local men and women who have used it. Compounded from no less than 12 of Nature's Finest Medicinal Herbs, Roots and Barks, Syntona is a safe tonic for the whole family at this season. It is pleasant to take and many say that even after the first few days, the whole system takes on a new feeling of energy and vigor. To-day we quote the experience of Mr. John E. Nicholson, 312 Dundas Street, London, as reported recently:

"For more than ten years I was troubled with acid indigestion, gastritis, and billiousness. I was subject to throbbing, blinding headaches and dizzy spells. Itching, burning eczema would break out on my hands and face, and I tried all kinds of ointment and medicine, but couldn't get rid of it. My condition kept me awake nights, so I became very nervous and irritable.

"A friend advised me to try Syntona, but I had been disappointed in so many medicines that I didn't think it would help me. Finally, however, when I had a particularly bad spell, I made up my mind to take Syntona, and I am surely glad I did. It rid me of that indigestion, billousness and headaches. Then, my nerves became relaxed and I began to get my proper sleep. Soon I found the eczema was subsiding and my complexion began to clear. Now I am feeling just fine once more. I think it is just wonderful the way Syntona has helped me, and I am only too glad to be able to recommend it to any one who is troubled similarly."

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store.—(Advt.)

Rapid Turnover Of Women Alarms Plants

By EDITH K. GAYLORD
Associated Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7—(AP).— As fast as United States war plants in labor shortage areas hire two women, one other woman quits her job.

This rate of turnover was reported by the United States Office of War Information yesterday on the basis of returns submitted by 16,000 war plants to the American War Manpower Commission.

Percentages of hiring and quitting of women workers among a total female employment of 4,000,000 in the surveyed area show that actually more than one woman quit for each two hired.

The quitting rate was 6.2 per cent, while hiring as only 11.6 per cent. Quitting rate for men was 3.9 per cent of a total male employment of more than 9,000,000.

An additional 1.7 per cent of the women were listed as separations for other than voluntary reasons.

Separation rates for any reason whatever ran 1.3 per cent higher for women than for men, despite the fact that the men's separation rate included those called into the military service.

According to W.M.C. estimates, 1,400,000 women must be added to the labor force in the United States by July, 1944.

O.W.I. declared that while this picture may not extend throughout the United States, it is obviout that if a drop-out rate of one for every two women hired applies, the additional number needed for wartime production and services would be doubled.

Reasons for women quitting included these: A wife wants to follow her soldier husband from one camp to another; marriage and birth rates are increasing; a woman may take a job to supplement the family income and then quit when her husband gets a raise.

Merrill; 8, William E. Curle; 9, Owen Gummer; 10, Clare Collins; 11, Billy Parr; 12, Stewart Haig.

5000 Prisoners To Help Harvest Cotton Crop

FLORENCE, Ariz., Oct. 7 (AP). —Five thousand Italian prisoners of war at the largest internment camp in the United States to-day pored over cotton picking instructions, printed in their native language preparatory to work in harvesting Arizona's cotton crop, endangered by a grave labor shortage.

Already 500 fellow prisoners have proved in the past two weeks the feasibility of the plan to utilize them, Col. William A. Holden, commanding officer, said.

The one-time soldiers used experimentally at the first three labor camps established in the United States for working prisoners of war have demonstrated, Holden said, that they are happy, hard working cotton pickers.

Cotton growers pay prevailing wages to the government for the prisoners who receive 80 cents a day under terms of the Geneva convention.

Farm Sales In Autumn

Have you noticed the number of farm sales which are being held this autumn? For some weeks now our advertisement columns have announced four or five of them every day. In its last issue the Lindsay Post carried advertisements for twenty-six such sales. And yet everyone knows that spring, and not autumn, is the time when a farmer sells his stock and implements, if he hopes for the best market. What is behind it?

Our question is wholly rhetorical, for everyone can supply the answer. The farmers are selling-out because they cannot go on with their work without proper help. The shortage of manpower for agriculture has been discussed so many times in these columns that we do not intend to re-cover the ground; we merely point to these farm sales as alarming symptoms of what is going on, and the direction in which agriculture is headed.

We read in a press dispatch that Australia is shifting emphasis from production of munitions to production of food, and that 50,000 workers are being released from munitions plants for farm work and food-processing. Now it would be stupid to say that we should do the same thing, for Australia's part in the United Nations' effort is not the same as our own; but the move shows that the absolute necessity for maintaining agricultural production at a high level is appreciated in Australia and is not appreciated here.

Not only do we need food for ourselves; we must produce it for our Allies as well, and as soon as the war is over there will be a demand for food for all Europe. It is true that we have large surpluses of wheat on hand, but more than wheat will be needed. Canadian farmers will be asked to produce everything they can for export, and that is when the real effect of the present farm sales and farm derelictions will be felt.

One man and his wife, with help from children, cannot do much good work on a farm of any size, and consequently farms are being sold up all over the countryside. The situation is full of dangerous possibilities, and nothing is being done to remedy it.

Vote Drew For Better Food

Premier Drew recently expressed himself on a subject of the highest and most enduring interest—food. Speaking to a representative of the Ottawa Journal, he said that he thought it would be an excellent thing if cooks everywhere in Canada—in hotels, restaurants, and greasy-spoon dives in big towns and little ones—would raise their standard of cooking; after the war, he said, we may expect throngs of American visitors, and no tourist ever forgets a place where he has had a really good meal. An improvement in Canadian cooking, the Premier implied, would help to put Canada on the map more effectively than a highways program, for the most important highway of all—that to the heart—lies through the stomach.

This is good sense and true statesmanship. If Mr. Drew can bring it about he will remain Premier of this Province until he dies or until he wants to move to Ottawa. Canadian cooking at present is not really bad; most of what is served in hotels and restaurants can be eaten. But it is dull and it is often hard to digest. Ask any travelling salesman about the food he eats as he makes his rounds, and he will talk bitterly for an hour, chewing bismuth tablets the while. And let no caterer say that the war has brought this situation about; it was in existence when Hitler was still just a paper-hanger in a dirty raincoat. The impression which the traveller in Canada receives is that most cooks hate food and prepare it only under the sternest economic compulsion.

And is that the way to treat the fruits of the earth and the gentle beasts of the field? A thousand times NO! Food must be prepared lovingly, skilfully, and with art. A contemporary, commenting on the Premier's remarks, says "We do not ask for cooks that will make of us a nation of gourmets". Well, the Examiner does, to speak frankly. And let us have no foolish talk of "plain cooking", either; every gourmet knows that the plain dishes are the hardest to prepare properly, and that many a cook who can throw together an edible banana split cannot make a rice-pudding or an apple pie which is fit for a dog. And the true test of a good cook is ability to make that plainest of dishes—an omelette.

Premier Drew's ideas on food will recommend him to every really serious man in Canada. Even if he does think that malignant pixies open his mail, he is obviously a man to be put in a position of influence and kept there.

The Iron Duke's Great-Great-Grandson

The Duke of Wellington has been killed, while serving as a Commando captain in Italy. To those who never weary of aspersing the aristocracy of Britain it may be pointed out that he was the 19th peer to fall in battle in this war, not counting the 38 direct heirs to peerages who have also died in action.

The Duke of Wellington bore a great name greatly; he was not content to live as the pensioner of a great ancestor. He was a soldier from the time he left school, and in this war he was 18 months in Malta, and all through the Ethiopian campaign. When he met death in Italy he was 31 years old. There has been no suggestion that he had the military genius of his great-great-grandfather, but he undoubtedly had the courage and resolution of the Iron Duke.

It may be debated whether a remarkable ancestry is an aid or a handicap to a man. Perhaps it depends on how he himself accepts his fate. If he is content to look backward, and to expect special consideration because of the deeds of other men, his ancestry must be accounted a serious liability to him: but if he feels that the past greatness of his family lays an obligation upon him to adhere to their high standard, and to bring new lustre to the name which they have already made glorious, he certainly has an advantage which most of us lack. The Duke of Wellington accepted the tradition of national service which had grown up in his family and met the fate which it brought him like a brave man; many a soldier whose name is unknown to fame has done the same thing. But can it be denied that a great measure of Britain's strength springs from this unity of purpose between the man of distinguished line and the Unknown Soldier?

Don't Overwork "Personnel"

The word "personnel", we think, is being overworked. Would it not be a good idea if journalists, broadcasters and others in civilian life were to give it a rest?

There is no real harm in the word itself. It is a French word which was apparently adopted into English in the middle of the last century, and it means "the body of persons engaged in any service or employment, especially in a public institution, as an army, navy, hospital, etc.—the human equipment of an institution". It is one of those words, like "materiel", which belong to the fighting forces and should be left to them unless a civilian writer needs it very badly.

But a lot of people who love new words and have never properly learned how to use the old ones are working "personnel" to death. For instance, we picked up a highly-respected paper this morning and found a picture of Lord Louis Mountbatten "talking with naval personnel". In actual fact he was talking to two sailors. Why not say "talking with two sailors". instead of using the pretentious "personnel" in a doubtful sense. If two sailors are "naval personnel" we feel entitled to describe ourself as "a large section of the public".

"Personnel" is not usually a good substitute for "men and women", or "people", or "the workers". As A. P. Herbert has pointed out, Creation would be less impressive if the Book of Genesis recorded "Personnel created he them", nor would Nelson's message have been immortal had it read "England expects personnel to do its duty". "Personnel" is a useful word in the right place: but let us not make it stink in the nostrils of discriminating people by using it carelessly.

NOTE AND COMMENT

"See $1.25 Wheat as Pre-Election Move" says a headline. We think that "$8 Coal" would get more votes.

The Germans say that the burning and sacking of Naples was the work of Communist looters. Probably the same gang that set fire to the Reichstag.

In Washington no one is permitted to occupy a bathroom for more than fifteen minutes. Anyone who is unable to bathe in fifteen minutes should think seriously of reducing.

Educational Scheme At De Havilland

By L. C. MURRAY
General Manager, De Havilland Aircraft Co. Ltd., Hatfield, England

(Note: This article was kindly contributed by Mr. Leo Murray, who was General Manager of De Havilland Aircraft Co., Ltd., Hatfield, England, and is now in Canada as Adviser on Overseas Production.

It deals with an experiment in combining industrial training with broader academic studies for youths in their post-school years, and includes the idea of a residential college as a means of social and intellectual developments, an idea carried out in the famous Volk-Schule of Denmark with superb results.

It is another evidence of the widespread concern in England as to education and of the combination of hard-headed common-sense and idealism of its people. Perhaps some of our great industries too many find here a pattern, or at least some suggestion, for the much needed work in this field that they are in a position to do.)

THE De Havilland organization originated in the building of civil and commercial aircraft by a small group of men under the leadership of Captain de Havilland. From a very modest beginning in 1920, it has grown to a world-wide organization requiring highly-trained personnel in order to ensure its continued success. As a surprisingly large number of the key positions in the company been filled by men trained in the company's school, it is not surprising that the importance of educational activities has now been recognized by the appointment of an Educational Board. This Board consists of twelve Senior Executives of the Aircraft, Engine, and Propeller Divisions of the company and is responsible for directing all educational activities of the company.

THE chief executive officer of this board is the principal of the Technical School. He has as his assistants the Educational Officer, who arranges all lectures and academic work, and the Chief Workshop Instructor, who arranges all the necessary training in the school workshop and the company's production workshops.

The school deals with three main classes of trainees:

1. Student Apprentices.
2. Trade Apprentices.
3. Shop Boys.

Student Apprentices are enrolled from Public Schools (in the English sense of the word) and Secondary Schools during their 17th or 18th year. They must have attained a reasonably high standard of general education and, except in individuals having some particular aptitude evidenced by practical work, the London Matriculation Examination or its equivalent is required. The fees payable for Student courses vary from seventy-five to one hundred pounds per annum, but it is possible for a student to recover a large proportion of this through his pay during those periods when he is working in the company's workshops.

STUDENT courses are arranged to cover as wide a range as possible and a high degree of specialization is not encouraged until the final year's work. By this time, the student is able to decide whether he prefers design (engine or aircraft), production (engine or aircraft), maintenance and repairs, or commercial activities. In the final stage of his course, he spends his whole time in the particular department in which he hopes to obtain employment. This gives the Departmental Manager an opportunity of assessing the student's capabilities, and the student gets very valuable experience under the same conditions as he will face later.

On completion of his course a design student should be able to pass the examinations for Associate Fellowship of the Royal Aeronautical Society; the production student those for a Graduateship of the Institute of Production Engineers; and a maintenance and repair student those for the Air Ministry Ground Engineer's Licences.

TRADE Apprentices are enrolled very largely from boys already in the employ of the company, when they are approximately 16 years of age. They have usually completed a course of training at a Junior Technical School or Elementary School before entering the company's employ, and they are in most cases intending to become artisans. On becoming apprentices, they are indentured in the trade chosen and the course of training is to a large degree specialized in this trade. In addition, however, an effort is made to afford them general education through the medium of evening classes held on the company's premises under the control of the County Education Committee. Fees are not payable by Grade Apprentices, and while they are at work they receive pay varying according to their age.

The company awards scholarships to a limited number of Trade Apprentices so they can become Student Apprentices for the final three years of their training. This scheme has proved highly successful and it is intended to increase the number of scholarship students substantially. At the present time there are nine company scholarships amongst the 79 students in training, and as there are now 208 Trade Apprentices it will be disappointing if quite a large proportion of the students cannot be drawn from this source in future.

FROM the foregoing it will be seen that it is possible for a boy to enter the employment of the company at school-leaving age, and through effort and ability and at no cost to himself, eventually qualify professionally in the industry of his choice. In the doing of it, he will rub shoulders with other boys of widely differing home background and education, and so learn that tolerance so essential for industrial teamwork.

To foster this rubbing together, the company has taken over some accommodation with the intention of forming a residential college. Although only 24 students can be accommodated at present, the experiment is proving very successful, and no difficulty will be experienced in filling further rooms when conditions allow these to be provided.

Culture has been defined as "sympathy with intelligence" and any industrialist should recognize the value of such a quality amongst his executive and supervisory personnel. Teamwork and initiative can only be obtained when minds are open to suggestion from the outside, and if a reasonable cultural background can be given to our industrial education it will pay worthwhile dividends in money and in human happiness. It is hoped to develop this side of the De Havilland training still more when peace removes the need for 100 per cent concentration on material production.

THE THRILL THAT COMES ONCE

WHEN BUYING A WATERMELON WAS NOT A GAMBLE

Webster

Whitehall Notebook

(By DOUG HOW, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, Oct. 7 (CP)—A six-weeks absence and a two-hour speech brought home to Britain the authority possessed by the first minister of her King through the passage of laws and the strength of personality.

Her parliament recessed, the nation stirred restlessly under her grievances while Prime Minister Churchill was in North America. Her coal crisis manifested itself in strikes, rumblings of discontent murmured in other industries, various issues stewed and boiled.

The lesson that came from those leaderless weeks was one that could only come through a prolonged absence of Mr. Churchill. It exposed to the big and the little the sway he holds over the land.

As the economist pointed out his cabinet holds many "able and industrious men but they have no authority to make decisions of first importance....Mr. Churchill keeps in his own hands the powers to loose and bind."

In a gently scolding tone, the economist said the boss was needed home.

From the Evening News came an editorial contending that those weeks had showed that the Commons "should remain in almost constant session." Mr. Churchill's journey, it said, had left the nation with no "leadership worthy of the name."

Amid the domestic stir, M.P.'s waited with question after question on the war.

Then, pink and triumphant, the boss came home.

Within 48 hours he was in parliament, delivering a speech that answered nearly every question before it could be asked. He killed the war debate so thoroughly that even most of the members forgot to stay behind when he finished.

Of the 615 members, 60 to 70 stayed to debate. Within a couple of hours only 30 remained. Arthur Greenwood, Labour leader, who had been calling for a three-day debate got up on the second and had an audience of 25.

In and out of the chamber, events started rolling again. Conferences were held on the aircraft industry. Labour Minister Bevin announced he was preparing legal procedure for handling illegal strikes. The government's representatives conferred with coalfield representatives.

A bit stunned, the nation realized the boss was home.

Mr. Churchill's promise to lead a debate on the 1939-43 star broke another complaint. Among the questions on its award was one which included whether the Canadian troops who were here in Britain's trying days were among those worthy to wear it....Chief the criticism gunned for the failure to recognize the civil defence workers who fought the fires and succored the wounded in the blitz. The mayors of several large cities came out in defence of the ack-ack gunners who defended their people.

Home Secretary Herbert Morrison has yielded but little to criticisms of the blackout regulations. He announced modifications in lights for bicycles, cars, trains and other vehicles but refused any general letup. One aid was the announcement that flashlights need no longer be dimmed....Scottish M.P.'s will oppose the impending electorial redistribution bill insofar as it might reduce Scotlands number of seats. If seats were redistributed on a population basis Scotland could lose between 10 and 20.

A Mighty Figure in French Letters

VICTOR HUGO will remain forever a mighty figure in the rich and varied literature of his country. He led the great romantic movement of 1830, led it in poetry, in the drama, and in the novel, turned its great stream into a new channel....He was a "cloud-weaver of phantasmal hopes and fears." Yet an ardent humanitarianism shines with a rich glow or breaks in lurid flashes through all the shifting succession of his moods and phrases. Among his minor faults are, here and there, some grave defects in craftsmanship, an almost barbaric exuberance in rhetoric and ornament, and an inordinate love of a red glow amid darkness. He was too much given to posing, could never cease to think about his own greatness, and was lacking in that mastery of self which is indispensable to nobility....

Yet, when all has been said against him, how much remains! He had many gifts—the gift of passion, of power, of music, of kindness, of scorn, of ecstasy, and of a magnificence that sometimes rises almost to sublimity. There is a wealth of incident in his plays, many sonorous lines, splendid speeches, a deep appreciation of certain moods, and some striking situations. Three or four of them may live for a long time....

His place as a lyric poet is secure. His versification is often exquisite, his command of poetic phrase unrivaled, and, though the spontaneity of the true lyric genius is sometimes lacking, there is often that singing not born of triumph and achievement, as when a skylark sings loudest at his topmost altitude. His real power in poetry, however, as also in his prose, is a deep sympathy with his fellow men, an impassioned feeling that sometimes carries him to high imaginative flights. Greatest by far of all his poems is the "Legend of the Ages". This poem of epic grandeur, the only epic written in the last three hundred years, deep, resonant, rich in the overtones of great poetry, is really a series of poems strung together on a slender thread of thought. In its many historical scenes, the abundant incident, the colour of the diction, and the stormy rush of imagination make him unsurpassed among all the writers of his native land, and even unequaled.

Yet his greatest and most lasting work is to be found in his novels, especially in his "Les Miserables". In the solitude of those islands amid the dangerous channel tides where he lived in exile, his love for his country grew into a passion and his love for humanity into a religion. These two master emotions of his life are here poured forth in overwhelming abundance. There is an epic sweep in this story of an essentially noble soul in a warped and distorted world. Surely the time is far distant when this pathetic and lofty portrayal of the life of Jean Valjean will be forgotten by the world. Yes, the great writer still holds us in thrall and will do so for a long time to come, stirring our blood and arousing our souls. Who that was thrilled by it in his youth can ever forget Hugo's sanguine prophecy of universal human progress?—From "Wandering in France," by Edward Maslin Hulme. (Caldwell, Idaho.)

The Musician Gets Nothing

James C. Petrillo, czar of the American Federation of Musicians....is demanding a cut (from records manufacturers), ranging from one-fourth of a cent to 5 cents and up, on every record and transcription. If this payment were made to the musicians who made the record, it might be considered a royalty. But the cut goes to the union—i.e., Petrillo.

Such is this union czar's price for granting permission for A.F.M. members to make recordings and transcriptions for the first time in a year. If he can force the whole industry into the deal, Petrillo will have a slush fund estimated at $300,000 annually.

If the A.F.M can demand and get a cut on every record its members produce, why can't other unions get a cut on every pig of iron, every bomb, every gun, every garment their members produce?—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

A Bible Message

Praise waiteth for thee, O God, in Sion: and unto thee shall the vow be performed. O thou that hearest prayer, unto thee shall all flesh come. (Ps. 65: 1, 2.)

Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits: who forgiveth all thine iniquities; who healeth all thy diseases. (Ps. 103: 2, 3.)

And Jesus went about all Galilee, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing all manner of sickness and all manner of disease among the people.

And his fame went throughout all Syria: and they brought unto him all sick people that were taken with divers diseases and torments, and those which were possessed with devils, and those which were lunatick, and those that had the palsy; and he healed them. (Matt. 4: 23, 24.)

And when Jesus was come into Peter's house, he saw his wife's mother laid, and sick of a fever. And he touched her hand, and the fever left her: and she arose, and ministered unto them. (Matt. 8: 14, 15.)

Unconsidered Trifles

"I wonder why three-fourths of the typists in business offices are women?"

"I should say it is because men like to feel that there is at least one class of woman whom they can dictate to!"

An excited woman threw a faded apron on the counter in a shop. "Look at this!" she cried. "Just look at it!"

"I'm looking at it," said the girl behind the counter. "What about it?"

"What about it?" shouted the woman. "Why when you sold me that apron, you said its colour was fast. And what happened? The colour came out at the very first washing!"

The girl looked surprised.

"Well," she inquired, "wasn't that fast?"

Letter To The Editor

A LANDLADY'S PROBLEMS

Editor Examiner;

Sir,—Permit me a space in your valuable paper: does the Government or the men or women who work for the Government know what they are doing? They pass a law saying that no one who has boarders may increase the price of their board after a certain date, yet they allow the price of food to increase and do very little about it. How do they expect people to open up their homes to keep boarders (and believe me it is hard work), and not get sufficient for the trouble? The cost of food goes up, then there is an increase in the cost of living bonus. But who gets it? Not the landlady; yet she has to pay the increased costs of food and coal etc., to keep the boarders comfortable. The food prices have gone up away beyond the increase in board. I did have five boarders but now I have one because I made myself ill over running around getting enough variety of food. You have to go to town every day if you want to get anything and it is very hard on one's nerves to rush up town and come home to rush again to get meals on time. Thanking you,

A HOUSEWIFE.

P.S.—This is a sample of day's menu:—

Breakfast: Orange or grapefruit, toast, butter, jam or marmalade, cereal, tea or coffee.

Dinner: Meat, potatoes, carrots and peas or cauliflower or other vegetables, bread and butter, dessert, tea.

Supper: Eggs and bacon or cold meat and a salad, bread and butter, cakes dessert, tea.

Breakfast 20c, dinner 35c, supper 25c, bedroom 25c, $1.05 per day. I get $7.50 per week and I get 15c over for to cover the cost of soap, toilet paper and bedding.

Seek Permission To Make Token Shipments

OTTAWA, Oct. 7 — (CP). — Government consideration of a policy under which manufacturers would be able to maintain in war time at least token shipments of regular commercial exports to the former customers in specified markets was suggested in a brief submitted Wednesday to Trade Minister MacKinnon by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association sub-committee on present and post-war foreign trade.

The brief signed by A. G. Lambert of Welland, sub-committee chairman, said many association members believe serious consideration should be given to a policy of allocating percentages of raw materials and production capacity, compatible with the needs of the war effort, to allow the token shipments to be maintained.

Depend On Surpluses

"This policy would depend, of course, upon surpluses which might be available from time to time in certain industries as a result of war production diminishing and more materials being released for civilian and export requirements," said the brief.

"A portion of these materials might be made available for export, if required, and the exporter could negotiate for private sale in order to keep markets open."

The brief praised the work of the Trade and Commerce Department and its Trade Commissioner Service in developing export trade.

Trade Commissioners going abroad or being transferred should have an opportunity to visit the plants and obtain information on new products and processes.

In arranging offices abroad, though should be given not only to the places where Canada previously had sold goods but also to investigating potential markets.

It might be advisable to establish in Ottawa board divisions where manufacturers could obtain up-to-date information on various countries. Financial facilities should be provided so trade commissioners could cover their territories at regular intervals and widen their commercial contacts.

"It can quite definitely be argued that additional dollars spent on building up and expanding the present trade commissioner service are dollars far better spent for the general prosperity and economy of the country than dollars spent in the form of unemployment relief."

Study of problems arising out of operations of the United States lease-lend system and the Canadian mutual aid program was endorsed.

To maintain Canada in the best possible competitive position, essential new basic machinery should be retained in the Dominion after the war.

Consideration should also be given to seeing that civilian and post-war trade export requirements were handled through normal business channels.

Industrial expansion in the United Kingdom, the United States, South America, Australia and India had meant a change in the character of exports to those and other countries. Canadian manufacturers should visit such countries as soon as possible to investigate possible new requirements.

WARSAW

Warsaw Church In 50th Year

WARSAW, Oct. 7 (ENS). —The United church was filled at the 50th anniversary on Sunday when Rev. Dr. George Little delivered two addresses. In the morning he used the phrase "Heretofore and Henceforth" in paying tribute to the pioneers in the church and the communities for the foundation they had built for safe living, and then urged all present to dedicate themselves to carry on the wealth of the traditions these sturdy pioneers hand down to us.

In the evening Dr. Little used the text, "I Believe in God." He illustrated with many stories how faith in God has made a difference among the armed forces. He said if God is given the first fifteen minutes of every day He will give back the full twenty-four hours in rich, happy and fruitful living.

Twenty-three persons were present who had attended the dedication service fifty years ago. In that time there have been but three organists and they were all present and assisted with the music.

An interesting feature of the evening service was the lighting of fifty candles by Hugh Hawthorne, grandson of the choir leader at the time of the opening, and Joyce Digweed, granddaughter of an elder who has served a long time, in memory of those whose lives have served as a light in the church.

Slot Machine Drive Renewed

TORONTO, Oct. 7 — (CP). — Attorney - General Blackwell of Ontario today confirmed earlier reports that he has ordered an intensive drive by Provincial anti-gambling squads against slot machines, but pointed out that some municipalities have passed b--laws legalizing certain types of the machines and these by-laws will be respected where the machines do not contravene the criminal code.

Even in these municipalities which have legalized certain types of the machines, other types will fall under the new provincial drive. Mr. Blackwell defined illegal slot machines as "not only machines which give a return in money but also machines which may be operated in a legal manner but are operated illegally by reason of the proprietor cashing slugs either for merchandise or money or giving prizes for high scores."

Mr. Blackwell said that "it is not the intention of the Attorney-General's department to put on a spectacular drive by going into municipalities without regard to how the law is being enforced . . But where to their knowledge the law is not being enforced locally Provincial Police where necessary will undertake its enforcement."

The evening was spent in Bridge and Euchre. Later Dr. Wilson (a former teacher of Mrs. Oliver's of about forty years ago at the Dutch Line School) read an appropiate address, wishing her good health and happiness in her new home, while Mrs. Tim Crowley and Mrs. Tom McMullen made the presentation of a handsome travelling bag, silk hose and black kid gloves.

Mrs. Oliver thanked her friends, and Mrs. L. E. Stinson made a few remarks on behalf of his sister.

The ladies then served refreshments which brought the evening to a close.

Bethel Anniversary

KEENE, Oct. 7 (ENS)—A successful anniversary and thanksgiving service was held at Bethel United Church Sunday when the Rev. E. Pugsley of Norwood preached an interesting and inspiring sermon on the topic "Evidences of true Christianity." The choir of Keene United Church sang two anthems and a quartette which were very much appreciated by the large congregation. The service was very fitting for the 115th anniversary of this congregation. The offering exceeded that asked for by the official board. The church was decorated with fruits and flowers.

The 87th annual Donnybrook Fair at Dorchester, Ont., saw a pacer, Henry McKenney, owned by Thomas James of London, take three straight heats from two trotters, Joker and Pine Ridge Mike, in the 2:25 trot or pace. In the 2:15 pace, Baron Gratton won the first and third heats in spirited sprints with Marion Harvester.

From Niagara Falls came the announcement last night there would be no senior O.H.A. hockey this season "unless something bordering on the miraculous transpires." Only three of last year's regulars, Hal Cooper, Doug Boston and Eddie Bissell, are still in the Cataract city and Dr. W. A. Potter, president of the Falls club, intimated there was small chance of gathering a team to compete with star-packed clubs.

Sprague Back

Ottawa Combines in the senior O.R.F.U. are so hard pressed for players, after losing three straight games at home that Coach Dave Sprague has decided to come out of retirement to strengthen team's front line. Sprague, who has been out of competition for two seasons, plans to play next Saturday and Monday.

Because of the prospective difficulty in securing seasoned players from Canada for the remainder of the war, New York Rovers of the Eastern U.S. Amateur Hockey League yesterday opened a hockey school in Brooklyn to develop local talent. Some 350 school boys turned out for the first session.

Boivin Returns

WINNIPEG— (CP). — The R.C.A.F. Bombers, undefeated in the Western Football Conference, picked up a rare recruit yesterday in AC1 Lloyd Boivin, back in Winnipeg on furlough from a far-west air station. As a youngster last season with the Peg outfit, Boivin scored the only touchdown in the East-West final when Toronto's Hurricanes won 8-5. Boivin plays end.

Winning Team Goalie Star Of Game

Queen Alexandra went down to defeat in a hard battle in a Public School Soccer League game. on Wednesday afternoon, on King Edward Park, when King George beat them 2-1. J. Stock, East City goalie, was brilliant in goal, as no doubt Simmonds can testify as he ranged all kinds of shots at him and he was ably backed up by Dracup of the losing team. Swanston and Anderson got the winners' counters.

First Half.

Right from the kick-off, Queen Alexander penetrated the King George defense to find the goal-keeper clearing his charge after Dracup had twice picked the top corner of the cross-bar. The East City boys replied with repeated attacks to break away inside the defense, but Crawford at left full-back, was conceding nothing inside his goal area. Swanston and Wyatt, on the right wing, eventually dribbled through to leave the former in possession who picked the far corner of the upright. Queen Alexandra went right back to beat three men in a row but found Stock, in goal, unbeatable. Dracup, at centre forward, kept harassing the defense to test the custodian time and again. The North-enders endeavoured to get the equalizer, but King George half-backs nullified their efforts through their close checking. Half-time: King George 1, Queen Alexandra 0.

Second Half.

On resuming, a re-organized team from the north end resulted in W. Jary going to outside right, in place of K. Powers, who was delegated to take charge of the goal postiion. Exchanges continued even with each side taking advantage of the break-aways in which Jary was prominent, thereby causing King George goal-keeper a lot of trouble. In fact, all Queen Alex forwards had a chance to shoot for goal but again Stock was too much for them. Rome cleared up-field where Anderson dribbled his way toward goal, and with a left footer he rattled a drive for the corner. Powers stopped the drive but there was too much weight behind it as it rolled into goal. For the remainder of the period it was a battle between Queen Alex forwards against East City defence. Simmonds tried three times to beat Stock who was in an unbeatable mood. Full time: King George 2, Queen Alexandra 0.

Goal scorers: J. Swanston and K. Anderson.

Queen Alexandra—W. Jary, goal; C. Jewell and D. Crawford, full-backs; T. Morin, D. Richardson and C. Nolan, half-backs; C. Simmonds, K. Powers, C. Dracup, C. Wiechorek, forwards. Subs, D. Welsh and H. Syvenstein.

King George—J. Stock, goal; B. Carr and R. Pollock, full-backs; J. Miller, G. Rome and R. Mounce, half-backs; R. Wyatt, J. Swanston, M. Van Allen, K. Anderson and A. Payne, forwards. Sub, J. Blackwood.

All Over The World

LONDON — (CP). — Intense interest was shown in the World Series yesterday and the day before in U.S. Army camps and in bomber bases where Yankee troops put their money into all kinds of pools on the baseball series. U. S. soldiers wanted radios switched to the game broadcast but other patrons of pubs and restaurants merely looked bewildered when they heard talk of strikes and of balls and umps.

O-K PURE WHITE
CIGARETTE PAPERS

SPORTS — DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

It is the irony of fate that the day that Mort Cooper finally succeeded in overcoming the American League jinx and pitched the St. Louis Cards to a 4 to 3 win over the New York Yanks should have been the day he lost his father. Cooper senior, an ardent ball fan who had played a great part in making baseball stars of his two sons, Mort and Walker, died suddenly at his home yesterday morning and the famous brother battery carried that burden of sorrow into the second game of the world series. That was the drama of yesterday's battle, drama that few of the fans at the game sensed for the word had not been spread around at the time most of the crowd was gathering at the Stadium. Under the conditions Mort Cooper, ace of the Cards pitched a remarkable game demonstrating rare courage as he baffled the Yank batters inning after inning. So effective was his work that the much-talked-of New York power only flashed briefly in the final innings when rookie Bill Johnson opened with a double and Charlie Keller followed with a long triple over Litwhiler's head. The two extra base hits left the score 4 to 2 with a Yank on third and nobody out and a less lion-hearted pitcher than Cooper might have cracked right there. The St. Louis ace, however, went to work coolly and courageously on the trio of dangerous hitters who followed Keller to the plate, getting Bill Dickey on a liner to Klein, Nick Etten on a roller to the same player and ending the game by causing Joe Gordon to pop an easy foul fly. Keller carried the second run of the inning over on Etten's infield out but it still left the Yanks a marker behind.

* * * * * *

The Cards evened the series by the use of the Yanks' favorite weapon, blasting the ball out of the ball park. Slats Marion who missed a homer by a foot in the opening game had better aim when he strode out to the plate in the third inning yesterday. He belted Ernie Bonham's first ball of the inning on a line into the left field stands to put the Cards in front 1 to 0. They came right back at Bonham in the fourth. Stan Musial nearly took Tiny's head off with a line drive that ripped through into centre field. Walker Cooper moved the runner along with a sacrifice bunt and Whitey Kurowski lined another single past Bonham's ear to drive in Musial. Then Ray Sanders promptly pasted a homer into the right field stands to score Kurowski ahead of him and the Cards were in front 4 to 0. That was all their runs for the day but as it turned out that was all they needed to win. The Yanks got one in the fourth and two in the ninth but that wasn't quite enough and Bonham who lost the second game of the series a year ago dropped the decision yesterday by exactly the same score as in 1942 when he was beaten by Johnny Beazley. Bonham struck out nine Cards, including the side in the sixth but those two sharp St. Louis attacks beat him.

George Chortles

George "Soup" Campbell does some pardonable chortling over the feat of the Oshawa Colts in capturing the Ontario Amateur Softball Association intermediate A championship for the second year in succession. The Oshawa coach-scribe has the right to sound off for the Colts are quite a ball club and are worthy champions. Anyway "Soup" has the floor and here is what he says: "Oshawa Colts are still the best Intermediate "A" softball team in the Province of Ontario and after two years of competition they still remain O.A.S.A. title-holders in their division. Saturday afternoon's softball battle at Alexandra Park was one of the finest tussles witnessed here since the sensational series with North Bay Craigs last year. Once more the Colts came from behind to take a verdict, this time just by the skin of their teeth but they displayed the fighting spirit and never-say-die quality necessary to take the verdict. Oshawa Colts will go down in O.A.S.A. softball history as the best-known and perhaps the greatest Intermediate "A" softball club of all time. They earned plaudits with a title performance last year but this season they accomplished what no other Intermediate "A" team (the toughest group of all, with most entries) has ever been able to do, namely win the O.A.S.A. trophy two years in succession and to top off their record, the Colts performed the feat by marching right through the Provincial playdowns without a single defeat, truly a remarkable and creditable showing. Incidentally, it marks the fourth O.A.S.A. championship for "Preem Whiteley and "Wib" Hall, both of whom were with the Mike's Place Junior in 1921 and the Dodgers (Inter. A) in 1932 and with the Colts last season. "Peg" Hurst was not a member of the champs last year but he played on the other two title teams."

* * * * * *

It took only a homer by Joe Gordon Tuesday to cause radio commentators and sports writers to start voicing and writing blurbs about the old Yankee power. A lot of that stuff must be done from memory. As a matter of fact in the two games played so far the Yanks have only been able to come through three times with hits when safe blows meant a run. Gordon's homer drove in one and a pop single by Bill Dickey supplied transportation for another in the opening game and Charlie Keller chased in the third one in the ninth yesterday with a triple. Of the other four Yank runs one was wild-pitched in, another scored while the Cards were reeling off a double-play, a third ran home on an infield out and the fourth was registered after an outfield fly had been caught. Calling that kind of hitting power is an insult to the memory of the batting feats of Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig and Joe DiMaggio. Any one of those birds wouldn't have thought he was hitting at all if he didn't drive in three runs himself by solid hits in any given game. It has taken the whole Yank team two days to produce hits to supply transportation for a trio of runs—and yet some folk continue to talk about power.

Hamill To Coach

Red Hamill, former Black Hawk player, is to coach the Kingston O.H.A. team this season and Bill Walshe comments as follows: "The O.H.A. senior group will be composed of five teams, and possibly six with Toronto Navy dropping out yesterday while Niagara Falls has until tonight to make a decision. The Navy did not announce reasons for stepping aside but at the group meeting in Toronto sailor officers objected to alleged packing of the Toronto Army Daggers, which has lined up the main men of the Maple Leafs N.H.L. team. The Navy will not be out of all Allan Cup play as a strong sailor squad is assembled around Halifax that may play a prominent part in playdowns next spring. Kingston players, while respecting the Toronto Army stars, do not seem concerned. At a meeting last night, Red Hamill, coach of the Kingston service squad, figured the Toronto Army a paper team with Syl Apps returning after suffering a broken leg, Billy Taylor 30 pounds overweight, Gord Drillon not likely to put on pressure for pin money and Hank Goldup an uncertain player, but they'd be nice to have around any hockey rink. Hamill also figures that the new style of play with defence passes to the centre line may ruin some of the former stars and develop newcomers, and Hamill knows the long-pass ganging game as a member of the Chicago Black Hawks who specialized in the play."

* * * * * *

A play that has seldom entered into world series competition bobbed up in New York yesterday in the sixth inning when Bud Metheny of the Yanks was sent to first base by Umpire Beans Reardon on the ground that Catcher Walker Cooper had tipped the bat of the Yankee outfielder. Cooper was chalked up with an error on the play and a number of fans have expressed surprise. It is true that there is no specific reference in the rule book to scoring an error for an interference play but the general rule in regard to errors seems to justify such scoring. It reads as follows: "An error shall be given for each misplay which prolongs the time at bat of the batsman or prolongs the life of the base-runner or allows a base runner to make one or more bases."

P.T. Training Tossed Into Discard

OTTAWA, Oct. 7—(CP)—"Duty-fitness," a new streamlined physical training course emphasizing running, jumping and playing games, has replaced the old-style "physical jerks" for Canada's budding airmen, the R.C.A.F. announced last night.

The new training course was developed by PO. Lew Hayman, one of Canada's outstanding pigskin mentors and an R.C.A.F. administration officer.

Hayman, transferred to the physical training and drill section of the R.C.A.F., was told the physical fitness of the airmen wasn't up to fighting standards, and to find out what was wrong.

Hayman's football players ran their way to fitness—and that's the way it's going to be in the air force from now on. There'll be a few "physical jerks," but they'll be in the form of warming-up exercises.

The rest of the time the airmen will be going over, through and under obstacle courses set up in all training stations. They'll have a time limit for these tests and they'll be handled competitively with the men working against a stop watch.

Now conditioning drills have been created and their names—barrel roll, bouncing ball, crouch run, straddle leaping—give a clue to the punch that the new deal packs. Games that stress running, such as touch rugby, basketball and lacrosse, are included in the program while games that call for little running have been eliminated.

Airmen will be encouraged to take the duty-fitness program on their own time as well as during the scheduled hours. This would apply particularly to the obstacle course. The physical fitness of an airman will often, under the new set-up, play a part in deciding promotions.

6 Hockey Teams

MONTREAL — (CP). — The Quebec Senior Hockey League will operate this season with the same six clubs as last year, it was announced at a circuit meeting last night, one slight exception being that Montreal R. C. A. F. will play as "Les Alouettes" in honor of the French-Canadian bombing squadron overseas. Ontario clubs will be Ottawa and Cornwall.

Mort Goes Home

NEW YORK, Oct. 7—(AP).—After pitching St. Louis Cardinals to victory over the New York Yankees in the second World Series game yesterday, Mort Cooper announced he would try to leave at once for Independence, Mo., to assist in arrangements for the funeral of his father. His catching brother, Walker, however, will remain with the club until after today's game, when the series shifts to St. Louis.

Gunner Extends Flyweight Champ

By ALLAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Oct. 7. — (CP) — Wee Jackie Paterson stepped into a ring for the first time since he won the world flyweight crown last June and ran smack into his toughest fight in years.

A southpaw with a knockout punch in either hand, Glasgow's Jackie had to fight every second of the way to take an eight-round decision over a tough naval gunner from Liverpool who exchanged punches under the dual handicap of a forehead gash and an injured hand.

The sailor bloke, Gus Foran, was making his London debut and few of the spectators who packed the Queensbury Club thought he would stay the distance let alone extend the king. At the finish of the non-title match, cheers for Foran rocked the house while Paterson slipped from the ring unnoticed.

Some even booed the verdict but there was little doubt Paterson piled up a points margin although he could not solve Foran's defence and administer his usual knockout. Foran, Northern England bantam-champion, relied mainly on a straight left that repeatedly foiled lightning hooks and swings of his opponent.

Cousin of Ginger Foran who once fought Jackie Brown for the world flyweight title and now is in the United States, Gus was congratulated at the ringside after the bout by A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty, who said:

"It was one of the finest fights I've seen. Your courage was in the true traditions of the navy."

Bad Second Round

The Liverpudlian ran into most of his trouble in the second round. A sizzling right from the champion opened up an old cut over his eyebrow, and a few seconds later Foran bruised his right hand on Paterson's head. From that time, he didn't throw a hard right.

Foran never has been knocked out and boasts a record of 36 kayoes in 43 contests since turning professional three years ago. He recently returned from naval duty around North Africa.

After the bout Gus asked for—and probably will get—a return match with Jackie, who floored Peter Kane in just 61 seconds to take the world title some weeks ago.

At that same time Paterson retained his British and Empire crowns, and by defeating Kane won outright possession of the Lonsdale belt which means that 27 years from now he can start drawing a pension.

Awarded by the British Boxing Board of Control, belts won outright have a monetary value and at the age of 50 a holder is entitled to a pension of £1 a week.

Cpl. Paterson of the R.A.F. is 23 and will start drawing his stipend in 1970.

RCAF HURRICANES BATTER TORONTO INDIANS 19-0 IN NIGHT GAME

Burke, Griffin Bolster Air Force Team

TORONTO, Oct. 7 (CP)—Toronto R.C.A.F Hurricanes, bolstered by two strong reinforcements from the Canadian army, last night battered Toronto Indians into submission 19-0 to climb into a first-place tie with Hamilton Wildcats in the Ontario Rugby Football Union Senior Series.

Most important army contribution to the Air Force cause was Lieut. Orville Burke, former Ottawa star, who spearheaded a drive for a converted touchdown in the first quarter of the game and then personally accounted for four more points in the third. The other Army man was Sgt. Murray Griffin, who won football renown with Ottawa and Toronto teams. Both have applied for transfer to the Air Force.

Burke's value to the Dominion champions became apparent as soon as he came on the field and he soon made his contribution more emphatic by firing a pass to LAC. Jack Buckmaster for a touchdown, following it up by passing to AC2 Ken Sluman for the convert.

Gets Field Goal

In the third quarter he drop-kicked a field goal from the 25-yard line, following that up by laying a well-placed short punt inside the Indians goalline on which Powell was rouged by a swarm of Air Force tacklers.

While Griffin did not figure in the scoring he furnished two sensational line plunges and did valuable work at the centre secondary defence position.

AC2 Doug Smylie climaxed a night of capable play by scoring a touchdown in the last quarter of a five-yard plunge through the line after he had set the stage for the score with a 15-yard run on an extension play. Sgt. Charlie Prince converted the touchdown on a placement kick. Prince had scored three points on a placement on the first play of the quarter.

Indians battled hard all the way but lacked the drive to score. They were within striking range only once and then Earl Selkirk's attempted placement was low and was knocked down.

Brazle, Borowy Hurlers In Third Game

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 7—(AP)—All even at one game apiece, New York Yankees and St. Louis Cardinals today were not only right back where they started from as a result of Mort Cooper's job of pitching his way out of a pot-full of boiling water, but also had a running start on a carbon copy of the World Series history book.

As they went into their third game today—the last of the set in New York—all hands admitted it will be many a day before they forget the mastery of Mort, burdened with grief over the death of his father, hanging on for a 4-3 decision in yesterday's second game.

And along with the way the big righthander came off the ropes punching each time the Yanks had him softened up, the boys and girls will remember the job Mort's catcher-brother, Walker, did behind the plate.

With the Cards' win in the book from that second game, squaring the show for the Yanks' opener decision on Tuesday, the National League cheering section perked up and pointed out that the similarity to the '42 get-together. A year ago, the Yanks took the opener and the Cards came charging back to grab the second game—by 4-3, and then galloped through the next three.

History May Repeat

Manager Billy the Kid Southworth sent his gangling rookie sinkerball southpaw, Alpha (Bet) Brazle, to the firing line in the third game confident that history was well on the way to a return engagement.

Joe McCarthy has selected just about the "hottest" hurler in the American League to get the Yanks pointed up the right street again. This was Willowy Hank Borowy, winner of his last seven starts during the '43 campaign.

Ernie (Tiny) Bonham yesterday made the mistake of offering a boom-boom ball to Slats Marion with the first pitch of the third inning. Now Slats in five months of the 1943 season hit a grand total of one homer. Well, sir, he doubled that production for the year right then and there yesterday. And in the fourth, after the St. Louis swifties had scored another run on two line singles that whistled past Tiny's ears, the stylish stout fork-baller put another of his "gopher balls" on a tray for Ray Sanders. Ray gave it a ride into the right field seats to ring the cash register for two runs and the ball game.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—(AP). —Just before yesterday's second World Series game, Dixie Walker (The Brooklyn one) was exercising the common privilege of second-guessing...."We'll have a better-played game to-day," he said. "All the rest of them will be better played."....But if he were managing the Cards (and he made it clear that he isn't) Dixie figured he'd have Johnny Hopp in there somewhere...."I think Hopp's running had a lot to do with beating those Yankees last year," Dixie argued. "It kept them on edge. I'd play him even if it meant taking my own brothers out."....In the fifth inning when brother Harry kicked Joe Gordon's single around and let Joe reach second, Dixie probably wished that Billy Southworth had come up with the same idea about keeping him out.

Quote, Unquote.

Joe McCarthy: "I don't know that it will be so bad for us having to play two or more games in St. Louis instead of just one. During the season we hit about as many home runs on their field as anybody else."

TORONTO, Oct. 7—(CP)—The Saskatchewan Amateur Hockey Association took a major step at its annual meeting last week-end when it acted to restrict movement of youngsters from city to city on the trail of easy money. No one wants to stop the boys from picking up some folding lettuce but neither should we encourage hockey "bums."

Need for action was increased by war-time conditions with enlistment-depleted clubs seeking players aged 14, 15 and 16, not subject to military call-up.

True, we had hockey bums before the war and plenty of them: fellows who sold their hockey services to the highest bidder, amateur or professional, did nothing but play hockey all winter and loafed on the proceeds all summer. When their hockey careers were finished the men had no money saved from the wreckage; they were not trained to work; some were forced to live on unemployment relief.

Although the "bums" were not in the majority among pre-war players there were enough of them to create a problem for hockey officials. The problem increased when immature boys became hockey tourists.

The S.A.H.A. appointed a committee to organized legal control of all its players by having parents of each minor sign club contracts. The Association also decided to make representations for some sort of national control.

Speaking of young players who play for outside clubs, a Saskatoon delegates said: "In the spring they come back dressed in zoot suits with a few dollars in their pockets and it's almost impossible to bring them down to earth. They won't work or go to school."

United States clubs, both amateur and professional, were trying to lure youngsters with attractive offers and the complaining delegate said: "Perhaps the government might see fit to discontinue issuing border permits to these hockey babies before it is too late."

Another delegate said: "If something isn't done hockey will be in disfavor with parents right across Canada before this war is over."

The S.A.H.A. action drew praise gram sports editor who wrote: "The gram sports editor who write: "The packing of teams with youngsters dragged from parental control and supplied with all kinds of money is a menace from any viewpoint

"It is not good for the localities to which these boys are brought. They displace home-town lads, discourage them and finally drive them out of hockey...

"These youngsters are of much more value as future well-educated solid citizens than as hockey players for a few years and from there on aimless, helpless wanderers with nowhere to go and nothing they can capably do."

Walt Riddell of the Saskatoon Star-Phoenix also praised the S.A.H.A. action and added: "Senior clubs were troubled with 'hockey bums' a few years ago; now the plague threatens to involve the minor amateur leagues."

Andy Lytle of the Toronto Star took another track and wondered: "What is wrong with parents who can't exercise control over minors and apparently wish the hockey association to undertake it for them." Andy's opinion is that some parents are mightily pleased to see their offspring in the big money.

That's true; and more power to the boy who continues with his education, salts his hockey money away and uses it to establish his future when Daddy Time ends his sport career. The aim of hockey organizations should be to see that all players follow such a course.

Without charge, this corner offers the suggestion that hockey establish a committee to hold in trust a large percentage of earnings of hockey players of minor age, to be paid to the players at the age of 21. In the case of special need, the committee could agree to turn over all or part of the trust fund but generally it would be held until the player reaches the age where judgment, if not fully mature, would at least be touched with some experience. Parents or guardians would have a voice on such a committee.

Cards' Hurler Has Narrow Squeak

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 7—(AP)—Big Mort Cooper is getting the World Series headlines today and rightly so, but the tall right-hander of the St. Louis Cardinals was within an inch of being knocked out of the box by American League batters for the fifth consecutive time.

It happened in the dramatic ninth inning of yesterday's second game. Big Mort, bearing up manfully under the grief of his father's unexpected death, was sailing along on a four-hit job and a three-run lead as the Yanks came up for their last bat.

The huge crowd, strangely silent a minute before, came to life with a roar as Rookie Bill Johnson doubled to left centre. The atmosphere grew tense as "King Kong" Charley Keller came up. The Maryland slugger seemed due for a hit. Cooper pitched a ball and then another. Keller took the next pitch, a called strike, and swung viciously at the 2 and 1 offering. He missed, but clouted the 2 and 2 pitch for a mighty 457-foot triple to left centre.

With one run in and the ever dangerous Bill Dickey, Nick Etten and Joe Gordon coming up, Cooper seemed shaken. Manager Billy Southworth rushed from the dugout. He and the Card infield gathered around big Mort for a confab that lasted more than a minute.

Dickey took a called strike, a ball, another called strike, another ball, then met the 2 and 2 pitch with the fat of his bat. It was a screaming line drive—right into the hands of Second Baseman Lou Klein. An inch either way would have meant a hit for Dickey—perhaps a double—with Southworth regretfully forced to life big Mort. As it was, Cooper breezed by Etten and Gordon only four pitches to end the game.

Dept. Requests Better Care Of Snow Fences

The Council of the Township of Smith met at the Court House in Peterborough, on Monday, all members present with Reeve McIlmoyl presiding.

A letter was received from C. A. Poynton district road engineer informing the Council that the Department of Highways has always been willing to subsidize the purchase of snow fence by the municipalities but such assistance may be withdrawn if more care is not taken of same, it being noticed that is being used for all purposes even as chicken runs, pig pens, gardens and in one case as a play pen for children. It was decided to have the road superintendent make a check on all the township fence.

Mr. V. Eastwood, Indian Agent for Curve Lake Reserve, requested the township to place some snow fence on the road leading to the Reserve, as township fence has all been allotted to different roads it was decided not to place any on this road this year.

I CORRECTED CONSTIPATION NATURALLY!

I Stopped "Dosing" Myself

I learned that lack of the right kind of "bulk" in the diet is a common cause of constipation. So I tried getting the needed "bulk" with KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN.

ALL-BRAN is delicious as a cereal; or in tender, tasty muffins! Enjoy it every morning. Drink plenty of water; too; and don't forget; ALL-BRAN doesn't work like purgatives. It takes time. In two convenient sizes at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg's in London, Canada.

HAVELOCK

Red Cross Seeks Blood Donors

HAVELOCK, Oct. 7 —(ENS). — Representatives from the Blood Donors Clinic in Peterborough visited the executive of the Red Cross Branch soliciting citizens from Havelock and Belmont who are willing to donate blood.

Commencing next week, a house to house canvass in Havelock for donors will be made, and if possible, transportation arrangements will be made, for those not able to travel free on the railroad. Anyone willing to take a carload are asked to communicate with Mr. Lancaster or Mrs. H. Roche.

A cash donation of $2.50 to be used to purchase articles for the overseas boxes, was received from the Goofy Club and gratefully acknowledged.

No Parcels

The advisability of sending Christmas parcels to overseas boys was discussed, but since this is a duplication with the other organzations who send parcels to every member of the armed forces overseas, it was decided to lend co-operation to the Eastern Star Patriotic Association. Next Tuesday a shower is to held for cigarettes, chocolate bars, soap, shaving cream, and tooth paste and donate these to the E.S.P.A. for their boxes. Afternoon tea will be served after the business period. Two hundred suitable Christmas cards are to be ordered to be sent to each boy in the armed forces.

During the afternoon, one quilt was completed, two coats finished and the cutting committee cut out a goodly number of blouses and jumpers.

communique said but declared they were repulsed and that several villages fell into Russian hands.

The Germans also lost heavily when they struck against Soviet advanced positions 45 miles east of Mogilev, the Russians said. The Russians also succeeded in improving their positions near Gomel, which they had partially surrounded before autumn rains slowed down their drive. Red Army units were said to be less than 13 miles from this vital rail centre.

Otherwise, the Moscow communique said, "there were no serious changes at the front," an indication that any further large offensive action would have to wait until weather conditions improve.

Halifax Strike Continues; Retain Soldiers

HALIFAX, Oct. 7—(CP).—Several hundred servicemen remained on waterfront docks here today, handling freight from trains to the sheds as 400 regular freight handlers continued their strike into its seventh day. In the holds of loading ships, however, all was back to normal as the port's longshoremen bustled about stowing away the cargo following the windup of their two-day sympathy walkout.

Executive and members of the Halifax Local, Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employees (A.F.L.) were still undecided on their future action despite long discussions last night. It is reported they are awaiting word from Canadia.. Vice-President Frank Hall, of Montreal, on the outcome of his conferences yesterday in Ottawa with Labor Minister Mitchell.

Practically all the more than 1,500 longshoremen are expected to be back on the job today, following yesterday's decision to resume work on the instructions of President Joseph Ryan, New York, of the parent International Longshoremen's Association. They started back to work at 1 p.m. yesterday, and by nightfall nearly 800 were reported at their posts.

Dissension was reported in their ranks however, with threats coming from "card members" that they would pull away from the union and form an affiliate of the C.I.O. These stevedores are temporary members of the union who came to work on the waterfront since outbreak of war, although they pay heavy dues, they have no vote in union undertakings and are excluded from meetings, a sore point with them.

As yet no breakaway action has been taken, and the card members are expected to line up in the gangs alongside the regular union men today. About 200 failed to report for work yesterday.

Only a fraction of the 1,200 sailors, soldiers and airmen who swarmed about the docks Tuesday remained on the job today. Most of the 60 stevedoring sailors had returned to barracks, leaving only 200 to carry on as freight handlers, taking freight from waiting trains and depositing it on the shed floors. Soldiers and airmen who had been doing this were transferred to other piers unloading trains or moving newly-arrived cargo into empty box-cars.

D.N.B. added that the three divisions came from the central regions and the Salerno section where the Allied 5th Army fought early in the campaign.

A dispatch from Allied Headquarters to the Daily Express said the Canadians were among 8th Army forces "battering at a certain town" from which they would be able to "leap ahead" once the town falls. The dispatch added that the town's name had been kept secret.

(In New York Wednesday Cmdr. Anthony Kimmins of the Royal Navy said at a press conference that "some Canadian Commando-type soldiers" took part in the 5th Army's invasion at Salerno. This was the first definite word from an Allied source that the Canadians had been in action there.)

referring to the proposed agreement between the Dominion and the Province to provide recreation for war workers. "It appears to be simply another spending organization with numerous appointments and expenses to tax an already overtaxed people which would only lead to increased decutions from the pay envelope. It has almost become a political question and I refuse to play politics with your money."

R. B. Johnston, K.C., was chairman of the dinner held under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce and attended by 300 representative business man and citizens. A silver tea service was presented to Labor Minister Daley and Mrs. Daley by Mayor W. J. Macdonald, M.D., on behalf of the citizens.

Premier George Drew who attended said "there are obvious reasons why Tod Daley will make an excellent Minister of Labor. He has no special qualifications in labor relations but he has broad, human understandings and labor relations can't be put away in an airtight compartment. There can be no such thing as isolation in country or among nations."

The Premier scored prejudices and said Canada faced a great future in the postwar era as a supplier of raw materials and producer of finished goods if it, the country, was not held back.

"That sound basis of good-will must not be to try and run the difficult business of life on the fuel of prejudice," he said.

His condition was described last night as fair.

Zara, the Italian town on the Yugoslav mainland 80 miles from the Italian frontier at Fiume, changed hands on Sept. 9, but only from Italian to German. The Zara airfield is one of two German air force bases from which the Nazis maintain air supremacy over Dalmatia.

Between Zara and Fiume along the base of the bald, gray mountains, almost all of a series of fishing villages pay allegiance to the Partisans.

South of Zara the main towns of Sibenik, Split, Metkovic and Dubrovnik now have German garrisons, but a 41-mile stretch of coastline, bounded by Omis and Optizen, is almost completely Partisan.

The fall of Split on the night of Sept. 27-28 was the most serious defeat administered by the German counter-attack.

Scottish Children Are Found To Be Well Cared For

By JAMES A. ROY

(This is the thirteenth in a series of articles written for The Examiner by Prof. James A. Roy of Queen's University, Kingston, on wartime conditions in Great Britain.)

The Scottish children are particularly well cared for. The women who are doing war work may leave the children in the day nurseries. No married woman with children under fourteen is compelled to do war work, but the opportnuity for many women to augment their allowances having arisen, day nurseries have been opened to take charge of their children during the day, and often during the night as well. The children are taken in from the age of two months to five years of age. The wartime nurseries are under the care of the Public Health authorities and each nursery is staffed by two trained nurses with assistants under them. These nurseries average from 10 to 100 children, and by the ever-increasing demand for admission. In all day nurseries the children get concentrated orange juice, vitamin D tablets, cod liver oil, and as much milk as they need.

Another wartime development is the British Restaurant. I visited one of these restaurants yesterday. It was in what was formerly a well-known church and was packed at mid-day. The British Restaurants might be called the people's restaurants. They are designed to provide a good mid-day meal for workers who have neither the time nor the opportunity to provide mid-day meals for themselves. The price of these meals is much lower than in the ordinary restaurant. The British Restaurants are designed along cafeteria lines. Patrons fetch their own trays and get an adequate supply of the dishes offered. The restaurants are definitely a wartime measure, and like the day nurseries have proved extremely popular. The cooking and catering are in the hands of fully qualified and experienced women. As an additional advantage, these restaurants, which are being planted in thickly populated districts, have what is called a "carrying out" trade That is to say, meals may be taken out and eaten in people's own homes. These restaurants are different from the Works' canteens which are entirely for the workers in the plants. I was invited to lunch at one of these canteens yesterday. We had excellent Scotch broth, mince, potatoes, cabbage, baked apples, and custard, tea and cakes.

What impresses the visitor to Scotland is the external normalcy of the lives of the people. True, people work harder, but there are no signs of stress or strain, and they can carry on for years if need be. The normalcy of life here cannot be too strongly stressed. One notices after some time certain external changes — the disappearance of familiar railings, for instance, in the public parks. This is, in my opinion, a great improvement. There are air raid shelters, of course, but in the cities at least, apart from naval and military uniforms, there are few things that suggest a nation at war. One thing I notice is the disappearance of the genuine Milk Bar which was so popular just before the war. These bars still exist under the name of Milk Bars, but they seem to sell practically every kind of soft drink except milk. Another thing that has almost entirely disappeared is the restaurant car on long distance trains. Passengers are warned to take food with them if they are going any distance. No hotel meal can exceed 5s. but in hotels with big rentals there are many ingenious methods of raising the bill — house charge, orchestra charge, etc.

Coupon Saving Hints.

For some time the women's magazines have been full of hints for renovations The Board of Trade has now issued a booklet compiled by experts — mainly women — entitled "Make Do and Mend" and in many towns exhibitions are being held to show how old dresses, scraps of silk, wool and leather may be turned into attractive garments. At one exhibition one lady brought a smart black frock from which the moth-eaten parts had been cut away, and which had vest, cuffs on the short sleeves, and the edgings of the pockets made from a bright green scarf. There was an evening dress made from a lace curtain and a summer frock from a gay tea cloth. There were handkerchiefs that had been made from linen sheets, children's frocks that had been made out of dyed flour bags, and a sofa covering had been transformed into a warm leather vest. Two typical hints from the Board of Trade's booklet are:

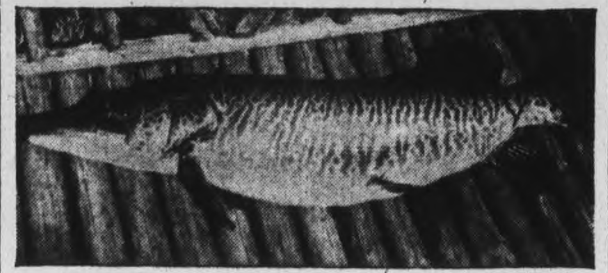
Tiger Muskie Differs From Common Kind



Tiger muskie, rare fighting fish, is shown ABOVE. This specimen, one of the largest ever taken in Canada, weighed 30¼ pounds. The distinguishing characteristics are the uneven stripes, and the short stubby body. It was caught at Vermilion Lake, near Sioux Lookout, by an American staying at Mike Ament's camp.

$207 On Hand Towards Next Donation

One week ago today, the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund cabled their 25th donation to the Lord Mayor's National Air Raid Distress Fund at the heart of the Empire in London, which made a total of £14,100 sent to that date, at which time the bank account of the fund was almost entirely wiped out.

In the week that has followed since, the sum of $207 has accumulated counting today's listings, which will all go towards the special donations which it is hoped can be forwarded to give extra help at the blessed season of Christmas, duplicating what was achieved last year at that time.

This included £500 to give extra Christmas cheer to the children who had lost their homes through air raids or had been evacuated to safer spots, and the Lord Mayor of London specifically mentioned in his latest letter written on August 30, that he hoped their friends overseas would again come to their assistance in like manner for the same purpose.

Draw On Pie Dish

Last Saturday's chief effort at the market stall was the selling of tickets by girl guides Patsy Moore and Ada Aulbrook for a draw on a silver-pyrex dish donated by Warne's Jewellery Store, together with a basket of beets donated by a kind friend, and this netted the sum of $5.20 recorded in today's list. The draw for this was made by Miss M. Rodney, and resulted in J. S. Bell of 223 Hunter street being the winner with ticket No. 881.

The personal giving element of the fund's receipts was kept alive by a gift of $3 from "Two Friends" and another of $1 from "M. H." both of whom are in the class of former contributors to the Fund, and another donation of $2.55 is listed from the lady bowlers of St. Paul's.

This coming Saturday will see a number of potted plants on sale at the market stall, with two Girl Guides acting as sales clerks, and any person desiring to contribute for this purpose will be most welcome, and the offerings need not be restricted to this one particular thing, for usually anything in the nature of garden produce and homemade baking of any kind usually finds a ready market, and of course one hundred per cent of the returns come to the fund.

Tickets will also be on sale for a small draw on a potted begonia of the Beefsteak variety, and on the open market, tickets will also be available for a draw on a pair of rabbits donated by William Welch of Douro street.

Speeder Is Fined $5 Cars Damaged $115

After an accident near the corner of Parkhill Road and Water Street Wednesday afternoon, David Johnston, Toronto, pleaded guilty in police court this morning to a charge of speeding and was fined $5 and $2.50 costs by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C.

In explaining the circumstances of the case to the court Inspector J. F. Reid said that the car of the accused had "clicked" another car.

"I understand that the cost of repairing the car he hit will be in the neighborhood of $40," said Acting Crown Attorney F. D. Kerr, K.C.

"You called that a click," said the Magistrate to Inspector Reid.

The police report on the accident said that Johnston's car which made a turn off Park Hill Road on to Water Street had collided with a car driven north on Water Street by Robert Smith. In the crash, according to the report, Johnston's car was damaged to the extent of $75, whils the damage to Smith's machine was set at $35 or $40.

$290 Top Price For Cow At Mann Sale

Gross proceeds of the auction sale of J. Gordon Mann's Ayrshire cattle yesterday afternoon exceeded $8,000. Cows ranged from $190 to $225 and $290. Forty-seven head were sold.

The sale attracted an attendance of around three hundred men and women to Mr. Mann's Pinecrest Farm east of Bridgenorth, and most of the animals went out of the county. One buyer from Vanleek Hill bought eleven, and another breeder from Warren, Ontario, near Sudbury, took six.

L. E. Franklin, of Toronto, was auctioneer. He completed the afternoon's selling about five o'clock. Dispersal of this herd of Ayrshires to their new owners was in progress to-day.

Harold Scott Visits Rural Council

Harold R. Scott, M.P.P., was a social deputation of one at the meeting of Otonabee township council this week. He said he believed there should be closer cooperation between the various governing bodies in this country, and the least contribution he could make in that direction was to go out and meet the members of the local councils, and know their problems.

Mr. Scott was cordially welcomed by Warden Mather.

The council adopted the 1943 assessment roll as the basis of the municipal taxation next year That means there is no changes in the roll. The intention of the council is to appoint an assessor next year, and thenceforth assessing will be done in the summer months.

It was decided to hold the Court of Revision for the 1944 assessment at Keene on November 1.

A by-law was passed appointing Thomas Weir, Clerk and Treasurer, township assessor for 1944. The following accounts were passed for payment:

Review Printing Co., $4.78; William Brown, $15.00. Road Accounts, Fred Nelson $86.26, William Godfrey $16.80, Keith Manley $45.50 Canadian Oil Co. $34.98, G. S. Taylor $5.79, G. T. Gall $2.45. John Thirnbeck $1.45, Mac. Short $84.00, Robert Renwick $7.00, William Brown $3.50, Delmer Bidgood $1.75, Gerald Carey $35.00, Herbert Robinson $3.50, Michael Hefternan $1.65, Thomas Weir $6.25.

Ontario Court Upholds Appeal

In the Ontario Appeal court yesterday judgment was given in a local case of Georgina Ganagan versus Eldon H. Sisson. This was an appeal by the plaintiff from judgment of His Honor Judge Smoke, pronounced May 14, 1943, in the County Court of the County of Peterborough, dismissing the plaintiff's action arising out of a dispute over the boundaries of a line fence separating premises 492-494 Sherbrooke St., Peterborough. W. J. A. Fair, for plaintiff; J. A. Bradshaw for defendant. Appeal allowed and direction given that in place of the judgment dismissing the action there should be judgment declaring that the defendant has no title or right to the possession of land lying west of the old fence; an injunction restraining the defendant from entering upon or interfering with the plaintiff's possession of that property, and that the plaintiff should have the costs of the action and of the appeal.

Special Investigation

KINGSTON, Oct. 7 — (CP). — Fire Chief James Armstrong said yesterday he has decided to ask the Ontario Fire Marshal's Department to try to determine the cause of a $250,000 fire which early yesterday destroyed the F. W. Woolworth Co. Ltd. store on downtown Princess Street.

City Prepared To Welcome Claraday Suburb

Residents of the Claraday suburb of North Monaghan will find the city's welcome mat invitingly set out for them any time they decide to come in.

That was the receptive spirit expressed by the city council's special committee, appointed to consider North Monaghan annexation proposals, in reply to a deputation from the township's southeast community at the city hall last night.

Alderman Gordon presided with the two other members of the committee, Alderman Swanston and Sands, present.

The suburban deputation was composed of R. M. Hanscom, Morrow street; C. A. Lister, Gordon avenue, and H. J. McLarnon, King George street. They were recently appointed to interview the city council's committee by a group of 15 residents of the section bounded by Park street, Lansdowne street and the Otonabee river.

A general question asked by the deputation was: "What would the city think of taking us in if the residents want annexation?"

"Speaking for myself," said Alderman Gordon. "I am all in favor of it," and Aldermen Sands and Swanston answered just as briefly and also just as affirmatively.

"What procedure should be taken?" was another question, and the general information on that point consisted largely of quotations by City Solicitor Huycke from the Municipal Act.

Alternative Procedure

If 50 per cent, or preferably 51 per cent. of the electors of the area declare themselves in favor of annexation they could submit their request directly to the Ontario Municipal Board who would arrange for a local hearing. An alternative approach would be to obtain the signatures of 150 residents whose petition would be submitted to the township council who in turn would prepare an annexation by-law and present it to the electors of the township for their approval. In either case the Municipal Board would have to give its sanction.

"Much To Gain"

The members of the deputation said that the residents who authorized them to consult the city's annexation committee all wanted to be incorporated in the city, but they desire to know the general effects of the change, chiefly for the information of other ratepayers of that suburb. Their own opinion even in a preliminary stage was that they had nothing to lose and much to gain by the proposed separation from rural North Monaghan.

The broad answer to their question was that if they came into the city they would immediately assume a place of equality with the city residents.

"If you come in and we have to build a substation for the fire department, the cost of it will come out of the general funds of the whole city as it would be enlarged," Alderman Gordon said. "Suppose we build an auxiliary public library in the south end, that, too, would come out of the general treasury. If we have to put in storm drains on your streets, that is a charge against the city at large. Street oiling is also paid for out of the general rate, because it is considered a benefit to the city as a whole. May be you don't need any sidewalks, but, if you do, they are paid for as local improvements, 60% per cent of the cost against the property of fronting owners and 40 per cent. against the city as a whole Sidewalks at street crossings are paid out of the general rate."

Cost of sewers, garbage collection and other services, such as public health, were also touched upon.

Special note was made of the fact that Confederation School is in this proposed area. Its debenture debt was said to be $23,727, and its total value, including equipment, approximately $32,000.

The two township schools May's and Confederation, have been appraised at $53,330.

Assessment Question

As to assessments, the reply of the committee was that they were not in a position to determine anything helpful in that respect. It was suggested that some of the properties in the Claraday area might be selected for valuation by the city's assessment department and taxes computed on them at the present city rate of 30 mills.

The deputation was told in the friendly tone of the entire conversation that their problem was largely in their own hands. On the other hand the visitors said their conviction and that of their associates in the suburb was that the present was an opportune time to press for annexation when the question was so prominently before the township council and the people of North Monaghan as a whole. They said they were especially concerned about public health and sanitation.

Toronto Man Explains Bogus Cheque

William Stevens, Toronto, a former employee of Selective Service, who pleaded guilty in police court this morning to two charges of obtaining money under false pretences from Schneider-Alexander Limited and Elsie Bennett, blamed what he called the slowness of the government in forwarding expense money, for the offences.

Sergt. Detective W. E. Meagher called to give evidence, said that in the Bennett case, the accused had bought two compacts and had paid for them with a cheque on a Toronto bank that had been returned marked "no funds." The witness said that Stevens had no previous record.

Acting Crown Attorney F. D. Kerr, K.C., intimating that the accused had a job to go to, stated that he was willing, to agree to suspended sentence.

Stevens was remanded until tomorrow with Magistrate Langley intimating that sentence would be suspended then. In the interval Stevens is arranging restitution.

Married Women Apply For Jobs

Applications of married women anxious to fill a role in the production efforts of the city's essential industries were being received in a steady stream this morning at the local offices of Selective Service in the Barrie Building. Registration opened this morning at 9 o'clock after an intensive campaign drawing attention to the need for a larger quota of women workers had been conducted in the earlier part of the week.

The official reaction to the number of volunteers appearing in answer to the call was one of surprise and pleasure, and satisfaction was expressed at the efficient manner in which the Local Council of Women were handling the work of interviewing and placing the applicants as they arrived.

"It's one of the most efficient setups I have seen," said Gordon Anderson, Selective Service public relations officer, adding that he had been connected with not a few efforts of the very type that began here to-day.

Ten women of the Local Council are on hand to assist in the handling of the applications, helping to direct the women to the proper offices and seeing that, once there, they are taken care of as speedily as possible. A large part of the office space of the Selective Service headquarters has been assigned to the work, thus facilitating a rapid turnover in dealing with enlistments.

Roast Chicken On Menu For Thanksgiving

Arrival of cranberries from Nova Scotia ensures the customary accompaniment for the roast chicken of Thanksgiving Day, if local turkeys are not ready for market.

Prospects for the pre-holiday market indicate an ample supply of chickens, and perhaps the odd duck, for Peterborough tables next Monday.

Presumably farmers are going to find time to fix up a lot more chickens than at the usual weekends, and apart from the festive demand is a stronger price that has come into effect this week.

The ceiling on dressed chickens was advanced last Monday to bring it into line with the schedule for live birds. The trade found that buyers of the live ones were loading up in the country because the ceiling price was more favorable than for the stock that was dressed for market. An official adjustment was announced on October 4, and householders who prefer to buy graded chickens may expect to pay up to 41 cents a pound for Select A's or milkfed B's. At least that is the maximum as fixed in the new price scale.

The Examiner was informed that grade B's should not exceed 38 cents a pound. As for the produce market it is likely that a slight increase may be quoted for the holiday stock that is being offered on the first Saturday since the new price applies to the local market.

Some of the market stock has been selling around 37 cents a pound on recent Saturdays. For the Thanksgiving dinner there may be enough grapes to go around, although National Grocers say the bulk of the present gathering is going to the wineries. However with chickens and cranberry jelly, what more should the folks at home expect for a wartime Thanksgiving. And as for vegetables the market is loaded with a wide range of accessories from tomatoes to broccoli.

Canadian Ack-Ack Units In Britain Terror To Luftwaffe

Since the beginning of the Battle of Britain, Canadian Ack-Ack units have played a big part in discouraging Hun raiders. Unceasing vigil by experts at aircraft recognition is the first step in bringing down the enemy sky marauders. It takes a large gun crew to handle one of these big guns but with perfect team-work and timing the operation is carried out without a hitch. TOP LEFT, Gunner P. J. Harritt of Montreal, spots an ME-149 and in seconds the gun crew is throwing steel at the intruder. TOP RIGHT, the heavy anti-aircraft gun barks death at an enemy plane, the terrific recoil being quite evident. In LOWER photo, the gun crew push a shell into the breach. Members of the crew are: Sgt. Mess Room Chatter

By ALAN RANDAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH THE R.C.A.F. SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Oct. 7—(CP). — Flt. Lt. R. A. Patterson of Lindsay, Ont., former adjutant of a Canadian torpedo bomber squadron, has taken over the post of adjutant at a station built by the Canadian Army Engineers in record time and handed over to the R.C.A.F. last November. Station O.C. is Wing Cmdr. H. J. Burden, D.S.O., D.F.C., of Toronto. R.A.F. squadrons operate from the station, but many Canadian personnel are there, including Flt. Lt. O. J. Dutton of Regina, flying control officer.

Wings Abroad, official R.C.A.F. overseas publication, chronicles the story of eight well-stuffed officers who couldn't muster a "burp" among them after dining with an Arab shiek at a native village near their bomber station. In Tunisia it's good form to signal enjoyment of a meal with the best possible "tummy rumble" you can manage.

"Come on," said one of the senior officers, "surely someone can manage it."

Nobody could. There was complete silence.

Says Wings Abroad: "The sheik, perhaps because he had not read the guide book, showed no special concern, and, giving a low baritone belch himself, led the way into his sitting room."

The well-fed Canadians included: Group Capt. C. R. Dunlap, Vancouver; Wing Cmdr. George Roy, D.F.C., Montreal; Wing Cmdr. Dan McIntosh, D.F.C., Regina; Sqdn. Ldrs. Paul Henault of Montreal and Dan McCann of Ottawa, Flt. Lt. Maurice LaPlante of Montreal, FO. Ken. Coleman of St. Thomas, Ont., and PO. Ted Farah of Toronto.

Twenty-nine-year-old Mrs. A. G. Ley of Port Arthur, Ont., wife of Flt. Lt. Ley, now serving in district headquarters of the R.C.A.F., is the new hostess of a Canadian Y.M.C.A. station on a bomber group airdrome. She lives right on the station. To the aircrews she is simply "Esther." She sees the bomber men before they leave for Germany and chats with them when they return. They confide with her in everything except secret operational matters.

A coastal command Liberator successfully fought off six Junkers 88s over the Bay of Biscay and shot down one of them. The plane was captained by FO. E. T. Batchelor of Vancouver and the co-pilot was FO. T. S. Annis of Owen Sound, Ont., and in the crew was Sgt. T. E. Schulis of Wilno, Ont.

The Spitfires being flown from fighter bases in the south of England by Canadian pilots sometimes have as many as nine lives. That applies to all Spitfires, of course, not just those flown by Canadians.

This fact was revealed by Sir Stafford Cripps, Minister of Aircraft Production. He said aircraft were not merely repaired once and then discarded, but went through a number of repairs. He instanced the case of one Spitfire which had been repaired nine times, had had six new pairs of wings fitted and gone back to service as good as new.

Generals' Names Point Way For Canadians As Troops Tread Closely On Nazi Heels

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIANS IN ITALY, Sept. 21.— (Delayed)—(CP).—First it was "Brunk," then it was "Hahm" and now it is "Hagen." These three German names are the ones the Canadians will remember from their travels through Italy.

On the walls of a score of towns one or the other of these names has been painted in big letters with arrows pointing up or down the road. It is German army practice to indicate the direction for their units to move by painting the name of the commander in that sector and Brunk, Hahm and Hagen did a pack of travelling.

The Canadians first saw Brunk's name a long way back. For a dozen miles arrows pointed one way in orderly fashion but soon Brunk became confused with the Canucks on his heels and Brunk arrows began to appear at all points of the compass.

"Poor old Brunk" chuckled one Canadian, "he's sure got the wind up."

Hahm was more regular and kept going in one direction—backwards, backwards.

Now it is Hagen, the most baffling, phantom name of them all. Driving across the 8th Army front you see Hagen's name in many towns and there is no continuity to his movements.

The Canadians are hoping to meet up with Messrs. Brunk, Hahm and Hagen one of these days and put a stop to this name and arrow business they've been chasing like will of the wisp.

Labor Shortage Brings Changes Girls Shine And Repair Shoes

The old song "Shoe Shine Boy" is now definitely outmoded with the changes that war has brought for girls have invaded this field along with all the others. Georgina Demos, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theo Demos, George street, takes a back seat from no one when it comes to shoe shining in her father's store.

It all began a year ago when her father took ill suddenly and someone had to keep the business going, and that someone was Georgina. She went in and worked for some weeks with two other young companions and learned the business from the ground up and is now an expert. While a student in fifth form at the Collegiate Miss Demos works Friday nights and Saturdays with her father because of the shortage of help.

As the customers perch on the high seats, the "shoe shine girl" softly rubs on the polish and she flicks her cloth across the dull surfaces producing a gleaming piece of leather. While it looks very simple, there is something of a knack to the brushing and the polishing which is done with such a flourish.

Like Girls

"How do the men like having a girl work on their feet?" Miss Demos was asked, and she replied: "Confidentally, they like it. Most of the customers have been with us a long time and have known me ever since I was small."

Some of the men like to talk and others prefer to read their papers, and Georgina's prepared to adapt herself to either. She said they have a lot of soldiers come in and these boys can't seem to get used to the idea of seeing a girl shining shoes.

"They go back to the camp and tell their friends who drop in to see for themselves. I have one thing to say about these men in uniform. They usually come in in a group and their behaviour has always been of the best. Occasionally they wisecrack, but they always know when to stop and couldn't be any nicer to me if I were their own sister."

In the shoe shining business it doesn't take long for hands to become badly discolored. However, it doesn't do any permanent damage according to the shoe shiners nothing that soap and water will not cure.

Does Repair Job

Another young woman who has invaded the shoes business is Beverley Littlefair, 14, who gets a kick out of helping dad, Thomas Littlefair, in his shoe repair shop on George street. According to her father, Beverley has taken to the work like a duck to water, and she too works after school and on Saturdays.

"Beverley is something of a tomboy, and she hates washing and cleaning up," Mr. Littlefair said. "But she loves the shop and as she wasn't keen on working any other place I brought her in to help me out, and now she can do the job as well as I can.

"She was a little slow on the machines when she started out but she soon picked it up. On these finishing machines, you have to watch that you don't hold the shoes too close and that was her biggest trouble at first and she rounded the heels too much. But now she having no trouble."

Mr. Littlefair does the main work and his daughter finishes the soles and heels and keep a neat row of footwear above the machines. She is so enthusiastic about her work that Mrs. Littlefair is becoming a little envious over lack of help in the household tasks. In her spare time, this school girl doesn't mind the odd painting job, and her parents find that if they give her a paint brush and a nice verandah, she is ready to go to town.

Beverley's brother, Tom, is in the Navy and is at present stationed at H.M.C.S. Cornwallis. Tom could never become interested in shoe repair work, but his young sister has enough for both of them. She is in Grade IX this year and is particulary interested in the Household Arts course.

Also Replace Men

Other women and girls have taken over jobs which until recently have always belonged in the male province. Stock's Bakery has a number of women bread wagon drivers and they have proven to be very popular with the customers, who take a great interest in how they make out. The biggest trouble these girls have at first is learning how to make certain that they and the horses will go in the same direction at the same time.

Mrs. Harry Finnie stepped into the breach about a year ago and has been helping her husband as a taxi driver. From early in the morning until late at night, she can be seen driving through the streets or meeting the trains like a veteran hand.

In many cases girls have replaced men as crane drivers in Genelco, and have proven their worth. High above their companions they sail up and down the building carrying their heavy cargo with a steady clanging of bells giving a warning to those below. Although many of the workers duck as a heavy gun or other machinery passes over at a low height, it is purely reflex, not because there is any doubt as to the ability of the girls to manoeuvre their cranes.

Downey Chosen Bowling Head

At the annual meeting of District No. 14 of the Provincial Lawn Bowling Association, held in Hooper's Palm Gardens on Wednesday evening, R. F. Downey, of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Cdub, was re-elected chairman, and B. Ward of Whitby, vice-chairman; E. Sackville, Peterborough, secretary.

Many delegates from the different clubs were on hand and after the chairman had opened the meeting with a short but snappy address, and after the secretary had read the minutes of the previous meeting, the boys got down to business in real earnest. Many interesting ideas were introduced and some of the main topics of discussion were:—the new affiliation fee from each club to the Provincial; lack of support at open tournaments; the different systems for running open tournaments and Saturday afternoon tournaments.

All of the delegates took a turn in expressing their opinions and the meeting warmed up with the feeling that a lot had been accomplished.

During the afternoon the bowlers gathered on the lawns of the Peterborough Club and enjoyed two twelve-end games of bowling.

At the conclusion of the games the bowlers met at Hooper's for the annual banquet.

The winners of the afternoon included Norm. Routley, G. Wilson, Oshawa; R. Downey, Dr. Fulford, Nels Routly, C. Lawrence, G. Gimblett, J. Detcher, E. Coleman, H. Grant, Oshawa, and R. Burns.

Here's our program for the week-end:—On Saturday afternoon, men's doubles, choose your partner, $1.00 per pair. Time 1.30 p.m. And then on Monday, Thanksgiving Day, the last bowling of the season—Big mixed tournament Draw from the board at 1.30 p.m. Fee 25c.

Strengthen new stockings by reinforcing the heels and toes with widely spaced shadow darning, and by sewing two circular patches cut from the tops of old stockings, on the tops where suspenders are clipped

When finally discarding clothes that have gone too far to renovate, cut out any good bits of material to put in your piece bag. Pieces of stockinette and old corsets are invaluable for patching other garments of the same type.

The 30-page booklet is intended chiefly for women, but it contains many practical hints for men as well.

The Scots Like Canadians.

Everywhere I have been in Scotland I have heard high praise of Canada's war effort. The Scots have a particularly warm place in their hearts for Canada for there are very few families in the country that do not have some relative or friend in the Dominion. The Scots seem to understand Canadians more easily than English people do and Canadians over on this side seem to find themselves more easily at home in Scotland than they do in England. The Scots, as do, of course, the English too, deeply appreciate all that Canada has done to help towards winning the war. They praise the amount and the quality of Canadian food, the physique of Canadian men, the alertness of Canadian women, the many and varied contributions of weapons of war that Canada has made. The Scots talk a lot about all these things, but there is one matter they do not talk about, and that is their own war effort. The Scot has the reputation of being a great talker about himself. He may tell stories about hypothetical Scots and try to sing the burlesques of Harry Lauder. He knows it is good advertisement. It pleases people who are not Scots and it doesn't really do anybody any harm. But the Scots don't talk about things they feel deeply about; they don't show their feelings to the world. They don't talk about the things they are really doing and that really matter. Deeds, not words, is their motto then. And that applies to the Scottish war effort. The Scots can't get any kilts till the war is over, and they can get very little whisky. They can't get rid of their climate and they can't get rid of their accent which jigs up and down like a corvette in an Atlantic swell. But the Scots take it all in their stride, because as one old factory worker said to me the other day: "That man Hitler maun be stoppit." "Stoppit" Hitler has been, and the Scots on the factory front as well as on the active fighting front have played no small part in the stopping of him.

Film "John Stirling" Shows Life of Student Minister

Under the auspices of the Missionary and Maintenance Committee of the United Church of Canada, "John Stirling," the color and sound film story, depicting the service rendered to the church by its student ministers, was shown here Wednesday night to a large audience in St. James' United church by the producer, Rev. A. C. Moorhouse, B.A., B.D.

This moving portrayal in technicolor, was written for the screen by Marion Keith (Mrs D. C. MacGregor), with a sympathetic understanding of the problems and trials of the student minster in the lonely outposts of Western Canada.

The musical setting, arranged by Howard Brown, was in harmony with the theme and provided the atmosphere of worship which was the keynote of the whole picture. Of local interest is the fact that Howard Brown is the brother of Mrs. Tallington, formerly Mildred Brown of the Collegiate Institute staff here.

Rev. Mr. Moorhouse, who acted as narrator throughout, and who briefly introduced his picture, is the son of Rev. A. E. Moorhouse, a former pastor of St. James.

"John Stirling," full length movie, with a cast of sixty-nine amateur actors, chosen from Mr. Moorhouse's own congregation of Arkona, Ontario, depicts the life of a young missionary from his college days to field work in Saskatchewan. There is lttle romance in this story but a wealth of realistic incident and several dramatic moments, with a touch of pathos.

The minister's dilapidated car, Obadiah, brought to the picture a bit of humor as it shows John Stirling travelling over his wide field, striving to sow the teachings of the church in the hearts of his small congregations.

This picture symbolizes the many John Stirling's who go from Theological Colleges every year, and typical of the experiences of all student ministers in the west.

The energy and missionary zeal of this pastor, has devoted several months to the preparation and carrying out of his present three months' itinerary, which covers most of the province in his quest of a greater missonary enthusiasm.

Preceding the picture a brief service of worship was conducted by Rev. F. W. Craik, pastor of St. James, assisted by Rev. Mr. Wilknson, chairman of Peterborough Presbytery.

Rev. Dr. Arnup, general secretary of the Foreign Mission Board of the United church brought vivid word pictures of his experiences in the various mission fields of the church. He emphasized the sameness of people in all countries in the essential qualites of life, which should lead to world brotherhood in Christ. An offering was taken for the Missionary and Maintenance Fund of the church.

Auxiliary Seeks More Members

The annual membership campaign of the Women's Auxiliary of Nicholls Hospital is under way and during the next few weeks the members will be making calls to solicit renewals and new members.

The loyal support of the people of Peterborough made it possible to purchase, from funds raised in last year's membership campaign, a piano for the Nurses' Residence, clinical thermometers for the graduating class, and cubicle curtain screening for two eight-bed wards. The auxiliary has also contributed during the past year $1,500 to provide equipment for the new diet kitchen and also for the extension of the nursery. Included in the latter is a refrigerator for infant formulas.

The following are the officers and conveners for the current year: Honorary presidents, Mrs. F. M. Dela Fosse, Mrs. W. H. Hill, and Mrs. E. M. Leeson; past president, Mrs. J. K. Hughes; president, Mrs. W. R. L. Blackwell; vice-presidents, Mrs. E. V. Morphet, Mrs. E. Breckenridge; recording secretary, Mrs. W. C. Boate; corresponding secretary, Miss E. Morrow; assistant corresponding secretary, Mrs. A. G. Howson; treasurer, Mrs. W. G. Hall; committee conveners, membership, Mrs. S. J. Graham; visiting, Mrs. R. Ross; social. Mrs. I. T. Parents should not ignore the depressed moods, the listless, tired air, the pallor, headaches, fickle appetite—the crying spells—so many daughters exhibit during those years when they are passing into womanhood.

If her health at this stage is not maintained by a sufficiency of good rich blood, all kinds of weaknesses may arise to make her later life unhappy.

So should you notice any of these disturbing signs in your daughter, lose no time. Get some Dr. Williams Pink Pills at your druggist. They are wonderfully effective in helping to build up iron-impoverished blood and have helped to transform thousands and thousands of sickly, pale daughters suffering from simple anemia into happy active girls full of vitality and high spirits, hungry for meals, glad to help with the housework, attractive to others. W.V.S. Reviews Work For September

The Executive Committee of the W.V.S. met on Wednesday evening for their monthly business meeting with the chairman, Mrs. N. D. Seaton, presiding. A communication from Miss Freda Held concerning the films provided by the department of War Services which depict the many phases of the war effort and are helpful because they contain valuable information on nutrition and other important wartime problems, aroused much discussion.

Mrs. L. Bateman reported that two workers had put in 16 hours in September at the armouries, doing stencil work. Mrs. J. Matthews reported that 12 Miss Canada girls were stationed at the C.D.S. store on Saturdays and were responsible for the sale of $56 in War Savings Stamps. Mrs. Hugh Fallis reported an increase in membership and told how the W.V.S. files are kept up-to-date. Miss F. Bonnycastle reported that 193 hours were put in by W.V.S. members at the two local canteens.

Mrs. S. Fanning reported for the ration department and asked for suggestions regarding the time and system of redistribution of new ration books, pointing out the difficulties the ration administration worked under and that, with more women going into industry, the number of volunteer workers became less. Miss G. Cox reported that with the approach of winter the hospitality department would begin functioning as last year and that the number of men at the Training Centre was steadily growing.

Ways and means of enrolling 'teen age girls as junior members were discussed, and also ways of stimulating the sale of War Savings Stamps.

Girls' Council Plans Activities

The Girls' Council of the Y.W.C.A. held the first regular meeting of the season on Wednesday, when supper was served in the club room to about a dozen members. A report on the findings of the members conference, held by the council at Camp Inglestane last June, was presented, and adopted by the meeting, and a report on the open house held last Thursday and Friday was read and discussed. It was recommended for consideration by the girls' work committee that open house, in the future, be held at the end of October, after the clubs had begun their meetings, and that it be held on one night only and a more elaborate program be presented, with all clubs and classes taking part.

The season's calendar was discussed, with reference to important association events and the possibility of planning club and group programs around these events. Observation of the week of prayer and world fellowship to be held by the International Y.W.C.A. during the week of November 14 to 20, was discussed and several suggestions made. Final arrangements were left for a later date. It was suggested that a brief sing-song be held at the council meetings in the future, and that some new songs be learned which could then be passed on to club meetings by the council representatives.

DOROTHY DIX

WISHY-WASHY MATE FORCES WIFE INTO DIVORCE, BUSINESS

Pretty Girl Undermines Youth's Love for Mate, Baby Despite Agreeable Home Conditions.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I have been married three years and have a very fine wife and a baby daughter who means more to me than anything else, but I have fallen in love with a young lady and can't get her out of my mind. Maybe I don't want to as much as I think I do. My wife and I have talked of getting a divorce, but if I do I don't know whether the girl will have me or not. She says it is my duty to stay with my baby and wife. That is right, but why stay together and be miserable?

I understand that if my wife and I separate it will change my draft classification, but this doesn't bother me, for if I could see this other girl while I am here I will be satisfied. But, on the other hand, I still care for my wife and I love my baby a bit more than I want to admit. Please tell me what to do.

A MIXED UP HUSBAND.

DEAR MISS DIX—I have seen the letter that my husband has written to you. Here is my side of the case: My husband says he loves me, but he says he loves this other girl just as much, so much that he can't forget her. Now I love him more than life itself, but I don't want a husband who wants someone else. I don't believe it is my fault that my husband has been attracted to another woman. I have had a baby for him. I am as good-looking as I was when we were married. I am a good housekeeper and manager. I have a college education, so I am not a dumbbell.

I can make my own living. I hate the thought of a separation and I know that divorce is hard on the child, but living with a philandering husband will make our home a hell on earth. I have tried to reason with my husband, but he says he is so mixed up he doesn't know what he wants. However, I have asked him to make up his mind, for if he wants a divorce, the sooner, the better, so I can go to work and try to forget him.

My husband's parents love me as much as they do their own children, and if he leaves me they will never forgive him. What should we do?

A WORRIED WIFE.

ANSWER—If these two letters from a husband and wife don't present the modernistic attitude towards divorce, I don't know anything that does. Here we have the picture of a wishy-washy husband who is typical of about nine-tenths of the philanderers, who is so emotionally unstable that he doesn't know even what he wants in a woman. He has no fault to find with his wife. He really loves her in his way. Only he wants a change. And he isn't even sure that he will like the other woman any better when he gets her than he does his current mate.

There are a lot of men like that. They belong in the same class with the men who are always trading in their automobiles for a new model because they have seen one with some sort of a new gadget or whose paint they like better, but they certainly do hate to part with the old one. And when they get the new one they don't like it any better than they did the old one, and the swap has cost them a lot of money.

It is impossible for that type of man to be faithful to any woman, no matter if she were Miss America and possessed every charm and virtue on earth. He wanders from one to another and in and out of the divorce court and the marriage license bureau, until he is too old and rheumatic to chase skirts any longer. Polygamy is this kind of man's dish, and it is a pity he can't live in a country where husbands can have as large an assortment of wives as they do of neckties.

The wife, in this case, is a strong, sensible woman who takes a sane view of her husband and her situa-

Women Urged Take Jobs To Help War Effort

Miss Gertrude Dunham, of National Selective Service, in a talk at a fashion show at the Collegiate Auditorium on Wednesday evening, stressed the importance of women entering industry, to replace men, and free them for armed service. She said that a tour of the country had convinced her that the men available for work in war industries were almost used up, and that the need for women was greatly increased, for both full and part-time work.

She spoke of Peterborough's fine contribution of men to the armed services and said that their services had been recognized on several occasions by the King. She was sure that Peterborough's women would not be slow to support their men by answering the call for workers, especially full-time workers, in the factories and in all the jobs that must be carried on, in war or peace.

Miss Dunham praised the work of the Local Council of Women, who are sponsoring the drive for women workers in Peterborough, saying that they had given strong and efficient support to the undertaking, and that the Council was noted everywhere for its strong support of all community enterprise.

Mrs. W. H. Morton, president of the Local Council of Women, spoke briefly, appealing to the women on behalf of the L.C.W. to answer the call for women workers in the factories and in essential jobs. Mr. Gordon Anderson, public relation officer of the National Selective Service, was chairman of the meeting.

An interesting fashion show, which opened with various styles of factory workers' clothes and progressed to pretty off-duty dresses and winter coats, was commented on by Miss M. L. Walker of Selective Service. The industrial clothes ranged from the clean and dainty blue and white check uniform worn by girls in the packaging department at the Quaker, and the spotless white smock and kerchief of the girls in Genelco and C.G.E. who work with delicate instruments which must be kept free from dust and dirt, to the elaborate costume of the girl welder, complete with helmet, goggles, and fire-proof apron. Certain points were emphasized with all the uniforms. They were fashioned to fit snugly, so that no loose parts could catch on in moving machinery, practical low-heeled shoes were worn, and in all cases the hair was covered with a kerchief, for the protection of both the worker and her work.

The dresses worn by war workers in their hours of relaxation were as shown in the fashion parade of dresses from the Canadian Department Stores, fashioned according to wartime regulations, in soft wool crepes and jerseys, and they too came in attractive, colors. At least two of the coats featured warm quilted satin linings.

The girls taking part in the fashion show were Misses Nancy Collins, Anna Brown, Marion Bateson, Jean Marleau, Ruth Hunter, Mary Ann Vosburgh, Ruby Cranfield, Joyce Spooner, Verda Wilson and Mrs. Murney.

Interesting movies were shown, telling the important part which women in industry play in helping to win the war. One, "Women Carry On" showed the part played in the war by the women of England, Russia, Canada and the United States, both as volunteer workers and as industrial workers. Another showed the part played by women in the sewing of parachutes and the building of planes, where their smaller hands had proved better than men's in the carrying out of delicate, precision work.

With the Younger Set

Rose wool with aralac lining for this beaver fur trimmed suit for a little girl; for her brother, gold wool, also aralac lined, and with a touch of beaver too.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

MILK maintains a popularity lead with the younger set ... in mugs, or cereals, even in their clothes .. they just must have milk. In their clothes? That's what we said, for the sturdy and stylish fabric which dresses the duo above for Jack Frost weather is wool made doubly warm by aralac interlinings .. and aralac is a by-product of skim-milk.

There is no weight to this magic fiber so that interlinings, whether quilted or spun, add not one iota to a chubby figure.

Preserve the Surplus Fruit Insure Good Winter Eating

By MARY MOORE

Our kitchen odors remind me of a combination of a Jam factory and "de vinegar woiks" but the results are worth it.

How to Grape Catsup and Grape Jam with Orange, and Sweet Pickled Pears sound to you? The Jam takes too much sugar for comfort, but the others are easy on your rations.

Since oranges threaten to be expensive this winter, and there is a surplus of grapes, I plan to serve grape juice plentifully for the sake of the vitamins and minerals (not to mention it is my favorite drink!); while grapes will not replace the priceless Vitamin C of oranges they have contributions of their own to good nourishment, and will help many of us healthily through a hard winter.

You can put the grape catsup in any number of containers, but it is best in bottles with screw caps with liners, because they can be dipped in a double coating of wax.

Grape Catsup

Six quarts grapes, 2 lbs. brown sugar, 1 quart vinegar 2 tablespoons each allspice, cinnamon, cloves, 3 teaspoons mace, ¾ teaspoon cayenne, 3 teaspoons salt. Wash grapes very well, place over low heat, and stir until they form some juice. Have heat very low until they have formed plenty of juice, then stir frequently to prevent sticking. Boil about 25 minutes to make them very soft, then put through very course strainer or colander. Add all remaining ingredients and boil until thickened, about 25 minutes. Strain again, boil up hard, pour into sterile bottles cork or cover with lined screw tops, and dip in melted paraffin. Dip in melted paraffin again when cold.

Ginger Pear Preserves

This is one of those exotic little items that makes your reputation as a hostess, if you know how to make perfect little tea biscuits in a very hot oven—if you can brew good tea—all you need are these preserves to make your friends, both lady and gentleman, come back often.

Pears can be of any variety but Kieffers are recommended. Pare and core them after washing and cut into small uniform pieces. For each pound of fruit use ½ lb. sugar, 1 or two pieces of gingerroot, and ½ large lemon thinly sliced. Combine the sliced pears and sugar in alternate layers and let them stand 8 to 10 hours or overnight before cooking, covered. Boil the lemon about 5 minutes in only enough water to cover. Add the lemon with what water remains and the gingerroot to the pear and sugar mixture. Boil rapidly and stir constantly until the fruit is clear and of a rich amber color. Pour at once into hot sterilized jars and seal with sterile tops—or with two separate coatings of melted paraffin—the first one immediately.

Sweet Spiced Plums

Make a syrup of 1 teaspoon whole cloves, 1 tablespoon broken stick cinnamon (or 1 stick of cinnamon), 2 lbs. sugar, 3 cups vinegar and 1 cup water, tying spices in a muslin bag, and boil for 5 minutes and pour over the prepared plums, which have been washed and pricked with a fork. Let stand in sterile crock with weight on plums to submerge them for 3 days. Pour off syrup at end of this time and bring to boiling point with spice bag, add plums, bring to boiling point and immediately pour into sterile jars and seal. Do not boil after boiling point is reached or plums will break up. These are delicious with cold meats.

Grape Conserve (Grape Jam with Orange)

Wash Concord Grapes well, and drain and pull grapes off stems. To 4 lbs. stemmed grapes allow 1½ lbs. sugar, 1 cup seedless raisins, 1 orange, 1 cup nut meat (these are optional), and 1 teaspoon salt. Slip the skins from the grapes and keep them separate from the pulp. Peel the orange and discard the seeds. Chop the orange pulp and peel fine. Also chop the nuts fine. Boil the grape pulp, stirring constantly about 10 minutes or until the seeds begin to float. Put through sieve to remove seeds. To the grape pulp add the sugar, raisins, orange and salt and bring to boil rapidly, stirring to prevent scorching, until the mixture begins to thicken. Add the grape skins and boil 10 minutes longer or until somewhat thick. Stir in the chopped nuts, pour at once into hot sterilized Jelly glasses and seal with paraffin or put into glass jars, and seal.

The above is a delicious accompaniment to hot scones or Johnny Cake.

Grape Juice

Ten lbs. blue grapes, 2 lbs. sugar, 2 quarts boiling water. Pick over grapes, removing stems and imperfect fruit, wash. Add boiling water, set over low heat, simmer until skins leave the pulp and then bring to boiling point, and boil 5 minutes. Remove from heat, pour into Jelly bag and let drip into large pan until pulp is dry (overnight or 12 hours.) Bring Juice to boiling point, add sugar and let boil one minute. Pour into sterilized jars or bottles and seal with tops or lined screw tops and dip in paraffin twice. Keep in cool dark place.

NOTE—Less water and less sugar may be used for making grape juice without harming the product—some people with a limited number of jars or bottles do not add more than one cup water to start the juice flowing. If less sugar is used saccharin may be added to the juice, when it is opened to serve, to sweeten it.

Green Tomato Pickle

This pickle is a favorite with so many people, and so many readers ask for it I am printing it even though it does call for 3½ cups sugar.

One peck green tomatoes, washed and sliced thin, 1 dozen medium sized onions, peeled and sliced very thin, 1 ounce each whole black pepper, berries, whole cloves, mustard seeds, 3½ cups sugar, ½ or 1 ounce whole allspice, ¼ ounce ground mustard, 1½ quarts spirit vinegar, ¾ cup salt. Prepare and slice the tomatoes and onions and sprinkle between layers of them with salt, cover and let stand overnight. In morning drain well. Tie the spices including the pepper, which should either be a coarse grind or whole pepper berries, in a bag and place in kettle with the vinegar and sugar and heat to boiling point, add the tomatoes and onions and let simmer slowly 20 minutes. Pour into sterile jars and seal immediately.

Crab Apple Honey

Wash crab apples, remove cores and any defective spots, but do not pare. Cut apples in small pieces or run through food chopper—I think they are best through chopper. Put in preserving kettle with just enough water to cover and boil 10 minutes. Measure. To each cup of pulp add 2-3 cup sugar, and cook until mixture is clear, stirring almost constantly—it should have a jelly-like consistency. Seal in clean hot jars or cover with 2 coatings of paraffin.

Calots Sprout Wings

Dobbs Hat

Triple flanges of self-felt, set to peak out and up from a flat calot, make a new silhouette for heads that wear their hair flat on top and low hung at the neckline.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

THE new trends in hair-dos take one away from the pompadour ... that is, if you let them. Plenty of the girls who went through the nuisance stage of growing hair long enough to sweep up prefer to enjoy it that way now. But others, again, are welcoming something new in coiffures and to be new it must, perforce, be anti-pompadour and therefore flat.

This black felt, head-hugging calot complements the new flat hair-do with chignon behind. In dark or light colors.

Cover and let simmer 10 minutes. Tomato juice may be used in place of water, but I like water best. Salt and pepper it generously. QUESTION—I am requesting a recipe for Raw Chili Sauce. I read it in a neighbor's paper and when I went to copy it next day the paper had been used to kindle a fire.

....I trust you understand.

Mrs. W. A. Dickenson.

ANSWER—

Raw Chili Sauce

Four quarts ripe (or underripe tomatoes, 1 cup each minced celery, onion, green pepper, red pepper (sweet), salt, ½ cup white mustard seed, 2 tablespoons celery seed. 1 tablespoon cinnamon (or 1½ teaspoons cinnamon, 1½ teaspoons ginger), 3 cups full strength spirit vinegar. Mix all these ingredients and store in very clean crock well covered in cool place. Let stand 5 days before using. If kept very cool this will keep all winter. Do not freeze.

QUESTION—I want any method that you have for using up watermelon rind that is not just watermelon preserve—I know how to do that for you sent me the recipe last year. I think watermelon rind would be good with orange, but wouldn't attempt to do it without advice. Thanking you for help in the past—we have watermelons on our own vines so would like to have this recipe before frost.

ANSWER—I think my watermelon marmalade would suit you.

Watermelon Marmalade

Four cups of the chopped white part of the watermelon rind, 4 medium sized apples (red skinned apples are preferable), 2 oranges, 3 lemons, 3½ cups sugar, 2½ cups water. Chop watermelon rind, discarding hard green part. Peel and chop apples. Chop orange without peeling. Extract juice from lemons. Mix all ingredients together. Boil slowly until thick, about 1½ hours. Pour into sterile glasses and seal with double coating of paraffin.

QUESTION — Now that we are able to get an increased ration of molasses I would like to have a good recipe for soft molasses cookies, using lard, not butter. Thank you for the recipe of chocolate cake you sent me last winter—I have made one every week during this summer—in fact I save my sugar ration for it for our Sunday dessert.

EMMA LOU.

ANSWER—I guess all mothers are just so self-sacrificing—I guess their reward lies in the fun it gives their loved ones.

Soft Molasses Cookies

One cup good shortening (or chicken or pork drippings), ½ cup sugar, 1 cup molasses, 1 cup sour milk, 1½ teaspoons soda, 2 unbeaten eggs, 1½ teaspoons ginger, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 3 cups flour. Cream the shortening very well, then cream in the sugar very well. Add all the remaining ingredients, sifting the ginger and baking powder into the flour before adding it. You may need more flour to make the cookies of the right consistency to roll out, but use your judgment about this. These cookies are best if thoroughly chilled before rolling out—or they could be rolled up like ice box cookies and when chilled sliced off. Bake in hot oven, they may be sprinkled with sugar before baking, or brushed with beaten egg to give them a glaze.

YULETIME PUDDINGS

Basic Interest

By ALICE ALDEN

CLEAN CUT, well handled basic clothes that can be dressed up or down and that look right anywhere at any time or place have come into their own. Etta Gaynes, famous for her basic, simple designs, created for smart young women, does this rayon velveteen suit and trims it with black braid and gold buttons. She suggests a sweater and low-heeled shoes with the suit for carnival wear and a dainty blouse, high-heeled shoes and a smart little hat for date wear. It looks smart either way.

BIRTH

MONCRIEF— Pte. and Mrs. William Moncrief are happy to announce the arrival of a son, William John, at St. Joseph's Hospital, on Wednesday, October 6, 1943.

DIED

CARR, Elizabeth Jane—In Ottawa at the home of her daughter, Mrs. H. E. Henry, 111 Aylmer Avenue, on Wednesday, October 6, 1943, Elizabeth Jane Carr, in her 85th year.

Remains will arrive in Peterborough, Friday morning for funeral service from the Comstock Funeral Home, 305 Water street, on Friday at 3 p.m. Interment in Little Lake Cemetery.

IN MEMORIAM

GARDNER—In loving memory of a dear father, W. Henry Gardner, who entered rest one year ago today, October 7, 1942.

He suffered much, with patience bore,
Physicians were in vain,
Till God above, in His great love,
Released him of his pain.
He did not fail to do his best,
His heart was true and tender,
He worked hard for those he left
That's something to remember.
He bade no one a last farewell,
He said good-bye to none,
The Heavenly Gates were opened wide
A loving voice said "Come."

—Sadly missed by his Daughter, Verna, Son-in-law, Jack and Grandson Jackie.

LAUCHLAN — In tender and affectionate remembrance of my dear wife, Jeannie McConnachie, a devoted mother, who passed from this life, October 7, 1939.

When in the down I sink my head,
Sleep, Death's twin - brother, times my breath;
Sleep, Death's twin - brother knows not Death,
Nor can I dream of thee as dead.
—Tennyson.

—William Lauchlan and Family.

COLE—In loving memory of Mrs. Alfred James Cole who passed away three years ago, October 7, 1940.

In our hearts your memory lingers
Sweetly, tender, fond and true,
There is not a day, dear mother,
That we do not think of you.

—Ever remembered by her Husband and Daughters.

GARDNER —In loving memory of my dear husband, William Henry Gardner who died October 7, 1942.

One year has passed since that sad day,
The one I loved was called away,
God took him home, it was His will,
But in our hearts he liveth still.
A faithful husband and father, one of the best
May God grant him eternal rest,
Good was his heart, his friendship sound,
Loved and respected all around,
To a busy life came a sudden end,
He died as he lived, everyone's friend.

—Sadly missed by his wife, Mrs. W. H. Gardner.

GARDNER—In loving memory of a dear father William Henry Gardner who died, October 7, 1942.

There's an open gate
At the end of the road
Through which each must go alone,
And there in a light we cannot see
Our Father claims His own;
Beyond the gate our loved one
Finds happiness and rest,
And there is comfort
In the thought
That a loving God knows best.

— Always remembered by his Daughter and Son-in-law, Marguerite and Joe Watkins.

tion. Evidently she perceives his weakness and knows he will never be faithful to her, but for some reason or other she still loves him. With Audrey she says "a poor thing, but mine own." But she doesn't propose to go partners in him with other ladies.

So she puts him on the spot and wants him to make his choice. But the poor weakling can't do it because he doesn't know which one he likes the better. And in the end the wife will have to decide the question of whether she would rather have a part-time husband, or a divorce and a full-time job. And my guess is that she will get tired of forgiving and take the job.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—My son, who is under draft age, talked me into letting him join the Naval Reserve. I understood he would be in training school for quite some time before being sent away, but he has already been moved to Pearl Harbor. I am told there is a Federal penalty attached to falsifying one's age when enlisting and I do not know whether to enforce this and try to have him brought back or not. My husband, the boy's stepfather, is in the Navy also and says leave him alone, but anxiety about him is about to kill me. I am a sick woman anyway, and worrying over him is making me lose all I have gained after a year of building up. I can't eat or sleep.

The boy writes that he is very happy and alright and likes it. He says he hated going to school and is now doing just what he wants to do. What would you do if you were me?

MRS. N. H.

Mother Should Be Proud of Having Son in Navy

ANSWER—I'd do nothing. If you make any move to get him out of the Navy you will make great trouble for him. The boy must have a lot of grit and stamina to do what he has done, so I think you can trust him to take care of himself.

It is hard on all mothers to have their boys in the war, but yours is in no more danger than all the balance. All you can do is to accept the situation with courage and be proud you have a boy who is brave enough and patriotic enough to want to risk his life for his country.

DEAR MISS DIX—I have a daughter of 21 who insists on getting married to a boy who is about to be called to the Service. I have tried every way in the world to persuade her to wait until after the war, but she says that if I don't give my consent she will run away and marry, anyway. She has known this boy for a long time and he is a very fine chap. No objection on that score. But people tell me I shouldn't allow her to marry now. Have I done right in agreeing to it?

WORRIED MOTHER.

ANSWER—How can you help it when she is 21 and doesn't need your consent? All parents can do under such circumstances is to say "God bless you," and hope for the best.

For Friday, October 8

THE STELLAR forces are operating in peculiar, irregular and contradictory positions on this day, with much promise of exciting, novel and dramatic denouement, radical and far reaching on the fortunes and the future objectives and interests. Sudden developments, may come with whirl wind force, and carry strange, novel and intriguing circumstances. In this a quick grasp of the situation and possibilities should be shown. Avoid impetuous, erratic or emotional conduct that might challenge public opinion or group antipathy.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of a sudden opportunity for bringing about a complete about face in their affairs, finances and position or prestige. This may be an unusual, novel or peculiar or unconventional situation, at once dramatic, exciting and thrilling, but which must be handled with shrewdness, acumen, serious thought and much speculation as to its influence on the future fortunes. If managed emotionally, or impetuously there may be opposition from public or community bodies. Writings travel, personal relations, should be carefully considered.

A child born in this day may be endowed with much creative ability, artistic and practical, with ingenuity and strong intuitions.

Interesting Games to Help Entertain Your Friends

Games Are Fun

A simple game that is most entertaining is "Photographic Studio." You can let your imagination, or rather your guests' imagination, run along.

No need to worry about entertaining guests who drop in suddenly. There are many games to use.

Our 32-page booklet is full of games, quiet and active, which need hardly any preparation at all. It also has baffling stunts and magic —planned for such times as when one or more friends drop in, or for small parties and family gatherings.

Often the get-togethers that are the most fun are spontaneous. You don't have to make elaborate preparations in order to have an exciting evening.

For example, pencil-and-paper games are good to start an evening. Dinner can go on while old pencils and paper is stacked up. The only other equipment needed is mental.

For your copy of GAMES AND STUNTS FOR TWO OR MORE send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

HOW TO "READ BRIDGE"

MANY BRIDGE players have little time to play these days, but get a chance to read the writings of various students, and so keep from forgetting the game or losing their enthusiasm. Analyzing each hand presented, to make sure not only that you get the point put forward, but that you find any possible flaws in what has been said—there is one of the best ways to improve your own knowledge of the game and your facility in applying it. Some players have changed from mediocre to skillful because of their study of a bridge column on the way to and from work.

North: ♠ A Q 10 4 2; ♥ A 6 4; ♦ 5 2; ♣ Q 10 6

West: ♠ 6 5; ♥ Q 9 8 7; ♦ 6 4 3; ♣ A J 8 7

East: ♠ J 9 8 3; ♥ 5 3 2; ♦ Q 9 8; ♣ 9 5 2

South: ♠ K 7; ♥ K J 10; ♦ A K J 10 7; ♣ K 4 3

(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	3 ♦	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 NT	Pass
5 ♥	Pass	6 ♠

That hand was offered some time back as an example of the danger in bidding which produces a trump suit made up of only seven cards, the opponents therefore holding six, which will be divided four and two more often than three and three. At 6-No Trumps, there were two tries available, with the chances favoring success, whereas at spades there was only one, with the odds against it.

A keenly interested reader questioned the statement that "No matter how this hand gets played, North hasn't a chance in the world to make his contract." He then proceeded to say: "I think you are wrong," and gives a line of play. He has the club A winning the first trick and the 7 led to the 10. Then the spade 10 from the dummy, with East playing the 3 and the 7 going on from South, the 10 winning. After that it is of course easy to make the spade contract.

But who would play low in the East on the spade 10 lead? It must be covered with the J, which assures East the setting trick in spades.

In analyzing a bridge writer's statement that a contract cannot be made, it will pay to grant correct defensive play. And if he says a contract can surely be made, that presupposes both right play by him and the best of defense.

Tomorrow's Problem

North: ♠ 10 9; ♥ 7 4 2; ♦ 10 8 5; ♣ A J 9 4 2

West: ♠ 8 6 5 2; ♥ K Q 10 9 3; ♦ A 4; ♣ 10 6

East: ♠ 7 4; ♥ A 6 5; ♦ Q 7 3 2; ♣ Q 8 7 5

South: ♠ A K Q J 3; ♥ J 8; ♦ K J 9 6; ♣ K 3

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

What mistake is a fast and careless player likely to make on this deal, playing at 4-Spades, if the opponents start by scoring two heart tricks and leading a third card of the suit?

St. Croix Survivor Warns U-boats Adopting New Technique

PRAIRIE SAILOR SAYS SUBS NOW PICKING OFF ESCORT VESSELS INSTEAD OF GUNNING FOR MERCHANT SHIPS IN ATLANTIC CONVOYS

By FRANK LOWE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 8—(CP).—Sinking of the Royal Canadian Navy destroyer St. Croix signalled the opening of a new and more vicious U-boat campaign for control of the Atlantic in the opinion of William A. Fisher of Black Diamond, Alta., lone survivor from the torpedo-smashed four-stacker.

Although willing to talk of how a lust for battle and a combination of tough breaks sent the St. Croix to the bottom, wrapped in a shroud of greasy smoke and flame that reached some 200 feet into the air, the 23-year-old Fisher was inclined to speculate that this engagement probably marked the U-boats' return to the seas, better armed and equipped with new tactics.

A two-year veteran of North Atlantic battles, the prairie sailor told newsmen here it appeared to him that the submarines were back in force larger than ever. "We'd run into one pack after another," he said.

Too, he thought that this time the U-boats were going after the escort vessels, a new approach for the raiders who formerly shunned the fighting craft and concentrated on punching holes in the thin bellies of merchant ships.

The torpedoes they were using also appeared to be more effective, Fisher said, adding, "They seemed to pack a bigger wallop." However, he refused to comment on reports that a new type of "tin fish," one that appeared to follow the ship as though working on a magnetic principle, was being used.

Fisher seemed to think that the St. Croix sinking backed up his opinions about this stepped-up and, from a tactical viewpoint, new Atlantic warfare.

Reds Expand Crossings Over Dnieper

Huns Relinquish Toehold In Caucasus

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Oct. 8 (AP) — The Red Army, pressing its new surprise autumn offensive all the way from White Russia to the Black Sea, was reported today expanding its three bridgeheads west of the Dnieper River, particularly the one south of Kiev which threatened to cave in Germany's entire eastern front.

Front-line dispatches to the Army newspaper Red Star said the major crossing of the Dnieper south of Pereyaslav, 50 miles below the Ukranian capital of Kiev, which may prove to be one of the decisive operations of the war, caught the enemy by surprise and was carried out in four hours under cover of darkness.

Russian forces which formed the wedge in the Germans' Dnieper line were reported to have organized at basic points, consolidated ground and enlarged the bridgehead for further crossings.

Near Pripet Marshes

Dozens of populated places have been captured on the west bank of the Dnieper at the central crossing and at the two others north of Kiev near the confluence of the Pripet and Dnieper rivers and southeast of Kremenchug between that captured city and Dnepropetrovsk, the dispatches said.

Intensity of the fighting was emphasized by the Moscow announcement that more than 8,000 Germans fell in the struggle for one bridgehead alone before the badly-mauled enemy, striving "at all costs to hold up the Soviet advance," gave way.

The struggle for the middle Dnieper highlighted the resumption of the Russian offensive and threatened even larger disasters for the Nazi legions. Hundreds of thousands of German troops were reported facing possible entrapment in the Dnieper river bend and in the Crimea.

Outstanding Russian victory in the north was the storming of Nevel, 60 miles above Vitebsk, in White Russia and only 70 miles from the borders of Latvia. Premier Joseph Stalin hailed this feat in another order of the day. Its possession by the Russians points a dangerous spearhead directly at the Latvian

Nazi Naval Chief Lauds U-Boat Fleet
Brags Of New Scientific Undersea Weapons

LONDON, Oct. 8 (CP)—Admiral Karl Donetiz, commander of the German Navy, declared in a Berlin broadcast today that submarines still are Germany's greatest threat to the Allies and promised a new naval war "greater than anything witnessed so far."

"It is my firm and fanatical intention to carry on the war against the enemy's tonnage to the highest level of perfection and with all means at our disposal," he said in a war summary broadcast by the German news agency D.N.B.

With new weapons and new devices, German U-boats will engage the enemy in all the seas," he asserted, adding that "in the long run this type of warfare may be of decisive significance."

Referring to new technical devices with which the German undersea fleet recently was reported outfitted for the revival of the Battle of the Atlantic, the Nazi Chief asserted "German science will remain on the enemy's heels."

Flames Soar 3 Miles High Cremate Hamburg Citizens

By FRANK BRUTTO—Associated Press Staff Writer

BERNE, Oct. 8—(AP). — The terrific Allied bombing of Hamburg which levelled that vital German port in early August was described today as a holocaust in which men, women and children fought against fire for the oxygen of the air with fire winning the battle as the flames soared to a height of six kilometres (3.7 miles).

The Swiss newspaper Allgemeine Volkszeitung said that almost no one escaped in the heavily-populated area of many square kilometres on which the Allied planes planted a "carpet" of hundreds of thousands of explosive and incendiary bombs.

A phenomenon resulted in which the fire drew the oxygen from the surrounding air, forming a constantly increasing "air chimney" in which the flames mounted higher and higher, increasing in violence and finally forming a compact roof of fire, the newspaper said.

This phenomenon was said to have developed to such an extent at Hamburg that the movement of the air was comparable to a typhoon— a gigantic forge pumping air from all directions and the streets serving as conduits with the flames rushing through them to meet the offered oxygen. A life and death struggle ensued between the flames and the people, the latter inevitably losing.

Fire Took Oxygen.

The fire, the newspaper said, consumed the last bit of oxygen in cellars and finally exhausted that in air raid shelters which at the same time were subjected to unbearable heat. At the start of the bombing — when there was still time—the people did not dare leave the shelters to face the hail of flaming bombs.

Hamburg authorities who directed the cleanup work said only a minute percentage of the population that dared flee when the attack started, escaped. A few minutes later the attacked area was encircled by fire from which not even the widest streets and public squares could afford refuge.

Those who remained in the shelters—where at least 20,000 persons perished— were reduced to ashes. The authorities were quoted as saying that the heat surpassed that of incinerators. One doctor observed that combustion of bones was more complete than in normal crematories. There were no traces for identification.

Allies Occupy Simi Island

CAIRO, Oct. 8.—(AP).— British occupation of the Island of Simi, 25 miles north of German-held Rhodes in the Dodecanese, was disclosed to-day with the announcement that a German attempt to retake the island was beaten off with heavy losses.

A Middle East communique today told of this operation, but made no mention of the situation of Kos in the Dodecanese, which was occupied recently by the Allies and severely attacked over the week-end by German forces who later claimed control of the 23-mile long island.

Light Censorship.

Simi is about half-way between Kos and Rhodes off Western Turkey.

(A tight censorship apparently has been clamped to-day on most of the Allies' insular operations off Greece and Turkey, for reasons of military security.)

The communique telling of the attack on Simi said prisoners were taken during the German assault. attack, the communique said.

The announcement said Allied light naval forces also destroyed a German convoy and escort in the Aegean Sea yesterday. The communique did not disclose the size of the forces involved in the action.

Louis Prete Killed In Air Crash

Twelve Airmen Perish In 2 Collisions

A young Peterborough flier, Flight Sergt. Louis J. Prete, 149 Rubidge street, was one of eight airmen who were killed late Thursday when two Avro-Anson training planes from the R.C.A.F. Bombing and Training Station at Mountain View, collided and crashed into Lake Ontario about 14 miles from the station.

The crash occurred directly over the target practice area. Flight Sergt. Prete was pilot of one of the planes, each of which had four occupants.

Flight Sergt. Prete was 22 years of age and was born and educated in Peterborough. He enlisted with the R.C.A.F. late in 1941 and received his training at Manning Pool, Toronto, Belleville I.T.S., Oshawa and Jarvis, receiving his wings at the latter station just a year ago.

Brother Overseas.

He was then detailed for duty as a staff pilot at the Mountain View Bombing and Gunnery Station and had been there ever since.

He was one of two brothers in the R.C.A.F., another brother, Patrick, being overseas as a technician.

Other surviving relatives are his widow, the former Dorothy Midgeley of Meyersburg, a three-year-old son Ronald, his mother, Mrs. F. DeMaio, and three brothers, Edward at St. Augustine's Seminary, and Anthony and Dominic of Detroit.

Hitler Demands High Morale

LONDON, Oct. 8 (CP). — Hitler told Nazi leaders gathered at his headquarters yesterday that the German people must not be permitted to lose morale, for if they did the war would be lost.

In a patent attempt to whip up spirits on the home front, he was quoted by the Berlin radio today as saying:

"Weapons alone will not tilt the scales unless human will backs them.

"The party has never allowed itself to be discouraged by setbasks. Its power of action, hard resoluteness and extreme readiness to help provides the German people again today with moral backing and support, particularly in the difficult hours of the air attacks.

"If the German people preserve this morale which they have shown on the battlefront and at home, the war can never be lost but must and will bring a great German victory."

Hitler promised the assembled leaders to "deal blows everywhere and never falter until our aim is reached."

Pep Meeting

Indicating the importance Hitler placed on the pep meeting, "Reich leiters and gauleiters" were addressed by such party and military leaders, Dr. Albert Speer Minister of Munitions; Dr. Robert Ley, leader of the German Labor Front; Field Marshal-Gen. Erhard Milch, State Secretary for Aviation; Admiral Karl Doenitz, the supreme commander of the German navy, and Gestapo chief Heinrich Himmler.

"Defeatism is non - existent among the German people," the Gestapo chieftain boasted, despite Hitler's obvious concern.

"Isolated cases of this kind will be eradicated without mercy," he promised.

Speer said that mass production must be increased and warned that "only the severest measures will see Germany through to final victory."

Ley called for "as many emergency billets as possible for air raid victims" without regard to the shortage of building material.

Canned Units Released By Prices Board

Frozen In July To Assure Winter Supply

OTTAWA, Oct. 8.—(CP)—Canned vegetables which were frozen in packers' and wholesalers' hands by the Prices Board last July to ensure supplies for winter will soon move to retail outlets under a new system of "controlled distribution," the board announced today.

The statement indicated that formal rationing of canned vegetables is not in prospect.

Aim of the new distribution plan is to handle supplies so as to meet normal consumer needs during the winter season. Details of its operation were not made public immediately.

"Withholding the current pack of canned vegetables by the freeze has "substantially improved the supply position for the balance of the year, and it is expected that victory garden production will also tend to ease the situation," the board said.

The pattern of canned vegetable consumption in Canada was "very irregular." In some areas consumption was negligible and in others it was heavy. It varied also from neighborhood to neighborhood and even from house to house.

Control Distribution

"Any allowance that could be set on the basis of an equal share for everyone would consequently be inadequate in some cases and excessive in others and would not provide a generally satisfactory solution," said the board statement.

"The system of controlled distribution was developed after a study of the supply situation, potential demand and canvassing of views of consumers and the trade.

"It is based on past experience of the trade and makes allowance for population shifts and other variables. It will tend to continue normal consumer buying habits rather than disrupt them without sufficient justification and to the dissatisfaction of most of the consumers who ordinarily used canned vegetables.

"If consumers follow normal buying practices and make good use of the available supplies of fresh and storeable vegetables, Canadian tables can be adequately supplied with vegetables during the coming season."

5th Army Controls 2 Roads 97 Miles From Rome; Montgomery On Offensive

Capua, Castel Volturno Falls In Advance; Rearguards Wiped Out By Americans Slogging Through Mud

By ED. KENNEDY—Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Oct. 8—(AP)—Battling in heavy rain and mud, the Anglo-American 5th Army has forged ahead and reached the Volturno River, the German defence line north of Naples, on a 16-mile front from Capua to the sea, Allied headquarters announced today.

Captured in the advance were Capua, on the south side of the river, where there is an important crossing, and Castel Volturno at the river mouth, 97 airline miles from Rome.

Capua, the main town on the Mazzoni Plain on which the first phase of Lt.-Gen. Mark Clark's battle for Rome is being waged, is 17 miles north of Naples and 106 straight-line miles south-east of the Italian capital. It was taken in a 10-mile advance along the Via Casalina, one of the two main roads from Naples to Rome The other is the Appian Way, nearer the coast.

On the right, where the British 8th Army, including the Canadian 1st Division, was fighting another battle on the approaches to the side door to the Italian capital, Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's forces beat back fierce German counter-attacks, took the offensive and occupied an important high area above Termoli along the Adriatic.

Six German divisions now are fighting along the Italian front in in fierce action.

The Germans threw tanks, including 60-ton Tigers, and infantry into their stabs at Gen. Montgomery's flanking force which held an area approximately 130 miles east and slightly north of Rome and threatened Pescara, the coastal terminus of a broad highway across the Apennines to the capital city on the banks of the Tiber.

In the mountainous backbone in the centre of the peninsula, Allied forces maintained steady pressure against the Germans and continued to force them back.

15 Hun Raiders Bomb London; Bremen Hit Also

By ROBERT STURDEVANT
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Oct. 8.—(AP).—Ranging over a great area of Southern Germany last night, a powerful Royal Air Force bomber fleet, augmented by a considerable number of R.C.A.F. planes, pounded three important German cities — Stuttgart, Friedrihshafen and Munich—while a much weaker force of German bombers hit London and Southeast England with the sharpest retaliatory blow in many months, it was announced to-day.

Heavy cloud formations prevented full observation of the results of the R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. operations, an Air Ministry communique said, but the German radio announced "extensive damage" was inflicted on Stuttgart, where the junction of eight mainline railways rivals its industries in importance as bombing targets.

By daylight United States heavy bombers struck to-day at Bremen, Germany's North Sea U-boat and shipbuilding centre. This was the 105th Allied air attack on Bremen.

The Air Ministry said the Germans were able to push through to London only 15 of 60 raiders which crossed the English coast before midnight and dropped slightly more than 33 tons of bombs on London.

The London alert lasted approximately two hours and was one of the longest since May, 1942. The raiders came over in two waves—exceedingly small in comparison with the great Allied armadas which have been blasting steadily at the Reich for many months.

British officials described the attack as a propaganda raid, obviously intended to take the German people's minds off their troubles.

Bombs fell in several London districts, causing damage and some casualties, and at the height of the fierce barrage with bright orange flashes dotting the searchlight-streaked sky, firewatchers on rooftops were forced to take shelter from the falling splinters.

The last great raid on London occurred on May 10, 1941, when 450 tons of bombs were unloosed and nearly 1,500 persons were killed. There have been three other occasions in 1943 when the Germans launched heavier attacks than the one last night.

Halifax Workers Return To Jobs

HALIFAX, Oct. 8 —(CP)—More than 400 freight handlers who have been on strike since last Friday, decided at a meeting here today to return to work on the Halifax waterfront at eight o'clock tomorrow morning A.D.T. (7 a.m. EDT).

Heeding the warning of Labor Minister Humphrey Mitchell that they go "back to work or else" the freight handlers almost unanimously decided to return to their jobs of transferring cargo from railway cars to freight sheds. There were only five dissenting votes.

The back-to-work vote was held following a plea by their local president and business manager, George W. Horne, to return to work immediately.

However, officials of the union said they will still continue to press for "certain considerations." All of the considerations were not mentioned but one will be an extra cent an hour cost-of-living bonus. They now receive eight cents an hour as a cost-of-living allowance. They are asking for a nine cent an hour war bonus, besides.

Preliminaries In Far East Encouraging

Mountbatten And MacArthur Shaping Huge Pincers Against Togo's Realm

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Events in Asia and the Pacific emphasize the steady approach of a two-pronged United Nations drive against the Japanese, a fact admitted by Premier Tojo in warning new government officials that the Allied offensive has "gained in intensity" and that from now on their "responsibility is enormous."

Straws which show the direction of a great wind that blows the Japs no good include the arrival in India of Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, commander-in-chief for southeast Asia, to prepare for the invasion of Burma. This is likely to play a major part in breaching the Mikado's home defences.

Over in the Pacific Gen. MacArthur's New Guinea offensive continues "with great speed and success," as the United States Secretary of War, Henry Stimson, puts it. The dashing attack on Wake Island and other naval activities invite the thought that the main United States fleet is preparing an offensive against Japan's network of island bases and communications in the Central Pacific. A vital buttress of this ocean Maginot defence is the powerful naval base of Truk where a large unit of the Jap navy is lying doggo.

Must Reach China

The object of the Burma campaign is, of course, to re-establish land communications between China and the outside world, and inaugurate operations that will give us Chinese air bases from which we can reach Tokyo and other Japanese cities with big bombers. The Pacific drives are calculated to strip the eastern shield off Japan, the Philippines and the Indies.

These two offensives will complement each other. They will form the claws of great and powerful pincers which will grip the Nipponese from two sides and squeeze with increasing pressure until the Mikado's island kingdom breaks wide open.

We should remember, however, that it requires time to prepare for operations of this magnitude We shouldn't expect the main events to begin popping tomorrow. They may be many weeks away, although the preliminaries in both theatres are proceeding steadily and well.

New Problem

TORONTO, Oct. 8—(CP).—If a prisoner of war wishes to obtain a divorce, he must transmit to the proper authorities an affidavit signed by an officer no lower in rank than a major. Hearing was adjourned to November 8 while inquiries are being made to learn if Sterling's captain has been promoted yet.

Blood Serum Substitute

Common Isinglass May Fill Great Need

TORONTO, Oct. 8—(CP).—Search for a non-toxic protein to replace human blood for transfusion purposes has focussed medical attention on a solution developed by Dr. N. B. Taylor of the University of Toronto, from common isinglass, a transparent, whitish substance derived from fish bladders.

Production of the solution which Dr. Taylor says he believes "may possibly" replace human blood serum has been launched at the Connaught laboratories here under direction of Dr. E. W. McHenry. Additional space for production of the new blood serum substitute has also been reserved at the old Knox College here, now being remodelled to facilitate large-scale production of pencillin next February.

Before the experiments began, it was an established medical fact that lost blood does not have to be replaced by a blood transfusion if a substitute could be found which maintained blood volume and blood pressure and remained in the system long enough to enable the body to restore normal volume and pressure. The problem was to find a non-toxic substitute.

The October issue of the Canadian Medical Journal, reviewing investigations Dr. Taylor started in 1941, describes isinglass as "a safe blood substitute if properly prepared." The discovery was tested on 61 patients in a Toronto hospital and none showed unfavorable reaction, the Journal said.

Pope Cool To Nazi Plan

Hitler Said Anxious To Move Pontiff

LONDON, Oct. 8 (CP Cable) — A Reuters News Agency dispatch today from Zurich said reports reaching Switzerland stated that Hitler plans to move the Pope to a Northern Italian town "offering greater security' should Rome be in danger of falling to the Allies.

Reginald Lagford, Reuters correspondent in Zurich, said that the Pope, according to these reports had a "cold" interview with German representatives. The Pope is quoted as saying he would declare himself a prisoner of the Germans but for the fact this would cause more bloodshed.

The Germans were reported as saying openly they have assumed the "protection" of the Holy Father and cannot allow him to risk his life as street fighting is bound to occur in Rome if the Allies enter.

When the German representatives were accorded a private audience, the Pope was reported to have remained aloof and disinterested. The Nazis have told the Pope it is impossible to abandon military control of the Vatican entrances as demonstrations would become inevitable, Reuters went on.

The Nazis say they are exerting no diplomatic pressure on the Pope but relations are bound to remain tense as long as Roman Catholics are prevented access to the Holy Father, the dispatch concluded.

FIRST ALLIED ARMIES REPORTED FIGHTING WITH PARTISAN GROUPS

Nazis Claim Czechs Aiding Slavs

Report British Landed Troops On Adriatic Coast

LONDON, Oct. 8—(AP)—A German report from Budapest said today a Czechoslovak brigade equipped and trained by Britain had landed in Yugoslavia to co-operate with Partisan armies as the first Allied force to invade the Balkans.

The Czechs were reported led by a Brig. Rizicka when they went ashore on the Montenegro coast, either at Budva or Ulcinjj. Rizicka is a former lieutenant-colonel in the Czech Army.

Meantime a Budapest despatch said today that Partisan forces are sabotaging the railway system in Yugoslavia so effectively that only 112 out of 600 stations are still operating.

A Yugoslav Partisan broadcast said guerilla fighters had thrown tanks into the battle for the Istrian Peninsula and destroyed 10 German tanks and one German plane.

News of the victory, said to have occurred near Jedreska, was not included in the regular communique of the People's Liberation Army, but Yugoslavs here with Partisan connections, reported hearing the broadcast detailing the tank fight. Sixty-five German soldiers were said to have been killed, while the Yugoslav forces lost four tanks.

Yugoslav sources in London were unable to say what type of tanks the Partisans were using or where they were obtained.

The Yugoslav communique said the 1st Croat Brigade, which had captured Lussino Island, also seized a German tanker carrying nearly 24,400 gallons of oil. Several coastal batteries and a large amount of war material were said to have been taken.

More than 200 German officers were killed by guerilla bands operating along the Split-Inopsko and Travnik-Sarajevo railroads, the bulletin said.

The Germans asserted they were mopping up the Istrian region. The Berlin radio, in a broadcast recorded by The Associated Press, said nearly 4,000 of the opposing forces were killed and almost 5,000 taken prisoners in five days. Several arms and ammunition depots belonging to former Italian garrisons were claimed to have been captured.

French Purge Vichy Elements

By JOSEPH E. DYNAN
Associated Press Staff Writer.

ALGIERS, Oct. 8 — (AP). — In an effort to eliminate exponents of colaboration from posts of influence in post-war France, a systematic purge of Vichyites begun in North Africa by the French Committee of National Liberation has been extended to Corsica and preparations are being made to follow up the drive in metropolitan France when the time is ripe.

The purge, which Gen. Charles de Gaulle insists must ge carried out, is under the direction of Francois de Menthon, Commissioner of Justice, who came out of France two months ago after serving as a member of the undercover Council of Resistance on French soil.

Although the committee wants to remove and perhaps punish persons in authority who "went too far" along Vichy's road, the purge will not involve an indiscriminate rolling of heads, De Menthon explained to-day, asserting it is realized there may be some in Vichy who did no more than their duty.

"We distinguish between those who merely obeyed orders and those who were enthusiastic in helping the Germans," he said. "These last ones are the ones we want to purge."

FO. J. Johnson Sets Record In Night Flying

WITH THE R. A. F. SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Oct. 8 — (CP). —On a night in December, 1940, two Hurricanes painted black took off from a base in the south of England and headed out over the Channel. Theirs was a mission that was to make history. The first intruder patrol was on.

Since then this night-flying trade has grown by leaps and by bounds as newer and better aircraft came into being and as the science of stalking the enemy at night became more and more skilled. Now many Canadians have records as night intruder pilots. Some have been stars at it. Many pilots, such as the Czech flight lieutenant, Kuttelwascher, with a bag of 22 enemy planes, have made great names for themselves.

Among Canadians flying on intruder patrols now are Flt. Lt. Massey W. Beveridge, a big, quiet-spoken blond fellow from Montreal, and FO. J. R. F. Johnson of Omemee. Sometimes they fly together because it is customary on intruder patrols for more than one plane to be along. For one thing, they'll see twice as much if there are two of them. For another thing, it's safer.

Recently Beveridge and Johnson were out and both scored on the same trip. Beveridge nailed two twin-engined Nazi fighters over Western Germany and Johnson got a Focke-Wulfe 190 over France.

Something like 105 enemy aircraft have fallen to the guns of intruder pilots since that December night in 1940 when the intruder aircraft made their first flight.

More Powerful

The Hurriranes and Blenheims with which the job was started have been supplanted by the latest fighter aircraft, and some of the machines now engaged in this work have six times the firepower of the early models and three times the range. Mosquitoes, Beaufighters Typhoons and Whirlwinds now bear the brunt of the attack.

They have two principal methods of attack. They either catch the raiders as they are coming in to land on their home airdromes or at the takeoff.

The pilots play a waiting game, often "stooging" around the airfields where the quarry is to be expected. Sometimes the bombers are shot down over their own flarepaths or are attacked when only a few hundred feet off the ground while taking off, the intruder gliding in out of the darkness.

Surprise is the big element in these attacks, which have forced the Germans to restrict their airfield lighting. It is a system of offensive which works two ways, but at home the R.A.F., which brought intruder patrolling to a fine art, are always vigilant for the fast-flying enemy intruder and know most of the angles themselves.

5th Army Capture

tailed activities, but found relatively few targets compared with the preceding day when a heavy toll was taken of a German armored division being rushed through the mountains to oppose Gen. Montgomery.

Nevertheless 11 vehicles were destroyed along with one of the Germans' big Mark VI tanks.

The Germans in withdrawing over the river left many determined nests of resistance behind them, but these were wiped out in the relentless drive of British armor and United States infantry.

The advance gives the Allies two main roads to Rome as far as the Volturno. The Appian Way crosses the river at Cancello which is on the north bank and a little more than five miles from the coast. The Via Casilina crosses at Capua where there has been a bridge since ancient times.

It was considered certain the Germans had demolished these bridges before withdrawing.

(The German communique said Allied attacks in the Volturno and Termoli areas has been repulsed and frustrated.)

The Allied line now runs from the mouth of the Volturno to Capua, southeast to Maddaloni, northeast to Benevento where it crosses the Calore to Montecalvo, thence northeastward to the Adriatic north of Termoli.

Germans battling the 8th Army in the latter area included the 16th armored division which bore the brunt of the fighting at Salerno and then was pulled out to fight on the east side of the peninsula, and the German 1st parachute division.

The 16th armored division, wiped out at Stalingrad and then reconstituted, now includes many Alsatians, Czechs, Poles, Slovaks and Slovenes, it was said at Allied Headquarters.

Other German divisions along the front have been identified as the Hermann Goering, 25th and 29th armored divisions, and the 15th armored grenadiers.

The 5th Army, although less than 100 air-line miles from Rome, is still 110 miles from the capital by railway and 125 miles by the Appian Way.

Capua, a town of 10,000 today, was known as Casilium in ancient days. It has been the scene of many battles and was conquered by Hannibal in 216 B.C., after a long siege.

AT THE SWISS - ITALIAN FRONTIER—The bodies of 26 Jews, their faces burned, were found in the woods near the northern Italian Lake Maggiore today as reports reached the frontier that the Germans have extended their anti-semitic drive into Italy.

Guns Protect Russians Getting In The Harvest

No sooner had the Germans been beaten back from the Kuban Valley in the Caucasus, than a veritable army of harvesters moved in to take over the job of providing needed wheat for their country at war. The fields were in striking distance of Nazi airfields and so a machine-gun—four-barrelled—was directed toward the skies at all times as the collective farmers went about their work. This ARP squad, as you see, is mainly composed of girls.

Ontario Units Storm Hill Positions

By WILLIAM STEWART
Canadian Press War Correspondent

With the Canadians in Italy, Oct. 7 —(Delayed)—(CP Cable)—Despite stiffened German resistance along the entire sector where Canadian troops are operating, the Dominion soldiers have mounted positions dominating a strategic valley and have dug in solidly, awaiting the artillery to come up and hammer the enemy gun positions and outposts which kept up a steady fire at the Canadians in the advanced areas all day Wednesday (Oct. 6).

(This dispatch would appear to indicate that Canadian troops are in the forefront of the battle which Allied Headquarters announces is raging along the Biferno River on the Adriatic coast of the Italian peninsula. Reinforced German troops have been reported as throwing tank and infantry attacks against 8th Army positions there.)

Shell Fire Heavy

Enemy mortar and shell fire was heavier than any yet encountered since the Canadians began their latest push to the north, started Oct. 1.

French-Canadian troops took the lead in the drive up one valley toward a junction with this valley which is before us, and met heavy mortar bombing and shelling from 88-milimetre guns which were also trained on roads along which transport moved.

Infantry from an eastern regiment pushed up alongside the French-Canadians who were facing the same type of strong German hill positions they have had to break through since they captured a hill town last Sunday.

On the left flank western Canadian infantry ran into strong opposition in the hills while on the right troops from Ontario fought to high ground east of a valley.

Take Two Towns

A regiment from Eastern Ontario occupied two towns while a regiment whose men represent Eastern Canada moved northwest from a high ridge. German mortar fire and shells whistled into the Canadian positions all day long and the valley echoed and rumbled as Canadian artillery replied.

Field guns were moved into forward positions while medium artillery sitting further back pounded enemy locations reported by patrols.

Artist Paints Sign To Mark Loan Totals

COBOURG, Oct. 8—(ENS)—For the past few days in the lobby of the town hall, G. A. Sheppard of Cobourg, well-known commercial sign painter and artist, has been working on a giant sign, which will be erected along the front of the town hall to advertise the Victory Loan campaign. The sign is 30 by 6 feet in dimensions and is done in oils, with lettering on each side of the sign advertising the Victory Loan while in the centre is a painting of a corvette ploughing through the sea, bearing on its bow, "H.M. C.S. Cobourg" The sign links very effectively the Fifth Victory Loan and the town of Cobourg corvette. Daily totals of the progress of the Victory Loan in the county will be entered on the right hand side of the sign.

Dentist Finds Pupils' Teeth Much Improved

Probably the rationing of sugar under war time restrictions has been a factor in oral health gains among the Public School children of the city, Dr. C. M. Scott suggested at the meeting last night of the Boards of Health and Education.

Dr. S. J. Graham, Dental Officer, agreed with the idea as a digression in a brief review of evident results of the clinic which he conducts.

"We are making another survey of the dental condition of the condition of the children," Dr. Graham said," and although it is not yet quite finished I can say that there is a decide improvement in the number of children requiring treatment as compared with the number only two and three years ago.

Great Improvement

The mouths of our children show decided improvement. The number of cavities is greatly reduced, and generally there is a much happier state of affairs than there used to be. Most children are likely to develop a cavity or two in a year's time, but we find them and they are not so serious. So if you see in our published reports some mention of 60 or or 70 per cent of the children needing treatment that does not mean any so serious as it used to. The children's teeth are in a reasonable healthy condition."

Dr. Graham rather modestly referred to his educational program, classroom talks on oral health, and agreed with Inspector Wightman that this auxiliary was also conducing to dental improvement. "I think it has helped to quicken the interest of the children in looking after their teeth and taking regular care of them."

Pope Strengthens His Papal Guard

BERNE, Oct. 8 (AP)—A dispatch from Chiasso on the Italian border today quoted L'Osservatore Romano as saying that Pope Pius XII has consented to the recruitment of additional Swiss citizens for service in the Papal Guard in view of the fact that the battle zone is rapidly approaching the vicinity of Rome.

Fifteen Swiss who were recruited in the past few days have been delayed in arriving in Vatican City because the frontier between Italy and Switzerland has been closed, the dispatch said. The Vatican, in addition, is asking other precautions in the event that Rome becomes a battlefield. Numerous Papal flags and posters have been prepared to mark church properties throughout the city.

Japs Giving Up Central Solomons Area

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, The Southwest Pacific, Oct. 8 —(AP)— The Japanese are giving up tre Central Solomons, pounded into retreat by continuous Allied air bombardments which left them short of ammunition and sank many of the loaded barges in which they tried to get away.

Allied Headquarters said today the enemy apparently had already abandoned all of southern Kolombangara, including the principal air base at Vila, and is trying to get out of the northern part of the island through a tight sea and air blockade.

(At the South Pacific Headquarters of Admiral William F. Halsey, Associated Press War Correspondent William Hipple said it was regarded as certain that Allied troops soon would occupy Kolombangara.

(A headquarters spokesman reported all barge traffic between Kolombangara and Choiseul to the north virtually had ceased, indicating the Japanese either had quit the island or had given up attempts to remove stragglers who have pushed on foot to the northern shores.

(Since the morning of Oct. 1. no anti-aircraft fire from the Vila field has been encountered by Allied planes.)

Today's communique reported destruction or damage of 18 barges off Choiseul, the staging point to which the Vila troops have been sent on the way to Bougainville.

Estimates of the size of the Vila garrison have ranged from 3,000 to 10,000.

Today's comunique reported that on Monday a large formation of heavy bombers, screened by fighters, pounded anew at Japan's big Kahili airdrome on southern Bougainville, wrecking many planes on the ground.

On New Guinea, where Australians are bidding for the enemy's coastal air and shipping base of Madang, a force moving along the Ramu valley 50 miles south of its objective was reported today "pressing after the retreating enemy."

Seven Citizens Held As Spies

NEWARK, N.J., Oct. 8 (AP). — Federal investigation of a pre-war Nazi spy ring and a German-American organization was "cleaned up" today said Thorn Lord, Assistant United States Attorney, with the arrest of seven naturalized citizens of German birth, two of them soldiers.

The seven were charged in a sealed indictment opened here yesterday with conspiring to transmit to the German Reich, in violation of the Espionage Act, "documents, writings, code books, sketches, photographs, blue prints, maps . . . to the injury of the United States."

Lord said the indictment closed investigation of the German- Vocational League and of a Nazi spy ring broken up by the Federal Bureau of Investigation in the summer of 1941. The indictment said the league served as a "clearing house" for information from April 1939, to Dec. 6, 1941, and was directed by German agents overseas.

Havelock Soldier Dieppe Casualty Home From Sicily

HAVELOCK, Oct. 8 — (ENS) — Cpl. Andrew Albert Currie, who won the Military Medal for bravery at Dieppe, and who was in Sicily for a short time, has returned from overseas and is spending a furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Currie, of Havelock.

This soldier was so severely wounded at Dieppe that he was confined to hospital for many months, and when he came out he transferred from his unit, the Hastings Prince Edward Regiment, to the Provost Corps, and accompanied this group to Sicily where he spent a brief time taking in supplies at the beginning of hostilities, and then returned to England, bringing back prisoners and wounded. For this latter operation he was awarded the South African Star.

CPL. ANDREW ALBERT CURRIE

Enlisting with the H.P.E. Regiment in September, 1939, Cpl. Currie has been overseas since January of 1941. He received his medal at Dieppe when he carried a Cornwall officer who had had both legs shot off, to safety. At this time he suffered severe shrapnel wounds in the hip and back, also a broken arm, and was in hospital for eight months. He talked to the late Charles Haggerty of Havelock 10 minutes before the zero hour at Dieppe.

Hospital Bombed

During his service in England he was on hand when the Red Cross hospital at Poignton was bombed. At that time it was filled with British, Canadian and Australian airmen and they and the 70 nurses on duty were nearly all killed. His platoon was sent to do rescue work, and he found it one of the most horrible experiences of the war.

Cpl. Currie issued a warning to the families and friends living in Canada who write to their boys overseas. He said that letters should never have any reference about the boys coming home soon or speculation about them being back at a certain date. He has found that it just takes the heart out of them.

He also requested that those making clothes and supplies for mothers and children in England, should endeavor to raise their quotas because they are in a far more difficult position regarding clothing than soldiers. He said that Canadians could have no idea of what it was like to exist in a bombed out area and everything that can be sent is needed. Fresh fruit and vegetables are out of the question.

When his furlough is up, Cpl. Currie will report to Kingston.

Association Pledges Help With Parades

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 8 (ENS) —Members of Hoards' United church W.A. are going to co-operate with the Young People's Union of that church in sending Christmas boxes to soldiers of this district. It was decided at a meeting of the W.A. held Wednesday that they would assist in preparing the boxes for shipment and provide a number of the items including socks, chocolate bars and tinned soup.

The president, Miss Mildred Heagle, presided for the meeting and following the business a short program was presented. This included a reading by Mrs. James Thompson, piano solo by Miss Elsie Rannie and a contest conducted by the president.

Members of Hoard's W.M.S., which each month meets on the same date as the W.A., also held their meeting during the afternoon. There were sixteen members present and the theme was "The Bible for all of Life." The president, Mrs. John Rannie, presided and Mrs. W. S. Milne led in prayer

Cheese, Produce and Livestock

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 8 — (CP). — Rye continued its steady trend yesterday on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange and at the close of a slow session futures were ⅛ to ⅛ cent a bushel higher, with October at $1.05½.

Dealings in other grains were of a minor variety. Odd cars of cash wheat were taken by traders to complete old orders, while small quantities of oats and barley were taken for shipment to Eastern Canada points for current feeding requirements.

No new developments were reported regarding the export situation, and the trade was still awaiting further information from the Canadian Wheat Board on the procedure to be followed under the new wheat marketing setup.

Allied Army Takes Capua; 10-Mile Gain

8th Army Foils Several Fierce Attacks

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, ALGIERS, Oct. 8—(AP)—Allied forces have captured Capua, 17 miles north o. Naples on the southern side of the Volturno River, headquarters anounced today.

Fall of the city, when the ancient Appian way leads on to Rome, brought 5th Army forces up to the position where Germans were said to have set up a strong defence on the north side of the Volturno.

Its capture represents a 10-mile advance across the plain north of Naples from the last reported Allied position at Aversa. Capua is a town of approximately 10,000.

In their first sweep into Greece fighters of the northwest Africa Air Forces destroyed a number of parked planes on the ground at Araxos, on the coast of the Gulf of Patras in the northwest corner of the Peloponnesus, an official report disclosed today.

In Heavy Rain

The raid was carried out Oct. 5. On the same day belated reports announced four-engined bombers hit Elevsis airfield near Athens, shooting down six enemy fighters out of a pack of 30 to 35 which attacked them.

On the Adriatic coast the British 8th Army, of which the Canadian 1st Division is a part, again beat off several fierce German tank and infantry attacks and improved its position, the communique said.

British Invade Cyclades Isles

ISTANBUL, Oct. 7 —(Delayed)—(AP)—Unconfirmed reports received here today said British forces have landed in the Cyclades Islands in the Aegean between the Dodecanese and the Greek mainland.

The report did not specify which of the Cyclades had been attacked.

(The Cyclades group includes approximately 200 islands of varying size, extending for about 100 miles into the Aegean southeast of Athens. The southernmost of the group is approximately 100 miles north of German-occupied Crete.)

In the past two years the Germans have converted a number of the Cyclades into air bases. The islands also provide ports for packs of small submarines which the Germans brought overland and bases for a fleet of "Kayiks" — small combination sail and motorboats upon which the Germans largely depend for carrying supplies to Crete.

RECTAL SORENESS AND PILE TORTURE
QUICKLY RELIEVED

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from McDermid & Jury or any I.D.A. or other drug store and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small, easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness, and aid in healing the sore, tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended, and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money.—(Advt.)

Cheese Buyers Try Meeting Once A Month

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 8 — (ENS). — Once again cheese buyers on the Campbelford Board made a move to have meetings cut to one a month and last night, the motion for a four weeks' adjournment carried.

W. H. Bailey made the motion for the longer adjournment, pointing out it was now getting late in the season and adding it would be a saving on travel for buyers. J. S. Cook of Belleville seconded the motion after which salesmen John McKeown and Hector Arnold moved an amendment calling for a two weeks' adjournment as has been practiced during the past months. One salesman voted with the buyers to defeat the amendment 11-10 and those who had opposed the motion showed evident dissatisfaction, voicing the view it might mean the end of the Cheese Board. Following some further discussion it was decided to give the new plan a trial for a month, thus making the next meeting of the board on November 4.

Thirty factories boarded a total of 1,964 boxes of cheese, and all ere sold at 20 cents f.o.b. Campbellford. Factories offered the following white cheese:

Avonbank 100, Beaver 73, Brae 25, Cro Bay 69, Cedar Creek 71, Empire 76, Hoards 76, Ideal 66, I. Omemee Lady Gets Airmail Letter From China Costing $10.75 Postage

The following quotations from a letter received by Miss Alice Veals, Omemee, from her brother, Rev. Howard Veals, B.Paed., of Jenshaw Sze, China, dated June 6, 1943, will be of interest to many readers.

The value of the postage on this airmail letter is $10.75 in Chinese currency.

"Things have been rather hectic this past while and the duties that have to be performed from day to day seem to have taken all the time. Well, the Canadian School (for Missionaries' children) has closed and many of the older pupils including Katherine and Marion (daughters) are going to a school for missionaries' children in North India, 4,000 feet above sea level and 100 miles north of Delhi.

You will probably be able to guess why this step is necessary. It is because of the continued unprecedented rise in the cost of everything here. It is gathering momentum now and so there is nothing to do but get quite a number of our people out of China.

We have had two public sales, in which we sold furniture, bedding, etc. used in connection with the school. In this debated currency things bring a big price but it doesn't mean much in actual values. I sold considerably used flannelette sheets for $600.00 each. That will give you some idea of how things went.

Changes come. Four years ago, there were three mission organizations here—the short course school of the University of Nanking Agricultural School, the Girls' Normal School and the Rural Unit of the Ginling Ladies' College. They have all gone and now the Canadian School is going too.

With the $50.00 you sent, for which I thank you, we bought two pairs of shoes with it for each of the girls. They are made in Chengtu and had leather tops and the soles were made of the heavy rubber of old automobile tires. Have they thought of using those in Canada for making shoes? The shoes cost about the equivalent of $22.00 a pair (Canadian money), so there was a little left over from the $55.00 and I have put that into the account to help out some others of our workers who are worse off than we are. I hope you won't mind that.

We are having very dry weather here now and the crops are certainly suffering. Prices of commodities will soar higher than ever I expect, if we don't get rain. But I expect we shall get a good rain one of these days.

Our church work is certainly more difficult than ever these days as so many people are too absorbed in getting a living in these precarious times and some are busy trying to see how much they can make out of the inflation."

Mr. and Mrs. Veals are missionaries of the United Church of Canada.

Mrs. Veals is a sister of Mrs. Wesley Boynton, of Port Perry.

MILLBROOK

Women To Pay Parsonage Taxes

MILLBROOK, Oct. 8 (ENS). — Thanksgiving was the opening, devotional theme taken up at the October meeting of the W.A. of St. Andrew's Church, held on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Edmund Ball, the president, Mrs. P. I. Bentley, occupying the chair, and Mrs. A. L. Sisco offering prayer.

Miss M. E. Duncan presided at the piano, and among the business items dealt with was the decision to pay the taxes on the parsonage amounting to $90.80, and to contribute $100 to the church's thankoffering on October 24, when the sixty-first anniversary will be observed.

Since the war conditions have made it impossible to carry on with many of the usual ways of raising money this year, the president, stressed the need for generous contributions to the fowl supper fund, and urged collectors to cover their appointed routes in the immediate future. Word received from the secretary of the Plunkett Dinner Company said this annual event, which was to have taken place on Friday, October 8, in the church basement, has been postponed for the duration.

Mrs. P. Stinson read a comprehensive report of the recent W.A. Presbyterial Rally held at Knox Church, Peterborough, Mrs. Sisco and Mrs. Bentley being the other two delegates who attended. Emphasi was laid upon the need of working for the annual bazaar to be held on Saturday, November 27 in the waiting room and if restrictions permit, afternoon tea will also be served. Following a reading, "The Old Dairy Cows," by Mrs. J. McKnight, and prayer by the president, the meeting was dismissed after Mrs. Stinson's invitation for the November gathering at her home had been accepted.

511 Americans Die In Salerno Fight

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP). — Henry Stimson, War Secretary, reported today that United States Army casualties during the four weeks since bitterly-contested landings began at Salerno, Italy, total 8,307, of whom only 511 now are listed as killed in action.

He told his press conference that 5,428 American soldiers have been wounded in the campaign of the Italian mainland, and 2,368 are missing.

"I understand," Stimson said, "that this is somewhat greater than the total casualties suffered by the British components of the 5th Army."

At the time of the initial landings in the Bay of Salerno, the Secretary said, the 5th Army under Lt.-Gen. Mark W. Clark was composed almost equally of American and British troops, but subsequent reinforcements have been largely American.

The 5th Army's capture of Naples was the outstanding event of the war during the last week, Stimson said, and engineers now are working day and night to clear the harbor with greater prospects of success than was first believed possible.

Warn Canadians Must Use Food Carefully

TORONTO, Oct. 8 — (CP). — Huge demands for food for the United Kingdom, Europe and for elsewhere mean that Canadians must use food carefully, and "we are not all co-operating" in bringing all possible in formation on proper use of food to the public. Dr. L. B. Pett, director of the Pensions Department's nutrition services, said to-day.

In an address prepared for delivery before the 24th annual meeting of the Health League of Canada here, Dr. Prett said the food rules prepared by nutrition services leave no margin for error such as would be desirable, but in view of overseas food demands "we cannot provide a margin for error— we must insist on a careful use of food."

The right use of food has been widely publicized "just in time," because current demands for it were "making people in Ottawa very worried."

Wide Substitution

Fortunately "many calculations" had shown the department that the food rules permit wide substitution according to what is available, and also indicate roughly how a person can obtain about 100 per cent of every one of the known nutrient requirements.

However, improved methods of consultation had gradually been evolved through the work of the Canadian Council of Nutrition and its Committees, and the formation of nutrition committees in seven of the nine provinces.

A large part of the nutrition services' work was concerned with food services in war industries. Up to September 1 the branch had reached 671 industries of all sizes through Canada— plants employing about half the war workers in the Dominion. Printed matter, posters, lunch box folders and numerous pay envelope stuffers had been distribtued and "definite progress" had been made in the industrial field.

Management and workers now were much more interested in nutrition than a year ago, and good results had been achieved through a publicity campaign designed to make Canadians generally more interested in nutrition.

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 8. — (ENS).—Funeral services for Robert Arden Watson 31, of Seymour township were largely attended Thursday. He had been farming in the vicinity of Godolphin for the past ten years and passed away in the Belleville General Hospital early Tuesday morning following a short illness.

Born in Seymour township near Burnbrae, the late Mr. Watson was a son of Allan Watson and the late Mrs. Watson. He spent his entire life in this district, attending school in Campbellford, where he had lived with his parents for a number of years.

The late Mr. Watson removed to Seymour West on a farm following his marriage to Gertrude Bright ten years ago. Surviving are his widow, two sons, Allan and Kennet and two daughters, Jean and Shirley, all at home; also his father, Mr. A. G. Watson, of Campbellford, one brother, Douglas, also of Campbellford, and a sister, Rheta, of Seymour East.

The funeral service was held at Burnbrae Presbyterian church and was conducted by Rev. Babcock, assisted by Rev. G. N. Maxwell. Interment was made in Burnbrae cemetery.

EDGAR LISLE McKEE.

The many friends of the late Edgar Lisle McKee were shocked and saddened by his death, which occurred on September 30 in Smith Falls Public Hospital.

The deceased was the son of the late William J. McKee and Alice I. McKibbon, and was born in Seymour township on February 22, 1893. His early life was spent on the farm in Seymour. In September 1915, he married Myrtle I. Johnson, who survives him. After a successful recovery from a serious ilylness, he decided to take up residence in Havelock in March 1929, when he entered the employ of the C.P.R. Eight years later he took up residence in Campbellford and has made his home there since that time.

In January 1941 he went to Smith Falls terminal, where he resumed working for the C.P.R. It was while working there that he suffered an illness which necessitated an operation, the results of which caused his death.

The deceased had a kindly, jovial disposition and his smiling face and many acts of kindness won him many loyal friends. The funeral, which took place on Monday from the family residence, Canrobert street, Campbellford, was largely attended. The floral tributes were many and showed the high esteem in which the deceased was held. Interment was in the family plot at Lakefield cemetery.

Some of the friends and relatives who attended the funeral were: Mr. and Mrs. Walter McKee, Mr. and Mrs. Melville McKee. Mrs. Walter McKibbi, Peterborough, Mr. Evans Kee and Mr. Lowe, of Listowel, Mrs. A. Fegancher, Akron, Ohio, Mrs. S. McQuigg, Smith Falls, and many others.

DANIEL A. SHORTER.

HAVELOCK, Oct. 8.— (ENS). — The funeral of Daniel A. Shorter, a veteran of the 93rd Battalion of the Great War, was held on Thursday from the Curtis undertaking parlors, Havelock, under the auspices of the local War Veterans. Rev. J. W. Wilkinson, assisted by Rev. E. E. Pugsley, Norwood, also a veteran of the 93rd Battalion, and Capt. Turnbull of the Salvation Army of Campbellford, officiated.

Mr. Shorter was born in England over 71 years ago and came to Canada under the care of Dr. Barnardo Homes, but has lived in this vicinity for nearly 40 years. He enlisted February 16, 1916, in the last war and saw a good deal of fighting in France. After his return home, he worked on the railway section, bowling green, skating rink and other odd jobs around the village. He had a kind and thoughtful disposition and will be greatly missed among his wide circle of friends.

Pallbearers were fellow veterans, Harold Matheson, William Forsyth James Diaper, Ross Hart, David Stark and William Yelland and interment was made in Maple Grove cemetery.

Beautiful wreaths were given by the War Veterans, C.P.R Recreation Club and Mr. and Mrs. Ross Hart.

Just One War, Col. Knox

On September 24 Col. Frank Knox, the U.S. Secretary of the Navy, spoke rather sharply to the people of Britain. Their Government, he said, knew that there was a war in the Pacific, but apparently they were only partly conscious of that fact; it was obvious to him that in the opinion of the British people the European war came first; to them the Pacific war was a sideshow; he urged the British press to educate the people "to the necessity of fighting this Japanese war".

Col. Knox has been given a very satisfactory answer by the Hon. Herbert Morrison, the British Home Secretary; Mr. Morrison believes in the soft answer which turneth away wrath, but he believes in plain speaking, also. He admits frankly that the Pacific conflict is second in the minds of the British people, and that the European fight, which is only 20 miles away, is their pressing immediate concern. "I know that you will forgive me for mentioning that the war in Europe has been with us a little longer than the other", he said; he refrained from mentioning that, even at that, it has been with us a bit longer than it has been with the U.S.

It is curious that an American official of the first rank should have spoken so carelessly to an ally. There is a combination of childish selfishness and adolescent idealism in his outlook which is surprising. His country's interests were struck by the Japanese, and therefore he seems to expect all the United Nations to drop what they are doing and make a dead set at the wicked Japs. Great wars are not fought that way.

And talk about "the Pacific war", as though it were a special war, divorced from the rest of the fight, is sheer nonsense. There is just one war, and some of it is in Europe and some in Asia. We want to win the whole thing, and if our strategy calls for a clean-up in Europe before we turn to the East, that is the way it must be. Col. Knox has not shown a very statesmanlike grasp of the situation; it is a good thing that his President is a wiser man than he.

The U.S. has had more than one promise that we shall give all our attention to the Japs as soon as we are able to do so. After all, our kinsfolk in Australia and New Zealand are in greater peril than any large area peopled by citizens of the U.S. Prime Minister Churchill has said:

> "It is, too, agreed between us, that we are at the earliest moment to bring our joint air power to bear upon the military objectives in the homelands of Japan.... Let me make it plain, however, that Britain will participate in this air attack on Japan in harmonious accord with the major strategy of the war. Our desire, and the cruelties of the Japanese enemy, make our airmen all the more ready to share the perils and sufferings of their American comrades."

That was said when he spoke to the Congress of Col. Knox's country. And, as if that were not clear enough, he repeated the pledge in his Guildhall speech, a few weeks later, in these words:

> "Should Hitler's Germany and Mussolini's Italy collapse under the flail of Soviet Russia and the not inconsiderable exertions of the British and American armies in the Mediterranean and elsewhere, and should the war industries of Germany be blasted out of existence by British and American air power; should this victory be achieved before Japan has been laid low, I stand here to tell you, as I told the Congress of the United States in your name, every man, every ship and every airplane in the King's service that can be moved to the Pacific will be sent and there maintained in action by the people of the British Commonwealth and Empire in priorities for as many years as are needed to make the Japanese in their turn submit or bite the dust."

Has Col. Knox a short memory? Or does he not read the papers? Or has he merely allowed his emotions to get the better of his good sense? The intentions of Britain are clear, but his state of mind seems to be seriously confused.

A Baby's Complaint

The Montreal Gazette has printed a letter which it has received from a baby—clearly an infant of unusually lucid intellect—setting forward the difficulties which those who must feed babies encounter in these days of shortages. The Gazette suggested some time ago that oranges were not really necessary for babies; they could eat apples and grapes instead. But the infant correspondent points out that in order to get the same value in vitamins that it would have from the juice of a single orange, a baby would have to consume half-a-dozen apples or a pound of grapes; a baby does not comfortably hold that many apples, and as it must have its grapes peeled and seeded, they are too much trouble for a busy mother.

Grapefruit and lemons are also suggested as substitutes for oranges in a baby's diet. But grapefruit are too expensive to be used freely, and most babies do not like lemons. Anyhow, consider the effect of a lemon-juice diet on the child's disposition. Tomato juice is not to be had. Babies are up against it if they cannot have oranges.

Some people may say: "I didn't have oranges as a child, and I grew up to be strong, healthy and intelligent". There is no polite answer to this argument, and any baby who encounters it among his elders would do well to avert his eyes and continue to insist that he wants oranges, and wants them at a price where he can have at least one a day.

We are glad that a baby has written to the Gazette. We think that it is time that babies spoke up. After all, everyone else is criticising the Government; why not babies? Getting suitable food for children under two years old is an increasingly difficult problem, and we should like to know whether any helpful arrangement can be made about it.

About Men Biting Dogs

We draw the attention of our readers to our Third Column today, in which we reprint an article from the Winnipeg Free Press about news and newspapers. The writer deals in a most efficacious manner with a member of the Canadian Association For Adult Education, who has made a number of silly charges against the press in Canada, praises the British press and PM, and in the words of G.V.F., does a smear job on the press here. Admirable answers to these follies are contained in the article.

There are one or two things which we should like to add to what G.V.F. has said. First of all, the Adult Educator says that newspapers have to show a profit, and are therefore liable to intimidation from advertisers. Anyone who knows anything about newspapers knows how false that is. Advertising and circulation are Siamese twins in the newspaper world; if one languishes, the other fails too. Circulation is built up by giving the public plenty of news, and by taking a strong stand on matters of public concern; anything which interferes with those prime duties of a newspaper endangers its life. A newspaper which takes dictation from its advertisers will, in time, kill itself by that method. Newspapers show profits only when they are run on sound journalistic lines, and it is not sound journalism to allow anyone but the publisher to lay down the policy of the paper.

Second: groups like the Canadian Association For Adult Education do quite a lot of good in this country, but they exaggerate their importance grossly, and they take themselves with unbecoming seriousness. A good daily newspaper does more in a week to educate the public than the C.A.A.E. does in a year, and does it better. Newspapers are in touch with people and with events; they usually have a shrewd idea of what is possible and what is not, and most of them keep up a continued advocacy of what is desirable, considered in the light of what is possible, for Canada.

The attitude revealed in the article criticised by G.V.F. is the common one that what is successful must be meretricious, while what is unsuccessful and neglected must be too good for the public taste. Many a moribund society or association lays this flattering unction to its soul. Our advice to the C.A.A.E. is to seek a blood transfusion, and attack its necessary job with new energy, and not to waste time attacking the press, which is in the same business as itself.

More Balderdash About News

By G. V. F.
In the Winnipeg Free Press

IN the current issue of "Food for Thought," the publication of the Canadian Association for Adult Education, edited by Mr. Claris Edwin Silcox, there appears an article written by one, Ruth I. McKenzie, on "Canadian Newspapers and Adult Education." We do not know if the McKenzie lady is married or unmarried, so we cannot call her either Miss or Mrs. She will excuse us if we refer to her as La McKenzie. The article interested us greatly. It begins with the old definition of news: "When a dog bites a man that is not news, but when a man bites a dog that is news." La McKenzie says that, in a nutshell, this is the professional newspaperman's attitude towards the happenings of the day. We happen to be a professional newspaperman and this balderdash interested us. We read on.

La McKenzie got better and better. Newspapers, she says, have long since ceased to be (if they ever were) merely a dispassionate record of events, "because the newspaper has become big business and as such must show a profit or fail." What this has to do with dogs biting men or men biting dogs we do not know. But we do know that if La McKenzie lived in Winnipeg, got married here, died here, or did something else that to her was important, it would be duly recorded in the columns of the Free Press. Is this because her marriage or her death is akin to a man biting a dog? Or is it because a newspaper is big business and as such must show a profit or fail? We see no relation at all. It may be brutal to say so, but La McKenzie has no circulation value at all, nor would the influence of advertisers (which La McKenzie says is very important and cites various rumors to support the the view) have any influence on the editors' decision to report these happenings in her life. They would be published because a newspaper — any newspaper—tries to mirror the happenings of the people it serves, be they prominent or obscure, and succeeds in reasonable measure in doing so.

MORE than this. Should La McKenzie take a part in any worthy community activities, should she take a lead in this or that little function which helps to make Winnipeg the good city it is, she would get extra attention from the Free Press, and possibly a little editorial calling attention to the lead she was giving and urging other women to go and do likewise. All this, despite the fact that she had never bitten a dog, or despite the sadder fact that neglect of her activities would result in no change in the profit and loss account of the Free Press.

More than this. Should the editor of Food for Thought come to Winnipeg, or should the high-ups of the Association for Adult Education come to town, they would be approached by a reporter of this newspaper—as indeed one of them was no later than last week—and asked to tell something of his program. This would duly appear in the Free Press. Never, so far as we know, has Mr. Silcox or any of his colleagues ever done anything remotely resembling the biting of a dog. It so happens that, from a profit point of view, they are all entirely worthless to the Free Press. Yet this newspaper would go to some lengths to obtain interviews regarding their doings. Why? Because the Free Press felt—and still feels—that the Association is doing a useful job in Canada, and that better Canadians may result from its activities. A simple, but surely a worthy, thought, somewhat divorced from the ideas which La McKenzie has written at some length, and which Mr. Silcox believed to be worth while spreading over his journal.

LA McKenzie has many other remarks in her article. They show many traces of something very common in Canada, viz., that a study of Toronto appears to be adequate as a study of Canada, and that something British is bound to be better than something Canadian. La McKenzie holds up the British press as an exemplar for Canadian newspapers. Let us inform La McKenzie that if Canadian newspapers emulated the popular papers of Great Britain she would be in the front rank of the critics. The popular British press, compared to the popular Canadian press, is miles behind it.

La McKenzie also has a kind word for PM. It makes us wonder if she ever reads newspapers at all. PM is not a newspaper in any ordinary acceptance of the term today. It is a crusading, tendentious sheet which goes in for interpretation and comment to such an extent that it is often impossible to discover from its columns what the real facts are. In its field it does what it sets out to do. It is not what Canadian newspapers do. We are better off as we are.

In a word, La McKenzie has done what is commonly called a smear job, and it will make a good many editors wonder why, in the name of sense, they ought to continue their labours on behalf of the Association for Adult Education. But they will go on doing it. Why? Because of pressure from big business and advertisers? No. Because of the rush of newspaper sales when they publish a report of Mr. Silcox's ideas? No. Alas, no. But because newspapers all over Canada spend the major part of their time playing some kind of role in the communities they serve and because their editors want to see Canada improved. They believe, rightly or wrongly, that the Association for Adult Education is an agency to that end.

Do they get any thanks for it? No. And, furthermore, they don't expect any. If La McKenzie had been anything different from what she is, it would indeed have been something like a man biting a dog, and worth big space on the front page. But some day an editor will start a campaign to educate the educators, and that will be something to watch.

Close to Romance

The terrain we are going to explore is called the Araba: the straight valley several miles across, extending from the southern end of the Dead Sea to the Gulf of Aqaba. We were undertaking this exploration during the finest of the seasons of the year, the spring. The rains were just ending and the desert was actually in flower. Though it may sound strange, there are about two weeks in the spring when the desert is a garden of yellows, blues, reds and all the colours of the rainbow. The closest thing to romance that I have ever seen in the desert is a camel boy picking a beautiful bouquet of flowers and giving it most affectionately to his camel. The Bedouins have an extensive knowledge of plants and animals; and, among other things, know the camel's favorite flowers and weeds.—From "The Living Past," by Cyrus H. Gordon. LAZARUS AT THE GATE

Washington Spotlight

(By J. F. SANDERSON, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

WASHINGTON, Oct 8 —(CP)—From many sources it is clear to Washington observers that the Germans have abandoned hope of winning the war and that the Nazi objective at the moment is a negotiated peace.

It is recognized, of course, that the Germans are still capable of carrying on a savage and desperate struggle.

The seriousness of the German situation is reflected plainly in the new propaganda line being followed by Paul Joseph Goebbels whose talents are dedicated to these things:

(1) Keeping the German home front from cracking; (2) persuading the satellite countries to stay in line; (3) most important of all, trying to split the Allies, particularly to drive a wedge between Russia and the western democracies.

While the gullibility of the German people has proved itself enormous, the little propaganda doctor is fighting a futile battle against the inexorable weight of military might.

A NEW OXFORD MOVEMENT

The anti-Roosevelt, anti-British Chicago Tribune has discovered a British plot to "overthrow the republic" and make the United States part of the British Comonwealth. The plotters, according to Col. Robert R. McCormick's paper, are American Rhodes Scholars who attend Oxford University in what the Tribune says is a sort of gigantic school of sabotage against the United States.

Representative J. W. Fulbright, Arkansas Democrat, is the author of the resolution favoring post-war collaboration by the United States and its friends which the House of Representatives recently approved. Fulbright was a Rhodes Scholar. The Tribune says he spent his formative years at Oxford "to learn to betray his country and deprive it of its independence."

But the best laugh in the series of Tribune editorials was the suggestion that any man educated outside the United States "must fall under suspicion along with the Rhodes Scholars."

"With the Oxford conspiracy before the nation as an example, it would be wise now for Congress to pass a law requiring all foreign-education Americans to register with the federal government, and it might be a good idea to have them finger-printed as well," says the Tribune.

SPAIN MAY QUIT

There have been various indications lately that the Allies are getting progressively tougher with Spain and it would not be surprising to hear soon of the withdrawal from the Russian front of Spain's Blue Legion of 10,000 men.

The Legion, sent to the eastern front by the Franco government amid steady pounding of "anti-Bolshevist" drums, is regarded as a true indication of the attachment of the Falange, the Spanish Fascist party, for the Axis.

The recent remarks of Earl Browder, general secretary of the Communist party in the United States, that it is an "illusion" to expect Russia to provide the United Nations with Siberian bases from which to attack Japan has raised plenty of eyebrows in Washington.

It is not known, of course, whether Browder was airing his own views or was inspired by Moscow but, if the latter is true, it runs counter to all official expectations in Washington.

For some time it has been expected here that, as soon as war on the eastern front would permit, Russia would throw off its cloak of neutrality in the Pacific. Meanwhile, Russia has not been pressed to risk war in the east because of her gigantic struggle against Germany. But it generally has been expected she would help defeat Japan when the weight of Germany has been lifted from her back.

When Leif Erikson Came

AS far as anyone knows, the first white man ever to set foot on any part of the land now included within the United States was that remarkable Viking adventurer, Leif the Lucky. It was almost a thousand years ago, according to the historical record, that 23-year-old Leif Erikson and his company of 35 hardy Norsemen landed somewhere on the shores of New England, in all probability in Masachusetts. They arrived in the autumn of A.D. 1003, and along the shores the fruiting heads of a wild-rice or wild-rye nodded in the gentle winds. It seemed to them a beautiful country, and pleasant to see.

Leif and his men put up temporary sheds, and later on they built large houses in which to spend the winter. With everything shipshape, half the men were dispatched each day to explore the neighbouring country, with strict instructions to return by nightfal and above all not to separate. But one evening Tyrk, Leif's foster-father, failed to return. The distressed leader promptly began a search that ended almost as soon as it had started. Tyrk was found, and in very high spirits.

"I found something new to report," declared he, "I found grapevines and grapes."

"Can that be possible, foster-father?" exclaimed Leif.

"It certainly is true," answered Tyrk, "for I was born where there was no scarcity of grapevines or grapes."

And so, the sagas say, when spring came they sailed away with a favourable wind. And Leif named the land after its special product and called it Vinland....

It is curious that the discoverers of Virginia should have been impressed, as were the Vikings, with the grapevines to be found on the new shores. The captain of one of Sir Walter Raleigh's vessels wrote in 1584,

....we viewed the land about us, being, whereas we first landed, very sandie and low towards the waters side, but so full of grapes, as the very beating and surge of the Sea overflowed them, of which we found such plentie....both on the sand and on the greene soile on the hils, as in the plaines, as well on every little shrubbe, as also climbing towards the tope of high Cedars, that I thinke in all the world the like abundance is not to be found....

But, like the Vikings, the discoverers of Virginia were standing only at the edge of a forest so vast and so magnificient as to be almost inconceivable.—From "The American Land," by William R. Van Dersal. (New York: Oxford University Press.)

A Way of Studying Pictures

WE have seen that Manet was the founder of modern Impressionism, yet in the minds of the public Monet stands forth as the most conspicuous Impressionist; and, as his later pictures were painted not in masses of colour but with an infinity of little dabs of paint, the public is apt to suppose that this method of painting is what is meant by Impressionism. Now Monet, like Manet, was an Impressionist, in that what he strove to render was the effect vividly produced upon the eyes by a scene; and, working always out of doors, he went further than this, in trying to represent the exact effect of a scene at a certain hour of the day....

But the method which Monet used to render his effects is a totally different matter from his way of seeing nature, and of itself has nothing to do with Impressionism. Nor was he the originator of the method of painting in dots or dabs. The first to practice it was a French painter but little known, named Seurat, who had studied very closely the experiments in light and colour made by certain scientists, among others by Professor Rod of Columbia University, and then applied the theory to the practice of painting. Seurat was followed by Pissarro, and then by Monet, and later by many others, among them our own American painter, Childe Hassam. But, since Monet stands out from all of them as the big original man, this innovation in the handling of pigments will be identified with him....

His aim was to render the appearance of nature as seen in out-of-door light,—plein air, as the French call it,—and especially the various effects of sunlight. Aided by the experiments of the scientists and by his own keen observation, he discovered certain facts which had escaped the notice of less keen eyes unaided by science; for example, that green, seen under strong sunshine, is not green, but yellow; that the shadows cast by sunlight upon snow or upon brightly lighted surfaces are not black, but blue; and that a white dress, seen under the shade of trees on a bright day, has violet or lilac tones. Science has proved that these are facts, and the keen, cultivated eyes of the artist corroborated them. Here was a new insight into realism.

Thus far, however, science had only opened up a new faculty of seeing; could it also suggest a method of reproducing in paint the effects thus seen? Professor Rood had made experiments by covering disks with various colours, and then revolving them and noting the colour produced while the disk was in motion. This suggested a new way of applying the pigments to the canvas. Instead of blending them separately side by side upon the canvas, so that the blending might be done by the eye of the spectator, standing at the required distance from the picture. As Pissarro himself said the idea was "to substitute the optical mingling for the mingling of pigments, the decomposition of all the colours into their constituent elements, because the optical mingling excites much more intense luminosity than the mingling of pigments."

If you stand close to a picture by Monet, you see only a confusion of dabs of different-coloured pigments laid on the canvas with separate strokes of the brush-point, in consequence of which this method of painting has been called the pointilliste method. But, if you step further back, these dabs begin to mingle, until they no longer appear separate but merged into a single harmonious effect....

The secret of his freer, fuller power is that he used a method of painting which, while it was clumsy and gross compared with the tenuous medium of light that he was representing, yet enabled him to suggest a higher key of light and more nearly to suggest the essential characteristic of light, namely, its vibrative quality.—From "How to Study Pictures," by Charles H. Caffin. (New York: Appleton-Century.)

A Bible Message

And as Jesus passed forth from thence, he saw a man, named Matthew, sitting at the receipt of custom: and he saith unto him, Follow me. And he arose, and followed him. And it came to pass, as Jesus sat at meat in the house, behold, many publicans and sinners came and sat down with him and his disciples. And when the Pharisees saw it, they said unto his disciples, Why eateth your Master with publicans and sinners?

But when Jesus heard that, he said unto them, They that be whole need not a physician, but they that are sick. But go ye and learn what that meaneth, I will have mercy, and not sacrifice: for I am not come to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance. (Matt. 9: 9-13.)

Awake to righteousness, and sin not; for some have not the knowledge of God. (I Cor. 15: 34.)

Ye are all the children of light, and the children of the day: we are not of the night, nor of darkness. Therefore let us not sleep, as do others; but let us watch and be sober. For they that sleep in the night; and they that be drunken are drunken in the night.

But let us, who are of the day, be sober, putting on the breastplate of faith and love; and for an helmet, the hope of salvation. (I Thess. 5: 5-8.)

Haiti Islands Develops Rubber

OTTAWA, Oct. 8.—(CP).—President Elie Lescot of Haiti told a press conference here to-day that next March or April his country will go into production of rubber, and he distributed samples of the Haitian product to show how good it is.

He said every resource of Haiti is being devoted to helping the United Nations with food, rubber, and sisal for rope-making.

If the American continent were attacked his people would mobilize for war, said President Lescot, and he expressed confidence the tiny Caribbean republic could raise 250,000 fighting men.

Here at the beginning of a week's Canadian visit, President Lescot—speaking in French—said that just before leaving Haiti he had signed a decree ordering increased food production and establishing priorities on the surplus for British, American and Netherlands possessions in the Caribbean. This food would be distributed to needy British, American and Netherlands consumers even if it meant that Haitians must go short.

$300,000 Fire Damages Store In Kingston

The F. W. Woolworth store on downtown Princess Street in Kingston was completely gutted by fire, causing a loss of $300,000. R.C.A.F. Fighter Pilots Relax On Fallen Kiska Front

AN ADVANCED R.C.A.F. UNIT IN THE ALEUTIANS, Oct. 8 (CP) —R.C.A.F. fighter pilots stand by planes within a few dozen miles of fallen Kiska and wonder what they're going to do next—they've run out of Japs to shoot.

Part of the credit for forcing the Japanese to evacuate Kiska, where they were well established, goes to the Canadian airmen who came to the Aleutians some six months ago and hammered at the enemy every time they could get their planes through a fog.

The fliers didn't go over in the big bombers but in fighters loaded with as much ammunition as they could carry plus a 500-pound bomb and a few light fragmentation bombs. Combat reports, said PO. D F. Griffin in an R.C.A.F. press release, show the Canadians gave the Japanese a fine pasting.

On July 26 the fog lifted for a whole day, and the R.C.A.F. pilots went on three missions to Kiska, scoring seven direct hits on the Japanese fighter strip. FO. Louis Cochand of St. Marguerite, Que., scored a direct hit on a heavy battery at North Head.

Life Is Tame

Life for the Canadian and the American fliers here now resolves itself into "getting through" every day. Their planes sit out on the runways and there is the occasional security patrol. The men take it in turns when the weather permits.

The Canadians and their American comrades have learned that the Japanese are not supermen, and that they can be made to run.

Canadian Soldiers Trade Hard Tack For Eggs

By WILLIAM STEWART
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE EIGHTH ARMY IN ITALY, Sept. 29 — (Delayed) — (CP). — Canadian troops moving forward on the heels of withdrawing Germans were amazed to find themselves in a sort of story book land, picturesque and quaint.

The war on the Canadian sector has been quiet since the start of the Italian invasion and the troops have had time to observe surroundings which under fighting conditions they see only from a soldier's point of view. But for the most part in Italy they have been able to look at the country and its people through tourist eyes.

The area in which they were operating before the fall of Foggia was a hodge-podge of modern civilization and backward civilization many generations removed. Most of the country was greener and more hospitable than the barren stretches farther south, but for every town with flashy new apartment buildings there were a half-dozen hill-top settlements mouldy with age.

The headquarters of a patrol commanded by Major Dick Danby of Vancouver was situated for a time in a valley beneath an ancient town sitting on a hill like a tarnished crown. The troops under his command lived in a vineyard on the slope of the valley and mixed for trading purposes with villagers who acted as though they had never seen soldiers.

Afraid of Jeeps.

Children scurried at the sight of jeeps moving through the narrow stone-cobbled streets and women in Sunday dress of pale blue skirts, dark blue blouses and bright red wool shawls peered half-frightened from low doorways, within arms reach of passing traffic.

The soldiers traded hard tack for eggs which were plentiful in an exchange which was extremely satisfactory to both parties. One town where eggs could be obtained in seemingly unlimited quantities was named "Eggtown" by the troops.

Most of the trading was done with black moustached men wearing black hats, black vests, black trousers and old black boots. They paraded up and down the steep, winding roads leading over-burdened donkeys and mules. The eggs were produced from either saddle bags or the pockets of the clothing.

Guns Amaze Them.

The peasants rolled their eyes when guns such as the 25-pounders commanded by Major Dave Ely of Toronto, were put into action against the retiring Germans. Apparently they had seen little of war in this particular sector. There were no signs at all of bombings. Lieut. Roy Nelson of Prince Albert, Sask., leading a machine gun section, declared the Italian war even in the front line, was as quiet as a Sunday in the park.

The headquarters of another patrolling force for a time was in a 13th century castle sitting in a dominating position on a hilltop, square and brown like a cardboard box. The castle was little more than four great walls around a court yard where the Canadians parked trucks, Bren carriers and motor-bikes.

The remodelled living quarters hung with holy pictures and with tiled floors, served as the office for Major Don Brain of Montreal who commanded the patrolling force. Capt. Jack Leach of Kingston, Ont., commanded the infantry attached to the group, which included mortars, machine guns and artillery.

Nazi Prisoners Help Save U.S. Fruit Crop

ANKARA, Oct. 6 — (Delayed). —(AP). — Unofficial reports in Ankara today said the German government had delivered a formal protest to the Trukish foreign office accusing the Turks of failing to show complete neutrality during the Allied attack on the Dodecanese and other Aegean islands.

The Germans complained, it was said, that Turkish anti-aircraft guns failed to shoot at transport planes using the coast as a cover and that British military personnel left for the islands in small boats from the Turkish shores.

Bodrum observers reported yesterady that British troops on Kos were landed in three days of intense air operations, during which flights of 30 to 40 U.S. air transports were repeatedly sighted from the Turkish coast. One of these crashed on Turkish soil.

MORRISTOWN, Pa., Oct. 8 —(AP).—Fire Chief Miles Riley told 2,000 High School pupils at a demonstration, "We are now going to demonstrate the new safety chute which replaces the old-fashioned safety net." Fireman William McGuffin started to slide down the chute. A rope broke and McGuffin fell 15 feet, breaking his elbow. "I think we'll stick to the old-fashioned nets," said Chief Riley.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

Western gridiron clubs will not be compelled to import U.S. college stars in future, it was declared yesterday at Winnipeg by FO. Lew Hayman, administrative officer of the R.C.A.F. at Ottawa and former coach of Toronto Argos and Toronto R.C.A.F. Hurricanes, after looking over the High school teams in the Manitoba capital.

"There can't fail to be high-class football in the west after the war," commented the Air Force recreation-program director when he had seen the youthful Collegians in action. It was pointed out the Winnipeg school teams had drawn an attendance of 19,000 for the four games played at Osborne Stadium thus far this season, compared with the 6,000 spectators at the two home games of the Senior Interprovincial Clubs.

Enter the Rabbit.

Rabbits are taking a personal interest in football this season, it seems. At Varsity Stadium, Toronto, last Saturday a cotton-tail scampered aross the field just prior to the Hamilton-Balmy Beach game and raced for an exit when the crowd yelled. Yesterday at Topeka, Kans., Major F. J. Laverty of the Army Air Base snatched a long pass and fell on a rabbit. When the 190-pound Laverty arose, Bunny was flattened out—dead.

A U.S. Marine fighter squadron in the South Pacific has made an offer for the baseball caps of the winning team in the World Series. The Marine fliers bargain to knock down a Jap Zero plane for every cap sent to them. They feel the diamond headgear should bring 'em good luck, in addition to keeping the sun out of their eyes.

Navy Wins.

Making a clean sweep of the series, Halifax Navy won the senior baseball championship of the Maritimes Provinces last night at St. John, N.B., with a 6-0 victory over St. John Dockmen. It was their fourth straight win.

Former outstanding backfield star of Toronto Varsity and Argonauts, FO. Bobby Coulter became a physical training and drill instructor of the R.C.A.F. and was assigned to an Ottawa Valley training centre two years ago. Coulter has now gone "air crew" and has been transferred to the Air Force Officers' Basic Training Centre at Domaine d'Estrelle, Que., for his course.

Students, Too.

Intramural sports are being emphasized this fall at the University of Toronto to meet the new requirements of the "duty-fitness" military training program. Students enrolled in the C.O.T.C. are to have less drill and more speed-up athletics.

Frankie Boucher, former big league hockey player and now coach of the New York Rangers, declared last night at Toronto he believed 70 per cent of goals scored in the N.H.L. in the past two seasons came from scrambles with the result no spectators knew how the puck "sneaked into the net." He predicted clean wide-open hockey under the new rule permitting a defending team to clear the disk up to the red line at centre ice.

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

Searching around for a goat in yesterday's world series game most fans would probably place the finger on Whitey Kurowski of the Cards whose series-winning homer of the fifth game last season completed the downfall of the Yanks. Kurowski had two errors yesterday and the played a big part in the 6 to 2 win of the men of McCarthy in the third fixture of the current series. His first one, a fumbled ground ball with two out in the sixth gave the Yanks their first run and his second misplay in the eighth frame put the skids under the ball game. Up to that stage Alpha Brazie, rookie sinker-ball left-hander of the Cards had held the American Leaguers to that one unearned run and three hits and with the Cards riding out in front by virtue of bunching three hits for two runs in the fourth the southpaw seemed to be breezing along to a well-earned triumph in his first world series appearance. But disaster came suddenly in the eighth. Johnnie Lindell who hadn't made a hit in the series slammed a single to centre and Harry Walker obligingly fumbled to give the hitter an extra base. Then Joe McCarthy, not relying on ankee power, but playing cagily for the tieing run, sent George Stirnweiss in to bat for Pitcher Borowy with orders to sacrifice.

* * * * * *

Then came the play that really meant the ball game. Stirnweiss obeyed instructions and laid down a bunt but Ray Sanders, Cards first-sacker came racing in and made a swell play by lacing the ball to Kurowski in plenty of time to nail Lindell at third. When the runner crashed into him Kurowski dropped the ball and everybody was safe. That was the break. Had Lindell been retired on the play the Yanks would have had a runner on first, with one out, instead of men on first and third with nobody out. Then as Stainback flied out to Litwhiler on a drive too close in for any attempt to score the situation would have been Crosetti coming up with two out and the tieing run still on first. In that case of course the Cards would have pitched to the New York shortstop with good prospects of stopping any further threat. But as it was with the tieing and winning runs on third and second and only one gone the National Leaguers had to gamble and they elected to pass Crosetti and set the stage for a possible double play. Rookie Bill Johnson of the Yanks made that strategy look bad by pasting a triple between Walker and Litwhiler and the ball game was gone. What happened after that didn't mean a thing.

* * * * * *

Johnson The Hero

That timely and solid rap made Johnson the Yankee hero. The young third baseman is so far the leading hitter in the series and has caused Card pitchers more trouble than the so-called powerhouses of the Yanks. The eighth inning blowup was a tough break for Brazle. Up to that stage he pitched wonderfully effective ball, showing perfect control and allowing only three hits and if his supporting cast had come up with perfect defensive ball the rookie southpaw might have duplicated Ernie White's feat of a year ago and come through with a 2 to 0 shutout. Those two Card errors in the early stages of that frame changed the whole picture. Hank Borowy deserves plenty of credit too. The Cards were cutting into his delivery early in the game and he was lucky to have escaped unscathed in the first inning. They did put three hits together in the fourth to nick him for two runs but from then on Hank was boss of the job. After Litwhiler's hit had driven in that pair of counters in the fourth Borowy retired thirteen batters in a row before Walker Cooper singled with two gone in the eighth. The Cards catcher was cut down trying to steal so that Borowy only had to pitch to twelve batters in the last four innings he worked. Give Johnson and him most of the credit for the Yank win.

* * * * * *

Incidentally it was the first time in the three games that New York power really asserted itself. It broke loose when Walker and Kurowski had set the stage and turned a tight ball game in to an easy win. And now the series moves on to St. Louis, with the fourth game scheduled for Sunday. The battle will wind up there even if the thing should go the full seven games. Manager Joe McCarthy has intimated that he will start his southpaw pitcher Marius Russo in the Sunday game and so far the Cards haven't named their choice. At that the Yanks might cross everybody up by calling on Spud Chandler figuring that by using him Sunday he would be able to come back for a seventh game if the series should happen to go that long. And by the same token Billy Southworth may send Max Lanier back at the Yanks. The left-hander pitched good ball in the opener and earned another shot. We still call the Cards but they'll have to plug those holes in the defence. You can't spot your opponents runs in the world series and hope to come down in front.

Kroehlers vs. Rivulettes

The eyes of Westclox players in particular and local softball fans in general will be turned on Preston tomorrow when two teams both of which are well known to the Big Bens, the Stratford Kroehlers and the Preston Rivulettes will battle it out for the provincial championship. Stratford lead the series one game to nothing and the arrangement is that should Preston win the first game tomorrow the series will be settled by playing a second game later in the afternoon. Discussing the prospects Chick Appel of the Stratford Beacon-Herald says: "They meet again in Preston next Saturday, and Kroehlers are expected to play a much better brand of softball than they did during the first game. As this observer saw it, Stratford Kroehlers turned in their worst effort of the season, and six errors are too many when clashing with the Rivulettes. The outcome should not have been nearly as close as it was, because Kroehlers tagged Eenie Ernst for a total of thirteen bingles, all singles, as compared with six yielded to Rivulettes by Hazel Banyton. The Rivulettes' display wasn't letter perfect either, because they bobbled three chances, but at that they scored but one earned run, while Kroehlers counted three honest markers. But then games are not decided on earned runs alone. They all count, no matter how they are scored, and this observer looks for Stratford Kroehlers to put up a much better exhibition next Saturday in Preston."

Next week's wrestling show, billed for Brock St. Rink on Tuesday night, sees Earl McCready, the Aurora farmer matched with Killer John Katan in the main bout and that tussle shapes up as one of the best of the year. It follows as a result of Katan's demand for a return bout with Gentleman Jack Clayborne. The Panther has been frothing at the mouth ever since the windup of Tuesday night's brawl, claiming that he really won that third fall and was robbed by Referee Bert Maxwell and he hasn't been appeased much by the ultimatum from Promotor Frank Tunney that before getting at Clayborne again he'll have to show his class by beating some first class opponent. And now they have tossed him in with McCready which means one of the toughest bouts that could be handed the Panther for the Moose is right up at the top among mat stars and powerful and clever enough to give any opposition plenty of trouble.

Storey's Smart Counter Wins Tussle

After battling hard in a Public School soccer game on Thursday afternoon, Central had to admit defeat when Jack Storey lifted the ball in below the cross-bar to get the only counter to give Prince of Wales a 1-0 tally and two valuable league points that still kept them at the top of the league. The winners failed to convert two penalty kicks. D. Long, Central's goalie, was brilliant in goal.

First Half

Choice of goals fell in favor of Central. Give-and-take play continued for a while until Central boys wilted as the rapid pace continued. A Central player handled the ball inside the penalty area and Millar was trusted with the kick but he hit the upright, McMaster catching the rebound to punt clear. Dormer transferred the ball to the other end where Kay handled with ease. Prince of Wales forwards backed up by a stalwart half-back line kept feeding the attack to confine the issue to Central goal area where McMaster and Brooks battled to the limit thereby holding Dyer, Foster, Kimberly and Jack Storey outside the shooting zone. Although the Prince of Wales left outside of less than five feet, outplayed the opposition time and again to harass the Central custodian. Half time: No scoring.

Second Half

On resuming, Central went on the offensive to bombard the Prince of Wales goal. Kay, goalie, handled everything ranged at him with ease to keep his goal intact. Play ran from end to end with the Westenders being more progressive with their combination that had the Central defense intercepting and nullifying dangerous raids set up by Dyer, Foster and Jack Storey, at outside left, who was a continuous source of danger throughout with his smart dribbling that was succesful. Central conceded another penalty kick that Dyer shot into the custodian's hands, who made a spectacular clearance. With five minutes to go, Prince of Wales peppered Long's charge without success until a corner kick taken by Bob Millar landed at the foot of Jack Storey who lifted the ball in below the cross-bar. Prince of Wales 1, Central 0.

Goal scorer: Jack Storey.

English-bred Colt May Be Retired

TORONTO, Oct. 8—(CP)—Fairaris, the English-bred colt whose promise of greatness never was sustained because of physical infirmities, may be through with racing. Col. R. S. If Fairaris stands up to training, Col. McLaughlin said, an attempt will be made to return him to the races next year. Otherwise he will be retired to stud permanently.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 — (AP). — St. Looey Blues....Of all the bad breaks the Cardinals have been getting in the World Series, perhaps the worst is the two-day layoff before the next game..... Bitter as yesterday's defeat was to them, they might shake it off if they were scheduled to play to-day, but with two days to think it over, that job of winning three of the next four games is going to look very big before Sunday afternoon ....Wonder if Billy Southworth will take a chance on pitching Ernie White on Sunday?......Billy wouldn't say whether White figures in his plans, but it would give the Cards a tremendous lift to have the Yank-blanker come back in the nick of time....The more popular idea is that Southworth will play safe and use Lanier.

Quote, unquote:

A Brooklyn fan (after watching the Cards in the eighth inning): "Them bums never played that way against us."

Yesterday's worst boner, the experts agree, was Ray Sanders' delayed throw to third on the crucial play where Johnny Lindell went into Whitey Kurowski like a half-back hitting the line.......If he'd made it quicker or even let Southpaw Brazle field the bunt, they figure Kurowski would have had the ball in plenty of time to set himself for the jolt.

LAWN BOWLING

The date for the annual meeting of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Co. has been set for Monday, Oct. 18th, at 7.30 p.m. This meeting is scheduled to be held in the club's rooms on McDonnel street.

The main business to come before the meeting is, of course, the election of a board of directors for 1944, and from what we can gather it would seem that the nominating committee has been really working and will offer many candidates for electino. It will be up to the shareholders from there on.

And besides this, there is other business that will demand attention; that of the financial statement, the reports of other committees and general business, so all in all it looks like a big night.

Also in conjunction with this meeting the men's section will present the prizes that were won during the season. All interested bowlers are asked to make it a point to be on hand. The bigger the crowd, why the better the meeting.

We understand that the ladies are holding their annual banquet on Wednesday, Oct. 13th at 6.30 o'clock. This is also to take place in the club rooms on McDonnel street.

Now just a reminder for our closing games of the season: Saturday, 1.30 p.m., men's doubles. Choose your partner. On Monday, 1.30 p.m., mixed tournament. Draw from the board. Fee 25c.

On Tuesday the greens will be closed for the season.

COLUMBUS RED BIRDS DEFEAT CHIEFS 7 TO 6 FOR THIRD VICTORY

Need One Win To Clinch Series Honors

COLUMBUS, Ohio., Oct. 8 (AP) —Columbus Red Birds came from behind twice last night to defeat the Syracuse Chiefs 7-6 for their third victory in four starts in the little world series. The defending champions need only one more win to become the first team in history to take the classic three years in a row.

Goody Homers

Syracuse lost no time scoring. Centre Fielder Goody Rosen plunked Wilks' second pitched ball over the right field wall for a homer.

The Chiefs exploded a four-hit four-run barrage in the third. Harrington walked with one out, and scored on Mele's single to centre. Kelleher rattled a single off Wilks' leg, but pitcher stayed in to allow West to single to right to score Mele. Red Barrett took over second. Del Savio greeted him with a single to sentre, scoring Kelleher and West.

Birds Tie It

The Birds tied it up, 5-5 with a five-run salvo in their half, featured by Wieczorek's three-run homer. With one out, Stumpf and Verban walked. Bergamo scoring Stumpf with a single. Wieczorek then uncorked his big blow over the centre field wall for three runs. Mack fanned, but Antonelli singled and scored on Heath's double to right.

Syracuse hopped out front in the seventh, Kelleher doubling and coming home on West's triple after two were out. Columbus, with two away in its half, got the winning runs when Mack tripled Antonelli singled him home, and Heath tripled to deep centre to score Antonelli.

TORONTO, Oct. 8 —(CP)— The good burghers of Red Deer, Alta., might as well stop dusting off the mantelpiece - there's no certainty yet that the Army will win them the Allan Cup. When Jim Henry, Mac Colville, Eddie Slowinski of the 1943 hockey champions, Ottawa Commandos, were moved to Red Deer, the citizens confidently expected the Allan Cup would follow. Now comes word that Nanaimo, B.C., is likewise confident. It's reported that Bill Carse, who coached Victoria Army to the Allan Cup final last Spring, will coach the Nanaimo team. The report has it that most of last season's Victoria players will follow Carse whose team will include Nick Metz, Joffre Desilets, Elmer Kreller, Dave McKay, Terry Reardon, Hugh Sutherland, Julian Sawchuk, Pinky Melnyk, Mel Lunde, Jimmy McIndoe and Jim Kennedy.

And rumors on the coast say Henry, Colville and Slowinski are likely to join the troops at Nanaimo.

Friday Fillets

The Montreal Herald's Sam Maltin predicts that Pte. Johnny Greco and LAC. Dave Castilloux will meet in Montreal Nov. 4 with Castilloux' Canadian welter title at stake. The Army-Air Force would stage the fight jointly, profits going to the Services Sports Fund . . . Frank DeMarco, who showed up with the Toronto Balmy Beach gridders last Saturday, is a noted senior baseball pitcher from Copper Cliff, Ont. . . . Eddie Remegis, Hamilton inside wing, takes his football in stride between shifts at a Hamilton war plant. On Saturday games Eddie works that night shift until seven a.m., takes time out for the football game, returns to work at 11 p.m.

Incidentally:

R.C.A.F. hockey clubs take note: Tommy Cooper, one of the best amateur hockey players, is at Edmonton manning pool awaiting posting . . . Pte. Syl Apps is uncertain whether he'll play hockey this winter—he says—because he believes his army duties may take full time and, anyway, that leg he broke last winter may not stand the test . . . two more N.H.L. players have announced intention to remain out of the big time this season. Selective service regulations will keep Vic Myles of New York Rangers in Moose Jaw. Phil Hergesheimer of Chicago Black Hawks will remain in Winnipeg.

Yankee President Misses Ball Game

NEW YORK, Oct. 8—(AP)—While New York Yankees were taking a 2-1 edge over St. Louis Cardinals in the 1943 world series, their president, Ed Barrow, was missing from a Yankee home game for the first time in 14 series since he became associated with the club.

Barrow has been suffering from an arthritic condition in his back and shoulders, but turned out to see the opening game of this year's set with the Cards on Tuesday, which the Yanks won 4-2. However, his condition, while not serious, was such that his physician forbade him to attend either the second or the third game.

Major League Stars To Attend Funeral

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., Oct. 8—(AP). — Funeral services for Robert J. Cooper, 58-year-old father of Morton and Walker Cooper, stars on the St. Louis Cardinal Baseball Club, will be held on Saturday.

Arrangements were made so his baseball-playing sons could attend the services during a break in the World Series. Morton, pitcher, left New York by train after winning Wednesday's game, and Walker, catcher, was to leave by plane after Thursday's game.

The brothers plan to rejoin their teammates on Sunday at St. Louis for the first game there.

Golf Champions To Play For City Title

Stan Payne of the Peterborough Golf Club will make his second bid for the J. E. Girven Trophy, emblematic of the city golf championsip, this coming week-end.

Stan won the Peterborough Club title, defeating Bob Abbott on the 54th green, after they were all square at the end of the regulation 36. Stan also won the right to meet Fraser Dunfield, Kawartha Golf and Country Club champion, for the trophy donated last year by J. E. Girven, assistant works manager of the Canadian General Electric Company. This cup is played for annually by the champions of the two city golf clubs.

Dunfield defeated Charlie Low, last year's Kawartha champion, one up, and this match also went to the 36th green before a winner was declared.

Play for the Girven Trophy is conducted on both courses. This Sunday, starting at 10 in the morning, Payne and Dunfield will tee off at the Peterborough Club and will play the first 18 over that course. In the afternoon the scene of battle will transfer to the Kawartha Club for the final 18 holes, with the two champions teeing off at 3.00 o'clock.

The golfing public is invited to attend this match for the City Championship and the Girven Trophy.

Remember When—

Credit Lindell With Break That Won Game

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

EN ROUTE TO ST. LOUIS, Oct. 8 — (AP). — This was strictly an American League laugh party that headed for the Missouri flatlands today and the final fling of the 1943 world series, all because Jumpin' Johnny Lindell showed that as a baseballer he's a pretty good blocking back.

The Yankees took an important 2-1 edge with them into the enemy's back yard for the opening of the series stretch run to start Sunday in St. Louis. All the heat now is on the Cards in defence of the world championship they won a year ago.

There wasn't a man, woman or child aboard this series-bound flier, who didn't point to Jumpin' Johnny's head-on crash into Whitey Kurowski in yesterday's big eighth-inning splurge as the standout "break" of the afternoon. The collision caused Kurowski to drop a perfect throw that left Lindell safe at the hot corner with none out. After that, the Yanks hit on every number incuding the three-run triple rookie Bill Johnson unloaded shortly afterward.

A Heart-breaker

It was a heart-breaker for Alpha (Bet) Brazle, the gangling lefty, to blow after mowing down the Yanks up to the eighth inning.

Just who will pitch in the fourth game still is in the tea leaves. Manager Joe McCarthy says he'll start Lefty Marius Russo, who won five and lost 10 during the regular season, "unless I change my mind." In that case it could be Spud Chandler, winner of Tuesday's opener.

Billy (The Kid) Southworth wouldn't let the folks in on his Cardinal chucking choice until he got back home, but it almost has to be Max Lanier, portside husky who dropped a close decision in the first game.

It puts a particular trademark on this series that it was Lindell who made the break to change what looked like a second straight loss for seven innings, into the win that may mean the whole works. For he has been one weak spot in the Yankee lineup up to now.

Pasted To Centre.

Then, leading off that eighth frame, he looked at one ball and pickled the next pitch on a line into centre for his first series hit. He rounded first and legged it to second as centre-fielder Harry Walker got completely tangled up trying to get the ball for the throw in.

George (Snuffy) Stirnweiss, the Yanks' reserve shortstop, then was sent up to hit for Hank Borowy.

Even though there was no force play on Lindell he just put his head down and lit out for third. The play had him beat but he took off and went head-first into the bag. His cranium bounced into Kurowski's, and Whitey had no further interest in holding the ball.

Stirnweiss, naturally, got a free ride to first on the fielder's choice Then, after Frankie Crosetti, the Cards' chief pest, was intentionally passed. Johnson brought all the ducks in off the pond with his 450-foot money-shot that got away from Walker in left centre.

The pest was just icing on the cake as Charley Keller walked and Joe Gordon, Bill Dickey and Nick Etten singled for the other pair of runs.

Made The Break

Johnny Lindell, Yankee outfielder, who crashed into Kurowski at third base in Thursday's game, causing him to drop a thrown ball, thus gaining a base and starting the parade that won the game for the Yankees.

Senior Hockey Has Six Teams

TORONTO, Oct. 8 (CP)—Ontario Hockey Assoc. officials yesterday announced the Senior A series will operate this season with six teams.

Toronto Navy decided last night to enter the series, changing a previous decision last Monday not to play this season.

The five other teams are: Toronto Army Daggers, Toronto R.C.A.F., St. Catharines, Hamilton and Kingston Army.

Officials said Niagara Falls Cataracts club officials notified the O.H.A. yesterday that they would not enter a team.

The series will operate as one group.

It is expected a meeting will be held shortly to draw up a league schedule.

High School Player Goes To Black Hawks

TORONTO, Oct. 8.—Jack Dyte, former Barrie high school hockey and football star, will be a candidate for a defense spot with Paul Thompson's Chicago Black Hawks this fall.

Dyte, currently operating in football with Toronto Indians, formerly was with Pick Hines' Baltimore Orioles and Johnstown Bluebirds in the Eastern States League. At one time he was on the Toronto Leaf list.

Word comes out of Chicago that President Bill Tobin of the Hawks is more than a little disturbed over a Hamilton report that George Grigor had been signed to a $5,000 contract for the coming season. "We have talked terms with Grigor." Tobin is quoted, "but no papers have been signed. Moreover the necessary clearance has to be obtained before any deal can be completed."

Both games will be played at Sudbury, the first next Saturday and the second Monday, Oct. 11 Trenton Fliers were in the running for this title but were forced to drop out because of a quarantine.

Name Joe Gordon Yankee Hero Of Three World Series Games

By WHITNEY MARTIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 —(AP)— A quick summary of outstanding positive and negative factors in the first three World Series games:

Greatest hero—Joe Gordon on all-around play; the Cooper brothers when considering the strain under which they toiled.

The goat—none outstanding, although Max Lanier might qualify with his error and wild pitch which helped Yanks beat him in the first game.

Greatest catch—Danny Litwhiler's one-handed shoestring stab of Gordon's drive—the toughest kind of catch—in the third game.

Most costly error—Whitey Kurowski dropping ball, under extenuating circumstances, and allowing Johnny Lindell to reach third safely in the eighth inning of the third game, thus lighting the fuse to the Yankees' big rally.

Biggest break—Martin Marion's foul drive into the left field stands which would have tied the score in the seventh inning of the first game had it been a foot to the right.

Hardest hit—Charley Keller's triple to left in the ninth inning of the second game.

Oddest hit—Frankie Crosetti's bunt which looped into right field for a single.

Oddest play—The vanishing ball incident in the first game when Lanier's wild pitch rolled up Walker Cooper's arm, shot into the air and dropped 20 feet to the right of the plate, permitting Frankie Crosetti to score from second as Cooper searched in the wrong direction.

Health Service Co-ordination Is Discussed

Representatives of the Board of Education and the Board of Health discussed last night the improving prospects of co-ordinating the public health services which they separately administer.

The immediate result of this round table talk was summarized by Mrs. W. R. Morris as an agreement in principle upon eight points submitted by Dr. R. A. Kelly, M.O.H.

However, as for a concrete outline of practical co-operation, Mrs. Morris suggested that further consideration of the proposals, in their full scope, should be given by small individual committees, reporting back to their respective Boards as the next stage in the present trend of rapproachement.

This conference at least marked a new advance in sentiment favoring an ideal which was probably first put forth by the Board of Health as a hope of combining local public health services under the one administration for the purpose of bringing about greater efficiency, centralizing effort and avoiding the possibility of its overlapping.

It was Mrs. Morris who quite pointedly remarked that one of the obstacles to co-operation was the change from time to time in the office of the Medical Officer of Health, a reference to the appointments which the Board has had to make in the absence of Dr. J. Murray Fraser, who has been on military duty overseas since early in the war.

D. G. H. Melton, chairman of the health committee of the Board of Education, presided at last night's meeting, and others present were Dr. C. M. Scott, chairman of the Board, Mrs. Morris, H. G. Walker, J. Fred Reed, D. V. Canning and G. W. Craw, Public School Inspector K. S. Wightman, Dr. Robert F. Nott, Health Officer for the Public Schools, and Dr. S. J. Graham, Dental Officer; also Miss M. J. Jory, Public School Nurse; Miss H. Buller, Dental Nurse; and Mrs. Beverely Howard, school nurse.

The members of the Board of Health were: Alderman Dutton, chairman, Mayor Hamilton, and Alderman J. E. Sullivan, Dr. Kelly; also Miss Geraldine Conley, Public Health Nurse. Mr. Melton is also a member of this Board.

Dr. Kelly's Eight Points

At the outset the purposes of the meeting were indicated by Mr. Melton and Alderman Dutton, with other members supplementing their outlines The aims of the Board of Health were summarized by Dr. Kelly as follows:—

"The Board of Health is responsible for the health and well-being of all the citizens; the Board of Education specifically for about one-fifth of this, namely the Public School children. As both bodies are directly concerned with the same individuals, it is believed that very close co-operation and complete understanding should exist in order that efficient services may be maintained. With this in view, members of the Board of Health are anxious to meet the health committee of the Board of Education to discuss mutual health matters. We feel that the following are a few of the matters which might be brought under discussion:

(1)—Methods of establishing relations so that a closer collaboration of health services might be reached.

(2)—With respect to health teaching in the home, as with nutrition, to be certain that nurses of both Boards are using the same material, that no contradictions in teaching occur, and that all information be up to date.

(3)—That the services be in close touch to facilitate the reporting and reference of cases.

(4—To be certain that no duplication of services exists, and that the ground is not twice covered.

(5) To ascertain whether preschool children may be referred to the school dental services.

(6) To have the united energies of both services available for any program or campaign.

(7) In the event of a widespread epidemic, to have the facilities of both services.

(8) By frequent talks and conferences to discuss and thresh out all health problems.

Unified Direction

Dr. Nott said the battle of health was like any other battle, it required united effort under the command of the Medical Officer. He said he saw no objection to all public health activities being directed from one office.

"I think that is bound to come," Dr. Nott said. "I would be glad to do anything I could in the direction of what Dr. Kelly has set forth.

The first change, Dr. Nott said later, would probably bring all the Public Health nurses under the direction of the Department of Health. That meant the school nurses would be put on part time "and the question arises how much time they should be taken from the schools. Then there is the question who is going to work for them? And that brings in the question as to the attitude of the Separate School Board. No section of the community should be left out, but there would have to be some financial responsibility."

A Primary Concern

Mayor Hamilton told the meeting the Board of Health was deeply concerned about the extension of health services in the city, in line with the greater attention that is being given to public health throughout the province.

Mrs. Morris said she could endorse the ideas presented by Dr. Kelly, but the extent of the proposed collaboration would have to be defined and the steps to attain it would have to be considered.

Alderman Dutton explained that the Separate School Board paid part of the cost of one Public Health Nurse, and that amount was slightly increased this year. They were also providing a dental service for the school children. "I would be greatly surprised if they did not respond in a way that would be adequate to expenses incurred by more health co-operation," Alderman Dutton said.

Exchange Information

Miss Jory told the meeting that hardly a day went by without exchange of information between herself and Miss Connolly. "I would to like to see conferences at least once a month as suggested by Dr. Kelly. I believe that would be a great help, and would be greatly worth while even if nothing else were to come out of this meeting."

Alderman Dutton commented that co-ordination of health services was not likely to lead to a reduction in health costs, and any idea of that nature should be dispelled.

On that point, Mr. Melton said he hoped the City Council would take a larger view of the importance of public health because the money spent in that work was essential to the community and was well spent.

Mr. Wightman expressed his approval of the suggestions made by Dr. Kelly, and said that in a general way they could be achieved now. "Our school health service has always endeavored to look after the points Dr. Kelly has mentioned. As to any duplication of services, our nurses report to the Medical Officer of Health all the communicable diseases which come to their attention. It seems to me that all that is required is goodwill and understanding."

Board's Mind Open.

As chairman of the Board of Education, Dr. Scott said he believed the Board desired closer cooperation, "and I don't think our members are opposed to considering amalgamation. The pressure on medical men these days is very great. We would have to consider how much time the Medical Officer of Health could spare for certain branches of the work in our schools."

Alderman Sullivan said the Board of Health with the guidance of Dr. Kelly would do everything possible to make a success of coordinating the public health services. "I am pleased at the expressions of that possibility by Dr. Nott and Dr. Scott. I feel that the health of the people is a great responsibility, and I sometimes feel that the work of the Board of Health more seriously than that of the Council."

Alderman Dutton recalled that at one time the Board of Health had no public health nurse. Then it employed one, and now has three nurses. The Victorian Order of Nurses had also three of its staff working in Peterborough, "demonstrating in a real manner the need there was for that service. I believe that it is being increasingly appreciated by all those who are being benefitted."

Dr. Graham, Miss Conley, and others joined in the discussion of various details of both Boards' health activities, and the meeting closed on the note of proceeding to study some workable plan of collaboration.

Rail Centre.

Nevel is a rail junction commanding lines to Leningrad on the north, Vitebsk to the south and Warsaw to the west, as well as rail approaches to the Baltic.

On the long-dormant Volkhov front just south of Leningrad, other Red Army troops under Gen. Andrei L. Yeremenko, hero of Stalingrad, gained 15 miles on a 15-mile front to relieve the German threat to Russia's second largest city. Kirishi, 65 miles to the south, was reported captured, and the Russians recorded the liberation of more than 100 smaller towns in this Lake Ilmen drive.

Russian activities in the Caucasus now have reached the "mopping-up" stage. Taman (Staro-Tamanskaya), on the western end of the bridgehead opposite the Crimea, and seven other towns were occupied during the day, Moscow declared, and "enemy troops unable to evacuate the peninsula are being wiped out."

Tremendous quantities of booty were seized in the Caucasian cleanup, the Russians said.

Canadians from the coast sector said tanks went into battle soon after the 8th Army reached the Termoli area and engaged German Tigers and Mark IV's, part of the armored force with which the Germans attempted to cut of a British forward infantry formation.

A fierce tank battle was fought within sight of the Adriatic. There was intense dive-bombing of German armor by Allied aircraft. German counter-attacks were said to have been beaten back through the dust, leaving the battleground dotted with burning wrecks.

Yesterday's operations took place in heavy rains and much of the fighting raged in muddy areas.

The bulletin said that the 5th Army, in addition to capturing Capua, 160 miles below Rome, has made steady progress in repairing communications demolished by the withdrawing Germans and by Allied air attack.

Bad weather curtailed Allied bomber activities against German-held portions of Italy yesterday, but British and American fighter-bombers managed to fly through clouds to shoot up roads behind the enemy lines. Eleven vehicles were destroyed and a Mark VI tank and a number of vehicles were damaged.

Spitfires Out

R.A.F. Spitfires patrolled the Termoli area where the enemy appeared to have concentrated his air strength. Supporting the 8th Army in beating back the German counter-attacks, the Spitfires shot down four Messerschmitt 109's yesterday and destroyed a JU-88 bomber during the night, it was announced.

Against these five victims Allied losses totalled four.

Meanwhile official tabulations showed American heavy bombers shot down 13 enemy fighters during the raid on Mestre, near Venice Wednesday. The victims were approximately half the total of the German fighter force which tried to beat off the raid.

The Allied air command announced that 190 disabled enemy planes were found on captured airdromes at Capodichino and Pomigliano, which constituted the two principal airbases for Naples. This brought the total of planes captured on fields in Italy to 692.

Of those found in the Naples area, 14 were giant six-engined Merseberg-323 transports and 54 were standard JU-52 transports. Forty-five of the remainder were Italian planes, some of which the Germans had been operating.

broadcast recorded by the Associated Press said that Norwich, north of England city was also a target of Nazi bombers during the night.

Many Trapped

The first wave of planes, which passed over London between 8:15 and 9:30 p.m. consisted of but six planes, the statement declared. Nine more came over between 9:45 and 11 p.m.

East Anglia and southeast Britain also were visited by the German bombers. Two enemy aircraft were shot down—one in the London area.

Canadian soldiers and civilians recently arrived in London stood on street corners to watch their first raid "in force." Britons and others who have been through the previous heavy aerial attacks headed for shelters.

Rescue workers toiled late into the night in several bombed districts in London to extricate persons buried in the wreckage. In one section 200 A.R.P. crewman and 30 soldiers operated in relays to remove victims from beneath piles of debris, some of which were moved by a 50-ton crane.

London newspapers reported air battles between the British bombers en route to Germany and the enemy raiders high over London streets. One German plane, bracketed by searchlights, unleashed a stick of bombs that landed across a main street in a crowded section, injuring many persons who had been watching the spectacular show.

The major raid on Stuttgart's big motor and electrical plants was the 13th of the war.

Friedrichshafen, attacked by a lighter force of Lancasters, is the site of Germany's largest radiolocation plant. The city, which lies on the shores of Lake Constance across from Switzerland, was last bombed by the R.A.F. during a shuttle raid to Africa on June 21.

Munich, bottleneck of rail transport to the Brenner Pass and the birthplace of the Nazi Party, suffered new destruction in a visit from light Mosquito bombers. It had been bombed by British and American heavy bombers twice before during October.

Mosquitoes on Job.

Other Mosquitoes ranged into North-western Germany to attack additional war targets during the night, the announcement said.

The night's far-flung operations constituted the fifth major night assault on German cities since the start of the month when the current heavy offensive roared on for four nights without stop and then was resumed after a lull of two nights.

A Swiss communique said foreign planes had violated Swiss neutrality during the night and that material damage resulted to that neutral country from German anti aircraft shells.

Later, the Berlin radio said British bombers had attacked localities on the Bay of Heligoland, suggesting the possibility that the targets of the Mosquitoes ranging into Northwest Germany might have been Wilhelmshaven or Bremerhaven.

It was stated authoritatively that last night's deep penetration into Southwest Germany in the attack on Friedrichshafen was made in a round trip operation from Britain and that the lengthening nights provided sufficient cover for the return home.

Scottish Women Put Everything Into War Effort

By JAMES A. ROY

(This is the fourteenth in a series of articles written for The Examiner by Prof. James A. Roy of Queen's University, Kingston, on wartime conditions in Great Britain.)

Since coming to Scotland I have had the opportunity of visiting a number of important centres of Scottish war industry. Scottish industry is part of the national war effort but it is something by itself at the same time with peculiar needs and attributes. I need not go into the peculiar problems of Scottish industry or the prewar policy of the centralization of British industry in the South. That policy may or may not have been wise or unwise; we are not concerned with that here. But many Scots felt that they had a legitimate grievance against the Government when they saw so many new industries being started in the south and thousands of Scotch girls being compelled to leave their homes and go south if they wanted work. It was felt that Scotland was getting a raw deal, that she was not getting her fair share of new industries, that she was being bled white in the matter of labor and that thousands of Scots girls who went to England would get married there, stay there, and become a loss to their native country. In fact a lot of questions arose which gave some of the more vocal Nationalists a chance to make their voices heard. All that is in the past now and Scots and English workers have one object in view. But to get things running smoothly a vast amount of organization and adjustment have been necessary.

Today in Britain all women from 18 to 45 are conscripted for war work with the following exceptions—married women with children under 14 years of age, teachers, nurses, and certain branches of the Civil Service. Married women, if conscripted for national service, cannot be sent away from their home towns unless they wish to go. A woman may express a preference for a particular type of work but that does not follow that she will get it. When a woman is registered she is called up in due time and sent to a Government training centre where she is trained in the particular category of work that is most needed at the moment. There is also a pre-registration of young people from 16 to 18 years but this is really to get them interested in some form of youth movement activities, such as clubs, Auxiliary Training Corps, etc.

When a young woman has been called up and has to go to a training centre outside her own town she is met on arrival by an official of the Welfare Department who arranges lodgings for her, conducts her to her training centre and generally helps her to settle in. All trainees are instructed in their own interests and for their own convenience to travel by certain trains indicated. All women are seen off from the home station by an officer from the local office and must report to the welfare officer on arrival at their training centre. The welfare staff engaged on reception duties consists entirely of women officers. On completion of their training women trainees or juveniles travelling to employment in the south, proceed there under convoy arrangements. Welfare officers of the Ministry of Labor are in attendance at changing and converging points and the local welfare staff is responsible for the care of transferees, including attendance at arrival and departure stations. Local welfare officers make feeding and lodging arrangements at changing and converging points where considered necessary. Transferees are required to pay for any meals and refreshment obtained on the journey and their pay starts as soon as they get on the train. The other evening, in a huge blacked-out station, I saw a large convoy going off to the south. It was an interesting sight. There were soldiers and sailors in the crowd of relatives seeing the girls off, mothers and sisters, sweethearts and friends. Some of the girls were laughing, some of them were crying. Some of the crowd that was being left behind were laughing, some were crying. Some were shouting, some were cheering. They sang "Tipperary," "There's a Long, Long Trail a-Winding,' "Pack Up Your Troubles", "The Bonnie Banks of Loch Lomand," and, finally, as the train steamed out of the darkened station into the inky darkness outside, "Scots Wha' Ha'e." Despite the inevitable weeping that one has always to expect on such an occasion, it was on the whole a jolly send-off and no doubt the girls are already quite acclimatized at their destination. The welfare officers with their kindly and tactful presence and the woman convoy officer gave the girls confidence and left their relations with the feeling that the transfers were in good hands.

I have been talking about woman mobile labor that has been transferred to England. The same transference of labor from England to Scotland as need arises, is also taking place. The work that many women are now doing in heavy industry is amazing. They are doing work that no woman would have been thought capable of doing only a very few years ago. They are doing

Careless Driving Charge Dismissed

A careless driving charge against Colin Deck, was dismissed in police court this morning when the crown offered no evidence after an argument had arisen as to whether Deck had been served with a summons within the time limit set by the Highway Traffic Act.

Deck was the driver of a truck which was involved in a collision at an intersection on September 28.

When the case was called, T. J. Carley, K.C., counsel for Deck raised the objection that his client had not been served in time.

Sergt. G. T. Puffer stated that the summons had been posted on October 1, but Mr. Carley produced the envelope in which the summons to Deck had been contained and pointed out that it was postmarked October 4. The dead-line was October 2.

Inspector J. F. Reid said that under the circumstances the prosecution would not offer any evidence and the case with dismissed.

Savings Clubs Total $196 For War Victims

Originating primarily as a means of boosting the sale of war saving stamps, a number of clubs came into existence, and then through the leadership of Bob Everitt, these were further extended under the name of " The Stamp out Hitler Clubs" for the purpose of addition to the foregoing, of giving help to the sufferers from air raids over Britain through the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund.

This dual effort on behalf of the war and the fund has proved to be a really worth-while effort, for counting the $6.00 listed to the credit of the clubs today, they have now contributed the splendid sum of $196.50, which also signifies that four times that amount of War Savings Stamps has been purchased by them to give assistance in the general war effort.

The donation today comes from clubs that have been foremost in maintaining this activity and includes the Canada Packers Club, the Kiwanis Club, the Empress Hotel and the Selkirk's Mens' Shop Club, each of whom report their winners as M. Steenburg and J. Goldie at the Canada Packers, Bob McClellan and John Troke in the Kiwanis Club, M. Pringle in the Empress Hotel Club and C. Selkirk in the Selkirk Mens' Shop Club, most of whom must carry a rabbit's foot in their pockets, for their names have appeared as winners on previous occasions.

Will Need More Help

The expected reprisal raids against London and other parts of Britain were launched by the enemy on Thursday night, the biggest attack since May, 1941, taking place, and with it bringing much property damage and probably quite some loss of life and injury to many others. This will leave many people facing a problem that will not be easy to solve, and specially since the worst time of the year from the weather standpoint is approaching.

This would call for immediate demands on the Lord Mayor's National Air Raid Distress Fund, and with the season of Christmas approaching, perhaps will require even larger calls to take care of additional children made homeless through these latest attacks.

This is something which could claim the attention of evry citizen having thought for the welfare of other less fortunate people, and the fund supplies the means through which they can bring this sympathy into play without any exxtra expense or trouble to themselves. Please do your part in this humanitarian work.

The personal element in the day's contributions is kept alive by a donation from "Mrs. C." and the very reliable helper at the Empress Hotel adds another $2.40 to its splendid record, it being only one week since the penny box located there was previously heard from.

Saturday's Market

At the stall for the Fund, Girl Guides Jean Graham and Jean Chambers will be on hand as sales clerks, when potted plants, and perhaps other produce will be offered for sale, and on the open market, a number of boys will be selling tickets for a draw on a pair of rabbits donated by William Welch, Hunter street.

450 Cords Of Slabs Ordered

Orders have been placed by "Wood Controller" Metheral for 300 cords of hemlock slabs and 150 cords of heavy hardwood slabs as part of the city council's enterprise in combing the north country for a reserve stock of fuel wood.

Deliveries are expected to begin next week. In the meantime 200 cords of hardwood have been piled in the Rink Street yard, and Alderman Glover's fuel committee is hoping that the autumn sunshine will remain through the month, not only as a favor to households that are short of wood and coal but also as an aid to the producers.

The committee and Mr. Metheral acknowledge that they are still a long way from building up a substantial stock pile, but some woodsmen are already at work on city orders, an additional source of approaching supply that was not in action a month ago. There is some hope too that local fuel dealers may be able to get some wood-cutting operations under way, and that the outlook may be considerably brighter a month hence.

Mrs. Frank Merrett Takes Up Duties In Cord Set Department At C.G.E.

During this week the Local Council of Women has been assisting the Selective Service in a drive to get married women working in the factories. Mrs. Frank Merrett, 363 Leslie Avenue, a vice-president of this group, became so enthusiastic that she signed on herself. TOP LEFT shows Mrs. Merrett registering at National Selective Service with Miss Gladys Costello, supervisor of the Women's Division, while William Mellis of the Selective Service looks on. TOP RIGHT, Mrs. Merrett is being given her badge and papers and is being made familiar with the C.G.E.'s identification system. One of the first things a new employee must do is visit Thomas Lister, safety engineer, and LOWER LEFT shows Mrs. Merrett being told about general safety rules and plant surgery. LOWER RIGHT shows Mrs. Merrett at her job in the Cord Sets Department working under the direction of the foreman, G. Hawkes.

4th Battery Cancels Thanksgiving Parade

Four gunners of the 4th Reserve Heavy Anti-Aircraft Battery were recently promoted to the rank of lance bombardier. They are C. H. Allen, J. M. Watson, J. M. Wilson and R. E. Dixon.

Two young members of the battery, G. E. Howard and W. G. Brown, were taken off strength this past week in order that they might join the Sea Cadets, while S. C. Bronson and P. E. Schweir were added to the ranks of recruits.

There will be a special gun drill for officers and N.C.O.'s of the battery on Sunday, but due to the Thanksgiving holiday Monday, no parade will be called.

75 Persons Are On Welfare List

The city's welfare list last month was down to 75 persons as compared with 119 in September a year ago. Classification was as follows: 18 heads of families, 27 dependents, 5 single men and 25 single women; and a year ago 21 heads of families, 58 dependents, 7 single men and 33 single women.

Per capita assistance was $8.55 last month and $8.81 in September 1942. Total outlay last month was $643.30 as compared with $1,048.44 in September last year.

This statement was provided by Welfare Officer Metheral at the committee meeting yesterday afternoon with Alderman Glover in the chair.

Plan 12 Classes In Plowing Match

G. A. Gillespie has a new round-up job on his hands, promoting the county plowing match at Henry Batten's farm in North Monaghan next Wednesday.

Circumstances are somewhat adverse to the usual number of entries, and as the association decided to put on a match rather than let it lapse, perhaps for the duration, some of the officers are telephoning around to remind prospective contestants that they can help the cause by lining up next Wednesday morning.

Walter Thorn, president, is also doing a recruiting job; Frank Paterson and some of the other members are also putting in a word to novices and others, telling them that even if they never plowed in a county match this is a special opportunity for them.

There are twelve classes with $12 and $15 as first prizes, and the directors are planning to demonstrate buck rakes and combines, one of each at least.

Mother With Two Sons Overseas Signs To Work In War Industry

With two sons serving in the forces, Mrs. Frank Merrett, 363 Leslie avenue, wants "to get down to business" and help keep the production line moving. Backing up this statement, Mrs. Merrett has signed on with the C. G. E. to work in the Cord Sets department, beginning next Tuesday.

The work in this particular department appeals to her because she will be making parts of equipment that her sons may be using and which may be instrumental sometime in saving their lives. Mrs. Merrett is a vice president of the Local Council of Women which is assisting the Selective Service office in this current drive, and she declared she wasn't asking anyone to do what she wasn't prepared to herself.

With all the family working, the new employee felt that she could spare the time to take on a job in a factory herself. Her husband is in Time Study at the C. G. E. and a daughter Frances works in aircraft at the same plant. Her oldest son Bill has been with an anti-aircraft unit in England for three years and a second boy, Jack, has been serving in the Navy for two years, and she believes in backing up her fighting men.

Busy Life

Mrs. Merrett is not exactly a person who sits at home with her hands folded waiting for things to happen. She has been active in several organizations and holds offices in quite a few. Besides serving in the Local Council of Women, Mrs. Merrett is 1st vice president of the Navy Auxiliary, on the Executive Board of the Nicholls Hospital auxiliary, convener of Empire study of the 57th Chapter I. O. D. E. and 1st vice president of the Peterborough Ladies Auxiliary.

Although Mrs Merrett is not going to make a real start at her job until next Tuesday, she was taken down to the C. G. E. and given her badge and was instructed on how it should be worn, what to do in case she lost or damaged it. From this office she was whisked to the Safety Engineer's department. Mr. Lister talked to her on general safety rules and the care given in the surgery, and gave her a book of safety rules.

Finally, she had her biggest thrill when she was escorted into the Cord Sets department, where she was introduced to the foreman, G. Hawkes, and was instructed how to punch the clock, time tickets and then shown her job. Mr. Hawkes gave her a work out just so that she could get the feel of it.

Her move into action has apparently infected others in the Local Council of Women and Selective Service officials have expressed their amazement at the number who have been offering their services.

Two More Ready

Mrs. E. Wand, 326 Burnham street, an immediate past president of the Local Council of Women, registered at the Selective Service office Thursday morning. She came to Canada in 1908 when she met her husband and has been married 33 years. She has never worked since her marriage, but is now responding to the appeal. Just where she will take up her duties has not yet been ascertained.

A third member of this group to have taken the plunge is Mrs. W. H. Morton, 627 Water Street, who will shortly join the staff of the Quaker Oats company. This will be the first time she has been employed for 28 years. Up until now she has been a housewife and she has one son, Bob serving in the Navy.

Mrs. Morton, is the leader of the L. C. W. and holds the office of president. She too believes in practicing what she preaches and having no small children is ready to play her part

MenRoundedUp In Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 8 (Special to The Examiner)—The efficiency of the National Selective Service organization was demonstrated here yesterday when four officials descended on the town and staged their biggest round up of the war.

The board set up its headquarters in the local police station, which it took over for the day. Police Chief George Hardy and Provincial Constable D. G. Hayes, who formed a flying squad, kept traffic moving to the office in a steady stream throughout the day as nearly fifty men were summoned before the board. On arriving each man was ushered first from one to the other depending on the nature of the case, and given a thorough grilling as to the essentiality of his work. In fact if hte board was not satisfied as they were not in half a dozen cases, the person was given a ticket and ordered to report for work immediately in some essential industry.

Several of the older men who were called in expressed amazement at the board's methods but the officials were equal to the job of giving the brush off to anyone who even thought of getting tough with them. The official visit here yesterday was the second the board has paid to this town since the war and according to a spokesman for the group, who preferred to remain annonymous, the date of their next visit will for obvious reasons not be announced in advance.

Field Day Held By Swine Club

Two sons of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Milburn, of Smith, won first and third prizes at the Boys' Swine Club achievement day on their farm Thursday afternoon.

This junior farmer event is usually held at one of the fall fairs in the county. Perfect autumn weather greeted the boys as they penned the pigs they have raised this season. Parents of the young competitors and some of the neighbors added a little picnic or social touch to the occasion, and the affair was a most agreeable success.

The judges were J. R. Turnbull Dominion grader at Canada Packers, and Elgin Senn, chief grader at Toronto.

Their achievement awards were in the following order: Don Milburn, Trevor Lillico, Tom Milburn, Wallace Fowler, Milton Kidd, Cameron Clark, Carl Doughty, J. R. Lewis, Norman Kidd, Robert Cockburn and Ken Patton.

Two of the boys will be chosen for a judging trip to Kemptville next Wednesday.

Among those who took a lively interest in the work the boys have done all summer was T. T. Milburn, grandfather of the two boys who were in the top money.

The Experts Say . . . .

By The Canadian Press

OTTAWA, Oct. 8 — (CP). — Wrinkles gleaned from the experts for the benefit of housewives and business girls:

PICKLES: New pickle recipes, available to housewives won't strain the sugar budget much — and it's well worth a little sacrifice of present sweetness for the future spice, says the consumer section of the Agriculture Department in announcing that mimeographed copies of a dozen or so fine recipes may be obtained by writing for "Wartime Pickles and Relishes."

"PIECING" IN FAVOR: Doctors and nutritionists have placed their stamp of approval upon "piecing" between meals providing that the snack does not take away meal-time appetite, says Marion Harlow of the nutrition services. Tests have shown that workers in war industries do better work and are less tired at the end of the day if they have something to eat and drink in the middle of morning and afternoon.

Children, who often expend as much or more energy than a hard working adult, cannot eat enough at meals to supply all the food they need, and between-meal snacks are quite in order for them too if they consist of such foods as milk, whole grain bread, fruit or raw carrots.

Such foods make ideal "piecings" for they contribute to the days' supply of vitamins and of minerals, as well as giving a "lift" to tired bodies and satisfying appetites.

TRIPS AND TIRES: Byrne Hope Sanders, director of the Prices Board's consumer branch, suggests that rural housewives make their shopping trips to town coincide with those their husbands are making to transport goods, thus conserving gasoline and prolonging the life of tires and automotive equipment.

FEATHERLIGHT PLASTICS — The woman shopping for costume jewelry these days will be impressed with the quantity and the variety of plastics, which, unlike most costume jewelry, are very light. The new lines of plastic jewelry are "light as a feather," and the shopper who has a tendency to judge the value of a trinket by its weight will have to choose some other method of evaluating it.

CANNING CORNER: Here are a few storage "Do's and Don'ts" to keep canned goods in good condition: Test sealers for leakage before storage, and make sure they are wiped clean and that no food is adhering to the outside of sealers. Store canned goods in a cool, dark, dry place. If space is light, each sealer may be wrapped in paper.

Sealers should be examined after a week of canning for signs of spoilage, and checked periodically for signs of possible spoilage. They should be washed throughly as they become empty, dried and stored with lids and metal rings in place.

Rubber rings should be washed, dried and stored flat in boxes or envelopes in a cool, dry place. If lids are tightened after sealers are cool the seal may be broken and this also may happen if the sealers are lifted by the lids. Canned goods should not be stored in a place which is either too warm or too cold, nor should they be put away upside down.

Teachers' Federation Holds Discussion In Lindsay

Representatives and delegates of the Teachers' Federation for District Five met at the Benson House in Lindsay recently to discuss the matter of automatic membership in the federation. Miss Ora Dunford presided over the meeting and welcomed the delegates. Mr. Dettman, one of the guest speakers brought greetings from the Men Teachers' Federation.

New contracts, protecting both the teacher and the School Board, were discussed. A recommendation was passed that Education Week be set later in the school year, thus giving teachers more time for preparation. Rural teachers were urged to send in more material for the "Courier," the school magazine. Teachers were invited to send in material and suggestions for the new Grade V reader promised by the Department of Education.

Automatic membership was the chief topic of conversation, as ballots for voting on this question will be sent to each teacher early in October. Delegates were urged to contact all teachers and urge them to vote, whether they were members or not. Mrs. E. Davidson of Port Hope, spoke on Automatic Membership, which has already been adopted in Alberta, New Brunswick, Saskatchewan and Prince Edward Island. She said the advantages were the added strength that unity would give; the opportunity to advance and promote education and raise the status of the teaching profession; the safeguarding of teachers' interests; and the opportunity to arouse public interest in elucational affairs.

Discusses Membership.

Miss F. Rahmel, of Peterborough, discussed in detail the advantage to the individual teacher of Automatic membership in the Federation, mentioning, among other alvantages, that 100 p.c. membership among teachers would give the Federation more influence with the Department and with school boards, and that it would lead to the development of a code of teaching ethics. She pointed out that every teacher in the province would then receive the "Courier" and other pamphlets and articles pertaining to their profession, and said that the leaders could be more readily brought together and money would be saved.

The president called on Miss E. MacMillan to read a copy of the proposed Teaching Profession Act which has been submitted to the Ontario Teachers' Council and the Government for approval. A panel discussion of the proposed act took place, and the merits and demerits of membership in a province-wide federation was also discussed. All teacher are to vote on this matter next fall.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturdtay, October 9

ACCORDING TO the lunar transits this is a day for forging ahead, to major objectives, with vim, determination and hard work. Persistent effort in the right direction and initiative and enterprise, should bring promotion, and success, and the friendly recognition and rewards of those in high place and power. There may be some danger of extravagance or over optimism. But best returns should come from conservatism and wise expenditure.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is are promised decisive advancement, with varied interests, accumulations and possessions under expansive and secure influence. It is a time for determination, industry and ingenuity and skill of a practical constructive nature, and not through over optimism, extravagance or excess in both financial outlay or physical or mental energies. Use conservatism, thrift and farseeing precautions and outstanding success should be assured, although fast moves in the right direction may be lucrative.

A child born on this day although having energy, initiative and much constructive capacity will as well be industrious, persistent and responsible, achieving enduring success and stability.

Colorful Home Work

A wraparound frock of purple aralac cloth has a sleeveless design and skillful draping which flatters the figure in lines that suggest ancient Grecian robes.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

THIS is not a dinner dress design necessarily, but this department is showing it up to that class because it's warm except over the arms, and to warm the arms one of the new, bright shawls will get a fashion break.

It is made of a magic fabric, aralac, the substance made from skim milk after all other purposes for skim milk have been exhausted as to war effort. Aralac is almost as warm as wool, actual tests show, and a frock such as this New York creation is a find for the cold days and evenings ahead. Many an evening will be spent at home by the girls whose husbands are in uniform. For them, needlepoint in 1943 designs is a fascinating type of home work.

This is Everybody's War

By MOLLY BROWN

Vocational guidance for children and High School students is a good idea, and books offering such guidance are useful, if the information they contain is accurate and the picture they give of the profession in question is not too far removed from reality. Doubtless with this in mind, a new class of books has come into being and has found its way on to the shelves of our Public Library, and into the High School supplementary reading lists.

These books, roughly classed as "career" books, are novels of the lightest and most inconsequential type, but packed with information concerning the trade or profession or occupation in which the hero or heroine happens to be engaged.

Their inofrmation has the ring of authenticity, and it is presented rather cleverly as an integral part of the plot. "Peggy Covers London," a career book on reporting, which the writer read with some curiosity, did not drape this supposedly glamorous occupation with any false atmosphere of romance.

The story on which this information is hung is a featureless romance, in which the characters — or rather the puppets who pass as characters — have about as much personality as vanilla blancmange, and the lack-lustre language in which the whole thing is couched does little to help. It is one of those books that are fatally easy to read because they make no demands on the reader beyond the physical action of reading; they stimulate neither the mind nor the emotions.

The books give no real or complete picture of the professions they discuss. There is no emotional or intellectual reality about the stories to fuse the information into a living whole. This is chiefly because the authors have forgotten in their conscientious effort not to cast any false glamor, that all work is romantic when the worker is happy in his job. Young people seeking information on any profession would be better off if they inquired at the source for technical details, and sought, in the biography section of the Public Library and their school library, a real picture the work in which they are interested.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

WIVES HAVE TAKEN MEN OFF DOMESTIC THRONE IN AMERICA

Educated Women Refine Crude Males While Cultured Husbands Seldom Improve Mates

A correspondent says: "According to the law of the land, the husband is the head of the house. He is supposed to establish the official status of the family and to be the one who, in common parlance, rules the roost. But is this true The man is, of course, dominant in his business, but in his home doesn't the average man sing pretty small. And doesn't the wife wear the breeches, and I don't mean slacks. either?"

Right you are, Mister. In this country, at least, women, by hook or crook, or by subtlety or wiles, have somehow managed to ease men off the domestic throne and to have grabbed it for themselves. And Gallup poll would show that in ninety nine households out of a hundred it is Friend Wife who settles all the family problems, without bothering even to consult Husband about them, and when there is any argument between them about any matter he compromises by going her way.

Better For Wife To Be Superior

Whether this is for the general good or not is open for discussion, but, nevertheless, it is a fact that, taking them by and large, wives have far more influence over their husbands than husbands have over their wives. And when a couple are not evenly matched it is better for the man himself, and for the general interest of the family, for the wife to be the superior one.

There are many reasons for this. One is that in our particular civilization a man take his social position, as a general thing, from his wife. She boosts him up, or pulls him down. She decides whom they shall know and he gravitates to her crowd.

When a woman marries, she can open the doors of her own set to her husband, but a man cannot force his friends to accept his wife unless she belongs to their own lodge and knows the pass words. Mary may marry a very rough diamond and take him with her into the houses of the elect, but if John marries an uncouth woman, every door will be barred to her.

Why a wife finds it easier to lift a husband up to her level than a husband does to hoist his wife up to his, is one of the inexplicable mysterious of matrimony. It just happens that way. If a man marries a broad-minded, tolerant, generous woman, he almost invariably becomes broadminded and tolerant and generous, too. But if he marries a woman who is mean and prejudiced and narrow and stingy, he almost always becomes hard and narrow and mean also.

Woman Often Develops Crude Husband

Over and over again we see the wife perform the miracle of making a silk purse out of a sow's ear. We have seen a woman marry a man with little education and no social training prune his grammar and pronunciation and polish his manners until he had the speech and bearing of a gentleman. We have seen fine wives develop all that is good in their husbands' souls. But we rarely see a husband turn a boorish woman into a lady.

We have seen greedy women who wanted money and the things that money buys turn their husbands into thieves. We have seen jealous, possessive women make men forget the mothers who bore them. We have seen dull women without understanding or appreciation put out the fire of ambition in a man's soul and kill his every aspiration.

But we have known very few men who ever really improved their wives. Few neat men ever cured an untidy wife of slovenliness. Few educated men ever inspire their wives with a desire to improve their minds. Few generous men ever open the hands of a tight-fisted wife.

Fathers Seldom Influence Children

And as for the father's influence with his children compared with that of his wife, it is negligble. This is inevitable because the mother is with them more than the father and it is her hand that molds their characters. She forms their ideals. She sets her indelible stamp upon them.

If the mother is intelligent, she sees that her children have an education, but if she is dull and uneducated, she lets the matter drift and they go to school, or not, as they choose. If the mother is ambitous, she pushes her children on. She is a driving force in their lives. But if she is unambitious and happy-go-lucky, she rears the kind of boys and girls who take life easily and are satisfied just to drift through the world. And, no matter how much it breaks the father's heart to see promisng child material ruined in the rearing, there is little he can do about it.

And it is the wife who makes the atmosphere of the home. If she is a cultured woman, she makes it a place of beauty and refinement and gathers a delightful circle about her. But, no matter how cultured and refined a man is, he cannot give this stamp to his home, nor bring about him the people whom he would like to associate with if he is married to an illiterate and common woman.

So, after all, it is the wife who is the power behind the throne in almost every home.

This Weeks Wartime Recipe

Contributed By Mary Moore Readers

Dear Mary Moore: You probably get too many of these recipes that readers think are the best yet to print them all but I am sending it in in the hope that it might help some reader with the same size family as mine. This recipe calls for shank of beef for a thick soup using barley too. It is economical filling and delicious.

Beef and Barley Soup.

(Contributed by Mrs. Tyrrell)

A 2-lb. beef shank, 2 cups water, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ⅛ teaspoon cayenne, 1/3 cup diced celery, 1/3 cup chopped carrots, 1/3 cup onions chopped, 2 tablespoons parsley (do not reduce this for it is one of the nicest parts of the soup), 1 quart water, 3 tablespoons barley, ½ teaspoon Worestershire sauce. Add the 2 cups water and seasonings to beef shank and simmer about 2½ hours or until tender, covered. Pick meat from bones and return to stock in pot. Add all remaining ingredients except Worcestershire sauce and simmer until vegetables and barley are tender. Add sauce and serve—this makes enough for the main course for a family of five.—(M. Tyrrell).

This made me hungry to type it out. We had it on Saturday night when it had turned cool and thought it a find. Come again with more of this type.

Scottish Women In War Effort

hard work, difficult work, work that demands extreme accuracy, fine judgment, an excellent physique determination and intelligence. The other day I saw women welders and riveters, women working at tremendous lathes amid the most infernal din, and women manipulating enormous cranes transferring huge cauldrons of molten steel. Steadiness of nerve and extreme accuracy in judging distances are essential in this job; a slip might be fatal to the men working with the molten steel. Many of these wartime plants have had to be improvised at very short notice and the most formidable difficulties in organization had to be overcome. One of the first considerations in wartime labor is the health of the workers and everything possible is done to safeguard their health. Difficulties of one sort or another have, of course, arisen from time to time but these have been speedily ironed out by willing co-operation between the works' executives and the workers themselves. This sympathetic approach towards the workers' individual problems has not only helped to oil the wheels of wartime industry but has resulted in increased production. One woman worker to whom I spoke had her arm in a plaster cast. She was working at a heavy job with one arm. I asked the works' manager what had happened to her and was told that she had broken her arm and had been persuaded only with the greatest difficulty to see the works' doctor. She was afraid she might be ordered off work. Finally, she had to go to the doctor who did order her off work, but she was back in a couple of days. I asked her why she hadn't laid off work for a little longer at least. "Och, the boys wouldn't have known how to get on withoot me" was her reply. That illustrates the spirit of the Scottish women workers who are giving their strength, skill and much of their waking time to the prosecution of the war effort. One reason for the tremendous output in a small country like Scotland is not merely because the people are determined to win the war against iHtler as quickly and as thorough as possible; they feel they are human beings phose problems are not merely problems to be solved by themselves, but the care and responsibility of the management as well. In other words, sympathetic co-operation between workers and management is the key-note of wartime industry in Scotland. And this goes for everybody.

The Miners

One problem, however, that has caused and is still causing anxiety is the mining problem. The history of Scottish coal mining is long and bitter, and many of the old traditional hates and prejudices have not yet died out even during the present war. There are many issues to complicate the coal problem and both coal owners and miners have their own points of view. Mechanical deficiences are a contributory but not a large factor in the unrest in the mining industry as the total loss caused through this in Scotland is negligible. The managers complain that discipline has been seriously curtailed by the introduction of the Essential Works order under which no man can be dismissed except for gross industrial delinquency. The miners claim that the best seams in the pits are being reserved by the owners until after the war and that only the poorer seams are being worked now. But I do not want to embark on any controversial issues in connection with the difficulties of the coal industry in Scotland. I have heard the point of view of both masters and men; of the loyalty of the miners and their leaders as a whole there can be no question. But the present drop in output with only a negligible fall in man power is serious. The question of wages, payment of Income Tax, the old distrust on the part of the miners towards the coal owners, still further complicate the coal problem in the country. Many pits are doing excellent work but the miner's first loyalty is to his class and his union. I am told on high authority that there exists not only on the owners' side but on the side of the men as well, a genuine desire to see the coal feud ended and the pits made efficient and happy. The coal mining industry cannot be thoroughly efficient industry cannot be thorough efficient so long as there is unrest and a sense of grievance and a feeling of suspicion among the miners. No solution of the problem has yet been found. Should a real national emergency arise no doubt the miners would see that the welfare of the country depends on them. Were this situation to arise, and God forbid that it will, no doubt the old traditional hatreds would disappear. But as I said before, the whole problem is a vexed one and lies beyond our present scope.

I shall return to Scottish industry later.

Price Control Ration News

The Women's Regional Advisory Committee, Consumer Branch, Central Ontario, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, answers questions put to this paper regarding price control and ration regulations.

Q.—How many fluid ounces are supposed to be in a pound of corn syrup?

A.—There are 12 fluid ounces in a pound, as indicated on the preserves ration chart. You will notice on the chart in your store that one D coupon is good for not more than 14 fluid ounces of corn syrup which is 2 ounces over one pound.. ..On the other hand in the case of maple syrup you will notice that one D coupon is good for not more than 12 fluid ounces or exactly one pound....The amount of syrup, honey, molasses, etc., which you can get for one D coupon varies, according to the particular food item....When buying goods in containers it will not always be posible for the consumer to get the exact value for his coupon.

Q.—I understand the tea and coffee ration was increased recently. Would you kindly explain how we get that extra one-third of an ounce?

A.—Yes, the tea and coffee ration was increased by one-third. However, the coupon value was not changed so that you would get exactly the same quantity of tea and coffee for each coupon as you did previously. The increase as given by adjusting the valid dates—that is, tea and coffee coupons become valid every three weeks now instead of every four weeks as before.

Q.—My milk man is now delivering cream in fancy frosted bottles which are smaller than the half-pint bottles, yet he charges the same as the half-pint Can he do this?

A.—This is a matter for the Board's investigation department to check. Please send us the name of the dairy.

IN MEMORIAM

BYERS—In loving memory of our dear son and brother Raymond Byers who passed away October 8, 1939, in his 17th year.

Come to my heavenly garden
And see in perfect bloom
The flower you loved so dearly
And thought that I plucked too soon.
Then you will know my reason
Though you will know it not today
Why in his promising manhood
I took your boy away.

—Too dearly loved ever to be forgotten. Mother and Daddy, Sister and Brothers.

MENZIES — In sad and loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Mrs. Charles V. Menzies who passed away October 9, 1941.

We are sad within our memory,
Lonely are our hearts to-day,
For the one we loved so dearly
Has forever been called away.
We think of her in silence,
No eye can see us weep,
But many silent tears are shed,
When others are asleep.
To those who have a mother,
Treasure her with care,
You will never know her value
Till you see her vacant chair.

— Ever remembered by Husband and Family.

McILVENA—In loving memory of our dear mother Josephine McIlvena who passed away two years ago today, October 8.

Sincere, true, loving and kind
Beautiful memories she left behind.

—Sons and Daughters.

SMOKE—In loving memory of my Aunt Lil, Mrs. Steve Smoke, who passed away October 9, 1938.

Five years have passed and gone
Since one we loved so well
Was taken from our home on earth,
With Jesus Christ to dwell.
The flowers we place upon her grave
May wither and decay,
But the love for her who sleeps beneath
Shall never fade away.

— Always remembered by her niece, Lillian Taylor.

SMOKE—In loving memory of my mother, Mrs. Steve Smoke, who passed away, five years ago, October 9, 1938.

Peaceful be thy rest, dear mother,
It is sweet to breathe thy name;
In life we loved you dearly,
In death we do the same.

- Ever remembered by her daughter, Beatrice.

PIERCE—In loving memory of a dear mother Mary Pierce who passed away, October 8, 1940.

Not dead is mother, but sleeping
In her Father's home above,
Rewarded for her suffering,
Rewarded for her love.

—Fondly remembered by daughter and son, Marilyn and Ronnie.

PIERCE — In loving memory of our dear daughter Mary, who passed away October 8, 1940.

Beside your grave we often stand
With hearts both crushed and sore,
But in the gloom the sweet words come,
"Not lost, but gone before."
God knows how much we miss you;
He counts the tears we shed,
And whispers, "She only sleeps,
Your loved one is not dead."

- Lovingly remembered by mother, daddy, sisters and brother.

SMITH—In loving memory of our father, James Henry Smith of Parry Sound who passed away two years ago, October 8, 1941.

In our hearts your memory lingers
Sweetly, tender, fond and true,
There is not one day, dear father
That we do not think of you.

—Ever remembered by his daughters, Violet Teneycke and Lottie Stanley.

Bad News Again For Killer Katan

John Katan, the big wrestler who can make more trouble in a ring than a pair of Kilkenny cats, is in trouble this week. Katan met Gentleman Jack Clayborne here on Tuesday night and the result was mighty displeasing to the Palerno Panther; in fact infuriating would be the better word. Katan not only lost the decision to the slippery black, but all his efforts to obtain a re-match have fallen on stony soil. Honest John made Clayborne wait some two months before he would meet him here the other night and now Clayborne has taken the same attitude. When Katan appealed to Promoter Frank Tunney, the astute Maple Leaf Gardens maestro countered with the proposal that Katan meet (and beat) some other wrestler first. After several days of wrangling Katan has agreed but whether he is only out of the frying pan and into the fire remains to be seen. For Katan's opponent here next Tuesday night is none other than huge Earl McCreedy, the Aurora farmer. Earl "The Moose" eagerly jumped at the chance to battle it out with Katan who, with Clayborne, makes up the main opposition for Whipper Watson's British Empire title. "Everything happens to me" wailed Katan this morning. "I never should have come into this town in the first place. It's meant nothing but grief to me. Even when I beat Clayborne in that first match, all the people took it out on me afterwards. Then I was forced into the next bout and they gypped me out of that one. And now when I'm willing to a re-match, they make me meet McCready." Whatever the merits of Katan's complaint, its certain that the fans are due to see a great wrestling bout here on Tuesday. McCready and Katan are just about the tops in the heavy hitting department.

Classy 2-Year-Olds

TORONTO—(CP). —The monopoly on fast two-year-olds held this season by Col. R. S. McLaughlin's Parkwood stable was demonstrated anew Thursday when the Oshawa owner's two-ply entry ran first and third in the $1,000 preliminary allowance feature race of the second day of the Long Branch fall meeting at Dufferin Park.

Organize Bowling

COBOURG, Oct. 8 (ENS)—Five-pin bowling promises to be active in Cobourg this winter. A good-sized men's bowling league is being organized and a further meeting to line things up was held last night at the Dunham Hotel. The girls are holding a meeting Monday night to organize their league. Present indications are that there will be at least eight men's teams, Dye Works, Dark Horses, Foundry, Imperial Oil, Williams' Snack Bar, Cooey's, Oilers, Dunham Aces Shell Oil and Cobourg Cleaners. Stan Williams will operate the Alleys this winter.

Cardinals Win First In School Rugby League

St. Peter's High School Rugby League got under way Thursday afternoon with the Cardinals defeating the Sharks by a score of 31 to 21.

The game was a good exhibition with very few mistakes made, and the teams will improve with more practice.

The scorers for the Cardinals were Conroy, two touchdowns, LeGrow, two touchdowns, and Brady and McDonald, one touchdown each, while LeGrow kicked a single point.

O'Rourke had two touchdowns and Rudkins and Connelly one each for the Sharks with Lynch booting a single.

In the second game of the double-header the Wolves triumphed over the Red Sox 22 to 16. With five minutes to go and needing a touchdown to tie the score the Red Sox tried a long forward pass which looked good for a touchdown until one of the Wolves leaped high to bat down the ball and save the day.

Wade, F. LaPlante and McIsaac starred for the Wolves and F. McDonald, Lucano and B. Sheeny were best for the losers. The teams were:

Wolves—Wade, F. LaPlante, Donnelly, Williams, Mills, McIsaac

Red Sox — Lucano, Murphy, F. McDonald, Ferren, B. Sheehy, Fontaine.

Rev. Father Wolff refereed both games.

Writing Letters Easy With Rules

"Still Writing That Letter?"

A letter needn't take such hours! If you put off writing to friends—perhaps losing them—because letters are such a hard task, follow a little plan in your writing.

FIRST—A LOT OF "YOU." Write: "What are you doing . . Everyone asks about you."

And strike that warm flattering note right at the beginning, not starting with "I guess it's time to write you," but with "At last a chance to write you!"

SECOND—A LITTLE "ME." For, of course, friends want to hear about you.

THIRD—A DASH OF "THEY." Is there something to tell about mutual friends? There's sure to be —and there you are at the end of the sheet before you know it, writing "When will we see you again? Fondly yours—"

Knowing the simple rules you can write all sorts of letters with ease. Our 32-page booklet has 24 model letters—friendly, business and social—including invitations, thank-you notes, job applications. Gives pointers on vocabulary, letter etiquete.

For your copy of GOOD LETTER-WRITING MADE EASY send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

"The Authority on Authorities"

ONE FINESSE REPEATED

CURSORY glancing at a simple appearing hand shows some haphazard players that only one finesse has to be taken and that therefore there is no need for more than one entry to the dummy. Sometimes, however, you have to finesse twice against the same card, possibly three times. And, if you have no way to keep the lead in the dummy after the first finesse, you must find some means to get back there and lead through the trapped card again.

Because he could take the first four rounds of the suit, South bid his spades as if they were six-cards long, and then his clubs to show only four of them. If he had played as keenly, he would have had a nice game, but he failed to do it.

West took the heart K for the first trick, led to the A for the second, and the third heart was ruffed by South with the spade 3. The club K and A were cashed and the diamond 5 led, the J forcing the A. West would not be nice enough to return one of the red suits, firing back the spade 2, which South took. There was now no re-entry to the dummy, so South had to lose the setting trick to East's diamond Q.

South really beat himself on the first trick he won. If he had ruffed the third heart with an honor and retained the spade 3, then when he required to get into the dummy a second time, his 3 could have led to the 9 or 10. Then he could have led the diamond 10, and the Q would have been hamstrung completely.

Lone Survivor Tells Of Rescue

TORONTO, Oct. 8 (CP). —The Daily Star today published under a New York dateline a copyrighted interview with William Allen Fisher, 23, of Black Diamond, Alta., only survivor of the 147-man crew of the Canadian destroyer St. Croix, sunk in the Atlantic recently during a 10-day running battle with German submarines.

Fisher said 60 members of the St. Croix crew spent a night in a whaleboat before their rescue by the British frigate Itchen, which was sunk September 22, two days after the rescue. A rowboat carrying other survivors sank when men on floats "insisted" on getting into it. The whaleboat picked up 10 men from the British corvette Polyanthus which was sunk just before the rescue.

When the Itchen was torpedoed, Fisher leaped over the side and "as I hit the water there was another explosion and I felt that my stomach was being squeezed through my ears." He spent a night on a raft and was picked up the next day along with two members of the Itchen crew.

He is leaving the British naval recruiting station at New York tomorrow for a 30-day leave which he will spend at home with his wife.

United States Federal District Court Outlines A.P. Laws In Test Case

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 — (CP).— Much of the 7,000-word majority opinion of the Federal District Court here yesterday in the United States governments' suit against the Associated Press explained in detail the by-laws of the Co-operative News-Gathering Association.

Among the points in the decision was one that the AP's exclusive news exchange contract with The Canadian Press was not in violation of United States' anti-trust laws, provided the AP by-laws are changed as the court directed.

The Associated Press said there would be no statement at this time. There will be a meeting of the board of directors starting Oct. 19 to consider the matter.

Of the set-up of The Canadian Press the majority opinion said:

"The Canadian Press is the Canadian counterpart of AP; its by-laws provide: 'No member shall furnish news....of The Canadian Press nor his own local news to which the corporation has exclusive rights to any person in Canada who is not a member of the Corporate, nor to any United States news agency or newspaper other than the Associated Press and its members.'

2,305,203 Circulation.

"On Nov. 1, 1935, AP and The Canadian Press agreed that The Canadian Press would furnish its news exclusively to AP outside of its own territory, and would prevent any of its members from furnishing its own news or local news to any newspapers or agencies other than AP and its members. The consideration for this promise was a similar promise by AP not to sell to anyone other than The Canadian Press in Canadian territory.

"On Sept. 15, 1942, The Canadian Press had 87 regular members and one associate member, and in February, 1943, there were at least seven daily newspapers in the Dominion of Canada which were not members of The Canadian Press. The aggregate circulation of members of that Association was 2,305,-203; and of those who were not its members, 116,583."

In its decision, the majority opinion saiad of the APCP agreement:

"The fourth and last charge is the 'cartel,' or agreement, between AP and The Canadian Press that Canadian Press dispatches shall go only to AP members, and that AP dispatches shall go only to Canadian Press members.

"So far as by this means AP secures its own members exclusively all Canadian Press dispatches, the contract falls within the ban of the restrictive covenants challenged in the second charge. It is true that AP's only covenant is not to give its dispatches to newspapers in Canada which are not members of The Canadian Press, and that the Anti-Trust Acts are directed only to the protection of American interests; nevertheless, that covenant is the consideration for securing to AP members a monopoly of The Canadian Press dispatches, and condemns the contract as a whole.

A U.S. Problem.

"We can see no reason, however, why, if admission to AP were properly liberalized, it should not make such an agreement, whatever effect it may have in Canada. How far the Canadian law might forbid its execution there is obviously not for us to decide."

On the question of freedom of the press the court said in part:

"The effect of our judgment will be, not to restrict AP members as to what they shall print, but only to compel them to make their dispatches accessible to others. We do not understand on what theory that compulsion can be thought revelant to this issue; the mere fact that a person is engaged in publishing, does not exempt him from ordinary municipal law, so long as he remains unfettered in his own selection of what to publish. All that we do is to prevent him from keeping that advantage for himself.

Aim At Monopoly

"The argument appears to be that if all be allowed to join AP, it may become the only news service, and get a monopoly by driving out all others. That is perhaps a possibility, though it seems to us an exceedingly remote one; but even if it became an actuality, no public injury could result. For, if AP were open to all who wished the service, could pay for it, and were fit to use it, it would be no longer a monopoly.

Meanwhile, in Washington, John Henry Lewin of the Department of Justice's anti-trust division and originally in charge of the government's suit against the AP, commented on the decision:

"This decision holding the by-laws of the Associated Press violative of the Sherman Act is a victory for freedom of the press in a true sense.

"The press cannot be truly free if its main source of news is an asset of a private club and denied other worthy newspapers simply because they are business competitors of those who are members of the Associated Press."

Winter Program Begins For YMCA

The fall and winter boys' program at the Y.M.C.A. will get underway this Saturday, with a large enrolment in both the younger and older age groups expected to participate in the various physical and recreational activities.

A number of new features are to be added this season to the regular program of former years. For the age group from 8 to 12 there will be instruction in handicrafts provided, and constructive projects are planned for those among the older boys who show an interest in doing work of this type.

Gym classes and swimming will form a major part of the activities for all ages, and boys will have an opportunity for organized conditioning, athletics, group games and organizing leagues. Expansion of the physical program will give youngsters a chance to qualify for individual championships in such sports as indoor track and boxing, as well as others.

Swimming Classes

As in years past classes will be held for non-swimmers, and there will be advanced instruction added for the benefit of older boys as well as a life-saving course for those who have passed the required preliminary tests.

The younger group of boys, from ages 8 to 12, have their gym and swimming on Saturday mornings, while the older group, 13 to 16, go two days a week after school. Friday evening there is a recreational program for younger boys, with sing-songs, contests, stunts, skits and movies.

The two Hi-Y clubs of high school students are to be reorganized at an early date this fall.

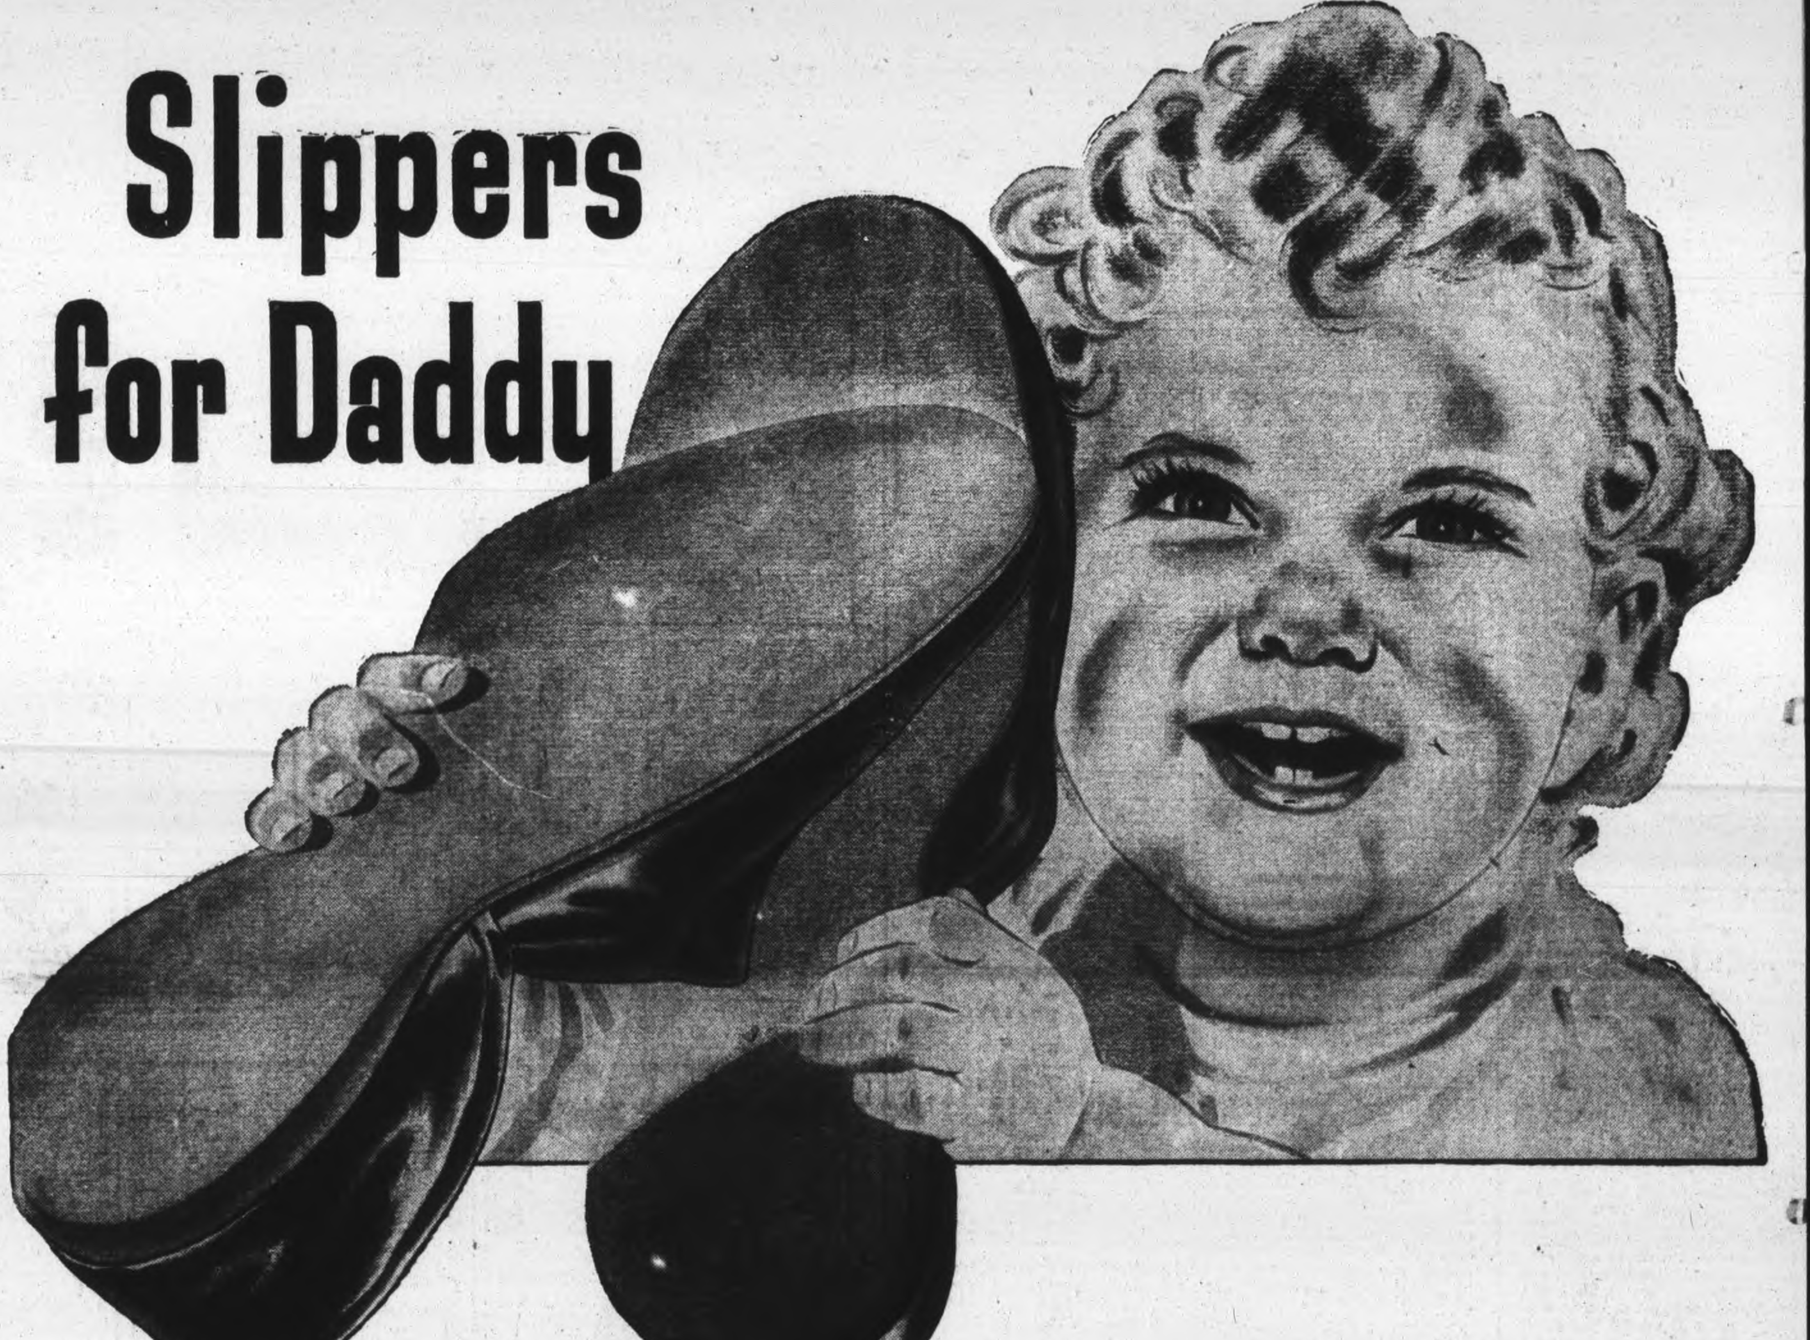
Slippers for Daddy



Slippers for Daddy, Johnnie? Why, you don't even know what he looks like . . . he went to war before you were born!

Happily, you don't know the dangers and hardships he faces, or for how long he may have to face them. And even we grown-ups can easily forget it.

Of late your Daddy has helped to bring victory so much nearer. We even begin to think of peace again with loved ones home and all the sorrows, miseries and restrictions ended. We are tempted to sit back and relax —to feel that there is no longer so much need for self-denial.

But therein, Johnnie, lies danger. For victory is being won by hard fighting that uses up our strength and resources every hour of every day. We must keep on building them up faster and still faster. For every little chance we give our enemies means a longer wait before Daddy comes home.

So now is the time for our greatest effort —the test that can make possible everything for which we are longing.

Soon we are going to be asked to buy more Victory Bonds, Johnnie. Only if we strain our utmost to buy to the limit—every one of us —can we give our victory offensive its full power. Surely, then, we must accept our duty without question . . . just as your Daddy is accepting his.

And the more willingly we accept it, the sooner it will really be—"Slippers for Daddy"

Pincers Move On Dnieper Menaces Kiev

Advance Guards Surrounding Great Fortress City

LONDON, Oct. 9—(CP)—Blasting huge wedges into the 30-mile deep German defence zone west of the Dnieper river north and south of Kiev, strong spearheads of the Red Army have hurled back fierce Nazi counter-attacks and entrenched themselves for what appeared to be a huge pincer movement aimed at enveloping the great fortress city.

Moscow announced today the major breach in the German lines was carried out south of Perelyaslav, 50 miles below the Ukrainian capital. It was expected expansion of this wedge may collapse the whole front. Carried out under the cover of darkness, the attack caught the enemy by complete surprise.

Of almost equal importance was the storming of the German west bank defences north of Kiev near the confluence of the Pripet and Dnieper rivers.

Here Soviet advance guards were fanning out to the south in a drive evidently aimed at hitting Kiev from the rear and meeting other Red army columns sweeping up from the south.

Smash Counters

A third important Red Army foothold on the west bank, between Kremenchug and Dnepropetrovsk, was also firmly established, the Moscow communique indicated, and Russians were repulsing counter-smashes in which the Germans hurled tanks, planes and men to no avail.

More than 2,800 Germans fell in the fierce bridgehead battles. Soviet airmen, screening the crossings, shot down 32 German planes in air combats high over the river.

Berlin broadcasts admitted "marked accentuation" of the Russian fan-like operations on the west bank of

Germans Mass Behind Volturno Line, Italy

German forces are lining up on the Volturno River line (A), north of Naples in Italy. They were placed in precarious position by the Allied capture and occupation of Benevento (B). The capture of Termoli (C) by the British Eighth Army, including the Canadians, placed the Allies in position for a westward drive toward Rome that could outflank the Italian capital. The black dotted line shows the Allied position when they had moved up after the Germans had evacuated Naples and taken their Volturno River stand 5 days ago. Since then the Allied forces have moved forward and crossed the Volturno. The British and Canadian troops on the east coast have occupied a height of land above Termoli.

Allies Force Crossing Of Volturno

Capture Caserta Road Junction In New Advances

By NOLAND NORGAARD
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Oct. 9 — (AP). — Allied patrols have fought their way across the lower Volturno River in Italy where they are probing the strong enemy defences on the north bank, and the Germans flung another division — the 3rd armored Grenadiers — into battle to hold the river line, Allied headquarters announced today.

The strategic railway and highway centre of Caserta, 16 miles north of Naples on the southern side of the Volturno, was captured as the Anglo-American 5th Army mopped up the last enemy resistance south of the Volturno and Calore rivers, official reports disclosed.

British and American patrols forcing the Volturno encountered brisk small arms and light artillery fire. A headquarters officer emphasized that front reports indicated no major body of the 5th Army had yet penetrated across the stream, and declared "there is every indication the Germans intend to try their best to hold there."

(The Paris radio reported that Allied forces in Italy now total 20 divisions, and said "a considerable American naval force" had bombarded German positions near Vasto, 15 miles above Termoli on the Adriatic.)

The northwest African airforces, again lending support to the Middle East command, reached out to strike at airfields in Greece, Crete, and the Dodecanese, and maintained patrols over the Aegean Sea.

Raid Crete

Heavy bombers blasted airdromes on Rhodes, and heavy and medium bombers attacked Eleusis airfield near Athens, and the Heraklion airdrome in Crete.

The raids on Crete, Rhodes and near Athens were carried out yesterday without loss while seven enemy planes were destroyed.

Medium bombers struck at motor vehicles and bridges near Calato on Rhodes.

In Italy, night bombers attacked road junctions and bridges at Isernia and Formia northeast and north of Naples.

Tanks Slug It Out

Heaviest fighting was reported raging on the banks of the Biaerno River, at the Adriatic coast where the British 8th Army, of which the Canadian First Division is a part, was slugging it out, armor against armor, with reinforced German troops. The German-controlled Paris radio broadcast reports today saying violent fighting was in progress in that sector, around Termoli.

Paris radio reports also said that a "considerable American naval force" was taking part in the battle on the Adriatic coast, shelling German positions in the vicinity of Vasto, 15 miles north

Famine Deaths 30 Per Cent Over Average

By DOUG HOW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Oct. 9.—On the eve of Viscount Wavell's departure to take up the role of viceroy, India's famine broke into the British press and awoke a renewed appreciation of the heavy tasks which lie before him.

Parliament drew from L. S. Amery, Secretary of State for India, the statement that parts of Bombay, Madras, Cochin, Travencore and, above all, Bengal and its great city of Calcutta had been under "the menace of famine" for months. Elsewhere, he said, the position generally was "not so serious" but heavy concentrations of population "are all a constant source of anxiety."

The Weekly Statesman and Nation carried the statement that "the description of life in Calcutta that now have begun to reach us, after long months of censorship and silence, read like extracts from some mediaeval chronicle of the black death." It is said 150 corpses were found in the street daily.

Families Broken Up

Reuters News Agency reported from Calcutta that a survey of 300 destitute families showed 25 per cent of them had "disintegrated"—"husbands had driven away wives and wives have deserted ailing husbands. Children have forsaken aged and disabled parents and parents have also left home in despair."

Mr. Amery told parliament the "death rate in Calcutta for the past seven months has been 30 per cent above normal."

He reported that India's central government "began taking the matter in hand a great many months ago" and said the British government was "giving such assistance as they can by facilitating import of foodstuffs."

He gave these reasons for the conditions:

Poor rice crops in Bengal, loss of the Burma imports, withholding of some portion of their crops from sale by 50,000,000 peasant producers and doubtless some merchants hoarding, coupled with some clashes of provincial and national interests and some local failures of administration. Moreover, he said, high food prices have created difficulties for many

142 German Planes Bagged By American Gunners Raiding Vegesack Sub-Base

Canadians Manning Heavy Halifaxes Out In Great Numbers
31 Bombers Lost In All Missions

LONDON, Oct. 9—(CP).—R.A.F. and Canadian bombers hit the German rubber manufacturing centre of Hanover in great strength last night, while a smaller force gave the seaport of Bremen its second pounding within 24 hours, and Mosquitoes attacked Berlin and targets in the Ruhr, the Air Ministry announced today.

The raids climaxed a day of intense aerial activity and preliminary reports showed that the attacks were concentrated. Thirty-one bombers failed to return from the missions.

Fire Still Burning

The R.A.F. force attacking the north German port of Bremen was guided to its target by fires set from heavy explosives dumped during daylight yesterday by American bombers which with fighter escort shot down 142 enemy fighters in a great battle in which 30 heavy bombers were lost.

It was the second heavy R.A.F. blow at Hanover, great German rubber centre of 500,000 population, within two weeks.

Canadian bombers were out in the greatest numbers since the R.C.A.F. bomber group was converted to heavy bombers early in the year, it was learned. The Dominion pilots were flying Lancasters and Halifaxes—the heavies they have only recently been given—in large numbers in the raid, as well as those work-horses of the R.C.A.F., the Wellingtons.

New Type Defence.

Returning American fliers from daylight raids on Bremen and Vegesack reported something new in German fighter technique — small, bomb-loaded rocket planes.

The Stuka dive-bomber plant at Bremen and submarine installations at nearby Vegesack were blasted. Three fighters which provided cover half-way to the targets failed to return.

The German radio admitted that "particularly heavy destruction" resulted from the raids.

The toll of 142 German planes was the second heaviest of the war and was exceeded only in the twin raid on Regensburg and Schweinfurt August 17 when 307 were shot down.

Yugoslav Army Attacks Trieste, Fiume

LONDON, Oct. 9 — (CP). — Yugoslav troops have launched fierce battles in a new drive to wrest the Italian ports of Trieste and Fiume from the Germans, a Yugoslav communique announced today, and have delivered smashing blows at the German forces along interior railways.

"Bitter fighting is going on in the southern suburbs of Trieste and south of the port," said the war bulletin broadcast by the Free Yugoslav radio.

Italian battle fleet units, turning against their former allies to support the Yugoslavs, have bombarded Nazi-occupied towns on the Dalmatian coast, the Bari, Italy, radio declared last night in a broadcast heard by the London Daily Express.

The Yugoslav communique said there was spirited fighting also in the Susak sector, with the Germans throwing a division against Yugoslav liberation forces holding heights dominating the port of Fiume.

Ogulin Surrounded

The Germans around Fiume were said to be attempting to push their way toward the town of Bakar, east of Susak, on the railway leading to Brod.

The German garrison at Ogulin 22 miles inland from the coast was declared to be surrounded and a large-scale offensive along a 50 mile stretch of railway between Ogulin, Karlovac and Zagreb was said to be growing in strength.

The Partisans, the war bulletin said, blew up the largest bridge on the rail line as the 7th division fought its way toward Karlovac.

The Germans, in turn, were reported to have employed more than 250 tanks in attacks along the Ljibljana-Trieste railway and near Goritza, but the Yugoslavs said the attacks were repulsed.

On the norther tip of Dalmatia, the 1st Dalmatian division was reported to be advancing toward Zara, an important port, 70 miles northeast of Split.

The Yugoslav war bulletin said huge amounts of war materials were captured in the seizure of Lavno, Ludbreg, Varazdinski-Toplice and Kolasin.

The action involving the Italian fleet was the second time Italian units were reported in use against the Germans. Some Italian fleet units were said to have assisted in ejection of the Germans from Sardinia.

Last night's Yugoslav communique also reported that in capturing the town of Tulsa on October 1, the patriots took 2,167 prisoners and killed 500 Germans, wounded 400 and took large supplies of war materials.

Fighting Cooks Capture Town

By WILLIAM STEWART—Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH THE CANADIAN FORCES IN ITALY, Oct. 7—(Delayed)—(CP Cable).— A weary, unwashed group of cooks and drivers from an Ontario regiment of the Canadian 1st Division smashed into a German-held town yesterday (Wednesday) and drove out the Nazi forces that were holding up the advance of the Dominion forces.

Led by Maj. A. A. Kennedy of Owen Sound, Ont., this force, hastily gathered together from army trucks and field kitchens struck the blow that climaxed the regiment's gruelling advance that took it for five days and five nights through the rugged Italian countryside with little food and less sleep. In fact, the soldiers making this forced march had only three meals during the entire trek.

Madoc Officer.

At the end of their march they found that their objective, an Italian town, was being firmly held by Nazi rearguards. With the majority of the troops close to exhaustion, it was decided to storm the miniature fortress with men who had suffered the least during the march.

So the cooks left their kitchens and the drivers their vehicles, formed up behind Maj. Kennedy, and stormed into the town, accompanied by Maj. Bill Stacklaser of Madoc, Ont. In short order they cleaned the Nazi machine-gunners and snipers out of the houses.

Peterborough Cook.

Mortar crews headed by Sergt. Norman Mooney of Bancroft and an anti-tank gun hastily brought up from the rear supplied useful support, and so did full-time machine-gunners like Pte. Harold Long of Tweed, but none of the "regular" combatants qualified more handsomely for battle honors than the guerillas from the filing cabinet, the kitchen and the latrine lines.

And while the kitchen mechanics were engaged in the fighting, the fighting men camped on the hills behind them were setting up the kitchens, preparing the first hot

Western Europe Remains Great German Stronghold

WINDSOR, Ont., Oct. 9—(CP).—Air Minister Power warned in an address here last night against any relaxing of the war effort because of recent successes and called for an acceleration of air power to make it "overwhelmingly supreme in every theatre of the war."

In an address before the Windsor Chamber of Commerce in which he also stressed the need for more aircrew recruits, Maj. Power said there was in Canada and the United States an "air and feeling of optimism," which he felt may have an "adverse effect" on the fullest development of the will to win and may lead eventually to "disillusion and disappointment."

He listed Allied successes in the Aleutians, the South Pacific, the Mediterranean and the Russian front, but warned that Western Europe still was "strongly and tightly" held by the Nazis.

In addition, there was the "new and intensified" U-boat campaign with new tactics and new weapons, a campaign aimed at the supply lines of munitions and food for the Allied armies of invasion and the civilian populations.

"This means loss and sacrifice and delay until such time as we will match the new weapons with newer defensive and offensive weapons," Said Maj. Power.

"That is the situation as it is today. Not gloomy, not desperate like it was. We have lost, thank God, the feeling that we might lose the war, but the stark, unblinking facts still face us. We have not won it yet.

"It behooves us all not only to relax our efforts but actually to accelerate them, and one means—in my mind the most important and preponderating — is to so increase our air power as to make it overwhelmingly supreme in every theatre of the war."

Discussing the need for more recruits, Maj. Power revealed that late last winter and in the early spring there was a falling off in applicants for aircrew training, a decline so great that in June and July recruiting from sources outside the R.C.A.F. had fallen to 50 or 60 per cent. of requirements.

The situation, "though not desperate," may become "alarming," said Maj. Power, adding that the Air Force could not continue to live from "hand to mouth" and must have assurance of a "steady and continuous" stream of aircrew recruits.

He reviewed recently-announced plans for recruiting manpower on a co-operative basis for the Army, Navy and Air Force, and went on:

"It is unthinkable that, at this time when we are in a position to make our greatest possible contribution towards the final drive to victory, our Air Force should fail short of its greatest effectiveness through want of enough men.

Americans Raid Prussia, Poland

By ROBERT STURDEVANT
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Oct. 9 (CP). — Following up R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. night smashes at Hanover and at other German cities, strong formations of heavy American bombers flew deep into Europe to-day to bomb important targets in Pomerania, in Eastern Germany, Poland and East Prussia, it was announced.

This deepest daylight penetration into Hitler's fortress from the British bases followed up the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. raid in great strength last night on the German rubber manufacturing centre of Hanover and a lesser R.A.F. raid on the port of Bremen, which American bombers had left in flames yesterday.

(The round trip from the vicinity of London to East Prussia would involve a flight of at least 1,600 miles).

Today's flight across Germany to East Prussia and Poland—at least 800 miles from British bases — may have carried the American bombers to within 300 miles of the Russian front line.

It foreshadowed the day when Allied blows from Britain may be linked up with the vast ground front in Russian and provided eloquent testimony of the feebleness of the German effort to forestall what Berlin calls the "air terror" that is striking down German cities one by one.

Claim Japs May Move Empire Centre

Asiatic Mainland Centre Of Many War Industries And Army Cliques

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

A warning by United States Senator Albert Chandler, Kentucky Democrat,—just back from the five-senator inspection trip to the war theatres—that the Japanese may move their seat of empire to the Asiatic mainland will strike many observers as a rather startling conclusion.

This column long ago called attention to the possibility that surrender by Japan proper wouldn't by any means necessarily guarantee the capitulation of the Japanese militarists and their great armies on the continent. My point was that the Nipponese generals in command of the armies of occupation in China, being in control of a vast new empire, might decide to ignore orders from the home government and carry on.

However, that's different from the idea of transferring the Japanese seat of empire to China. Removal of the government and the person of the Mikado from Tokyo to the continent would represent a veritable cataclysm in the history of Nippon—a loss of face which would almost cal for national hara-kari. Still, it can't be denied that cataclysms have happened in this war, and might happen again.

Industry Moves

The senator says he has good reason to believe that some of Japan's heavy industry has been moved to the Asiatic mainland, besides the concentration of industry in Manchukuo. That's a true bill. The Japanese have transferred some vital war industries to Chinese territory where advantage is being taken of natural resources.

Moreover, during a decade of control in Manchukuo the Japs have developed both resources and factories. The picture in China is not clear, but the invaders have made some progress there. In any event, the 10 per cent of China which they have overrun represents the country's richest territory, both in natural resources and industrially.

Allied strategy apparently depends heavily on bombing of the Japanese mainland to reduce Nippon to submission. If we had suitable air bases from which we could reach Tokyo, Osaka and other cities, we should be about the job right now. The rub is we haven't the bases, and Tokyo therefore is comparatively safe for the moment.

War Information Board Comes Under Fire

By JACK BELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 — (AP) —The United States senate's two-day private review of what's going on at the war fronts spawned today and investigation of the lease-lend operations and boded ill for President Roosevelt's request for an additional $5,000,000 appropriation to the Office of War Information.

Members showed a pressing desire to look into the operation of some agencies that were criticized roundly by five Senators who inspected the war theatres.

One of the touring Senators, Ralph Brewster (Rep.-Me.), served notice that lend-lease is in line for a thorough going-over by the Truman War Investigating Committee, on which he serves.

Brewster said the Truman group also is interested in the President's request for more funds for overseas operations of the O.W.I.

Brewster and Senator Henry Lodge (Rep.-Mass.) were in sharp disagreement over Lodge's statement that 1,000,000 American lives could be saved if Russia gave the Allies air bases in Siberia.

WITH THE R.C.A.F. BOMBER GROUP, Oct. 9.—(CP Cable).— One of the largest forces ever to operate from the Canadian Bomber Group smashed at Germany last night as part of the striking force the R.A.F. sent to Hanover.

The Canadian force included Lancasters, Halifaxes and Wellingtons. It lost seven planes.

Weather was good for the attack and preliminary reports from Canadian pilots indicated the assault was concentrated.

One of them, Flt. Lt. B. Day, D.F.C., of Aylesford, N.S., said the trip was a good one.

Others included Sgts. P. Clippardond of Windsor, Ont., Harry Spence, Bud Spencer and Ken Pollitt, of Hamilton, Ont., PO. I. H. Nicholson of Lakeview, Ont., Flt. Sgts. L. E. Goodkey of Bancroft, Ont., and G. Cattiny of Lakeview, Ont.

Nazi Counter Attack Fails

Loss Of Termoli Irks German Leaders

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Associated Press War Correspondent.

WITH THE BRITISH EIGHTH ARMY IN ITALY, Oct. 6 — (Delayed) — (AP). — Under the cool, grey eyes of Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery, British 8th Army tanks and infantry to-day smashed back strong German forces that had half-encircled Termoli, east coast anchor of the Allied line across Italy.

(The Canadian 1st Division forms a part of the 8th Army.)

In a brief visit to the forward fighting zone, Gen. Montgomery declared:

"The situation was a bit sticky yesterday, but it is satisfactory today. The Germans were surprised when we took Termoli with a seaborne landing and deprived them of the important lateral road violently. They transferred their forces to this sector.

"But the 8th Army has held their counter-attack successfully."

(In delayed dispatches dated October 6 and received October 7, Louis V. Hunter and William Stewart, Canadian Press war correspondents with the 8th Army, told how these German counter-attacks carried Nazi troops right into the streets of a deserted and unnamed town.)

Japan Loses 3 Warships Off Solomons

Rescue Attempt Costly To Nippon Force

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Oct. 9. — (AP).—An outnumbered force of United States destroyers, waylaying a Japanese task force bent on rescuing troops from the Central Solomons, sank an enemy cruiser or heavy destroyer and at least two other destroyers in a moon-lit battle.

The engagement, in which American losses were described as "moderate," occurred shortly before midnight Wednesday, north-west of Vella Lavella Island. It first was reported to-day by Allied headquarters.

The Japanese ships, in three groups were intercepted while attempting either to pull off Nipponese remnants still holding out against the Americans on Vella Lavella or to complete the evacuation of by-passed Kolombangara to the south.

Sharp Engagement.

Without waiting for reinforcements, the U.S. force manoeuvred for battle against the first enemy group. The communique said gunfire exploded a light cruiser and one destroyer; a torpedo sank a second destroyer, and two other destroyers, badly mauled, limped away.

(South Pacific Headquarters said a third destroyer probably sunk, and two or three other destroyers were damaged.)

The second Japanese group, probably destroyers, and the third, consisting of barges and small combatant craft, then swung around and retired at high speed.

The loses increased to more than 25 the number of warships the Japanese have expended in the Solomons since the Allies launched the current offensive June 30. They also have lost approximately 1,000 planes, more than 500 barges and uncounted hundreds of men.

Toll Of Barges

For weeks, American fliers and navy guns have exacted a heavy toll of barges sneaking enemy troops from their air base of Vila on southern Kolombangara north to Bougainville by way of Choiseul.

Rembert James, Associated Press War Correspondent, "watched this mass slaughter" on successive nights recently from the bridges of different warships.

City Is Divided Into Districts With24Salesmen

The city of Peterborough, in the General Canvass, has been divided into eight districts for the Fifth Victory Loan with the 24 canvassers under the chairmanship of Lionel Brown. These canvassers have a quota set up for every street.

While this quota does not seem big the number of eligible subscribers have been greatly reduced through the employees' section, the group payroll section and the selected names group. However, as in past loans it has been found that while the head of the house was buying bonds through the various sections there were others in the home would purchase through the general canvass.

Section A takes in Ashburnham and the captain is A. Sollitt with salesmen Rufus Payne, L. Brooks and W. Varley Drury. The quota is $40,000.

Section "B" headed by Charles H. Elliott as captain and salesmen J. Curtis, E. S. Bent and Bruce Sargent takes in for the most part the area of the city north of Park Hill Road but coming south to Dublin between Bethune and Downie streets The quota is $90,000.

Section "C" has K. S. Smylie as captain and salesmen W. E. Metheral, James Skinner and Victor Tully with a quota of $115,000, takes in the area between Park Hill Road on the north, Albertus on the west, King on the south and Park street on the east.

Section "D" with a quota of $38,000 and captained by Norman Hamley with salesmen C. A. McFadgen, C. A. Gallagher and Victor Gallon takes in the area with King street on the north, Park street on the east, Brioux avenue on the south and Monaghan Road on the west.

Section "E" is captained by Charles J. Ray and has a quota of $32,000 with salesmen Joseph Mackness, John H. Seels and W. S. Rose and it's boundaries are Lansdowne on the south, north on Aylmer to Romaine, west on Romaine to Park, north to Sherbrooke, east to Aylmer south to Perry street and east to the river to Landsdowne street.

Section "F" has a quota of $60,000 and is captained by E. G. Pridham with salesmen M. H. White, J. H. Anderson and F. Revoy. This section includes the area bounded by Park and Sherbrooke streets and north to McDonnel, east to Downie, north to Dublin, east to Bethune and south to Sherbrooke and west to Park.

Section "G" captained by W. J. Hamilton, salesmen S. G. Cole, John Lee and W. P. Kinlin has a quota of $50,000. The section starts at Brock and Bethune, north to Antrim, east to George to Park Hill Road and river, south to Hunter and west to Water and north to Brock.

Section "H" with a quota of $50,000 and captained by Gordon Monkman and salesmen A. J. McClellan, A. E. Cauley and Stanley Darling, takes in the area bounded on south by Perry street, then north on Bethune to Wolfe, east to Aylmer, north to Charlotte, west to Bethune, north to Brock, east to Water, south to Hunter and east to the river.

Main Battle Tuesday Is Big Timer

Big-time wrestling comes to Peterborough on Tuesday night when Earl McCready locks horns with John Katan in the main bout at the Brock Arena. McCready is undoubtedly one of the greatest wrestlers in the world today. The mighty Aurora Farmer holds authentic wins over the champions of 17 different countries. In almost every country in the world "Moose" McCready has carried the standard of Canadian wrestling prowess. But matching Earl, though in quite a different way is the record of John Katan. The Palermo Panther is noted in every country of the British Empire and in all the South American countries as well as every state in the Union Katan has established himself as Public Enemy No. One of the mat sport. And now they come together in the Peterborough ring and if that structure holds up the fireworks should be tremendous. Katan is fuming over his inability to get hold of Jack Clayborne again, but is determined to sweep McCready out of his way and then press his claim to a re-match with the bounding black man. But Peterborough fans will think that the little job of disposing of Earnest Earl may be far too big a mouthful for even the ruthless Katan to accomplish. Most mat fans here think that Earl knows all the answers.

Oodles of action is also promised in the other matches. In the semi-final Bunny Dunlop meets that other unpopular character Tony Doc. Felice, and long Joe Christie tackles a newcomer with the ominous name of Jan Gotch.

Visiting Tourists Confused Over Trout Law

LINDSAY, Oct. 9 —(ENS)—Hundreds of tourists visiting the Highlands of Haliburton County are confused over the official closing date of the trout fishing season. Visitors believing that the season extended to Oct. 15 are now informed that a closing date was set by the department of game and fisheries as of October 6.

Even resort owners in this district are firmly convinced that the season is open until Oct. 14. Fred Jones, of Drag Lake Lodge of Haliburton, stated yesterday that he had been informed by Game Warden W. Scott of Kinmount that the season was open until October 14. People inquiring of Game Overseer A. Hodgson of Lindsay were informed that the fishing season ended Oct. 6 according a special bulletin of the department of game and fisheries issued May 19.

Many people who save gas coupons especially for the Thanksgiving holiday are still in a quandary whether to go north for trout fishing or not. Criticism is being made against the department of game and fisheries for not advertising the proper season sufficiently and it is expected that announcement will be made today in order to clarify the situation.

Sanitary Inspector Praises Restaurants

Sanitary Inspector MacPherson said this morning that he was reading with considerable interest the reports of Toronto criticism of its restaurants and their supervision, or lack, of it, from a standpoint of health and sanitation.

"The Peterborough Board of Health has been all through that problem, and we have restaurants that will compare with any of them. Hotels, too," Mr. MacPherson said. "They are really on the job and have responded to everything we have asked. My own opinion is that it was about time Toronto did something to tighten up its restaurant supervision. They should be setting an example for the whole province, but they are not and their press knows it.

"The Board of Health in this city did not find it an easy matter to bring the restaurants into line in the way the Board wanted it, but the members were patient and firm and I think we all feel that we are getting real co-operation from the restaurant people."

300 Women Sign To Work In War Industries

Up to Friday afternoon at 5 o'clock over 300 Peterborough women had been referred to war industries and essential civilian work as a result of the special appeal which has been made for their services. Selective Service headquarters stated that the number was well in excess of the average number previously recruited in a week.

It was revealed that practically all of those enlisting were married women and that the majority had taken full-time employment. This, it was felt, was proof of the successful trend of the campaign, since its objective is primarily to secure as many full-time workers as possible. However, it was added, a certain number of part-time workers can also be taken on in some industries, provided the number requesting work in the afternoon can be balanced by about the same number who would be willing to take on the same job in the forenoon.

To meet this problem, it was suggested by Gertrude Dunham, Selective Service officer, Toronto, that women might form teams of two with friends and neighbours, one taking the morning shift and the other the afternoon shift for several weeks, and then changing round. This system was being employed in Britain and had been found successful in co-ordinating the industrial efforts of English women.

The response that women have made in the city of Peterborough, Miss Dunham said, has been greatly appreciated by employers, but the need continues for many more full-time workers. Officials are confident that many more women will register as the campaign continues next week, thus helping to meet the urgent requirements. They say that no woman should feel nervous or hesitate about taking on a job, even if they have not worked before, because once they go into the plants and start talking "shop," their interest will be aroused and they will find they can really do the work.

Mrs. F. W. Horton, 368 Brock street, is one of those who has answered the appeal, and she has chosen to do morning work, being on the job from 7 to 12 at Genelco. Mrs. Horton has three sons in the armed forces and two young children at home. One son, Edgar, R.C.A.F. has been reported missing since February; a second, Joel, is with the R.C.A.F. overseas; and a third, Ronald, is with the Army somewhere in Canada. Besides the war work she is now taking up, Mrs. Horton is a regular blood donor.

Mrs. Herbert Tremaine, 360 Park Hill Road, is a member of the Local Council of Women, the organization which is sponsoring the drive, and she has taken a part-time job in essential hospital work at Nicholl's Hospital, where she will serve as a ward aid and help with the trays.

One who has taken a full-time job at the Genelco plant is Mrs. Andrew Jackson of 655 Aylmer street, whose husband served in the Imperial Army and Air Force from 1914 to 1918 and who is now on active service with the Prince of Wales Rangers. Mrs. Jackson answered the appeal for additional women in war industry as she wanted to help, by doing her bit, towards the progress of the war. She has relatives in Scotland and a number of these are also serving with the armed forces.

Surplus Hoarded

Mr. Amery said enough wheat to feed Calcutta "on a tolerable ration basis" was reaching the city daily but "it is expected that it will be a month before rationging in Calcutta is working." He said he was awaiting the report of a committee of the Central Government which had met to consider long-term measures.

Official sources, amplifying Mr. Amery's statement, explained that of the 51,000,000 tons of food India produces annually nearly half is rice. The surplus of 14,000,000 tons of rice normally available from the peasant farms is supplied to the towns and cities.

School Children Collect Most Of 4,200 Records

Record collections in the salvage campaign being conducted by the service clubs throughout the city and taking in the whole of Peterborough County are progressing at a steady pace, and latest reports from the city schools, plus three country schools which have sent in records so far, give a total of over 4,200 old records contributed in the drive. The efforts of school children in Peterborough alone have accounted for 3,800 records, with no report in yet from the Collegiate.

Between 85 and 90 country schools, some of them of course small, have not as yet reported on their colections, but 14 pupils of the Westwood School, Asphodel, have brought in 56 records, and Lakefield has sent in an estimated 300 to the central collecting depot at the Fire Hall. Lang has contributed 12.

City schools report as follows: St. Mary's Convent 158, Sacred Heart 880, Prince of Wales School 736, King George 324, King Edward 164, Central 250, Queen Mary 700, Queen Alexandra 452, St. Peter's 101, Immaculate Conception 90.

It has now been decided to extend the drive from its original closing date to-day and keep it open over the long week-end until Tuesday. This is in keeping with the arrangements of other communities, and in Toronto the salvage campaign may go on till the end of the month. However, with the Victory Loan campaign soon to begin in Peterborough, it was thought best that the last day of the collection here should be set for early in the week.

It was hoped by those conducting the drive that lengthening the period to cover the Thanksgiving week-end would result in a greater response than could otherwise be expected. In view of the nice weather it was hoped that persons planning to go to their cottages would look through any stacks of records they might have laid away out there, and contribute as many as they could.

Halifax Strike All Cleaned Up

HALIFAX, Oct. 9.—(CP).—Their eight-day strike ended, 400 regular waterfront freight handlers were back on the job at 8 a.m. to-day, relieving servicemen who had been unloading shipments of war-bound goods from trains in the dock area since Monday afternoon.

The men struck Friday last week, protesting over the wage increase of four cents an hour granted them by the National War Labor Board, when they had demanded a boost from 52 to 75 cents an hour. They decided to return at a meeting yesterday morning, when only five dissenting votes were cast.

Their decision followed a final ultimatum by Labor Minister Mitchell Thursday night, when they were urged to go back on the job so it would be "unnecessary" to take further measures. They had refused a previous return to work order Monday, just before the troops were moved in to take their places.

Today waterfront was normal for first time this week. Sailors had had replaced sympathy-striking stevedores from Monday to Wednesday afternoon, and soldiers and airmen who had acted as freight handlers, were removed from the dock area. The regular workmen carried on the job of loading perishable goods and vital war cargoes in moored ships.

meal they had had since the march started on October 2.

Object of the forced march was to flank a German position and anchor the Canadian line. To accomplish this the Ontario regiment trudged through rugged country for more than four days.

Spurring them on to better efforts were leaders who had first tasted battle in Sicily, such as Capt. N. R. (Bob) Waugh of Vancouver, winner of the Military Cross.

Much of the time this advance was made through enemy-held territory, where machine-gun posts pecked at their tanks along with mortars and accurate small-arm fire. However, casualties were light and the biggest impediment met was the heavy and continuous rain.

Names Allan Park

The men were weary and close to exhaustion when they reached their objective, and the town was probably taken, not so much by the soldiers themselves, Maj. Clinton Nickle of Madoc, Ont., a company commander said, but as by hunks of Italian bread.

He explained this by telling how, when the Canadians reached the last steep ridge, they were so tired it seemed impossible to climb it. But some Italian refugees, camped nearby, fed the men a great quantity of tough, brown bread.

Lieut. Allan Park of Peterborough said, "The bite of bread is what put the Canadians up that last hill." He is the son of Lt.-Col. M. H. Park of Peterborough.

All of the men worked to the top of their ability, but a few who drew special notice were CSM. George Ponsford of Picton, Ont., who led a lost platoon through the night back to its regiment, and Cpl. Jim Buckly, Cardinal, Ont., who along with Ptes. Wilf Scott, Goderich, Ont.; Bill McGaffin, Deseronto, Ont.; Ernest Kuhl, Chesley, Ont., and Van Sende, Chatham, Ont., made long marches to evacuate casualties.

Then there was RSM. Angus Duffy of Trenton, Ont., who took on a hundred or more jobs connected with getting the wounded evacuated and supplies and ammunition up to the front lines, as well as others like Drivers Hugh Cunningham of Bancroft, Ont., and Jim Young of Brockville, Ont., who made strenuous marches to bring up supplies.

Supper Club Has 122 Members On Active Service

The Friday Night Supper Club got under way in a new year of activity last night. With 152 members having enlisted in the armed forces, the number present was somewhat smaller than in previous years. However, new recruiting schemes are being developed in order to bring the membership back to standard.

After a very excellent supper, the president, Harry Vass, welcomed some 35 fellows back to the club. Bill Messervey, master artist of boogie-woogie, lightened the atmosphere with several of his distinctive piano stylings. The guest speaker H. L. Garner, was introduced by Norman Allan. Mr. Garner, general manager of the Peterborough Examiner, and a past chairman of the Friday Night Club, was warmly received by all.

In his address Mr. Garner congratulated the club on having such a large honor roll, and said that such a response to the call of duty was very gratifying to a past president, in so much as it shows the high principles developed within the club itself. Mr. Garner outlined interesting experiences of the Friday Night Club while he was chairman, by developing important thoughts, vital to young manhood, and by making helpful and inspiring suggestions.

The vote of thanks moved by Tom Cooke and passed on to Mr. Garner by the president, was heartily supported by all.

Portugal May Declare War On Japs

Protest Action In Far East; Assembly Meets

LONDON, Oct. 9 — (CP). — Dispatches from Madrid to-day said diplomatic quarters there looked for Portugal to declare war on Japan as a protest against the Japanese encroachment upon Portuguese territory.

Correspondents of London morning newspapers reported from the Spanish capital also that the Portuguese National Assembly was called into session yesterday to hear an "important statement by the Portuguese Government."

There was no announcement when this session broke up, but the dispatches said Premier Salazar immediately went into conferenc with his Cabinet. Just before the Assembly convened, Salazar again saw the Japanese Minister to Lisbon, it was said.

The Daily Mail, without giving the source of its information, said the Japanese Minister had ordered his private papers burned after returning from a conference with Salazar on Thursday. The Mail added "important developments" were imminent.

The Portuguese Government has been incensed ever since the Japanse seizure of Portuguese Timor—strategically situated off the north coast of Australia.

While Portugal's officials were in almost continuous conferences yesterday, the War Minister was said to have requisitioned all private cars "for manoeuvres to be held this month." He also ordered all city garages to have space available for armored vehicles, dispatches said.

Lions Planning Turkey Bingo

A mammoth bingo at which turkeys and chickens will be offered as prizes is being planned by the Peterborough Lions Club and the date set is Friday, December 3 at the Market Hall. More than 100 turkeys and chickens will be given away, and as a further inducement arrangements have been made to store the turkeys until Christmas in a refrigerator for any winner who wishes to make use of the privilege. No charge will be made for this storage.

At the regular meeting this week, Ernie Houghton, of Toronto, district governor addressed the Lions on "Post-War Housing" a timely and informative talk that stressed the need for planning now so that definite results may be obtained in that period when the world will have gained peace once again.

The speaker was introduced by District Secretary Jack Armitage and the thanks of the club was extended by Bruce Sargent. Ed Bent supplied the draw prize which was won by Herb Jamison.

Considerable discussion took place concerning a masquerade party around November 1, but definite decision will be made at a later date.

The mammoth bingo party being held to raise funds for the British Child War Victims' Fund, is sponsored by the Lions Clubs of Canada.

Reverence for God Comes First In The Commandments

REV. E. R. JAMES.

They cast Stephen out of the city and stoned him. And the witnesses laid down their clothes at a young man's feet, whose name was Saul.—Acts 7, 58.

It is startling to realize that this is the first appearance of the great Apostle, St. Paul. He is the official representative of the Sanhedrin at execution of St. Stephen, the first Christian martyr. The victim is a young man, possibly educated at one of the great universities of the Roman Empire open to ambitious men. Stephen is one of the most prominent of the Christian converts. It is written: They were not able to resist the wisdom and the spirit by which Stephen spake." No wonder he was promptly arrested and brought before the Sanhedrin, the highest ecclesiastical Court of the Jews, who condemned him to death.

Saul is an equally earnest young man, trained in the strictest sect of the Pharisees. He is filled with hatred and animosity against the new Sect. He sees that its teachings are bound to make a great cleavage in the Jewish faith. He throws himself wholeheartedly into the attack of this Sect.

As you know at the Gate of Damascus came the great revelation. The Lord Himself appeared to him and he is convinced that this Jesus of Nazareth is indeed the Christ. To St. Paul the Church owes a tremendous debt.

"What does he look like?" is the natural question. There is a little book written about that time entitled: "The Acts of Paul and Thecla."

"A man small in size, with meeting eyebrows, with a rather large nose, bald headed, bow legged, strongly built, full of grace, for at times he looked like a man, and at times he had the face of an angel."

There is no doubt a great spiritual change took place. Saul of Tarsus, a highly educated man, after that emotional experience, went into the wilderness of Arabia for study and meditation for about three years. He had to re-think his religious philosophy. When he returned he went up and down the Roman Empire preaching that he had come face to face with a real Divine Person, Jesus of Nazareth crucified under Pontius Pilate, raised from the dead and "Who ever liveth." He is indeed convinced that the Carpenter of Nazareth is indeed the Son of God in a mysterious sense of the word. He is the Christ, the Anointed of God.

Naturally the one time persecutor faced similar persecution at the hands of his own Jewish friends and people who hated him bitterly.

Since then multitudes of men and women through the operation of the Holy Spirit have come face to face with this Divine-human PERSON. Christianity in a word is belief in a Divine Person, Jesus Christ, the Son of God in a mysterious sense of the word. Then comes the decisive question. "Shall I follow my own will or the new will of this Divine Person. Like Saul you must say: "Lord, what wilt Thou have me to do?"

An English poet in "The Church Times" sums it up:

I in my wilderness must make my choice
Deliberately, alone;
And if I there prefer the Father's Voice,
Nor seek to turn a stone to softness, then
I am born again—
My will, then free,
I'll give to Thee

I COUNT ALL THINGS BUT LOSS FOR THE EXCELLENCY OF THE KNOWLEDGE OF JESUS CHRIST MY LORD

St. Paul—The Apostle

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for October 10 is Exodus 20:3-7; Matthew 4:10: 6-9; John 4:23, 24, the Golden Text being John 4:24. "God is a Spirit, and they that worship Him must worship in spirit and truth.")

REVERENCE FOR GOD is the subject of today's lesson. Reverence for He who made us and every living creature on the earth or anywhere in the universe.

The first three commandments, as given us in Exodus, come first of our Bible references, "Thou shalt have no other gods before Me."

Next, "Thou shalt not make unto thee any graven image, or any likeness of anything that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth."

It is difficult for us to think of bowing down before a golden calf or any idol like that. But the idols we bow down before, very often, are ourselves, or our desires, or some one or something we love very much and feel we cannot live without. These, too, are idols against which we are warned. God should come first. The parents' attitude toward their Maker usually is reflected in their children's

Tempeation in the Wilderness

The reference in Matthew is to Jesus' temptation in the wilderness. The last temptation was when Satan took Him into a very high mountain and told Him that he would give Jesus all the world to be seen from the mount if He would bow down and worship Satan. Jesus answered him sternly, "Get thee hence, Satan, for it is written thou shalt worship the Lord they God, and Him only shalt thou serve."

The devil then knew himself to be beaten and left Him, and angels came and ministered unto Him.

Even when we pray we are not to ask first for those things we want, but to declare our reverence for the holiness of God, for Jesus instructed His followers that thus should they pray.

"After this manner therefore pray ye: Our Father which art in heaven, hallowed be Thy name."

The last reference is John 4, the 23rd and 24th verses.

"But the hour cometh and now is, when the true worshippers shall worship the Father in spirit and in truth; for the Father seeketh such to worship Him.

"God is a spirit; and they that worship Him must worship Him in spirit and in truth."

Do you remember under what circumstances Jesus spoke those words? Most of we older persons have a very clear picture of the of the well in Samaria and Jesus asking the woman of the country for a drink of water from it.

The woman was surprised that a Jew should ask her for a drink, as usually the Jews had nothing to do with the people of that part of the country. Jesus answered that if she knew who it was who was asking her for a drink, she would have asked of Him and He would have given her living water.

Didn't Understand

The woman didn't understand and asked Jesus how He could draw water from the well with nothing in which to draw it, and Jesus told her that whosoever drank of earthly water would be thirsty again, but whosoever should drink of the spiritual refreshment which He could give would never be thirsty again.

When Jesus seemed to know all about her private life (which had not been virtuous) the woman changed the subject, with a compliment ("Sir, I perceive that Thou are a prophet" saying, "Our fathers worshipped in this mountain; and ye say that in Jerusalem is the place where men ought to worship."

Jesus' answer, "Believe Me, the hour cometh, when ye shall neither in this mountain, nor yet at Jerusalem, worship the Father. . . . But the hour cometh, and now is, when the true worshippers shall worship the Father in spirit and in truth."

Not in the mountain only, or even in the church, but everywhere and all through our lives, we will worship the Father and render all reverence to Him.

Society Seeks More Members

MARMORA, Oct. 9 — (ENS) — The monthly meeting of the Holy Name Society was held in the Separate School this week. Rev. Father H. J. Farrell opened the meeting with prayers. The president, Eugene Brady, commented on the small attendance of the evening and urged the members to try to boost the active membership. Arrangements for the annual card party were then made.

Father Farrell gave a brief and interesting talk. James Black recited several of the poems of Robert Service. The meeting then adjourned.

Thanksgiving: 1943

Mrs. Browning, in her poem Aurora Leigh, makes this interesting and true remark: "Some people always sigh in thanking God". Why it should be so is a matter for speculation; the fact remains that a great many people are profoundly depressed by the thought of God, and in consequence they think of him as little as possible. When anything unpleasant happens to them they may ascribe it to God's will, and so dismiss the matter and any uncomfortable suggestion that it may have been due to a fault in themselves, but in circumstances of pleasure they never think of God; they do not associate him with pleasure of any sort.

The Thanksgiving season is with us again, and we are sure that many people will give thanks to God for having spared us many trials during the past year, and will entreat him to show a similar clemency in the future; another group, and perhaps a larger one, will not think of God at all, but will accept Thanksgiving as another in the pleasant chain of holidays by which, like children, they measure the passing of the seasons. But how many people will sincerely thank God for positive benefits?

And yet what could be easier to do? At this time, when our countryside is at its greatest glory of colour and fruitfulness, how many gifts of happiness are ours! It is true that we are engaged in a great and terrible war, and that the worst of the fighting seems to lie before us, but who doubts that at last we have the advantage of our enemies, and that we shall make the most of that advantage? It is true that the war will be succeeded by a period of reconstruction in which we shall have to make titanic efforts to do our utmost for Canada and for the less happy nations who have fought with us: but is that not also a reason for giving thanks? The duties and responsibilities will be great, but the opportunities will be great also.

And are we to thank God for these things with a sigh? Or are we to forget him altogether? Who can say, perhaps indifference is more acceptable to God than the sad thanks of those who have never learned what joy is. No, let our thanks be, in the excellent phrase of the Book of Common Prayer, "humble and hearty".

Saints For Soldiers

The Metropolitan Museum in New York has just opened an interesting exhibition of old statuttes and paintings of those saints who were thought in the Middle Ages—and are thought by many people today—to have a special interest in fighting men. Most of the objects exhibited date from the fifteenth and early sixteenth centuries; such an exhibition is of the greatest artistic and historical interest.

Most trades and occupations of any antiquity have a patron saint, and until a century or so ago this fact was recognised and taken into account by craftsmen in all European countries. Even in Protestant England evidences of the veneration in which these trade-saints (as they may perhaps be called) were held may be found in most old towns. In the New York exhibition, for instance, the participation of women in the war is recognised by the inclusion of a fine statue, in gilded wood, of St. Catherine; she is the patroness of young women, and of students; this latter fact is the reason why most university towns in England possess an inn called The Catherine Wheel, so named for the saint and the means by which she met her death.

The patron of fire-fighters is St. Florian, who is usually represented pouring water from a bucket. The patroness of gunners, artillerymen and gunsmiths is St. Baroara; she is usually to be seen in painting and sculpture standing near a tower with three windows, and with a field-piece nearby; she was cruelly put to death by her father, who was later struck with a thunderbolt—hence her association with artillery, heavenly and mundane. The patron saint of sailors and all navy men is St. Nicholas; he is that same San Nicolaas whom we know as Santa Claus, for as well as being the protector of sailors and the country of Russia, he is also the special saint of children.

No collection of saints for soldiers would be complete without St. Michael, the leader of the hosts of Heaven, or St. George, the dragon-killer and protector of the weak: St. Christopher, the patron of travellers, St. Sebastian, the patron of those in danger of sudden death, and St. Roch, the patron of men in hospitals are also shown in the exhibition of pictures and carvings.

Hagiology is a most interesting pursuit for the amateur, for as a celebrated modern authority has put it, the lives of the saints are "memorials of the best men of the time written by the best scholars of the time", and apart from the interest of their legends, they give us an insight into medieval life and custom which is obtainable in no other way. Having turned over the volumes of Dr. Sabine Baring-Gould's Lives of The Saints many times, we wish that the New York exhibition were nearer, or that travel in wartime were not so severely restricted.

Wonders Will Never Cease

Recently we heard a story about an American top sergeant who stood at the foot of an escalator in a railway station and held back his men, permitting the general public to precede them. "Civilians first, boys", he cried: "remember the good old taxpayers pay our wages".

And quite recently an American pilot, Lieutenant J. W. Dalton, was shot down off the English coast and was rescued after he had drifted for some time in a rubber life-boat. He wrote a letter home last week apologizing to the American taxpayers for losing his plane.

And we have wonders even closer to home. St. Peter's Cathedral in this city is having its roof painted in a lively shade of orange. Is this a sign of the lion and the lamb lying down together, or is it merely an undercoating for some less significant colour?

Breaking It Gently

When an army is being thoroughly beaten its communiques have to be phrased with considerable delicacy, so as to conceal as much of the truth as possible from the people at home. For instance, when the Germans were overrunning France and our forces were being driven to the sea our communiques never put it in quite that bald way: they said that a withdrawal was being made to previously prepared positions, or something of that sort. And many people really felt that we were advancing backwards because we had some subtle reason for doing so. Alas, no army ever goes backward unless it is being shoved by its opponent.

Now the boot is on the other leg, as Mr. Churchill might say, and the Germans are preparing cautious communiques to lull the people at home into a secure sleep. They are rather more ingenious at the job than we were. The New York Times has made a collection of some choice phrases which disguise the fact that the Germans are retreating as fast as they can go. Here they are:

"In conformation with elastic fighting tactics, the town was evacuated."

"The enemy is following tentatively."

"Wherever our troops have given up terrain, this has always been done methodically."

"Our troops have detached themselves from the enemy."

"The enemy is following up our movements only hesitatingly."

"The detachment movements of our troops progresses according to plan."

"Our rearguards are retreating under constant struggles."

There is some truth—a very little—in these expressions. The Germans in Russia are retreating, but they are not making a helter-skelter retreat, for they are not leaving behind any men or machines. They are just getting out as fast as they can. But the delicacy of their expression deserves praise. It is no easy matter to make a retreat sound as good as an advance.

NOTE AND COMMENT

In Portland, Oregon, a thief stole a bass drum, and made good his escape. Beat it, in fact.

In Toronto a schoolgirl gave the feminine of "bachelor" as "lady-in-waiting". Bright children they raise in Toronto.

An Edmonton man has put his fist through a juke-box. May we expect to see his name among the New Year's Honours?

A contemporary remarks that the only social function at which a man is indispensable these days is a wedding. It is pretty hard to get a proxy for a funeral, though.

If you feel inclined to toss aside your copy of the Examiner tonight, after reading the funnies and the local news, remember that it would sell for $60 in the Lisbon black market, and that there is no estimating what it would fetch in Norway, or Holland, or in Germany itself.

Madness In Manhattan

By
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

ONE of the most entertaining books to appear this autumn is "I Am Thinking of My Darling," by Vincent McHugh, which Mussons have brought out in Canada. If you are a keen reader of book reviews, you have probably already seen one or two accounts of this book, and it may be that the writers did not think much of it. If this is so it is probably because the book was given publicity before its publication to which it could not rise; it was widely heralded as a funny book, and although it is funny enough, it is not primarily a work of knock-down humour.

IT IS entertaining, however, because it is unusual both in theme and in treatment. Briefly, it is the story of an epidemic in New York City of a disease called "hlehanna," a type of tropical fever which makes people feel happy and releases their inhibitions. A writer of the Thorne Smith school would simply have manoeuvred his characters into a number of embarrassing and piquant dilemmas, and that would have been that; Mr. McHugh treats his theme more seriously. His chief character is a young city official who is given a free hand by the Commissioners to deal with the problem; he is chosen because as a city planner he has a wider knowledge of New York and its civic organization than any of the more specialized public servants.

THE author rides his personal hobbies with shameless enjoyment all through the book. Obviously he is fascinated by the organization of services which makes such a city as New York possible, and he expects his readers to share his enthusiasm; if they do not, they are always free to read some other book. Personally, I like that attitude; it makes for better books than the please-at-any-price tactics of those authors who are intent on big sales before anything else. But Mr. McHugh demands a good deal from his readers; he wants them to be interested in medical research to the point where they are ready to read page after page about it. To him the tracking of a virus is an enthralling adventure; to most people it is something which they are quite content to leave to specialists. The interactions of public health departments, sewage disposal plants, hospitals and police forces are also of the highest interest to Mr. McHugh; many of us are willing to take them for granted; our attitude may be deplorable but it cannot be helped. This is not to hint that "I Am Thinking Of My Darling" is a dull novel; it does, however, take the reader into paths which he would never tread if he were not an enthusiast about city management.

THE titles refers to the subplot of the book, for all the time that Jim Rowan is attempting to control the sudden descent of happiness on New York he is also searching for his wife, who has contracted the fever and has gone off on an elaborate spree, perpetrating one hoax after another on groups of unsuspecting New Yorkers. Jim, it must be confessed, is rather a pompous ass, proud of his intimate acquaintance with the sewers and gas main of Manhattan, but when he himself contracts the fever he becomes quite human, and has several amusing adventures. Most of these are of a sexy nature, and the book has attracted some attention on this score; but let the straightlaced reader be at his ease—he will find nothing here to disturb his equanimity. The book is written in the clipped and allusive style which is familiar to readers of the "New Yorker." Good as it is for some purposes, that style also imposes its limitations on a writer, and in places Mr. McHugh gives the impression that he wants to say something and cannot quite find words for it.... This is first-rate reading of the lighter sort, and you are advised not to miss it.

BELATEDLY, but with enthusiasm, this column also recommends Frederic Prokosch's latest book, "The Conspirators." It is one of the very few novels about modern Europe which is not a solemn bore. Prokosch is a novelist and poet of unusual distinction; he has no political axe to grind, his observation is keen and sure, and he has the technique and the words to express his thoughts fully and clearly. He is one of the very few of the younger American novelists who may properly be called "a man of letters." In "The Conspirators" his scene is Lisbon, and his evocation of the atmosphere of that city of lost hopes, of spies and intrigues is nothing short of magnificent. His theme is the search of an escaped political prisoner for the man who had betrayed him—his intention, to murder this unknown enemy. As an analysis of a murder's mind, and as a story of mounting suspense, "The Conspirators" has few rivals among the books of the past decade. It adds another cubit to the stature of this unusually gifted writer.

The Expanding Boston World

The Bostonian of 1800 looked at the world and found it good. It was good because he had helped make it so, and by the turn of a bright new century firm conviction as to its merits had developed from two hundred years of toil in an undeviating line of progress. An important part in the founding of a nation had given the Bostonian courage to face the world and eternity with frankness, boldness, and a naive curiosity. So it was with all New England, which aligned itself, with minor shades of difference in thought and custom, to the key settlement at the head of Massachusetts Bay.

There was time now to look about, take pleasure in the good already accomplished, and enjoy some of those arts and graces which make society not only estimable but pleasant. Philadelphia had already done so with no loss whatever to her prestige or her prosperity, and New York was developing along the same line....

Boston was not a metropolis at the turn of the century; it was more the village, with twenty-five thousand persons inhabiting a township laid out in precarious and winding streets and alleys whose names often suggested either the charming byways of the English countryside or the forthright designation of common trade....

The citizen at home was frugal and contented, kept alert by a constant inflow of new ideas but cautious about accepting them; some good things got away during this exercise of extreme wariness, but the net gains were acquisitions of permanent value for the most part, and Boston continued to grow rapidly.—From "Musical Interludes in Boston," by H. Earl Johnson. (New York: Columbia University Press.)

"ONE BORN EVERY MINUTE"

Capital Closeups

(By JOHN DAUPHINEE, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

OTTAWA, Oct. 9 (CP)—There's been a lot of talk lately about the merits of Basic English and probably it has advantages — but it won't have the color of English "as she is spoke."

For instance, there's Navy-ese. Some of the lads at navy headquarters got together the other day and drew up a partial glossary of seagoing slang. It filled several closely-typed pages.

The ship's company, it seems, is always "the troops." The captain is the "The Old Man," the first lieutenant is "Jimmy the One" or just plain "Jimmy." "Guns" is the gunnery officer and the accountant officer is the "Pay-bob." The ship's doctor is "Quak" or "Sawbones" and the engineer officer is the "Plumber."

Second-in-command to the torpedo coxswain on the lower deck is "The Buffer" who directs lower-deck work; and under him are the "Killicks" as the leading seamen are called. The engine room artificers are "Tiffles" and the stokers are 'Clinker-knockers" or "scaly-backs." The cook is always "Slushy" and rookies are known as "Jeeps"—no relation to the army variety.

The day's diet may include "bergo," porridge; "Fanny Adams," canned beef; "plue," tea; "afters," desert; "pan," bread; "possy," jam—and last but not least, "grog" which as everybody knows is "Nelson's blood" (rum) and water.

"Slushy's doughy" doesn't mean the cook fell into the bread-mix. It means he's lovesock.

And the seaman who talks loud and often after his first voyage is just a "Bow Wave" to his pals.

Sports note:—

Next time Boston Bruins' famed Kraut Line gets together—maybe not until after the war—don't be surprised if you hear the forwards addressing their centre man as "sir."

Milt Schmidt, who went to Britain 18 months ago as a physical training instructor, has stolen a march on his buddies and now is a pilot officer. As such he rates "sir" for Cpl. Bobby Bauer, a wireless electrical mechanic, and Cpl. Woody Dumart, another P.T.I.

There's not much chance of the trio playing together this winter, even though there's R.C.A.F. hockey in Britain. They are all on different stations in the R.C.A.F. bomber group.

Till Eulenspiegel Bombed

(By SYDNEY A. CLARK in the Christian Science Monitor)

BLOCKBUSTERS and incendiaries have fallen in force on Brunswick, the city of Till Eulenspiegel, and many persons in England and America must have heard the news with something of a shock. Of course, the attacks are necessary, for Brunswick has become an important center of metal working and fine machinery, but Till, the greatest jokesmith of mediaeval times, was an innocent bystander and moreover he was most certainly an anti-Nazi. If "higher critics" tell us that like Homer and Hamlet he never existed, that he was probably the imaginative creation of a Francisan friar named Thomas Murner, we are not impressed. For 600 years Till Eulenspiegel's practical jokes have delighted the world. His story has been told and retold in all the major languages and some of the minor ones. Richard Strauss has written it in music. The Boston Public Library has some thirty tomes about the prankster, some in French, Flemish, and Russian.

Yes, Till was an anti-Nazi and for that reason, essentially, the world refuses to forget him. He was a peasant of the ruder sort and he played his biggest and best pranks on the Herrenvolk of his day, the people who looked down upon his kind. These were the townsmen, the innkeepers, the upper clergy, the noblemen, and even princes of the blood. Surely there is nothing on earth quite so delicious as to see the ill-treated underdog turn the tables and make a laughing stock of his oppressors. This theme is the core of half the novels and movies of this or any age. The Nazis must have had a problem on their hands in dealing with the legend of Till. To be sure he had his points. He was often as brutal as a brownshirt. He used invective as scurrilous as Hitler's own and it has in fact been necessary to launder much of it for English-language editions. But when all is said and done the baker boy of Brunswick was an inveterate foe of the usurpers of power. If he were living in Germany today he would be languishing in a concentration camp—if the Gestapo could catch him!

Brunswick is Brauschweig in German, a name that is not always recognized by Anglo-Saxon tourists, but actually its mediaeval name Brunoswiek (Bruno's Village) more nearly resembles the English. Sandwiched in geographically between the Prussian provinces of Hannover and Saxony but now a mere administrative unit in the Nazi Reich, it maintained even against odds a pleasant individuality that was rather rare in northern Germany and that greatly appealed to travelers. Partly responsible, without a doubt, was Till "Owlglass," as he is often called in literal translation.

I remember him vividly in his native city. He was effectively sculptured in bronze by Arnold Kramer and he sits on the edge of a fountain in the Backerklint, a central artery of the city, his knees crossed, a careless slipper falling off. He is hatching a plot with five little cronies, three of whom are monekys and two owls. He has presumably just emerged from the bakery where he works, a marvelous mediaeval building called Flchwinkel, where "his" honeycakes are still sold. This seems banal and one must admit that the note of trade is sounded without much subtlety but the whole scene is curiously attractive for Flohwinkel is—or was before the bombs fell—a genuine treasure of olden times with a forward-jutting architecture like the guild houses of Hildesheim.

If Till had lived in Germany during this last darkening decade what wonders he might have wrought, for he was as nimble as a squirrel, as elusive as the Scarlet Pimpernel. One can picture him creeping up on Hitler as he slept and dying his mustache a ripe Communist red, thus forcing the Fuhrer to shave off his wondrous badge of authority. One can picture him invading Goering's Karinhall and carving Churchill's likeness on the prized baton of the stout Reichsmarshal. Even Himmler's fishy eyes might wince under the bright light of some practical joke invented by Eulenspiegel.

When the bombs fall on Brunswick, and even on the Flohwinkel, this might seem to Till the mightiest joke of all. How he would saturate the underground with wisecracks at the expense of the Reichsmarshal who bellowed in 1939, "If a single enemy bomb ever falls on German soil my name is Meyer." Till would likely find the fattest pig in all Brunswick, paint the name Meyer on both bulging flanks and turn the animal loose on the Backerklint to root about amid the smoking rubble of the bombed city.

The Nazi spirit meets resistance with every new oppression, it meets sabotage with the bloodiest reprisals, but it has never learned the first elements of parrying ridicule. It has been proved over and over again in both World Wars that the German military mind fears the weapons of ridicule more than it fears the weapons of war. Has the time come when ridicule can be systematically sown by leaflets from the air and broadcast by radio waves from every side? The thing would have to be done not clumsily, as Goebbels would do it, but very adroitly—as Till would do it. One hopes that the Allied propaganda chiefs are giving due thought to this. Let them summon to their counsels the immortal funnyman of Brunswick, the master mind of pointed pranks, the nemesis of pompous tyranny.

A Bible Message

Now there was at Joppa a certain disciple named Tabitha, which by interpretation is called Dorcas: this woman was full of good works and almsdeeds which she did. And it came to pass in those days, that she was sick, and died: whom when they had washed, they laid her in an upper chamber.

And forasmuch as Lydda was nigh to Joppa, and the disciples had heard that Peter was there they sent unto him two men, desiring him that he would not delay to come to them. Then Peter arose and went with them. When he was come, they brought him into the upper chamber: and all the widows stood by him weeping, and shewing the coats and garments which Dorcas made while she was with them.

But Peter put them all forth, and kneeled down, and prayed: and turning him to the body said, Tabitha, arise. And she opened her eyes: and when she saw Peter she sat up. And he gave her his hand, and lifted her up, and when he had called the saints and widows, presented her alive. And it was known throughout all Joppa; and many believed in the Lord. (Acts 9: 36-42.)

Unconsidered Trifles

Applicant: "Well, here I am about the job you advertised."

Boss: "I see. Do you think you can do the work?"

Applicant: "Work? I thought you wanted a foreman!"

You can believe it or not, but the story is going around that a detail of eight enlisted men was assigned to move the post library at Camp Davis, N.C.

The men carried out the assignment, but left one book.

Its title was: "You Can't Take It With You."

Just as the train was starting, a flustered-looking man dashed into the smoking compartment, to be greeted by a friend already there.

"Hello, Jones! Beastly weather, isn't it?"

"Horrible!" gasped the newcomer.

"And how's your wife?"

"About the same," was the retort.

Menagerie Keeper: "Ma'am, please keep your children away from the bear cage."

Woman: "Why, you don't think my darling children would hurt your old bear, do you?"

Keeper: "No, but the last boy this bear ate, he almost choked to death on a knife the boy had in his pocket."

The office boy entered the sanctum of the small-town newspaper and said: "Say, boss, there's a tramp outside who says he hasn't had anything to eat for six days."

"Bring him in," said the editor. "If we can find out how he does it, we can run this paper for another week."

"Gus," said Bill as he caught up with Gus on the way back to camp, "are all the rest of the boys out of the woods yet?"

"Yes," said Gus.

"All six of them?"

"Yep," answered Gus, "they're all safe."

"Then," said Bill, his chest swelling, "I've shot a deer."

"You can ask one more question," said the almost exasperated father, "but make it short."

"Well," replied his small son, "when a doctor gets sick and another doctor doctors him, does the doctor doing the doctoring have to doctor the doctor the way the doctor being doctored wants to be doctored or does the doctor doing the doctoring of the doctor doctor in his own way?"

"I say, Smith," exclaimed Jones, "where's that silk umbrella I lent you?"

"I found it was my own, so I kept it," replied Smith.

"You don't say so. And here I've been dodging old Robinson for three weeks, thinking it was his."

Lucky Number Draw For Safety Week

Safety Week program for Tuesday will feature W. H. Munro of Ottawa, president of the industrial Accident Prevention Associations of Ontario, who for this occasion is virtually returning to his old home town.

Mr. Munro was born in Peterborough and for some years was general manager of the Peterborough Light and Power Company, also of its subsidiary street railway system. He is remembered by many local friends including those employees of the twin utilities which were under his management. The street railway system of those days operated a ten-minute service with a fleet of electric cars that were not surpassed in their service and comfort by any other city in the country.

Mr. Munro will be the guest speaker at a dinner in the Empress Hotel beginning at 7:15, p.m., and will also be heard in a CHEX broadcast at 9:30 p.m.

The holiday program is chiefly a final preparation for the week's public appeal for awareness of Safety. Street signs and posters will be sent out, including Safety Week posters at every entrance to the city.

Milk bottles will appear with Safety Week numbered colars, and Safety Week numbered collars, and the members of the Police Department will begin isuing traffic violation cards merely as reminders of minor negligence and oversights which could lead to accidents. The public is requested to receive these cards in the spirit of Safety Week, and not as might be regarded as unduly officious supervision by the police.

For Monday night there is a Safety show at the Regent Theatre at 8:50 o'clock.

Tuesday's Full Card.

Safety Week events reach full bloom on Tuesday. At 9 a.m. "housekeeping" inspection will take place in all industrial plants of the city, and there are at least 91 of them. "Housekeeping" in this application means generally the good order that has a place for everything and everything in its place. It is a domestic term extended to factory maintenance with things "in their proper place so that you are not tripping over them" as the efficient housewife would say of her own rooms and household.

9:05 a.m.—Shoing of Safety film at the Peterborough Collegiate Institute to sound the first Safety message to the students, including those of the Vocational School.

10:00 a.m. — Arrival of Safety Week's first visitors in the city.

10:15 a.m.—Visit to C.G.E. and Genelco plants. Radio broadcast to the schools. It is expected that receiving radios will be set up in every school for this purpose.

Kawartha Luncheon.

12.00 a.m.—Luncheon at Kawartha Golf and Country Club, with an after-dinner talk by R. B. Morley, Toronto, manager of the Ontario Industrial Accident Prevention Associations.

2:30 p.m.—Visit to the plant of Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Company Limited.

3:30 p.m.—Visit to Western Clock Company.

5:00 p.m.—Trip to Wartime Housing at Burnham's Point, Lift Lock, Nicholls Oval, Wartime Housing at Jackson Park, and in North Monaghan, also to the Monaghan Road Staff House.

6:45 p.m.—CHEX broadcast by R. B. Morley.

7:15 p.m.—Dinner at the Empress W. H. Munro speaker.

8:50 p.m.—Fashion Show at the Capitol Theatre.

9:30 p.m.—CHEX radio address by Mr. Munro.

10:10 p.m.—Broadcast of Safety program.

Publicity Details.

Safety Week committee is trying to fill the air with its appeal for personal co-operation in preventing accidents. It is directed to the old and young, in brief, to everybody, and it is not going to overlook local traffic habits.

Milk and bread delivery wagons will carry Safety banners, and the Peterborough buses are also being recruited for the same purpose.

The Safety Week posters at all the entrances to the city will be 5 feet by 10 feet in dimensions.

The main window of Grafton's Store will display safety appliances and equipment and clothing.

Milk Top Draw

Incidentally, householders are advised to keep the numbered "collars" of their milk bottles for a "lucky number" draw Friday night.

The committee has also arranged to erect a score board at the Customs House to register any compensable accidents during the week. Naturally the committee hopes that it will be a complete blank all week. Trifling mishaps will not be registered, but a thorough effort will be made by factory and hospital calls to discover how the campaign is actually going.

An accident that requires medical attention whether in an industrial plant, in the home, at school, on the streets, and elsewhere is broadly comprehended by the term "compensable." Accidents are happening frequently in homes, some of them minor but painful, others serious and incapacitating.

Community Appeal

The Industrial Accident Prevention Association have for many years focussed their policies upon Safety of the employees of manufacturng plants, but when the local committee took into partnership the municipality as a whole and its schools they have broadened the appeal of this approaching Safety Week.

A whole volume could be written about the practices of drivers of motor vehicles with incidental reference to the pedestrian public in regard to traffic signs at street corners.

City firemen are going to cooperate during the week, and the entire idea is presented to the people of Peterborough with earnest solicitation of their goodwill and also of that plain common sense which advises everybody in a general way to avoid the little and big pitfalls of danger in the ordinary course of every day living.

After all it is the individual person who suffers directly, but many others are affected. The home is handicapped and worried by an accident to its wife and mother, in fact to any member of the family, and its accustomed pleasant living. Such accidents disturb the domestic order, involve pains and financial cost.

"Watch your step" is a threadbear slogan, but you ignore it at your peril.

Train of Consequences

Accidents in the local railway yards, in the local factories, often set up little chains of consequences which every sensible fan and woman knows should be prevented, if at all possible. Injury of an employee means the loss of a trained and usually skilled helper in the daily job, briefly in minor cases and for more extended periods in the serious occurrences. It is bound to affect the employees of a department by their sympathy and concern, and the rhythm of procedure is upset. The home is worried, services of doctors and hospitals have to be called into play, and so the effects extend adversely through the community.

Safety week programs are seeking the attentive and responsive reactions of the public in a cause that comes close to every person and is designed for comfort and continued physical security.

And in the background, to repeat, is the awful fact of the terrible maiming of people in the war zones, a stark actuality which should powerfully actuate Peterborough this week to set a new resolve to turn over a new leaf of what may be called Safety consciousness. There is pain and misery enough in the world these days without adding to it by some act of carelessness that brings mishap upon ourselves.

Passed With Honors

Word has been received by Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Cocks, 539 Park Street, that their son, Petty Officer Jack Cocks, has completed his course and successfully passed his examinations with honors in marine engineering. He was employed at the C.G.E. in the tool room when he enlisted 6 months ago and he has been instructing at his station.

Serving Overseas

Leslie V. Hewitt of the R.C.N. V.R., has cabled his parents of his arrival overseas. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Hewitt, 223 Prince Street. Prior to enlisting in January of this year, Leslie was employed at the Outboard Marine.

C.N.R. Workers Killed

TORONTO, Oct. 9 —(CP)—Two Canadian National Railways workers, Alex Crawford 52, Parry Sound, Ont., and David L. Dukes, 40, Bridgewater, N.S., were killed at nearby Aurora yesterday when the steel arm of a crane used to lift rails and locomotives struck them as they sat on a flat car at a siding.

Ennismore Boy Killed Overseas

TORONTO, Oct. 9—Special to the Examiner)—Sergeant Vincent Perdue, a native of Ennismore and whose mother, Mrs. Harold Phoenix resides in Toronto is listed in the RCAF casualty list as missing, but according to his mother official word has been received that "he has definitely been killed and for us not to keep hoping."

Vincent Perdue

A native of Ennismore, Sergeant Perdue attended high school at Peterborough. He had been overseas for 13 months when he was reported missing. The date on which he was lost was the same date that his uncle, Gnr. Michael Perdue, was reported killed in action 25 years ago.

A sergeant-observer, he was acting as an air-gunner when he was killed on Aug. 31.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9—(AP)—Ruby Hunter, described as "an attractive blond," will act as spotter for the broadcasts of Columbia football games this fall . . . that reverses the usual procedure of trying to spot an attractive blond at the game.

Bob Gantt has scored 17 points for Duke this fall without ever being officially in the game. With three broken bones in his right hand, Gantt can't play regularly, but turns up after every touchdown to boot the extra point . . . Luis Rodriquez Olmo, Puerto Rico's gift to the Dodgers, is due for a big welcome when he gets home to Caguas. Citizens of his native town are planning a huge celebration, featured by a baseball game. Sport Shorts From Britain

LONDON, Oct. 9 (CP)—A record that appears as tough to crack as the famed Rock where it was made came about when two British Army teams stationed on Gibraltar clashed in the Rock Soccer Cup.

The teams, an anti-aircraft unit and a tunnelling unit, drew 2-2 in the first game and tied 1-1 in the next three. The fifth match was another 2-2 affair and that wasn't all.

In the sixth a solution appeared probable. The Ack-Ack footballers were leading 2-1 and commanding officers, happy in the thought of getting the boys' off football and back on their work, breathed premature sighs of of relief. Then fate, in the form of an air-raid alert, interceded and the game was abandoned when the gunners ran to their posts.

Another 2-2 draw was the best the boys could do in the seventh game and it appeared this thing would go on as long as the war. But, just as the rivals were getting awfully tired of seeing each other, the Tunnellers broke down in the eighth match and lost 4-0.

All this running around a soccer field represented 12 solid hours of Cup play.

Dick Bailey, 62-year-old athlete who took up marathon running just two years ago, will be among the foot plodders when Purley district holds a 30-mile open race the end of this month. Member of London's Highgate Harriers, Dick warmed up for the grind by participating in two 20-mile runs. He wasn't exactly among the first finishers but his time averaged two hours and 45 minutes.

Ted Ray, physical giant with an unorthodox golfing style who won the United States Open in 1920, died at the age of 66 following a lengthy illness. Considered one of the greatest characters in the game, his mighty drives and delicate putting gave him the British Open in 1912 and a place on many international teams.

He won several trophies several times and his death recalled an incident that occurred after he won the Leeds Cup for the sixth time.

As usual, Ted sent the cup to be cleaned before returning it for the seventh competition. The jewelers were so accustomed inscribing his name that they did so before the event. He was horrified. He said later that the game was one of the hardest of his life. But he felt he had to justify the inscription—and he did.

A Channel Islander, Ray was professional of the Oxhey Club for 28 years, retiring in 1940. He played for Britain against America in 1926 and 1927 and represented England against Scotland nine times. Delight of cartoonists, he usually was pictured up to his neck in long grass, wielding his niblick like an axe while smoke clouds puffed from his inevitable pipe.

Calling for more sports grounds, Sir Noel Curtis-Bennett, chairman of the National Playing Fields Association, told a town planning conference that in eight of Britain's largest cities there is an average of but one acre of playing fields and open spaces for every 860 persons.

5 Stars Missing Yanks' Lineup

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (CP)—Five Yankees who participated in the 1942 World Series are missing from the 1943 classic. Blame it on the war. They are pitcher Charley (Red) Ruffing and outfielder Joe DiMaggio, who are in the Army, and shortstop Phil Rizzuto, first baseman Buddy Hassett and right fielder George Selkirk, who are in the Navy.

Although Ruffing lost the final game of last year's series, 4-2, to Johnny Beazley of the Cards, he accounted for the lone Yankee victory when he outhurled Mort Cooper, 7-4, in the opener.

DiMaggio batted .333 in the series and his lifetime mark for six October classics is .303. During Joe's seven years with the Yanks he batted .339 in 979 games.

Rizutto, who had only four years of organized ball experience behind him when he joined the Yanks in 1941, batted .381 against the Cards last fall.

Hassett came to the Yanks in a trade for Tommy Holmes with the Boston Braves in 1941. He hit .333 in his only series.

Selkirk played in six series with the Yanks after replacing Babe Ruth in right field. Last year he saw action in only one game as a pinchhitter. He has a lifetime mark of .290 in nine years with New York.

Pimlico Opens

BALTIMORE — (AP) — Pimlico opens its 30-day fall meeting today under the curtailed program of the Maryland Racing Commission. Usually the state has more than 60 days of racing in the fall but transportation difficulties have brought a reduction in the sport. Pimlico is offering $600,000 in purses, however, and there will be 29 stake events.

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

The reaction of local wrestling fans to the announcement that Killer John Katan has been matched with Earl McCready in the main bout of next Tuesday night's wrestling show is one of deep satisfaction. They don't like any part of the Palermo Panther and they figure that McCready is just the bird to give the bad-tempered Katan the punishment he has been asking for. Not that the Moose has the reputation of being a bad man. Quite the contrary. He is an easy going, smooth-working performer, so long as the other fellow wants to wrestle. But amiable though he may be and slow to anger McCready has the power and the science to really turn it on when the opposition starts playing rough. Fans are confident that is exactly what will happen here next Tuesday. They expect to see Katan cut loose with some of his commando stuff and they are looking forward to seeing what the Moose will hand back if he does. If McCready can clap that rocking-chair rolling hold of his upon the Panther and take him for a merry-go-round he'll make a real hit with local enthusiasts. McCready and Katan are two powerful wrestlers, up in the top flight of mat stars and whichever way they elect to battle the match between the two should be one of the high-lights of the season. The main bout will be supplemented by two other high-class contests.

The local hockey situation will be definitely cleared up in the course of a few days for a meeting of players and executive to discuss the outlook and come to a final decision as to whether or not to operate this season is to be called shortly. In spite of the fact that an offer of financial backing has already been received by the club the present indications are that there will be no O.H.A. hockey for Peterborough. The two big problems, of course, are the fact no ice is available locally and the transportation difficulty. The two really run into each other. The rink obstacle could be solved as it was last year by playing the games in Lindsay, provided the players were willing to make the frequent hops for games and practices. But travelling is something else again. It was difficult enough last winter when gasoline allowances were more generous than they are now; with the supply available this season the same attendance of Peterborough fans in Lindsay could not be expected and last season's experiment showed that without the Peterborough contingent the receipts would not have paid expenses. However the whole situation will be threshed out when players and executive get together.

Twenty Years Ago

Twenty years ago tomorrow the Peterborough C.G.E. team took a step closer to their second intermediate O.B.A.A. championship in two seasons when they defeated Welland 3 to 1 in the first game of the final round. The battle was staged at Riverside Park and a good crowd turned out to cheer the Electricians on to victory in spite of the fact that a drizzling rain fell throughout most of the contest. It was a neat pitching duel between two good right-handers Bun Frost for the C.G.E. and George Garner for Welland and the honors went to Frost who had perfect control in spite of the wet ball and held the visitors to two hits. Garner had more stuff than any pitcher the C.G.E. had encountered that season and in allowing five hits he retired eleven batters via the strikeout route. His control was not the best however for he handed out six passes. Frost should have had a shutout but C.G.E. bunched three errors in one frame to give Welland their only run of the pastime. The Peterborough battery played a big part in the victory offensively too for both Frost and his catcher Bob Ross came through with doubles that counted in the C.G.E. run-making.

The Oshawa Colts are not going to play the northern winners this season for the all-Ontario intermediate championship because of the expense angle. With Sault Ste. Marie coming through in the north a series between the two winners is considered out of the question as George Campbell points out in the following paragraph in the Oshawa sports column: "The Ontario Intermediate "A" playoffs are all finished. We find out, finally, that Sault Ste. Marie defeated North Bay this year in two-straight games but according to reports, North Bay wasn't within 8 runs as good a team as last year's club. Sault Ste. Marie being so far away, naturally, there will be no series with the Colts for the All-Ontario title. Oshawa Colts hold the Brantford Expositor Trophy, as O.A.S.A. Intermediate "A" champs and the Sault will be wearing Northern Ontario champion crests. Perhaps it's too bad that the Colts weren't sponsored by a wealthy organization, for it would have been a nice jaunt, up to Ronnie Nelson's "home town." However, a $75.00 guarantee, which was offered by The Sault wouldn't take care of three players, let alone a team. It's regrettable, of course, but if North Bay had won the Northern Ontario title, no doubt a series would have been arranged."

A Battle of Southpaws?

The world series show re-opens in St. Louis tomorrow when the Yanks and Cards are billed to meet in the fourth game of the series with the American League champs in the driver's seat by reason of the fact that they lead the parade two games to one which means that the Cards have to win three out of the next four games to repeat their 1942 triumph. Back before the hometown customers the St. Louis defence should tighten up. The usually smooth-fielding Cardinals did more to beat themselves in the two games they lost than the Yanks did in winning the pair. That is a condition that should not come up again during the series for the National League champions didn't play that kind of ball in winning their pennant by a city block. They should do better from now on defensively and that will bring the whole thing back to the question of pitching. It may be a battle of left-handers tomorrow. Marius Russo who only managed to win five games for the Yanks all season, although he finished strong, has been named as the McCarthy choice for tomorrow while this column is inclined to think that Southworth will come back with Max Lanier. The games in St. Louis will start at 2:30 Eastern Daylight Time and so far as the Sunday broadcast is concerned it will be carried by the American stations.

There is plenty of activity on the football front over the week-end and the prospects are that the R.C.A.F. Hurricanes and Hamilton Wildcats will emerge with a season's record of four straight wins. The Hurricanes, reinforced by Bill Stukus, star quarterback, meet Ottawa on Thanksgiving afternoon and the Hamilton team play the same team this afternoon, with nothing in either case to indicate the probability of a win for the Combines. The Navy crew also play two games over the week-end, clashing with Balmy Beach today and meeting the Toronto Indians Monday. The Sailors should get at least an even split on that program and may possibly come through with two wins. Incidentally the Hurricanes are dropping their Army reinforcements. Just as well. While they were quite eligible their presence on the R.C.A.F. squad looked like a packed team and the fans were expressing themselves rather forcibly.

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Stroyan Leith, local football enthusiast has had a letter from Fred J. McBride, R.C.A.F., Mountain View, asking if there is a possibility of a soccer team from Peterborough making a visit to Mountain View for a match. The Fliers promise the visitors a good game, refreshments after and a chance to see an air station in action.... The fourth game of the world series is definitely to be a battle of southpaws....Manager Billy Southworth of the Cards has named Max Lanier as his pitching selection tomorrow and McCarthy is sticking to Russo.... The junior Cards from Columbus took the little world series last night by trimming the Syracuse Chiefs 4 to 2, winning the argument by 4 games to 1. It was the third year in succession that the Red Birds have turned the trick and their triple win makes baseball history.

The Ladies' Bowling League at the Y.M.C.A. got under way this week with all eight teams in action and some good scores hung up in spite of the earliness of the season.

R. Pogue of the Tigers had the honor of turning in the best three-game score of the week with 675 and the highest single with 295 while Kay Calladine was second in both departments, hitting the pins for a three-game total of 668 and having a high single of 247. Odds On Yanks

ST. LOUIS—(AP)—Odds of 3 to 4 on New York Yankees and 11 to 10 on the Cardinals were offered Friday by Betting Commissioner James J. Carroll on the fourth game of the world series to be played here Sunday. Still favoring the Yankees, Carroll's odds are 2 to 5 on New York winning the 1943 classic and 2 to 1 on St. Louis.

Once A Yank–Still A Yank

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

The hockey clan are starting to assemble in their respective training camps for the seasons's campaign, the early turnouts giving some indication of the available talent under conditions of war for the fifth winter since the outbreak of hostilities. At Minneapolis, the Chicago Blackhawks were reporting today to prepare for the N.H.L. drive with 10 regulars and 8 Canadian amateurs on their rooster. Manager Paul Thompson, after looking over this squad, predicted a wide-open race and plenty of open hockey.

At Hamilton, 15 players reported yesterday to the Buffalo Bisons of the American Hockey League and nine of them were amateurs from Western Canada—six alone from Saskatoon. Ontario recruits gathered in by Manager Eddie Shore included Walter Atanas of last year's Hamilton Junior "A" team; Bill Kaiser of Prescott and Pete Ketola of Fort William. Regular practices start Monday when the leftover pros from last year's club will mingle with the simon-pures in the trial periods.

Observe Yom Kippur

A controversy involving a religious question threatened to break up arrangements for today's fixture in the Western Football Conference at Winnipeg when the league decided to have the game with Regina played tonight instead of this afternoon because 7 members of the Peg Bombers would be observing Yom Kippur. The Regina club announced it would line up at 3 p.m. as scheduled, and claim the game.

When his attention was distracted as he was about to kick a football, Clint Wager of the Chicago Cardinals in the National pro league kicked himself in the head instead, his knee striking with such force that his skull was fractured. The accident occurred in yesterday's final practice for the game against Chicago Bears Sunday.

Favored for the 73rd $10,000 Champagne Stakes at Belmont Park, New York, to-day is Occupy, John Marsch's winner of the Belmont Futurity last Saturday. The son of Bull Dog has become the leading money-winning juvenile of the year. George Woolf of Cardston, Alta., will be his jockey.

Thanksgiving Day will mark the last appearance of Regina Rough Riders on a Winnipeg gridiron for the scheduled season when they will match strides with the United Services team. The latter has yet to win a game. Winnipeg R.C.A.F. Bombers lead the Western circuit with two wins and no losses, while Regina has split even in two starts.

Lacrosse Battle.

The first clash at New Westminster for the Mann Cup takes place to-night between Mimico-Brampton Combines, defending champions, ready to fight it out with the Salmon Bellies in a three-of-five series. New Westminster announced last night the acquisition of six players from Vancouver and Patricia Bay teams for the lacrosse play-offs.

More than 200,000 spectators are expected for three grid features in the United States to-day. The Navy-Duke battle at Baltimore will fill the stadium seating 63,000, it is anticipated; Michigan and Notre Dame at Ann Arbor should draw 85,000, and 40,000 are expected at Philadelphia where Pennsylvania takes on Dartmouth.

COLUMBUS BIRDS WIN LITTLE WORLD SERIES THIRD TIME IN ROW

Set Up Record Win 4-2 In Fourth Game

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 9 (AP)—The Columbus Red Birds, play-off champions of the American Association, held the Little World Series title for 1943 today — the first team to win that coveted crown three straight years since the post-season fray with the International loop kings was inaugurated in 1907.

The Birds defeated the Syracuse Chiefs 4-2 last night to take the current set by a four-games-to-one margin, the same edge they had over the same club in the post-season series a year ago.

The victory gave the Columbus team five Junior World Series crowns, the most ever won by any club, and gave the American Association a 16 to nine edge over the International League entrants.

Elwin (Preacher) Roe, sold recently to the Pittsburgh Pirates for 1944 delivery pitched the Birds to the clinching win. He allowed the Chiefs only five hits, none for more than one base, until a ninth-frame homer by Albert (Dutch) Mele, right fielder, with none aboard. The tall lefthander also copped the second tilt of the series by 5-2, allowing only six hits.

Tomas de la Cruz, winner of 24 games against 11 defeats during the regular season, was the Columbus victim in the finale. The Cuban star gave up only seven hits in the seven frames he toiled, but extra base knocks spelled his doom.

This Play Put Cards On Skids In Big Eighth

Cardinals went on the skids with this play in the eighth innings of the third World Series contest in New York. Centrefielder Johnny Lindell of the Yankees is pictured hurtling into third, where Whitey Kurowski is waiting with the ball. When Lindell slid in, Kurowski dropped the ball for the second successive St. Louis error, and the Yankees were started on a five-run rally that gave them the game, 6 to 2, and an edge in the series.

Two Southpaws May Meet In World Series

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 0—(CP).—The Mound City, all prettied up for the travelling World Series troupe, had a hot quiz program popping today over whether tomorrow's fourth game would present an old left-handed number or a return engagement of Spud Chandler's chucking talent.

Not since 1927 have two southpaws hooked up in the same World Series game. Now with all signs pointing to a sell-out of more than 34,000, the old act may be revived, unless Joe McCarthy is only kidding about pitching Lefty Marius Rosso for the New York Yankees against the Cardinals' Max Lanier.

Down two games to one and faced with what amounts to a win or else job of taking tomorrow's tilt, Manager Billy (The Kid) Southworth definitely is going with Lanier, the chunky curver who dropped a close opening game decision to Chandler because of some hocus-pocus afield.

A lot of the smarties insisted that with this big one giving McCarthy a chance to gallop out to a spot where he'd need only one more game to reach the paying teller's window, Joe is just playing with the Russo deal and will lead with his ace, Chandler.

If the series should go seven games, Chandler might have to strut his stuff twice more, and the only way he could do that would be to work tomorrow, in order to be ready for a possible fire alarm Thursday, when the seventh scramble would be played.

Sam Breadon, the Cards' prexy, has only one regret. This is that Sportsman's Park doesn't have all those 70,000 seats Yankee Stadium does. Because, if he had 'em, Prexy Sam figures he could sell every one.

Browns Buy Him

Outfielder Harold Epps of Toledo in the American Association, has been purchased by the St. Louis Browns and already is playing with the St. Louis team. Epps formerly was in the Cardinal chain.

Occupy Listed As Top Horse

NEW YORK, Oct. 9—(AP)—Occupy, John Marsch's winner of the rich Belmont Futurity last Saturday, will try to carry his speed over a longer distance today when he clashes with 11 other two-year-olds in the 73rd $10,000 Champagne Stakes, which with the $25,000 New York Handicap tops the final day of racing at Belmont Park.

The leading money-winning juvenile of the year, with earnings of $109,960, Occupy will rule the favorite, although the distance is a mile as compared to 6½ furlongs of the Futurity. Under 122 pounds, a portion of which will be Georgie (Ice Man) Woolf of Cardston, Alta., the son of the great sprinter, Bull Dog, will be asked to give weight to such well-regarded rivals as George D. shortstop, 5; Napoleon Reyes, Jersey City, first baseman, 4; Louis

Olmo, Montreal, outfielder, 3; Otto Denning, Buffalo, catcher 1.

Widener's Platter and Warren Wright's Pensive.

Platter, third in the Futurity, gets in with 106 pounds while Pensive, fourth in last Saturday's rich race, picks up 110. Wright's colt probably was running the fastest of all of them at the end of the Futurity for he closed plenty of ground after being blocked early in the running.

2 Boys Entered For Competition

MARMORA, Oct. 9 —(ENS). — Owing to Marmora Fair being cancelled this year, the Marmora Grain Club held its Achievement Day in the Council Chamber on Friday evening.

H. L. Fair, Agricultural Represenative, presided for the examination from the Manual for which eight members of the Club entered. He was assisted by H. R. Parnell, district seed inspector of Dominion Department of Agriculture. After writing their papers the boys were called upon to judge four samples of Cartier oats. The two boys attaining the highest standing permitting them to represent Hastings County at the inter-club competition at Kemptville were John McAvoy and Mickey Moloney.

Ontario teams competing. This year entries were accepted from Quebec and Maritimes teams for the tournament won by the London, Ont., Army team. Next year Douglas says entries from Western Canada will be included to make the sandlot tournament a truly national championship event.

It is planned to divide the Dominion into eight or nine districts with a commissioner in charge of each. In each district play-offs will determine a champion to represent the district in the national tournament which will start next year in Toronto Aug. 4. Winner of the Canadian title will play a home and home "world series" with the United States sandlot champions.

Leagues affiliated with the National Baseball Congress will be entitled to enter district tournaments in which two losses will eliminate a team—the same system used in United States sandlot tournaments. During the building period, leagues in districts where there are few teams may be permitted to enter all their member teams for the elimination tournament. In other districts where leagues are more numerous, leagues will be required to name one representative.

Eventually, Douglas says, it is hoped the baseball play-offs will reach a status similar to hockey with play-off gate receipts sufficient to finance travelling expenses and perhaps provide money for promotion of the game among youngsters.

Meanwhile teams qualifying for the district and national playoffs will be required to finance themselves all the way. District tournaments are expected to provide some proceeds and sponsors are likely to pay the shot the rest of the way.

Hamlin Given High Rating

TORONTO, Oct. 9—It's a grand achievement when a first-year player is named rookie of the year; but when a freshman, playing his second year of professional baseball, receives the nod as Most Valuable Player in a Class AA league—that's the jackpot.

Such was the accomplishment of Albert Fred (Red) Schoendienst, 20-year-old shortstop of the Rochester Red Wings, who was selected top man in the International League in a poll of The Sporting News' correspondents.

Seldom does a player of his youth and comparative inexperience win such an honor. But the redhead, coming to Rochester from the Cardinals' farm at Lynchburg, showed poise and an instinct for doing the right thing that belied his years.

Although named by all eight selectors, Schoendienst received only three first-place votes and one for second, one rating him fourth and three third, narrowing his total of points to 44 out of a possible 64. Luke Hamlin of Toronto was close behind with 38 points, and Ed Levy of Newark was third with 31. Ed Klieman of Baltimore gained two first-place votes and was fourth with 30 points. Hamlin, Levy and Frank Zak of Toronto each received top ranking from one writer.

Standing of the 20 candidates, with eight points for first place down to one for eighth, follows:

Al Schoendienst, Rochester, shortstop, 44; Luke Hamlin, Toronto, pitcher, 38; Ed Levy, Newark, outfielder, 31; Ed Klieman, Baltimore, pitcher, 30; Roberto Ortiz, Montreal, outfielder, 23; Crip Polli, Jersey City, pitcher, 19; Tomas de la Cruz, Syracuse, pitcher, 18; Don Savage, Newark, shortstop, 12; Rufe Gentry, Buffalo, pitcher, 11; Goody Rosen, Syracuse, outfielder, 10; Frank Zak, Toronto, shortstop, 8; Homer Howell, Montreal, catcher, 7; George Staller, Baltimore, outfielder, 6; Red Kress, Toronto, utility, 6; Jimmy Outlaw, Buffalo, outfielder, 6; Van Harrington, Syracuse, second baseman, 6; Robert Repass, Baltimore,

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Oct. 9—(CP)—Most important angle to international Sandlot baseball conferences here last week-end was birth of a system of play-offs for a Canadian championship.

Any sport is stimulated to major status by national play-offs. Hockey points to the Allan Cup and Memorial Cup finals, football to the Grey Cup game, lacrosse to the Mann Cup series. The playoffs create a spectator interest that carries over from one year to another and increases each year.

This spectator interest has been lukewarm in amateur baseball because until now there has been no national championship to aim for. Lloyd Douglas, Toronto, Canadian commissioner of sandlot baseball, reveals plans for Canada's first ball play-offs on a Dominion-wide scale in 1944.

Baseball's spectators value is proved by the immense crowds attending the current world series. It seems possible therefore that baseball may some day rival hockey for crowd appeal in Canada.

Interest is certain to increase with the international play-offs. Fans will be concerned with baseball activities in other sections. That will be a change. It's a pretty safe bet that not one eastern fan in a hundred knows whether there was a single amateur baseball league operating in the west this year. Conversely, few western fans know that really high-class ball is played in Ontario's Intercounty and Niagara district league—or even that such leagues exist.

The Canadian Sandlot championship was played for the first time in 1942 on a trial basis with only

More Than 15,000 Homes Built for Canadian War Workers in Congested Areas

From Halifax to Vancouver, in cities large and small, congested by wartime industrial expansion, thousands of homes have been built for workers by a Crown firm, Wartime Housing Limited, the largest housing agency Canada has ever known. This company administers a program which will provide 17,500 homes, 16 hostels, 69 staff houses, 16 bunk houses, 18 dining halls, 27 schools, and 25 other special buildings, at a cost of more than $80,000,000, sufficient to accommodate the population of Windsor, Ont. Program will be completed by year's end. Shown above is beautiful Burnham Point at Peterborough, one of many similar centres created.

A staff house goes up in Halifax, where nearly 2,000 homes have been built. Vast scheme is more than a real estate undertaking. Its monthly magazine, Community counsellors, other media, promote Red Cross, A.R.P., boy scouts, Victory gardening, first aid, war savings, hobby clubs, many other worthy endeavours.

In Vancouver, Wartime Housing has erected 750 homes. Men are shown laying an asphalt walk. Company not only builds homes and other living accommodations in cities, but virtually creates new towns in the wilderness, complete with streets, sidewalks, sewer and water systems. Rents are between $22 and $30.

Roy Parker is one of many thousands who have found comfortable homes in Wartime Housing projects. Here he is at work in Genelco gun plant, at Peterborough.

The Parker home is a bright and pleasant residence. Rosemary, 14, Jack, 12, and Mrs. Parker keep place trim. Two years ago Parker closed his summer resort at Keswick, on Lake Simcoe, came to Peterborough to get into war work. He roamed the streets for three months to find a home and move his family in from Keswick.

Wartime Housing finally came to the rescue with this cosy, six-room bungalow. Picture shows Parker in his well-furnished living-room, with daughter Rosemary.

Wartime Housing tries to keep its tenants happy. It sponsors numerous community activities: sports, dances, health service, home improvement, baby clinics, etc.

Lovely old Dixon farm house is now Community centre of one of Peterborough's four housing projects. Mrs. Parker and Rosemary visit branch of public library.

Red Cross sewing circle is very active. Mrs. Parker is a member. At right, Mrs. M. S. Thompson, Local Wartime Housing Community Counsellor and group librarian.

Parker knocks down a few in bowling alley of huge Peterborough staff house for men workers. It offers ... comfort, meals and recreational facilities.

School Board Thinks Of Buying Projector

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 9—(ENS). — Village High School pupils are likely to receive the benefits and added interest of the pictures that come with a projector if the School Board's efforts are climaxed by the purchase of one of these machines. The idea was presented by Science Teacher Hamilton, who addressed the trustees, outlining the advisability of obtaining a projector for the school. The idea was received favorably by the trustees, and on the motion of Trustees Erskine and Blake, the secretary, Grace Yonge, was asked to write to Toronto about a Spencer Delinescope. The Board asked for a demonstration of machines available as soon as possible.

Principal J. F. Harvey reported High School attendance up to par with last year, the number of students on the roll now being 101.

Accounts were passed as follows: W. S. Remnant, building shelves, $10.25; E. H. Northey, supplies for laboratory, $29.58; C. Renaud, music books, $7.00; F. L. Erskine, supplies, $2.19; total, $49.02.

Bible Presents Spiritual Food

HAVELOCK, Oct. 9 (ENS).—On the occasion of the yearly Harvest Thanksgiving and Children's Day services combined, St. John's Anglican church was decorated with flowers and leaves. The junior girls of the parish arranged the decorations and assisted with the music.

A strong appeal was made to an interested group of listeners by Rev. Canon MacDonald of Wycliffe College, Toronto, to take a definite stand for Christ and His Church. Speaking from the words of the Lord's Prayer "Give us this day our daily bread", he drew attention to the fact that God has always provided for man's natural needs, as symbolized in the fruits and vegetables used for decorations, so also does God provide the food for spiritual lives. That food was to be found in His Holy Book—the Bible.

"Unfortunately for us," he said, "we are too much interested in the reading of magazines and other publications of a temporary benefit but in the Bible is to be found these essentials, which carry us into the life beyond. The Bible is inspired by God, no book can compare with it."

Catholic Priest Endorses Partisan Rule

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Associated Press War Correspondent.

PARTISAN BRIGADE HEADQUARTERS IN YUGOSLAVIA, Oct. 3 — (Delayed) — (AP). — Before a silk-draped altar the 29-year-old Partisan Brigade commander bowed his head and made the Roman Catholic sign of the cross.

It was quiet in the shadows of the 12th century Dalmatian church and the priest standing beside the Partisan commander and myself was the first to break the silence.

He pointed out his church's greatest treasure — a pre-Renaissance painting of the Holy Virgin.

The priest, at the commander's suggestion, told me how his parish became partisan.

"Tired of the Fascist yoke, the priests and people of our community began co-operating a year ago with the Partisans, furnishing them money and food," he said earnestly.

"We considered it the only thing to do for the liberation of the Yugoslavs. There were many Italian troops stationed here, but on September 12 two Partisans appeared and the following night the Italians evacuated their post. A Partisan detachment came September 13 and established temporary military control. Later Comrade Marin Cetinic of Narodna Oslobodilacka Obdor (National Liberation Authority) arrived and issued instructions for a municipal election.

All Adults Vote.

"The whole population of the town was notified that all men and women over 16 years would vote on September 16 for local Odbor or Authority. At an open meeting that day I asked them whom they wanted for President and by a show of hands they elected a doctor. They also chose the heads of six municipal departments.

"We've had peace and order in our town since the first day it became Partisan."

Seeing a Communist revolutionary soldier disclose his faith in the church and hearing a cleric testify to the democratic temperance of Partisan rule were for me two of many unexpected incidents during 24 hours in fighting Yugoslavia.

German troops are stationed less than 30 miles away. This morning a twin-engined Nazi bomber on patrol dipped within 200 feet of the Partisan home in which I was a guest. I am among friends who are unafraid.

Mayor Proclaims October 11 to 16 As Safety Week

Proclamation by Mayor Hamilton in the Examiner today of Peterborough Safety Week, October 11-16 inclusive, associates for the first time municipal participation in this enterprise of the Industrial Accident Prevention Associations as a co-operative campaign in bestirring the general public of this city to the constant need of vigilance in avoiding mishaps which may range in consequence from negligible injury to loss of life.

Germany's war upon mankind has placed a new low estimate upon human life and suffering, an expanding background of woe and destruction which challenges the sanity of our own Peterborough family to the utmost effort of compensation by thought and planning to preserve life here amid our own day to day affairs where it can be done—to preserve life and physical integrity and usefulness in so far as it can be accomplished by such a campaign of suggestion as that which Mayor Hamilton announces today.

The idea of Safety Week explains itself to everybody, but the shock of war and the sacrifice of so many lives that are dear to our Canadian people exert upon our minds and affections a deeper sense of the precious value of that common spark which we share with those whom circumstance has thrust into the hazards and pains of battle.

With that sanction of nature and in our sharper realization of the dignity of life and humanity and its abilities, the appeal for a sharper awareness of Safety in our homes and shops and streets will be reasserted throughout next week.

Community Effort

To the members of the Industrial Accident Prevention Associations this is a familiar message, but when it is about to be sounded to the whole community, even to the children in the schools, the mothers in the homes, the pedestrians along the streets, then it calls to a vaster audience and acquires a significance which omits not one person.

The hazards of life begin with the waking to each new day, and are so common and besetting that mishap may befall us before we have reached the breakfast table.

Obviously, that is a commonplace fact. Everybody knows it, but when it is also realized that a high percentage of accidents occur in the home, with far too many fatalities, then it is time to recognize, at least for one week, that the commonplace aspect of this human experience is in itself a danger.

Accidents are for the most part preventible. And they occur almost everywhere. Something can be done about many of them, and the program for Safety Week is going to be a series of reminders to everybody against that spirit of thoughtlessness that too often settles upon most persons until eventually, as we may say, luck quits us, and in its place is injury and ambulance, doctor and hospital, broken limbs, impaired usefulness, and, in the worst effects, haunting regrets about which is is too late to do anything.

Very True

Of course this is propaganda, and it sounds trite, but it is also true, and it points directly at each and everyone of us. Then men who have been preparing this Safety Week appeal are not going to let you escape their reminders and their attempts to point straight at you, if they can, in the program upon which they have been working.

The central organization in this Safety Week enterprise is the Industrial Accident Prevention Associations, and in conjunction with them are representatives of the City Council, the Board of Education, and the Separate School Board.

The members of the general committee promoting Safety Week are as follows:

George A. Macdonald of the De Laval Company.

Hal Cook of CHEX.

William J. Garner of the Peterborough Examiner.

Fred Innes of Canada Packers.

Thomas Taylor of the Peterborough Canoe Company.

K. S. Wightman, Inspector of Public Schools.

H. A. Cranfield, C.G.E.-Genelco Ltd.

G. E. Jenkinson of Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Limited.

Fred H. W. Brooks, Port Hope.

Mr. Brooks is secretary of the Safety Week Committee, and is secretary of the Central Ontario Division of Industrial Accident Prevention Associations, of which Mr. Cranfield is chariman.

Mr. Overend is chairman of the Safety Week Committee and is vice-chairman of the Peterborough-Lindsay section of the Central Ontario Division of the Association.

More Lake Ships To Carry Grains

OTTAWA, Oct. 9 —(CP)— More lake ships, transferred from the movement of ore towards the end of the shipping season, soon will be available to carry additional feed grains from Western Canada to eastern farmers, Agriculture Minister Gardiner said today following a conference with Col. T. L. Kennedy, Ontario Agriculture Minister.

Mr. Gardiner said general farm problems were reviewed at the conference, with particular study being given to the feed situation.

Col. Kennedy said feed is a major concern for Ontario farmers in light of short crops in many sections this year and the enlarged livestock population.

Mr. Gardiner said feed shipments have been "greatly assisted" by an arrangement under which cars of feed grain containing up to three per cent of dockage can be shipped direct from western points to Eastern Canada without passing through terminal elevators for cleaning.

Such grain is eligible for free freight assistance and other subsidies. By raising the dockage allowance from one per cent, previous delays in shipments had been avoided.

"In the very near future there should be many more lake ships available to carry feed grains," said Mr. Gardiner. "They will come off the shipment of ore and go on to the shipment of feed grain until freeze-up."

The federal and Ontario minister discussed the present farm position, the results of production campaigns in 1943, and the possibility of additional output in 1944.

HAVELOCK

Women Helpers Taken On At Railroad Yards

HAVELOCK, Oct. 9 — (ENS).—Clad in blue overalls, navy work shirts, railroad caps and heavy work shoes, five energetic women are doing men's work, eight hours a day and six days a week.

They are the most recent additions to the C.P.R. yard crew in Havelock and are Mrs. Wilfred Spooner, Mrs. Walter Varty, the Misses Doris Green, Florence and Reta Gratton.

While on a recent tour over the Trenton division, the officials of the company, found there was still a good deal of the summer's work not completed. The present yard crew is insufficient to meet present day demands, so it was felt that owing to shortage of man power, female help would have to be engaged. Permission was then given from the Selective Service in Peterborough to hire five local women to help relieve the situation.

Does Polishing

Mrs. Wilfred Spooner is assisting with a general clean-up around the station, shining windows and polishing fixtures. Her husband is a master mechanic of the welders on the C.N.R. She is the mother of four boys and of three girls, five of which attend school, while Faye, age 15 years, is the housekeeper during the day.

With both arms bandaged from poison ivy, acquired while pulling weeds along the tracks, another of the new crew, Mrs. W. Varty, thinks railroading is a snap, after spending five months last winter employed at the Staff House in Peterborough. Her husband is also a section man in the Havelock yards and their only son, Private Norman Varty, has been overseas since last April.

Slight Mistake

The work in the yards is finished at 4.30 in the afternoon and the women said they have a hot dinner at night and lunches at the noon meal. With faces and arms sunburned, the three younger girls enjoy their work tremendously, and relate it is the best job they have ever had. Mr. D. O. Post is the supervisor of the work they are doing, and assists with the handling of the lorry, loading ties, cinders and cutting weeds.

The girls were laughing about a mishap they had on Thursday morning, when they turned the switch too soon and upset their load of ties and had to reload them again.

The Gratton sisters have a brother, Private Everett Gratton, serving in Canada and Doris Green also has a brother stationed in Canada. They said the weather had been perfect for outdoor work since they started, but on rainy days they would be working in some of the buildings, possibly at the round house.

Other employees in the yard say the women are giving faithful service, are never late for work and are doing their bit in this emergency.

Symbol of the art of tailoring, the sewing needle stands for a Canadian industry that has done and is continuing to do its appointed task—producing thousands upon thousands of superbly-made, good-fitting uniforms for every branch of the Armed Forces of Canada. Uniforms such as these are war weapons, for they contribute comfort, well-being, smartness and service to every activity of our fighting men.

With a backlog of over three decades' experience, Tip Top Tailors has shared in this gigantic job. Today, the greater part of our production is devoted to war purposes. Civilian clothing comes next—to the extent of our remaining time and facilities.

This is the reason why you may have to wait for delivery of your civilian Tip Top clothing a little longer than usual. Naturally there is no question of who comes first—you know and we know that the fighting men of our fighting forces must have "first serve"—and they are getting it, together with our grateful acknowledgment of the job they are doing.

Scottish Farm Problems Are Most Careful Consideration

By JAMES A. ROY

(This is the fifteenth in a series of articles written for The Examiner by Prof. James A. Roy of Queen's University, Kingston, on wartime conditions in Great Britain.)

It is not only the industrial war effort of Scotland that impresses one, particularly of the women; the record of agriculture has also been remarkable. I have had a lifelong connection with Scottish farming and was therefore, perhaps to a greater extent than in the case of industry, to appreciate the difficulties that have been faced and overcome by the Scottish farmer.

The outbreak of the war on Sept. 3, 1939, was an event of the highest importance for Scottish agriculture. (I am talking of Scottish as distinct from English agriculture). The Great War had taught us many lessons. One was that in an island like Britain every step should be taken not only to ensure continued supplies of food but also to make good any deficiency that might arise as a result of enemy action. The last war had also proved that adequate steps had to be taken to organize, direct and control agricultural production if satisfactory results were to be obtained. Only when this was done could the farming community feel that it was taking its proper effective place alongside the fighting forces in the country's first line of defence. With the outbreak of war in 1939 machinery was set in motion to mobilize and organize the whole of our agricultural resources.

One of the first problems that had to be tackled by the Agricultural Executive Committees was tillage. In the years before the war there had been a big fall in the area under tillage and some of the most fertile land in the country lost to tillage was permanently lost to agriculture through house-building, road improvement schemes, sports clubs, etc. The increase in food production achieved in the years of the last war was lost—and more. The Government decided that immediate steps should be taken to win back to tillage such lost acres as were available and to control and direct general agricultural production in such a way as to safeguard the energy and health of the nation. When the present war broke out plans which had been already prepared were put into immediate effect. Imports of food and feeding stuffs had to be maintained; land had to be used to its fullest extent without impairing its fertility. The farmers answered the calls made on them patriotically but it was very soon realized that certain difficulties had

A LIGHT SESSION.

This morning's session of the police court was light. Robert Cunningham, Ottawa, arrested Friday night on Chambers street, pleaded guilty to a charge of having been drunk and was fined $10 and $2.50 costs. William H. Thomas Bancroft, entered a written plea of guilty to a similar charge and was also assessed $10 and $2.50.

PETTY THIEVING.

Police have had complaints of a number of cases of petty thieving this week. Last night Mrs. S. P. Cadigan, 76 Monaghan Road, reported the theft of a wicker chair from the verandah of her home. A C.P.R. refrigerator car was broken into by some hungry thief who stole a cake and some bread.

NO ROTARY MEETING

Monday being Thanksgiving Day there will be no luncheon of the Peterborough Rotary Club next week.

ONLY TWO PATIENTS.

The register at Queen Mary Hospital shows only two cases of scarlet fever, one from the city and the other from the country, Dr. R. A. Kelly, M.O.H., said to-day.

TURKEYS SOLD.

The market this morning was very active with a surprisingly large number of turkeys on display, denying stories of a severe shortage. They ranged in prices from 40, 42 and 45 cents a pound. Chickens sold at 35 and 38; geese ran at 30, 35 and 38, and eggs were from 40 to 50 cents a dozen.

GOING STRONG.

Nancy Leith, an Examiner carrier who has consistently been among the top-ranking War Savings Stamps salesmen in the city, is not relaxing her efforts to raise money for the war, just because no special drive is going on at the present time. Covering her daily newspaper route she has, on her own initiative, sold $116 worth of stamps this past week.

OFFICIAL SANCION.

City Clerk Outram has received from the wood fuel controller, Ottawa, a letter confirming the undertaking of R. H. Candy to the local dealers recently. This is an official sanction of the sale of wood in four foot lengths with a charge for sawing if the buyer asks for the usual three cuts. That is one part of the letter which should be of special interest to the trade and its customers.

HOME FROM WEST.

As told in the Kitchener Record twenty-five men of Waterloo county are on their way back from the western harvest fields. Their services were used, but with a surplus of help in the grain fields these men were not needed there.

NARROW ESCAPE.

Mrs. Eggleton in the Bell Telephone Exchange in Omemee received a decided shock last week when the sinking of H.M.C.S. St. Croix was announced for that was the ship on which her son Donald, stoker 1st class was serving. She still does not know exactly what happened, but believes he must have transferred at the last minute since his name was not on the casualty list. A second son, Ernest, is with the Navy too, and her husband is away with the Veterans' Guard of Canada.

Soccer Match Nets $263 For War Victims

After hearing that the largest air attack by the enemy in over two years had taken place over Britain on Thursday night, the members of the Royal Air Force, comprising the teams from the Picton and Mount Hope R.A.F. stations, who played a soccer match at Riverside Park in this city on September 8, would feel more than gratified at the splendid amount of money they helped to raise for the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund.

Sponsored by the Peterborough-Whitaker Cricket club, this was a repeat of a similar effort staged about a year ago for the same purpose, and with the final returns from the tickets all in, the total receipts from this latest event amount to $263.55, of which the gate receipts of $58.55 had already been reported and deposited, while the returns from the sale of tickets amounting to $205.00 is listed in today's returns for the fund.

Members of the R.A.F. playing a prime part in the raising of this money consisted of Messrs. Perry, Mullock, Shaw, Harper, Campbell, Tokley, Farnsworth, Parkinson, Miller, Ross and Lawson from Picton, and Kimber, Feeny, Butler, Campbell, Stokes, Brown, Hurdon, Laffey, Stanton Illingsworth and Miller from Mount Hope, and repeating last year's performance, the team from Picton once again proved the winner, although the teams were more evenly matched on this occasion than when they met in the previous year.

Many Helpers

Orchids are due to the Peterborough Whitaker Cricket Club with Gordon Monkman as president and A. H. Radford as secretary for the energetic sponsorship they gave to this event, for in addition to all the detailed work so necessary for the smooth running of the event itself, the club was responsible for the sale of the largest quota of tickets, their returns alone netting over $73, in which C. H. Ireson played a considerable leading role.

To the Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Ltd. per G. T. Reader and D. G. H. Melton goes credit for the second largest returns at $50, and others assisting in this matter were the employees at the General Electric Co. Ltd., Outboard Marine Mfg. Co. Ltd., the Western Clock Co. Ltd., the Quaker Oats Co., Ltd., and Brinton-Peterborough Carpet Co. Ltd., while individual assistance was given by Messrs. F. Scates, J. E. Keyes and Fred Hills.

The fund management desires to express its deep appreciation to the Group Commanders of both R.A.F. stations for their cooperation in granting permission for the teams to come here for the event in which they paid their own expenses as well, to the Peterborough-Whitaker Cricket Club and its hard working secretary, A. H. Radford, for all the labor of love so freely given for the cause, and for all those who assisted in any way to make the event such a success, among whom special mention should be made of Fred Craig and the Examiner sports department.

This article could hardly terminate without it being stated that the local cricket club has now raised close to the $800.00 mark on behalf of the air raid victims over Britain through the fund.

War—25 Years Ago

By The Canadian Press

Oct. 9, 1918—Canadians of the 1st Army were the first troops to enter Cambrai taking Ramillies to the north. Anglo-French forces compelled a general German retreat from the St. Quentin sector and the Americans occupied Argonne Wood. Since Aug. 21 the British captured 110,600 prisoners.

Oct. 10, 1918—The German retreat continued as the British entered Le Cateau and advanced several miles beyond Cambrai, between Lens and Scarpe River progressing towards Douai.

OCT. 11, 1918—The Germans, forced by the British thrust beyond Le Cateau, retreated between the Soissons-Laon road and Grand Pre, evacuating Chemin des Dames, and the main pass through Argonne Forest. The British east of Cambrai won St. Aubert heights.

Mellis Hopes To Avoid Raid

Officials in charge of the round-up which was made in Campbellford Thursday of men not apparently employed in essential work were Robert E. Slade, district enforcement officer, and L. A. Grant, Selective Service officer, Peterborough, it was revealed at local headquarters on Friday.

The raid, first of its kind to be staged within the area of the Peterborough office, was carried out by Chief Constable George Hardy and Provincial Constable D. G. Hayes, and a large number of men were interviewed, of whom several were at once directed to essential employment.

"The object of the raid," Mr. Slade stated, "was to round up men who have not been complying with regulations regarding occupation in essential industry. Such raids have already been instituted in St. Catharines, Windsor, Sudbury, and Toronto, and are anticipated in several other communities."

In regard to the possibility of a similar round-up here in the city, W. H. L. Mellis, local manager of Selective Service, said: "We hope that such a raid will not have to be put on in Peterborough and that young men will be patriotic enough to go and do their bit in war industry without having to be forced to do so."

Airport Committee Ready For Ottawa

The special airport committee of the city council has brought its affairs to the stage at which it is sending Mayor Hamilton to Ottawa one of these days with the information which has been obtained, and for the express purpose of consulting the federal Department of Transport.

At a meeting of this committee yesterday afternoon, with Alderman Bradburn presiding, City Engineer Parsons made a report on his investigations during the last three or four weeks, relating particularly to the suitability of a proposed site in Smith township.

The committee has been leaning toward that acreage three or four miles from the city, and Mr. Parsons' information tended to confirm the aldermanic impressions.

Royal Academy Accepts 2 Hamer Pictures

Jack Hamer, 236 Burnham street, a member of the Peterborough Sketch Club, is the first Peterborough artist to have pictures accepted for the annual show of the Royal Canadian Academy now being held in the Provincial Museum in Quebec City.

Members of the academy are allowed to submit five pictures for hanging at their annual show, non-members two, and Mr. Hamer has had both of his submitted accepted. The two which were painted this summer have not been shown in Peterborough, and are water-colors. One of the pictures is a scene to be found almost in the heart of the city, a view of the Jackson Park Creek at the point where Murray street curves around it. The other is a view on the Mississaugua River, just north of Buckhorn.

Picture-Making History Outlined

Vast as are the strides which photography has made in recent years, experimentalists assert it is a science still in its infancy with many discoveries yet to be made, it was said by Fred Cripps, president of the Peterborough Businessmen's Association, in an address Friday before the Kiwanis Club.

Relating some of the history of photography and the art of photographic portraiture since their beginnings 100 years ago, Mr. Cripps touched on the work of the two French experimenters who first devised a method of reproducing images by the action of light and called their invention the daguerrotype. Today, he said, more than 200,000 individuals in Canada and the United States were engaged in the photographic industry, making supplies and all the various equipment required by professionals and amateurs of the art.

Taking pictures had been made easy now for the amateur enthusiast, Mr. Cripps said, but he pointed out that for this reason it did not follow that the work of the professional photographist anxious to obtain the best effects in portraiture, was simply a cut-and-dried procedure. Because snapshots were easy to make many people could not understand why there was a three or four day delay at a studio between the sitting and the delivery of the finished product.

But, the speaker said, the reasons for these apparent delays were obvious enough when the actual steps involved in the process of turning out a completed portrait were examined one by one. He told the story of the numerous considerations which go into the making of the individual portrait, the problems of lighting, size and choice of film, developing, fixing, rough proofs and retouching of the final print.

The speaker of the day was introduced by Jacob Low, and the vote of thanks moved by Rev. H. L. Roberts.

Tribute Is Paid Major Falkner

From Great Britain comes a letter from Captain Jack Peterson, former staff photographer with the Examiner who is now serving with the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders, and in this letter he pays brief but eloquent tribute to the late Major Graeme Falkner who was killed in action in Africa.

Both men enlisted with the same regiment from Peterborough, and Falkner was the first member of that Highland regiment to meet his death on the battle field.

The letter addressed to Girard LaPlante of Peterborough makes the following reference to Falkner's death.

"You heard about Graeme Falkner's death, of course. We were greatly shocked and it was a day of genuine mourning in the battalion. He was just about the most able officer we had, and a very good friend of mine. It was sad that he should be the first to go. The last time I saw him was on a lake in Scotland. I had just taken over the company and was starting out with all the men across the loch when his boat, taking him on the first leg of his trip to Africa, passed us. As the boat passed, every man stood up and saluted and he passed us standing at the salute himself. It was an unforgettable picture, framed against the lonely hills of Scotland.

I hope to God that some day I can be as good a soldier as he was."

Thus does one soldier in simple language that rings with sincerity extend a eulogy to one who exemplified all that was finest in a man and a soldier.

Nurse L. Harding Arrives Overseas

LINDSAY, Oct. 9. — Mrs. T. Harding has received word that her daughter, Lieut Nursing Sister Lenore Harding, arrived safely in England.

Nurse Harding

Miss Harding was one of 300 nurses from Canada to land on English soil. Previous to receiving special training at Kingston and St. Anne de Bellevue, Que., Nursing Sister Harding was engaged as operation room supervisor at the Ross Memorial Hospital in Lindsay. She is attached to No. 2 Canadian General Hospital.

Trout Fishermen Find Season Already Closed

An army of trout fishermen, many of them industrial workers who have looked forward to the last holiday of the fishing season, were amazed and distressed today when it was learned that the Department of Game and Fisheries had closed the lake trout season on October 5, instead of the usual October 14.

At least one hundred in the C.G.E. plant alone had made plans to hie northward for a last fling at the trout over the week-end. Most will go anyways, and many of them still think the trout season closes on October 14. There was no formal announcement made of the change, but it did appear in the little blue book of regulations issued by the department.

This morning both Harold Scott, M.P.P., and Charles Kingan, president of the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association were still trying to have something done about it. Last night it was impossible to reach D. J. Taylor, Deputy-Minister of Game and Fisheries, for he had left for a summer resort, and Premier Drew was attending a testimonial dinner to the new Minister of Game and Fisheries George Dunbar at Ottawa, and neither were available.

The bass and muskie season winds up on Friday, October 15, and the lake trout in Peterborough county is finished until the bass and muskie season opens next year. Speckled trout and brown trout closed on September 15.

Sportsmen who are fortunate enough to have ammunition can try a fling at the duck shooting or the partridge shooting over the week-end except, of course, on Sunday, when using firearms is forbidden.

Mayor Proclaims 'Safety Week'

Great significance is attached to next week, October 10th to 16th, in Peterborough's community life because it is planned that during that week the message of Safety will be carried into every home, factory, shop and office in the city.

Therefore, I am proclaiming next week "Safety Week" in Peterborough and I hope sincerely that the week will succeed fully in its purpose.

Safety and its lessons should appeal to everyone, because we all have seen its consequences of accidents in crippled and maimed people and the resulting economic insecurity.

I appeal to all citizens to fully support the objects of "Safety Week" and play their part to save our citizens from accidents during that week and every week.

Let us make Peterborough the safest city in Canada.

JAMES HAMILTON,
Mayor.

Following the installation addresses were made by the District Deputy Grand Master, visitors and some of the new and retiring officers, after which adjournment was made to the dining-hall where the social committee of Golden Sheaf Rebekah Lodge, No. 176, served supper.

Many Officers

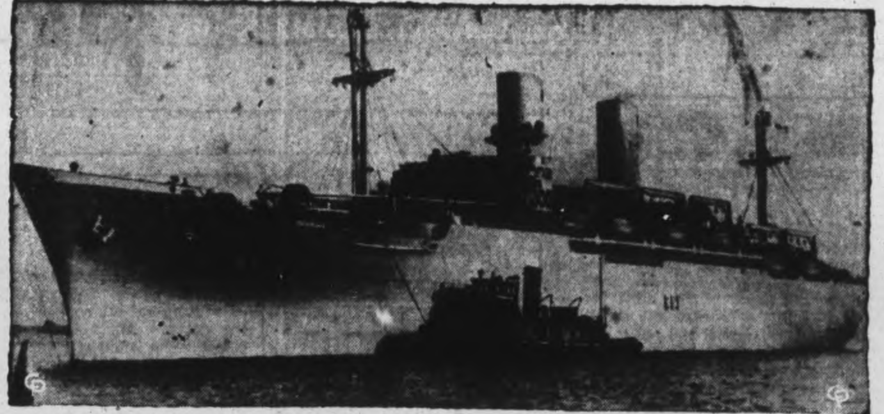
The newly-elected Noble Grand, A. L. Sisco, acted as toastmaster when the meal was completed, and when The King had been duly honored, the new Vice-Grand, G. T. MacPherson, moved the vote of thanks to the ladies, Mrs. H. A. Fallis, N.G., of the Rebekah Lodge replying.

P. I. Bentley proposed the toast to the visitors and incidentally remarked, "I have never seen so many past District-Deputy Grand Masters at any similar gathering," naming the following, J. Lancashire, W. Constable, A. Sage, R. Ford and P. Rowe of Peterborough, W. Wilson and the speaker from Millbrook. Mr. Constable made suitable reply.

A highlight of the social hour followed when D.D.G.M., A. H. Padgham was requested to make the draw for the pair of live roosters donated by Mrs. E. L. Armstrong to the Rebekah Lodge, proceeds from the sale of tickets going to buy supplies for the ditty bags to be sent overseas.

Over $22.00 was realized from this source, and the holders of the lucky tickets were A. Muspratt and Miss Mamie Fisher, neither of whom was present, not being connected with the Order, but who had the fowl delivered at their respective home the following day.

"Invasion Specialist," New Type Troop Carrier



This is the first privileged picture of an "invasion specialist" afloat. The giant troop carrier is the biggest type vessel ever built at Kearney, N.J., and has proved speedier than its specifications — a tremendous safety factor against Nazi subs. It was built in sections that were assembled on a shipway. Some of the shipyard building blocks were as big as a tennis court. The upper half of the bow went into place as one piece. It weighed 140,000 pounds. The ship was "sewed" and "nailed" together with nearly 150 miles of welding seam and one-third of a million rivets.

Throat Slitting Gentle Art In Burma Wilds

By CLYDE A. FARNSWORTH

SOMEWHERE IN INDIA, Oct. 9 (AP).—He was such a moussey little fellow sitting there in hotel lounge, savoring his brandy and ginger ale, that you never would have taken him for a specialist in destruction—a Burma commando.

He was in British uniform with a captain's pips on his slim shoulders and he would have looked decidedly at home behind the wicket of an army finance office.

Yet, he is one of the nameless men whose periodic job is to drop in on the Japanese in Burma freighted with dynamite, time fuses, light arms and iron rations.

Price on His Head

He is a man with a Japanese price on his head—literally. For the Japanese would gladly pay off on the head alone. The latest quotation was 5,000 Japanese Burmese rupees.

He is a member of the Oriental Strategical Service, a little heard-of organization whose detailed workings are as secret as the Allied war plan.

He is a man who plays the hunted to the Japanese hunters without hope of quarter, ready for sudden death if captured, because he loses all military standing when he lays away his uniform and puts on turban, shirt and sarong — the working clothes of the Burma commandos.

When I met the captain, he was resting up from four trying months spent dodging Japanese patrols and planting explosives where they would do the most harm to Burma's bridges and railways.

One of Party Killed.

Twelve men had parachuted into Burma on this expedition and 11 had come out after a 10-week barefoot hike over 425 miles of the roughest country in the world. One of the party had been left dead at a railway bridge riddled with Japanese bullets.

The captain, son of a Scottish father and an English mother, was born 29 years ago at Tavoy, Burma, and had lived most of his life in Burma, working before the war in the tin and wolframite mines. He joined the army in 1940 and took his commando training at Singapore.

He learned how to cut a throat noiselessly and how to swim under water with a load of explosives. But his special qualification is his knowledge of the Burmese language and terrain.

He looked small in the big wicker chair. He is about 5 feet 5 and his normal weight, which he was then regaining, is about 140. He had been whittled down to about 100 on his last trip to Burma.

We chatted for three hours about his work. He described his war against the elements, disease and the Japanese in the marshes and on the mountain sides of Burma a few hundred miles from where we were sitting.

Blue Eyes Give Away

"My blue eyes are a dead give away," the captain said. "That's why the rest of our last group consisted of Anglo-Burmese Kachins and Kareps. When we were in unfriendly territory, they would go ahead and parley with the village headmen for the food we needed and I would have to stay behind.

"That time we went in we had sneakers to wear, the clothes on our backs, rations for six days consisting mostly of bully beef with some coffee and tea and the chocolate bars that came out of the parachute packs.

Each pack also contains a jungle knife, a pocket compass, matches, quinine and iodine. I think they should also carry a small quantity of salt. I have put in a suggestion to that effect."

I wondered about the salt.

"You wouldn't wonder about it if you tried living for weeks on dynamited fish cooked to a pulp in a tin can," the captain explained.

"Personally I would never go into Burma without a stick of about four tolars of opium. It is the easiest currency when it comes to getting food from the natives. You can also use it to get Japanese rupees, and a good chunk of it swallowed would be just the thing if you were taken prisoner."

Ahead of Army

The Captain worked his way through Burma ahead of—but sometimes behind—the Japanese invaders in 1942, blasting mines and communications. He once was chased seven days by Japanese and Siamese patrols.

They were within 70 yards of catching him once as he lay in some bushes nursing a small arsenal of hand grenades, a Tommy gun and his .38, determined to sell himself as expensively as possible.

The captain glows with enthusiasm when you ask him what he likes most of all to destroy.

"Give me a good steel bridge," he said. "Make it one with 'I' or 'T' beams which give a chap some good corners to plaster the explosives in. Let me work out just the proper places so that when the charges go, the bridge will be cut right, that is two-thirds from the enemy's side. That always makes the home side of the river more easily defended.

"I don't like wooden bridges and I don't care much for cable suspension jobs—the first kind take too much blasting and the cable jobs are too simple."

De Marigny Trial To Start Oct. 18

NASSAU, Bahamas, Oct. 9 — (AP).— A final magistrate's court session to-morrow will set the stage for weighing the Crown's case against Alfred De Marigny, charged with slaying his father-in-law, Sir Harry Oakes.

Magistrate F. E. Field granted the prosecution's request for one more preliminary session for presentation of new evidence before De Marigny goes on trial Oct. 18 before Chief Justice Sir Oscar Daly.

What the evidence will be was not disclosed. The case is the first in Nassau in which fingerprints, microscopic and chemical analysis and other modern methods have figured.

Sir Harry, possessor of a fortune estimated at $200,000,000, gathered in Canadian gold mines, and father of Mrs. Nancy Oakes De Marigny, was found dead July 8 in Westbourne, his Nassau home.

Rouses Criticism

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (CP)—Elmer Davis said yesterday there was some justification for criticism in the United States over the withholding of war news which Prime Minister Churchill subsequently enclosed in a speech to parliament Sept. 21, and added that the Prime Minister, in making the disclosure, overrode his own government's policy.

RENDEZVOUS UNDER FIRE!

ONE OF A SERIES OF 'ACTION PICTURES' WITH CANADA'S MECHANIZED ARMY

"The lives of fighting men and the outcome of battles depend on the utmost co-operation between all branches of the fighting forces. The same unhesitating co-operation on the home front will assure our fighting men the support they need and must have."

PRESIDENT

ROARING INTO BATTLE, hurling shells into enemy defence positions, the Tank Troops are right at home in the high-speed warfare for which they are trained and toughened.

But there comes an anxious moment when the Tank Commander heads the land battleship for a pre-arranged "harbour" to get supplies and ammunition. With enemy air-craft overhead, enemy scouts prowling on all sides, camouflage is quickly thrown up and protective guns placed in position.

Out of the dusk, right on schedule, wheels a 3-ton supply lorry in the sure hands of the Army Service Corps. Sharp-eyed gunners watch all sides and into the air, while in the half light, the men work like ghostly stevedores packing away shells, ammunition clips, food, fuel and water.

Brief minutes later, the job is done; the tank snorts away to battle and the Army Service lorry rolls away to keep another "Rendezvous under Fire".

Most Girls Better Off Financially When In R.C.A.F.

Personal finance is a subject people like to keep to themselves. However, the question of personal finance and pay of airwomen is a topic the R.C.A.F. proudly discusses openly. Their pay can be best described as adequate, being neither skimpy or luxurious. Expenses classified as "that's-where-the money-goes" type are eliminated for these girls. With detailed efficiency, the Air Force looks after clothing, food, shelter, medical care, dental treatment and hospitalization; further, airwomen pay no taxes. They enjoy reduced fare, and in some centres cheaper carfare, which modifies another item of expense.

The basic rate of pay for an airwoman is $1.05 per day, including Sundays and holidays. Also, she may receive trade pay at 25 cents a day per grouping. Trade pay is based on efficiency, and of the 45 trades open to airwomen, most of them have an "A" grouping. This means it is possible to earn up to another 75 cents per day. Then, there is a rank pay; a corporal earns more than a leading aircraftwoman, while a sergeant draws still more.

Let's look at the case of Marjorie Clark. Marjorie was a stenographer in a Toronto lawyer's office. She wanted to help speed the victory. Discussing the matter with the Recruiting Centre's Interviewing officer of the Women's Division, the officer suggested that she become an R.C.A.F. Stenographer—an Air Force Clerk. Marjorie went through her basic training in four weeks at Rockcliffe. Now she is responsible for the accounting of flying time at one of the largest flying stations in Ontario.

Leading Aircraftwoman Clark, as she is now called, wasn't thinking about the pay side of service life when she enlisted. But now, she realizes that she is much better off than ever before. In civilian life, she paid out $7.00 weekly for board, and a weekly average of $2.50 for clothes, $2.50 for lunches and carfare, and 50c for dental and medical care. That combined with Income Tax, left her with less than $7.00 clear from her $20.00-per-week law office job. Today, she draws $1.95 daily, or $13.65 weekly, and it's all clear because everything is "found", and she has no income tax to pay. Marjorie is now working for her corporal's "hooks" which will add another $1.05 a week to her pay.

Besides her increased earnings, Marjorie has a secret pride. Last week on the station, a young man graduated with his pilot's wings. Until Marjorie arrived, he had been stuck down on the ground doing office work.

Dependents' Allowances For Airwomen Announced

Wives of men in the three services enlisting in the Women's Division of the R.C.A.F. will continue to receive dependent's allowance from their husbands. Airwomen marrying service men will receive dependent's allowance six months after their marriage.

Airwomen's dependents (dependent parent or other close relatives) may now receive dependent's allowance at the same rate as that paid to dependents of airmen.

Interesting Jobs Open To Airwomen

R.C.A.F. Courses Have Post War Value

Airwomen are noticed on the street, in restaurants, on trains, in fact they are seen by the public everywhere except at their work. Work is the purpose of the Women's Division and while these girls enjoy their time off and every effort is made to have Service life comfortable for them, if questioned why they enlisted, they would sincerely answer "To take over a man's job so he may fly."

Except during off hours, these airwomen are clerks, parachute packers, transport drivers, telephone operators, hospital assistants, physical training instructors; in fact they may be working in any one of the 40 trades open to airwomen. The trade an airwoman follows depends on her own capabilities and the requirements of the service.

Let us consider an average salesgirl who has invested her spare time in studying Red Cross Home Nursing and wants to go active and still do hospital work. She finds out at the R.C.A.F. Recruiting Centre that, with her qualifications, she may become a laboratory assistant or a medical clerk.

Here is the story of what would happen to this girl if she enlisted in the trade of medical clerk. She would discover the four weeks of basic at No. 7 Manning, Rockcliffe, tough but interesting; drilling, saluting, marching, parading, until she graduates, not a medical clerk, but just as important—an airwoman. Then she takes a four weeks trade course in Toronto, and on graduation is ready for work in an R.C.A.F. hospital.

New and shy in the hospital, she starts on her first job; handling inoculation cards and arranging for the men to get injections. She smiles at all the jokes the men have about these "shots" but down under she knows statistics prove airmen are immune to the ordinary diseases which take such a toll of civilians.

Familiarizing herself with this work, she advances to more responsible duties—arranging sick parade reports, typing the medical officers letters, checking the patients' case history sheets. (There is a definite lack of monotonous work in her department; clinical charts, X-

DOROTHY DIX

YOUTH TIME TO DECIDE IF LIFE WILL BE WORTHWHILE

Lad Who Doesn't Get Job Likely to Become Deadbeat for Indolence Is Bad Disease.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a boy of 22, living at home. My father makes a good salary, but he is always swearing at me for not working. I try hard to get a job, but I always get to the place too late, or I am too young, or too old, so I miss getting it. My father and mother are very old-fashioned and object to my going out to parties and dances, but I have to have some amusement. I have no money and no place I could stay except at home. What would you advise me to do?

ARTHUR.

Success Depends on Youth

ANSWER—I would advise you to brace up and try to be a man instead of a whining cry-baby. Above all, I would advise you to roll up your sleeves and go to work. I certainly don't blame your father for being peeved at you for being a lazy loafer. It is a pity he hasn't enough grit to chuck you out of the door and tell you to either earn your own living, or starve.

Your type is a familiar one. You are one of the boys who hunt for work praying Heaven you will not find it. That is the reason you always get to a place too late, just after the hustlers who want to work have been hired. That is why you always lose a job when you get one. When anyone has to be dropped you are the one who can be spared.

In every business there is a constant weeding out process going on and it is the slack, uninterested, inefficient men who are let go, and the energetic go-getters, who are up on their tiptoes trying to make good, who are kept. It isn't a question of luck. It is a matter of performance. The men who succeed are those who deliver the goods.

So, Arthur, quit framing up an alibi for yourself and see yourself as you are—a good-for-nothing parasite. A human sponge. Sleeping late of a morning, idling around all day, going to dances at night, holding up your old mother and making her pinch the market money for a dollar or two for you to take girls out on, and letting your father support you. Isn't that a shameful record for a boy of 22?

Consider this: Right now you are at the turning point of life. You are decidng now your whole future. If in the next year you don't go to work and support yourself you will be a deadbeat the balance of your days. For indolence is a slow, creeping disease that will numb your ambitions and paralyze your energies and once it has fastened itself on you you can never shake it off.

What do you want to be at 40 A prosperous man, respected by all who know you, or a ne'er-do-well, living on the small sums you borrow from your relatives and friends? For you will not always have a father to support you, and when he is gone you will be too old to get a start in the world. So go to work and make a man of yourself before it is too late.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am a child born out of wedlock. My mother deserted me at birth, but my father has given his whole life to me. He has been both mother and father to me and we have been very happy together. Because of me he has never married. Five years ago he met a very lovely woman and fell deeply in love with her. I know he needs the companionship that she could give him and that I cannot, but he will not ask her to marry him because he feels he did me a wrong in bringing me into the world and that he owes it to me to devote his life to me.

How can I make him know that he owes me nothing? That I want him to marry, and that this woman would be a joy in my life, too. My life is full. I want his to be, also.

MARIANNE.

Father's Faithfulness Cancels All Debts

ANSWER—Perhaps when you are married and have a husband to love, cherish and protect you, your father will feel free to take his own happiness. Anyway, he is being too Quixotic about the whole matter. Certainly having given you twenty years of unselfish devotion cancels any debt he could owe you. Nor need he now be afraid of putting a stepmother over you, as he might have been when you were a helpless child.

I wish more children could take the broad-minded view of their parents' remarriage that you do, for it would save a lot of tears and reproaches and hard feelings on the children's part, and save many a widowed man and woman from a lonely old age. For the great majority of children are bitterly opposed to their parents' remarriage and say cruel things about the insult to dear Mother's or Father's memory, and protest they can't understand why Mother or Father isn't satisfied with their love and coming to live with them and the sweet little grandchildren.

What these children forget is that no matter how devoted parents are to them there cannot be the kind of companionship between them that there is between people of approximately the same age. Also, that parents play second-fiddle to their children's husbands or wives and youngsters, and that all of us have a natural human craving for someone who belongs to us. Likewise, that no man or woman who has had his or her own home is ever satisfied to live in another's home, no matter how welcome a guest he or she is.

From every point of view children are wise when they give their parents their blessing when they remarry. It not only makes for the happiness of Father or Mother but of themselves.

DEAR MISS DIX—As my husband is away at work all day and my two girls at school, I thought it would be a good deed to take a child in who had no home, so I took a dear little two-year-old to whom I have become very much attached. But here is my trouble: Many people critcize me for doing so and think it isn't fair to our girls to share our home with this little fellow and for me to give him so much attention and love. Am I right or wrong? Should I give the baby up and devote all of my time to my own family?

M. J.

ANSWER—My dear lady, have you lived as long as you have without finding out that you can't let your friends and acquaintances run your life for you? There is nothing you do, from how much sugar you put in your coffee at breakfast to the way you say your prayers at night, that they don't criticize, and inasmuch as you cannot possibly please all of them, the only sensible thing to do is to ignore their opinions entirely and please yourself.

You have done a very fine and noble thing in taking this little homeless, loveless baby and giving it a mother's tenderness and care. If your husband and girls approve of it, what business is it of the neighbors?

This would be a pretty hard old world if everybody in it devoted themselves exclusively to their own families and had not hearts big enough to take in anyone else.

Home and School Has First Meeting

HAVELOCK, Oct. 9 — (ENS) — The Home and School Association held its opening meeting of the fall term, with a good attendance.

The vice-president, Mrs. R. W. Goheen, presided and opened the meeting with the reading of the Patriotism Pledge. Several changes were noted in the constitution A resolution from the board of directors, Toronto, was asked to be voted on, regarding the bringing of refugees to settle in Canada, for those who are homeless elsewhere, but the matter was laid over until next month.

The treasurer reported a bank balance of $34.64. A membership contest was resumed, and will end in December, and a prize of $2.00 was offered to the room securing the most new members. The resignation of the president, Mrs. Glenn Wright, who has moved to Toronto, was accepted, and by a unanimous vote the first vice-president, Mrs. Goheen, was elected to complete the term.

Open Night.

The next meeting will be open night for parents and the class rooms and pupils work books will be open for inspection, and a short play has been planned.

After some discussion it was decided to hold an evening in the Town Hall some time in November, and to have a program both educational and entertaining, with two short plays and charge a small admission fee. The three new teachers on the school staff, Miss Locklin, Miss McDermaid, and Miss McCorrie, were introduced and welcomed. The roll call was answered by payment of the yearly fees.

The program commenced with three short choruses by the pupils of Miss V. Buchanan's room. Mrs. Frank McKay gave a reading, "A Recipe for Lasting Peace." A duet by Shirley and Beverley Bennett, "The United States Marines," accompanied by Mrs. F. Bennett at the piano, was enjoyed. The health convener, Mrs. C. Price, gave a talk on "Anterior Poliomyelitis," outlining some of its symptoms and treatments. Miss Minnie Williams gave a comic reading on "The Bride Goes to Market." Principal Goheen addressed the parents on military training in the schools since it is included in the defence training course of High Schools.

Thankoffering At Centreville

CENTREVILLE, Oct. 9—(ENS)—A gratifying W.M.S. thankoffering was held in Centreville Presbyterian Church Wednesday. Mrs. Stanley B. Grey of Garden Hill, president of the United Church W.M.S. of Cobourg Presbytery, was guest speaker and gave an inspiring talk.

Mrs. Grey chose as her text, "I have chosen you and ordained you, that you should go and bring forth fruit," and explained that ordained meant "to set one in a position" and maintained that Christ had chosen and set them where they were expected to bear fruit, and she applied the text to the letters W.M.S. and took W to mean Worship and that one should worship the whole word of God, that the blood of Christ alone atones for sins, and maintained that He was wounded for their transgressions that they might be set in position to bear fruit, as grafting a tree, the tree was wounded to set scion in a position to bear fruit.

The president, Mrs. Cliford Hall, led the meeting, welcomed the visitors and introduced the speaker. She was assisted in the worship period by members of sister societies, including a duet, "Have Thine Own Way, Lord" contributed by Springville United Church and a reading, "All for Jesus, Do We Mean It?" by Baillieboro United Church.

Mrs. T. A. Skitch moved a hearty vote of thanks to Mrs. Grey for her excellent talk and to all who helped in the program. Afternoon lunch was served in the Sunday School hall. Mrs. Robert Deyell and Mrs. David Dodds poured tea from silver services at a lace covered table. Over one hundred ladies were served including guests from Millbrook, Springville, Bensfort, Stewart Hall, and Baillieboro.

The church and hall were prettily decorated with Fall flowers including two beautiful potted bronze baby mums.

Rev. W. Patterson moved a vote of thanks to the Centreville ladies for their profitable meeting and splendid hospitality.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, October 10

SUNDAY'S horoscope is a dubious one, as far as social, domestic and affectional associations are concerned. It is not a propitious time for personal contacts, especially with those in high station and influence. This want of approbation and friendliness may incite to impulsive outbursts.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of upsets and disturbances, which may prove disintegrating and devastating unless handled with reserve, restraints and according to accepted codes and obligations. This clash and conflict is likely to carry over into domestic or affectional crisis.

A child born on this day may possess exceptional talents and aims, but its tendency to defy accepted codes and formula may incite opposition from those in high places.

For Monday, October 11

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for a sudden and unlooked for token of advancement, preferment or public recognition or acclaim, but also holds signs of restriction, delays and other obstacles to outstanding success. This might be caused by ill health, accident or to critical outbursts of temper or emotions. With precaution and proper restraints unforeseen progress is assured.

Those whose birthday it is may be assured of an outstanding success, probably in an unusually creative channel, attracting public acclaim or esteem. Progress and promotion are in sight if they will restrain temperamental or unconventional outbursts and pay strict attention to well being.

A child born on this day may be gifted with exceptional talents and creative ability.

For Tuesday, October 12

A decidedly mixed state of affairs, judging by the predominent astral influences, in which there are promises of unusual activity and progress as well as signs of opposition, conflicts, dangers, deception and other adverse factors to be coped with. This may best be accomplished by very well organized plans, complete discretion and the power to successfully combat sudden and surprising upsets, disintegrating and treacherous forces. Take care in writing, and signatures. Safeguard the affectional relations, as personal influence counts for much. The climax may be important public popularity.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of many conflicting and perplexing situations to combat. The personal relations may be likewise in the crucible, threatening estrangement or sudden turns. Be prudent in this, cautious in travel and removals, work with system as well as ingenuity and in the long run there may be progress and possibly some sort of unexpected public recognition.

A child born on this day may have much creative ability and shrewdness in its affairs, but nevertheless may be easily victimized. With prudence and care with writings it may finally make distinct progress.

OMEMEE

Minister Talks On Thankfulness

OMEMEE, Oct. 9 — (ENS). — The Women's Missionary Society of the United Church held their autumn thankoffering service on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. R. Bradley. The program was in charge of Mrs. McConnell, leader of Group 4.

Following the devotional period, the president conducted the business. Arrangements were made to pack a bale on October 22 and all having articles suitable for this bale are asked to leave them at the parsonage before that date. Mrs. Lang announced the Sectional Rally which will be held in the church on October 28.

The guest speaker Rev. Patterson gave a Thanksgiving message based on "What things are there to be thankful for?" He said: "We ought to be thankful for the beauties of nature especially at this season of the year. Don't let worries keep you from being thankful for to-day; some of us are vitally touched in these times by the condition the world is in. Jesus. Himself, made the great sacrifice. He bore the burden of others, there was never a word of complaint. One of the greatest prizes we have is that we are chosen for some work. This is one source of thanksgiving. We will take up our task each day as it comes to us.

"People who drift with the tide haven't reason for thanksgiving, those who go against the tide have something to be thankful for."

Mrs. Morcombe and Mrs. Weir sang a duet after which lunch was served and a social time enjoyed.

Pope Virtually Prisoner In Nazi Hands

BERNE, Oct. 9 — (AP).— Pope Pius "is the prisoner of an undesired protecting power" and Roman Catholics in Italy are concerned over his possible fate," a writer just returned from Rome said yesterday in the Swiss weekly "Sie Und Er."

The writer, apparently a prominent person who declared he had spoken to the Pontiff, said "whispers of worry and concern" circulated in Rome since the Germans announced they were assuming the protection of Vatican City; the people ask "Will Rome be sacked? Vatican feel it encumbent upon them to rescue their Holy charge their own way?"

He added that the word protector has many "nuances."

Describing the isolation of the Pope, the writer said:

"The stream of visitors to the Pope was suddenly interrupted, pilgrims and diplomats no longer constantly flow toward the Vatican and the doors of Vatican City are closed.

"Pope Pius is a prisoner. He must be silent. It is a silence filled with horror," the writer continued.

Most Rev. Richard Downey, the Archbishop of Liverpool, yesterday issued a statement in behalf of the English and Welsh Roman Catholic hierarchy saying that the Pope is virtually a prisoner in the hands of the Germans, without freedom of access to his spiritual children throughout the world."

He asked his fellow-countrymen to join in prayers for His Holiness.

Yugoslavs Battle Nazis For Control Of Their Country

SPLIT, YUGOSLAV SEAPORT

CETINJE, YUGOSLAV MOUNTAIN TOWN

British and U.S. officers are attached to headquarters of Partisan armies in Yugoslavia and a Czechoslovak brigade equipped and trained by the British in the Middle East has landed in Yugoslavia according to a Stockholm dispatch. If true, it is the first Allied force in the Balkans since Greece fell. In the meantime the fast growing guerrilla armies of Yugoslavia have now come into possession of a "navy" and are trying to get control of at least two-thirds of their country. If the Allies should invade Europe through Yugoslavia, the mountain-fringed town of Cetinje, ABOVE, may be an important stop-over. Here it is seen from the serpentine auto road which leads from Yugoslavia into Germany. Split, also pictured ABOVE, is an important Yugoslav seaport which has already been the scene of fighting.

Touch-and-Go Battle Won By Allies

By LOUIS V. HUNTER
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIANS IN ITALY, Oct. 6 (Delayed)—(CP Cable)—The timely advent of an 8th Army tank force and fresh troops permitted hard-pressed Allied units to consolidate their hold on this Adriatic coast town on the eastern end of the Italian front today and advance a few miles beyond into the rolling, tree-dotted flatlands.

A fierce German counter-attack which brought the Nazi troops right into the streets of the deserted town this morning was turned back after some bitter fighting with the aid of big tanks which plowed across fields under an artillery barrage, followed by the foot-slugging, carrier-borne infantry.

(This dispatch did not make clear whether Canadian troops participated in the action but Hunter has been attached to the Canadian 1st Division, which is fighting with the British 8th Army, since relieving Ross Munro, veteran Canadian Press war correspondent now in London on leave.)

Situation Critical

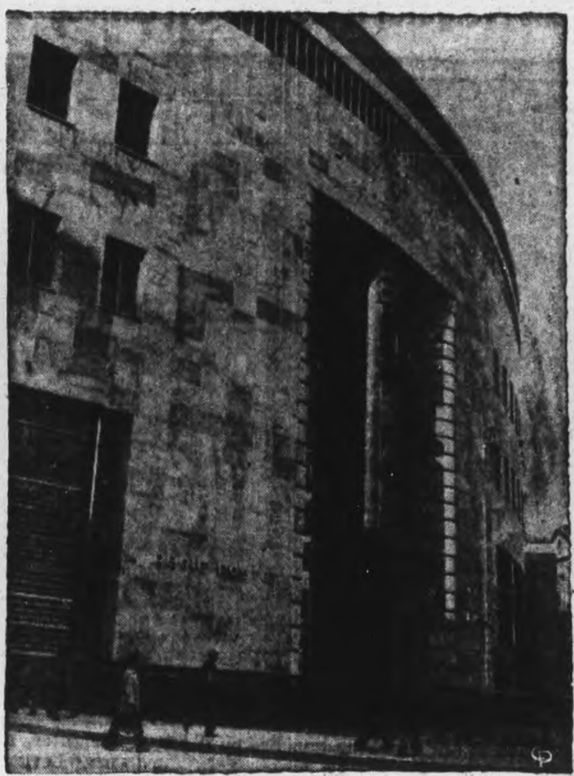
The situation in the town, taken four days ago, was described as critical. It was touch and go several times in the last couple of days during which the German shelled and bombed the town.

The shelling and bombing continued throughout the morning but there was a letup in the afternoon when patrolling Allied fighter planes shot down one of the raiding Focke Wulfe fighter-bombers into the sea. It was the fourth enemy plane destroyed over the town in three days.

At one time during the night the Germans were within 100 yards of a headquarters but they withdrew. Later they sent over 11 tanks, believed Tiger Mark IV's. British 17-pounders drove them back and knocked out one.

The Germans, in an attempt to retake the town, bombed and strafed roads, bridges and the highway leading to it from the southeast. Engineers were kept busy repairing more than half-a-dozen bridges the Germans blew up before the arrival of Allied supporting forces.

Bomb Destroys Naples Post Office



The post office in Naples, said to have been blown up by the delayed action Nazi bomb, causing a number of deaths and casualties. The story illustrates the caution with which the Allied armies have to move into evacuated territory.

Two Postmen Awarded 35-Year Medals

The Imperial Service Medal, an honor awarded in recognition of long and meritorious service, was presented on Thursday to two letter carriers of the Post Office, both of whom have served for 35 years. They are Charles A. Stenton of 312 Burnham street and John J. Grisdale, 342 Downie street.

Mr. Stenton and Mr. Grisdale are only the second and third recipients of this award in the history of the Post Office here, it having been won previously by James Harrison in October, 1942. The medals were presented in a ceremony at the Post Office by Postmaster Charles Lacheur, and along with them certificates from the registrar of the Imperial Service Order and letters of recognition from the deputy-postmaster general, Ottawa.

The medal, which is the size of a 50-cent piece, is engraved on the obverse side with the King's head and has the recipient's name around the rim; on the reverse are the words "long and faithful service." The ribbon is of scarlet and blue.

The certificate, dated from the Central Chancery of the Orders of Knighthood, St. James Palace, S.W. 1, and sealed with the seal of the Imperial Service Order, states that His Majesty the King has been graciously pleased to award the medal in recognition of meritorious services rendered. It is signed "H. M. Stockly (Major), Registrar of the Imperial Service Order."

Neals Farm Sale Raises $5,100

LIFFORD LINE, Oct. 9—(ENS).—A farm sale of unusual interest took place Thursday at the farm of Walter A. Neals, when he disposed of a fine herd of Aberdeen-Angus pure-bred cattle consisting of forty head of varying ages.

Two females whose pedigree excelled the others sold at $275 and $305 respectively. The entire proceeds of the sale amounted to $5,100. Buyers were present from Peterborough, Orono, Cavan and other points. At the close of the sale two buyers turned in cheques for almost $1,000 each.

Mr. Ted Jackson of Port Perry was the efficient auctioneer.

Mr. Neals, who is retiring from extensive stock-raising, reserved a small number of cattle for his own use. The herd sire went to a neighboring farm owned by John L. Kerr.

At the conclusion of the cattle sale three horses owned by Gervin Mulligan were disposed of. Mr. Mulligan has taken over the Bethany Bakery and reserved a team of horses for use in farming on a smaller scale.

Butter Shipped Replaces Cheese Sent To Britain

OTTAWA, Oct. 9 (CP). — Agriculture Minister Gardiner told The Canadian Press to-day that "upwards of 7,000,000 pounds" of Canadian butter is being shipped to the United Kingdom to help maintain the butter ration there.

The Minister said it may not be possible for Canadian cheese to enter the United Kingdom during the present calendar year, but that en into account total Canadian when the butter shipments are tak- shipments of dairy products will not be far short of the total asked for."

Mr. Gardiner said officials had indicated for some time that it probably would not be possible to meet the large cheese contract in light of the immense and growing demands for dairy products at home and for the supply of ships and the armed forces.

"It is not possible to say yet how much cheese will be shipped, but the subsidy of 30 cents per 100 pounds of milk to be used for cheese-making purposes, effective October 1, is expected to enlarge production in the latter months of the year," he said.

To Fill Out Ration.

The butter shipments had been asked by the United Kingdom to help it meet its ration requirements during the in-between season when shipments from other sources of supply, like New Zealand, are at a low point.

Canadian butter exports have been at a low level in recent years. The United Kingdom authorities had asked especially that Canada provide cheese in the largest possible quantity, as a food easily shipped, capable of being stored for a considerable period and yet high in food value.

Last year, Canada shipped 125,000,000 pounds of cheese, fulfilling contract requirements.

In the use of milk, Mr. Gardiner said, a pound of butter represents twice as much as a pound of cheese, and the 7,000,000 pounds of butter being shipped actually represents dairy production equal to 14,000,000 pounds of cheese.

Shows Increase

When the calculation was made on this basis, it was evident that the total dairy products' shipments would not be far short of the production required to provide 150,000,000 pounds of cheese, he said.

Last year Canadian cheese production was unusually high. Recurring shortages of butter, however, finally led to a rationing program.

This year the condition has been different, with production of butter during the first six months increased by about 19 per cent while production of cheese dropped about 38 per cent.

Scottish Farms

to be faced and solved if the quotas for particular farms or areas were to be forthcoming. For instance, some farmers had no equipment to break up land that had been laid down to grass for economic reasons. Other farmers had no capital to plough up land. The labor situation was difficult and the shortage of labor was aggravated by the mobilization of the Territorial Force. The situation was partly alleviated by the military authorities allowing a certain amount of soldier labor and by the placing of agricultural workers over 21 on the schedule of reserved occupations. The farmers, however, had still to face the ever recurring calling up of the 20 to 21 age group. At this point, the Women's Land Army stepped in to help.

In January, 1941, in a Government broadcast, farmers were warned that shortage of shipping would mean less feeding stuffs. This brought home to them the necesity of being more self-sufficient. To keep up the milk output dairy farmers were urged to see that the whole of their land, and particularly their grass land, produced as much as possible. Despite the fixing of low ages of reservation and by a generous deferment of calling up, shortage of skilled agricultural laborers persisted. A Restriction in Engagement Order was passed to prevent workers from leaving agriculture and to make unemployed agricultural laborers go back to the farms. Gang labor was organized to help in drainage, ditching, bracken cutting, etc. Volunteer labor from the secondary schools and the universities helped with the harvest; educational authorities adjusted the holiday period of elementary schools to fit in with agricultural needs. Farmers made more use of substitute labor than ever before.

The result of all this careful planning, organization, and co-operation has been that today the desired acreage under crop has been attained, yet the land has been so carefully selected that there have been no apparent signs of diminution in crop yields or of deterioration in the standards of farming. As a matter of fact, the standard has in many respects visibly improved. A huge acreage of inferior pastures has been broken up; a great deal of wet land has been drained; and although more than half a million acres of pasture has been taken away from the larger livestock population, there has been no marked reduction in the number of stock. This means that grassland is being much better utilized. And there is today much less evidence of inefficiently managed farms.

The means by which Scottish farmers have managed to carry out the large amount of additional work assigned to them under the war program are: (a) the employment of women on a greatly increased scale; (b) the tremendous increase in mechanization; (c) the introduction of very large amounts of supplementary labor at the periods of seasonal rush—for example, soldiers for the grain harvest and school children for the lifting of the potatoes. One thing which I found particularly interesting on some of the farms I visited was that despite the loss of skill which has accompanied the changes in its composition, the regular labor staff has been mechanized, on a scale hardly conceived before the war and is consequently equipped to tackle a far bigger job of work than was the pre-war staff. It might be true to say that the present-day regular labor problems centre largely round the more efficient distribution of the restricted supply of really skilled hands. As I stated already efforts have been made to increase the labor force in agriculture by the use of Italian prisoners of war. Security reasons, however, prevent widespread distribution of labor of this type, and as I have also stated, the Italian prisoners have proved non co-operative and many farmers simply refuse to have them. Satellite hostels to the existing prisoner of war camps have been provided for prisoners of war who are willing to undertake agricultural work.

In order that girls of the Women's Land Army resident in hostels may be kept happy and fit for their work, provision has been made especially in winter, for congenial leisure time activities. Classes have been started in physical training, cultural subjects and practical work such as "making and mending." "Open nights" are also held to which members of the Land Army on private farms or in billets in the neighborhood are invited. Entertainments and dances are also organized in hostels.

During the short time I have been in Scotland I have heard far more than I have assimilated, and heard far more than I have understood. I have met prominent industrialists, and two old friends who now edit Scotland's two most important daily newspapers. All these men and women talked frankly and freely about their problems past and present, and envisaged some of the possible problems of the future. But I did not hear one note of pessimism: only courage and optimism were expressed. Being in Scotland again has made me feel proud that I belong to the breed. A visit to Scotland in wartime is a tonic and an inspiration. The future is, possibly, not wholly bright; the Scots would not be human if they did not have their human weaknesses.

Only once did I wonder whether Scotland still stands where she did, and that is in the matter of education. I was lunching the other day with another old friend, the vice-principal of the second greatest of our Scottish universities. I had been telling him about Queen's University's war effort and what the Canadian policy in this matter of Arts courses was. "I think you people in Canada are very wise," said my friend. "I wish to heaven . . ." Then, being a vice-principal, he had to "hurry off" to some committee meeting, and he could say no more for the moment. But I will hear more about the position of Scottish education when I come back from from England and Wales in a fortnight.

After working hours, she often goes back to the hospital, talking to the pharmacist about drugs, listening to the laboratory technician discussing his odd slides and learning from the nursing sisters the different type of diets. She wants to be the senior non-commissioned officer in charge of the hospital, and she is going about it the right way.

She knows, too, what she wants to do when this war is over. Her ambition is to become an efficient doctor's secretary and realizes the Royal Canadian Air Force Women's Division is offering her the opportunity of gaining experience. Thanks to the Air Force she will be able to handle a specialists position!

IN MEMORIAM

LUSTIC—In loving memory of my mother, Mrs. Maude Lustic, who passed away, October 11, 1933.

Sleep on dear good mother it has been long years,
Since you left our hearts filled with sadness and tears:
Yours was a heart that was blithesome and gay,
Scattering sunshine all along the way:
You know how we loved you, and yes, love you yet,
Though God took you from us we cannot forget.

— Ever remembered by her daughter and family.

LUSTIC—In loving memory of my dear mother, Mrs. Maude Lustic, who passed away, October 11, 1933.

Sleep on, dear mother, it has been ten long years
Since you left, my heart is filled with sadness and tears,
Your was a heart that was blithesome and gay
Scattering sunshine all along the way,
You know how I loved you, and yes, love you yet,
Though God took you from me I cannot forget.

—Sadly missed by her son, Jimmy.

LUSTIC—In loving memory of a dear mother, Mrs. Maude Lustic who entered rest ten years ago October 11, 1943.

A wonderful mother, woman and aid
One who was better God never made,
A wonderful worker loyal and true
One in a million that mother was you.
Just in your judgment, always right
Honest and liberal, ever upright,
Loved by your friends and all you knew,
A wonderful mother, that mother was you.

—Sadly missed by her two sons, Fred and Frank.

LUSTIC—In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Mrs. Maude Lustic who entered rest ten years ago, October 11, 1933.

She suffered much, with patience bore,
Physicians were in vain,
Till God above, in His great love
Released her of her pain.
She did not fail to do her best
Her heart was true and tender,
She worked hard for those she left,
That's something to remember.
She bade no one a last farewell,
She said good-bye to none,
The Heavenly Gates were opened wide,
A loving voice said "Come."

—Sadly missed by husband and son Claire and daughter-in-law, Bernice and grandchildren Shirley and Doug.
